COMMUNICATION

September 10, 1917

To the Editor of "The Herald"—

I have received from the Harvard commission on Western History an inquiry in regard to the Rev. T. Dwight Hunt, who was living in Tecumseh in 1881. It appears from a letter of his printed in "The Pacific", San Francisco, August 10, 1881, that he was one of the early settlers of California. The Harvard Commission, which is engaged in the laudable task of gathering materials for the history of he West, is anxious to discover wether Mr. Hunt or his decendants are now living, and to secure further information regarding his life.

I shall take pleasure in sending to the Commission such facts in regard to this pioneer as any of your readers may possess.

Very truly yours,
Vernor W. Crane.
520 Walnut St., Ann Arbor Mich.

HONORING PRESBYTERIAN SOLDIER BOYS

The morning service at the Presbyterian church Sunday was an unusual one. It was given honoring the boys who are members of that church who are either now in camp or about to go. Those honored were Clare L. Dickinson, Grayling; Harold Hardy, Camp Sherman; Lt. T. R. Mills, Camp Custer; Wilfred D. Mills, Ft. Sheridan and Wilfred Orr, Grayling. Jas. G. Murphy, Kenneth Snedicor, Seymour Orr and Earl Rector are called for this month. Rev. Rex took for his subject "God is a Democrat," showing by Bible history all through the ages that each man was intended to live "Under his own vine anf fig tree" and do homage to no man. He paid a beautiful tribute to the splendid young men going out from our midst to fight for universal liberty.

Y. M. C. A. TENT AT ADRIAN

For the first time the Lenawee County Young Men's Christian Association plan to have a large tent at the Adrian Fair September 17-21. Our purpose here is "Service". They hope to do this in a great many ways so a visit will be the best means of finding out. Boys from the different groups throughout the country will be in attendance to serve the people in every way possible. A few easy chairs may be useful and good drinking water will be their "Big Speciality." A "Lost and Found" department may help to find some owners.

Our thrift charts will prove very interesting and may encourage some one to get busy and "Do His Bit" in these times of real nted. Pictures of the County work, also of the Army and Navy "Y" work will be very interesting to you.

The "Red Letter Day", which will be met with very much interest, is the visit of Mr. Chester Spaulding from the State Agriculture Department on Thursday, September 20th. He will demonstrate to us what the boys and girls of the of the state are doing in Club work. There are over 30,000 in these clubs at present, and we hope to encourage the boys and girls of this county when the need for increased food production is so urgent.

Now this is not all, but they hope you will call and not least the new County Secretary, Arden S. Johnson will be very glad to meet and know you personally.

LICENSE ELEVATORS; FLOUR TO DROP SOON

Storage of Wheat and Rye Regulated as War Measure.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The food administration has hit its stride. Predictions were made, as the licensing of grain elevators became necessary, that flour prices soon would tumble. Beginning Monday, all elevators can operate only under a license issued by the food administration. The terms of these licenses are:

Such forms of reports as the food administrator may require. That trade practices be fair and reasonable. That facilities for storage be not granted to others than the food administration or its agents for a period of longer than thirty days, in respect to wheat and rye.

By virtue of these regulations it was predicted at the offices of the food administration that the price of floor would drop $3 a barrel by October 1.

KERENSKY NIPS REVOLT

Ousts Kornlloff and Makes Klembovsky Commander in Chief.

PETROGRAD — Petrograd was formally declared in a state of war in a proclamation by Premier Kerensky. At the same time Premier Kerensky revealed a plot in which General Kornlloff, commander in chief of the army, intended to seize control of the government. Kornlloff was immediately dismissed. M. Lyoff, who presented General Kornlloff's demand to be made dictator of Russia was arrested and, under examination, gave the details of the conspiracy.

General Klembovsky has been appointed commander in chief.

Edward Hildebrand, former candidate for mayor on the laboring man's ticket, pleaded guilty in the circuit court to a charge of grand larceny and was sentenced to Jackson prison to serve from two and a half to five years, with the recommendation of the maximum. Elijah Heath, charged with violation of the liquor law, paid a fine of $100.

NITROGEN

It is generally agreed among farmers that wheat is one of the best crops with which to apply commercial fertilizer. The farmer must production or his hope of making a reasonable profit has very little basis. Therefore, the question before the wheat grower is; What commercial fertilizer can I use with profit? Definite experiments ranging over twenty years of wheat production enables the farmer to answer this question. The farmer cannot profitably complete with the maker of munitions in paying high prices for nitrogen unless his soil needs this particular element more than is the case with most Lenawee County soils. Economy demands that the farmer get nitrogen for his wheat from manure and leguminous crops. The present price of nitrogen should make every dairyman and feeder carefully plan to utilize his stable manure.

ACID PHOSPHATE

Phosphorous is the one thing to which Lenawee County soils respond and it is not found in stable manure in sufficiently large quantities to replace what is taken from the soil in crops. Therefore, it is necessary to purchase this element in some form. Acid Phosphate is one of the cheapest forms in which to buy available phosphorous. Bone meal is an excellent source of phosphorous but it is usually attached to some high priced nitrogen which the farmer can often furnish cheaper in the form of stable manure. Bone meal becomes available slowly and supplies phosphorous continuously as it decomposes. Raw Rock phosphate is good if used with plenty of manure and legumes. Potash is so high priced that farmers should depend on well kept stable manure, strawandcorn stalks for this element. The average farmer will not go wrong if he applies 16 to 18 per cent. acid phosphate to his wheat ground at the rate of 200 to 300 per cent. per acre. All seed wheat should be treated with formaldehyde to avoid smut.

BOMB HOSPITAL UNIT; STREATOR BOY KILLED

Was First American Soldier to Land in France.

STREATOR, ILL. — When the mother of Leslie G. Woods heard the news of his being killed in France, she expressed regret that if death was to come her son had not fallen on the firing line. The father, more calm, said only: "And yet think of what we hear Mayor Thompson has been doing in Chicago."

Leslie enlisted last January at Streator. He was seventeen in May. He first joined the cavalry as a trumpeter. Later he joined the coast artillery band at Fort Totten, N. Y., and went to Europe as a trumpeter with the Harvard medical unit, landing in France about June 1. He was said to be the first American regular to set foot on French soil.

The four Americans killed by bombs hurled by German air raiders were: Private Leslie G. Woods, Streator, Ill.; Lieutenant William Fitzsimmons, Kansas City, adjutant to the commander of the Harvard unit; Rudolph Rubens, Jr., New York; Oscar Letugo, Boston.

WARNS AGAINST FANCY SEED

Farmers Told to Beware of High Priced Grain for Planting.

WASHINGTON — A warning to American farmers to beware of abnormally high-priced seed wheat was issued by the department of agriculture.

"Various persons," said the department statement, "are offering varieties of seed which they describe as far superior to the kinds now being grown. They usually are given catchy names and extravagant claims are made for them."

RED CROSS NOTES

Mr. H. D. Cutting has made a remarkable record, in furnishing knitting needles for all the surrounding towns, incidentally making a nice sum for the Red Cross. To show how his needles are appreciated, we announce that yesterday we received an order for one thousand from Adrian, that is one hundred dollars worth. The work is assuming such proportions, that it is getting too heavy for Mr. Cutting, and Mr. O. B. Finch has joined him, as his chief assistant. Mr. Cutting is 76 and totally blind, if he can do so much, what ought we not to do, who are blessed with our eyesight.

Several large bundles of snippings have arrived from Dundee and Tipton, to be worked over by our machine.

Two large chairs were donated to the headquarters, by Mrs. R. A. Heesen, and a bureau by Mr. LeBaron. Several articles were left by unknown donors, we would like to give them credit for their generosity, if they will let us have their names.

Owing to Mrs. Clark's sickness, Mrs. O. B. Finch has taken charge of the snipping and material department for several days.

The following articles were sent Adrian, 13 knit mufflers, 4 pairs of bedsocks, 5 surgical sponges, 39 napkins, size 14x14, 18 tray clohs, 4 doz. comfort pillow cases 12x20, and 40 pieces of old linen.

Miss Ethelyn Garlinghouse has been working in the surgical class, and Dr. Bredow reports 4 doz. surgical sponges, 2 doz. 1 yard rolls and 1 doz. 3 yard rolls as the result of last Wednesday, and Fridays class.

Mrs. LaVerne Bidwell is very anxious to secure workers for comfort pillow cases, she has plenty of material on hand so do not fail her.

Mr. Donald Wright donated 8 lbs. paraffin for the finishing of the knitting needles.

Donations fund—Knitting needles 50c, unknown donor $5.00.

An exceedingly handsome and well made filing case for membership cards, was made by Mr. Lawrence VanTyne and presented to the secretary. The old one had become too small.

Miss Hosmers department made 13 mufflers, 9 pairs bedsocks, 4 sponges and one bathcloth.

The Patriotic League has now a little over $5,000, a number of people have been to see Herbert Temple and paid their contributions we still need one thousand dollars to come up to our assessment, so let everyone, who has not contributed, climb on the bandwagon and join the crowd.

Miss Hosmer issues the following directions for wristlets—

Either kind will be acceptable. Use steel needles No. 12 or celluloid or wooden needles one-eighth to three-sixteenths of an inch in diameter:

No. 1—Cast on 48 stiches, knit 2 and purl 2 for 12 inches and sew up, leaving 2 inches open space for thumb 2 inches from edge.

No. 2, made in one piece—Cast on 52 stiches on three needles, 16-16-20. Knit 2 and purl 2 for 8 inches. To make opening for thumb, knit 2, purl 2 to end of third needle, turn, knit and purl to end of first needle, always slipping the first stitch, turn. Continue knitting back and forth for 2 inches. From this point continue as at first for 4 inches for the hand. Bind off loosely and buttonhole thumb opening.

The Red Cross Concert Company will give a concert at Seneca next Sunday evening with the following program:

1. Temple Quartet, "Under the Stars and Stripes," Mr. W. S. Dickinson, Mr. Fred Dickinson, Mr. Harold Lowry and Mr. F. R. Jucket.
2. Piano Duet from "Rigoletto," Mrs. Ella Hodges and Mrs. Fred B. Wood.
3. Tenor Solo, "Star Tide," from "Piccolomini," Mr. Fred Dickinson.
4. Soprano Solo, Group of Child Songs, Mrs. Robert Moore.
5. Vocal Duet, Mr. W. S. Dickinson and Mr. Fred Dickinson.
6. Baritone Solo, "Sunshine of Your Smile," Mr. Harold Lowry.
7. Song, "Aloha Oe," The Temple Quartet.
8. Piano Duet, "Stars and Stripes Forever," Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Hodges.
9. "Flag Song," Mrs. Robert Moore.
10. Talk on the Red Cross, Mrs. Jenny C. Law Hardy.

Musical Director, Mrs. Fred B. Wood.
Accompanists, Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Hodges.

The proceeds will be divided between the Seneca and the Tecumseh Red Cross.

Mr. Robert Moore, Mr. Fred B. Wood and Dr. P. B. Hardy have donated their cars to take the company to Seneca.

The next two concerts will be given at Deerfield and Coldwater.

It is requested that as far as possible, all members wear their Red Cross buttons, it advertises the Red Cross, and will save you from being asked by [illegible]

Capt. George Betrand of the Sixth Regiment said at Fort Sheridan, Ill. on Sept. 12th: "With my own eyes I have seen the bodies of young women hacked and sliced, while yet alive by Germans." He said further :"In the public squares of Belgian and French towns a single young girl has been mistreated by at least one thousand German soldiers."

The Government's of Germany professed that they did not hate France and Belgium, they DO profess to hate England and America; what will they do to us, if we should lose this war?

The Red Cross of America and its workers are as necessary as the army and navy, we should not have to beg and plead for help, it should be given for thehonour of America.

ITALIANS SCORE; TAKE 145 CANNON

Superhuman Struggle for Supremacy by Latins and Teutons.

GORIZIA FIGHT A DEADLOCK

Troops Constantly Engaged in Hand-to-Hand Battles—Depleted Ranks Continuously Replenished—Strength in Men and Guns About Equal. Decks at Pala Ruined by Airplanes.

ROME, ITALY — General Cadorna continues to press the Austrian forces in the region of the Austro-Italian front northeast of Gorizia, according to the official statement issued by the Italian war department. There was a very great artillery bombardment south of the Carso.

Since the beginning of the battle the Italians have captured 145 guns.

Battle Is Deadlocked.

UDINA, ITALY — The fight against the heights northeast of Gorizia continues night and day during good and bad weather. The continuous contest seems to the observer to be animated by superhuman force, the Italians and the Austrians almost constantly engaging in hand-to-hand encounters.

A strange situation is brought about by the two forces, virtually equal in numbers, strength and determination, struggling for supremacy in a circumscribed area where is is impossible for either side to employ more men or artillery.

Gaps in the ranks are instantly filled, and thus the contending forces remain so balanced that victory apparently is impossible to either side.

The fierceness of the struggle is proved by the fact that in twelve hours the Italians attacked the enemy five times.

Teuton Losses 135,000.

The Italians assert that between Aug. 18 and Sept. 1 the Austrians lost in killed, wounded and missing 135,000 men, among whom were many Germans and Turks. Regarding the Austrian communique on aerial operations the Italian statement declares that in the last bombardment of Pola the submarine docks were ruined, one submarine destroyed and a big ship laden with a valuable cargo was sunk.

A later dispatch from the Italian government states that the Italian troops are slowly but surely advancing with undiminished energy. Calling attention to the results of the Italian offensive east of Gorizia, the dispatches say that between Cello and the Hermada the Austrian defense, although extremely stiff, has failed to stop the Italian advance.

Yeggmen broke open the safe of the Mattawan postoffice and escaped in an automobile with $1,000 in money, and postal orders.

George A. Rowland, eighty-three years old, a resident of Albion for forty years, is dead at his home there. His funeral will be in charge of the local lodge of Masons.

Four persons were injured when the team driven by O. W. Bosma, of Holland, became frightened and ran away, throwing Bosma and his three small children to the pavement, badly bruising them.

Blinded by the lights of an approaching automobile, a touring car containing Frank Darop, wife and three other passengers of Saginaw went into a ditch on the Saginaw road.

Eldon L. Metheany, former mayor of Cadillac and for forty years Grand Rapids & Indiana railway station agent at Cadillac, is dead of heart disease. He leaves a widow and two children.

Two thousand persons attended the Raisinville Grange picnic at Raisinville. John G. Winslow spoke and Sheriff Cronenwett's deputy sheriffs defeated a Grange baseball team, 15 to 10.

"When can we go to town?" was the predominating question among the drafted soldiers at Camp Custer. Most of the officers merely smiled, but one gave an answer: "When you begin to look like a soldier."

After untiring efforts Gratiot county officers are no nearer the solution of the murder of Beatrice Epler, seventeen-year-old Alma girl, whose body was found in a clump of bushes about thirty rods from the Epler home.

The first contingent of the Wisconsin and Michigan national army will find Camp Custer ready and all supplies on hand on their arrival. It is expected that approximately 1,800 men will be in camp by Sunday.

Senator Lyman A. Holmes, owner of Romeo Foundry company, announced that his concern would erect a $200,000 plant in Sarnia for manufacturing castings to be used by auto concerns having Canadian branches.

That he was driven insane by her threats to get a divorce unless he continued to provide for her seven daughters will be the plea of Ernest Folberg, Grand Haven township farmer held for the murder of his wife.

Coal dealers have received notice of an advance of fifteen cents a ton in the rate on soft coal by the Louisville & Nashville railway, effective August 30, which, with a former advance of fifteen cents, makes a higher rate of thirty cents to dealers, or $2.20 a ton in Grand Rapids.

ANOTHER TECUMSEH MAN GOES TO FRANCE

Rev. Widdifield Goes Next Week to Enter the Army Y Work At the Front

Rev J. G. Widdifield, too, has felt the call for the service and has asked the vestries of St Peter's and St John's churches for a leave of absence so he may enter the Army Y work in France and assist in that most noble and immense work which the organization is doing.

The vestry of St. Peters church granted him leave for the duration of the war and it will probably be granted by the Clinton church. He plans to leave us next week Friday and to sail for France.

Mrs. Widdifield and the children will go to her people in Toronto.

It does not take many words to state the facts, but the enormous sacrifice is there just the same, sacrifice of his life, perhaps, by Rev. Widdifield, the breaking up of the home by the little family and again, sacrifice by the church people in giving up this most excellent minister.

During the short time Mr. Widdifield and wife have been here they have endeared themselves to the people of their church and the townspeople as well. We are very sorry to see the Rev. go but proud that old Tecumseh can furnish such excellent material to aid America in ending the great war.

John Walters, who resides on a farm about five miles north of Niles, was attacked by a bull and was seriously injured, a rib being broken, and he also sustained cuts and bruises about the head. Mr. Walters was at work when without warning the bull rushed at him and knocked him down. He fell in a pile of straw which probably saved his life.

Woodridge N. Ferris, of Big Rapids, former governor, will be a candidate for United States senator if Chase S. Osborn, of the Soo, enters the race.

In a little cell in the old east wing of Jackson prison, Anthony J. Kloka, former clerk in the Wayne county treasurer's office, spent his first night within the walls of the penitentiary, which will be his home probably for four years.

Michigan's big crop of potatoes, corn and beans now hinges on frost. A frost between now and September 20 will practically ruin the chances for a large crop, while if frost stays away till its average date, about October 1 in the lower peninsula, the state's crop will be a "whopper."

Philip Withington, of Cleveland, O., president of the Sparks-Withington company, while in Jackson, said that he knew nothing of the reported indictment of his company under the Sherman law, and said there must be some mistake. He declared that his company was not involved in any controversy about any matter of the kind.

LAST BARGAIN DAY ENTERTAINMENT A GOOD ONE

Added to Usual Program of Stunts was the Flag Raising Ceremonies When Old Glory was Raised on Flag Staff on Four Corners.

Wednesday evenings crowd was a record breaker and the immense crowd did not go home disappointed. The show was "great" and as it should be for our closing performance of the season.

The Tipton band started off the program and at frequent intervals played splendidly. The first act wsa a slack wire and balancing act where two women, one man and a dog gave some fine stunts, the best being when the man hanging by his feet whirled the women by a strap held in his teeth and in the teeth of one of the women.

The second act was the splendid singing of the Silver Tongued Quartette and sure those black boys could sing— and they were generous with their songs too.

The third act was the performing dog Buster and his owner Miss Vinton. The dog did every sort of stunt from playng a piano to dancing with his mistress.

During the intermission Dr. C. A. Waldron, president of the village council, Gen. F. B. Wood and Judge Wirt Newkirk took the stage and the beautiful 7x14 flag, purchased by the "city fathers" recently to grace the new flag pole in the center of the main four corners, was furled to the breeze and it was a pretty sight as the flag was run up, the band playing "The Star Spangled Banner."

Dr. C. A. Waldron, in a short address, told how the council came to erect the flag pole. He said that beautiful sewer crock which has acted as silent policeman in our midst was sadly in need of paint and, as the council thought it would not cost much more to paint the flag staff they took the people's money and bought one and, to make the people feel happier about it, they put up for the flag. (We'll warrant this is the first set of councilmen to do such a thing in Tecumseh.) The doctor the introduced Gen. Wood saying he was the speech maker for the village.

The general thanked the people for turning out so well for our Bragain Day entertainments and hoped they had enjoyed themselves and found it worth while in so doing.

Then he in turn introduced his brother attorney Judge Newkirk of Ann Arbor who made the speech of the evening as is customary at flag raisings, only this one was most excellent.

He said it is amazing to see such an immense crowd gathered in a little town like ours and if he had been blind-folded and set down in our midst, when his eyes were uncovered he would have supposed of course he was in Detroit, Chicago or New York.

Then he went on to give in just a few minutes a rousing patriotic speech, proving our men knew what they were getting when they invited him to come over.

He said we were to hear this week from Dr. Claude VanTine "Why we are at war with Germany," but he could tell us in a very few words. Germany killed 140 American people and fired on our flag. This would always mean war with the American people and it is right that we should be loyal and to back the administration upon which no man can cast any reflections.

He eulogized the parents and more particularly the mothers who are sending their boys to fight this great war for world democracy, and asked the people to do all in their power to bring this terrilbe war to a finish which would honor Old Glory.

HINDENBURG SERIOUSLY ILL

Injuries Sustained by Ludendorff Also Declared Serious.

ROME, ITALY.—Reports received here declare Field Marshal von Hindenburg is very ill and that the injuries recently sustained by Quartermaster General von Ludendorff in a railway accident in Belgium, were graver than at first supposed.

Hindenburg and Ludendorff are the two master minds of the German military machine. Many reports have credited Ludendorff, the silent one, with being the real brains of the combination. Hindenburg has never moved without his quartermaster general. He had him in his successful campaigns on the Russian front and Ludendorff has been constantly Hindenburg's alter ego on the eastern battle line.

Andrew Rieker sixty-three years old, walked in his sleep and fell out of a haymow on the John Rockwell farm, Franklin road, near Pontiac, where he had been working, and was found by other workmen lying in a pool of blood on the barn floor. He has a broken hip.

Judge Connolly sentenced John J. Murphy, who admitted attempting to fire the plant of the Detroit Socket company, 834 West Jefferson avenue, which was working on government contracts, to two years. Murphy told the police an Austrian took advantage of his intoxicated condition and offered him $150 to fire the plant.

SIXTY YEARS WEDDED

Sixty years ago yesterday were married in Tecumseh by Rev. Blinn of the Presbyterian church, Miss Caroline Burroughs and Garrett Lee.

Mr Lee had come from his birthplace in Seneca county, N Y, when but three years old and settled with his parents in Cambridge township, while Mrs. Lee had been born in Cayuga county, N. Y, and came to Franklin township when four years old. The couple spent the most of their married life in Cambridge, leaving the home farm in 1905. They lived in Brooklyn a year, then came to Tecumseh. They have two children Mrs Ira Rogers of Tecumseh and Martin H. Lee of Onsted, six grandchildren and fourteen great-grandchildren.

Thursday most of the immediate members of the family and many other guests from Adrian, Hillsdale, Onsted and Rives Junction gathered with the Tecumseh friends at the Lee home in celebration of the 60th anniversary and spent a very happy day.

A bountiful two-course dinner was served at noon at the home of the daughter next door to the 42 guests and a number of presents and most beautiful flowers were presented the dear old people with many expressions of pleasure at their continued good health.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT

Theodore Mann Foreman on New School Falls 20 feet.

Upper and Lower Jaw Fractured.

Theodore Mann, foreman of the construction gang at the new school building met with an accident of a serious nature shortly before quitting time Wednesday afternoon. He was on top of the wall with his barrow and hoe pouring cement between the floor of the third story and ceiling of the second, when the outer wall on which one foot was resting gave way and down he came with about a barrow full of brick the twenty feet to the ground, landing on his head.

The other men rushed to his aid and Fred Rentchler loaded Mr. Gettins, the injured man and several others into his car and took them to Dr. Conklin's office. Mr. Mann was all blood and unconscious so they could not tell how badly he was hurt. Dr. Conklin found the injuries so serious that he deemed a hospital treatment and care necessary so after caring for the unfortunate man temporarily, he took Mr. Mann and his wife right over to Ann Arbor.

He suffered a bruised and badly cut arm and nose and also both upper and lower jaw bonts broken. He was [illegible] shaken and bruised and was left at Ann Arbor for treatment. Mr. and Mrs. Mann moved here from Clyde Ohio, only this last spring so that he could take the position on the school job.

SWEDISH INTRIGUE TO BRING SCANDIA IN Opposition to Stockholm Peace Meet Now Justified.

LONDON, ENG. — Possibilities of all Scandinavia becoming involved in the war were seen in the revelations of the German-Swedish intrigue in sending messages from Argentina through the Stockholm foreign office.

The disclosures are regarded as of highest importance opening up possibilities for a long chain of international events.

Furthermore, the action of the allied governments in refusing to permit socialists and labor delegates to attend the Stockholm peace conference, is now regarded as completely vindicated. The British and American governments had knowledge of Sweden's pro-Germanism at the time, and took the stand that a conference in Stockholm free from German influence was impossible.

FOR GOLF PLAYERS.

A Few Suggestions on the Best Grips For Hands and Feet.

The importance of the general equipment of a golfer in all its details is often overlooked, and it is therefore proposed to mention a few things to be remembered. Perhaps the greatest problems are the best grips for the hands and feet. So far as the former is concerned, to many this is no trouble at all, for they just rub some pitch or wax on their grips and have no further difficulty, but there are others who cannot use either of these because it makes the hands sore, thus taking away much of the pleasure of the game.

Something in the way of an alternative to be recommended is rough rubber. One would imagine that this material would wear the hands out sooner than anything else, but this is not the case. There seems to be a prejudice against wearing gloves for golf, but they are really quite easy to play in, although it takes a few weeks to get thoroughly accustomed to them. Gloves have the advantage of keeping the hands warm, as well as preventing them from becoming sore, cracked or blistered.

A firm grip for the feet is just as important as a good grip for the hands. It has been said that the ordinary nails which are put in golf shoes are not much good. Gymnasium shoes are suggested for dry weather, but are practically useless if the ground becomes at all wet. It is a great mistake to play in gymnasium shoes or those with no heels and then suddenly to change to thick soled boots, for when these have studs or nails fitted the player stands quite an inch higher. A difference like this is apt to alter the game of any one considerably, and one golfer who tried it sliced all his drives until he got accustomed to his higher position.

A player should always see that he is thoroughly comfortable and should avoid carrying bulky things in his pockets, such as balls, which often get in the way when approaching and putting. These articles should be placed in charge of the caddie during the round, or, failing the caddie, they should be put into the pocket of the bag. No golfing equipment is complete without a rag or duster to dry the grips in the event of rain or to wipe the hands if they should perspire in hot weather.—New York Post.

SPEED OF A MOTORCAR.

Fast Running, Besides the Danger, Piles Up the Cost.

"The driver who persists in operating his motorcar at high speed may elude constables and police," says a writer in the Farm and Fireside, "but he cannot escape from the penalties which natural mechanical laws levy upon his car. Here are ten reasons why it is expensive, dangerous and inconsiderate of others to speed:

"Tires last about twice as long on a car that is driven at fifteen miles an hour as upon cars driven at thirty miles an hour. Speeding generates heat, which is an enemy to rubber.

"Driving a car around a sharp corner at twenty-five miles an hour does more damage to the tires than 200 miles of straight road work. Excessive side pressure on tires may pinch the tubes, and it always strains the side walls of the casings.

"High speeds are likely to cause skidding and breakage of springs and steering gear, any of which are dangerous when speeding.

"In proportion to the mileage obtained, high speeds require more gasoline and oil than a moderate rate of traveling.

"Driving a car at excessive speed, especially over rough roads, subjects the bearings to enormous strains.

"High speed may cause crystallization of rapidly moving metal parts that are subject to strain, and these may break at any time without warning.

"High speed interferes with the accuracy of steering, as is shown by the number of reckless drivers who have gone over banks and into ditches, especially on curves.

"It is a strain on the eyes and the nerves of the driver and also of the other passengers in the car.

"Finally it is a menace to the pleasure and safety of others who use the road.

"The majority of modern motorcars develop their maximum efficiency with lowest expense at speeds ranging from fifteen to twenty-five miles an hour, depending on the make of car and condition of the road."

Father's Peaceful Role.

There is nothing in the theory, advanced by the funny papers, to the effect that indignant fathers kick objectionable suitors down the front steps. All a father does when his daughter entertains a young man who is objectionable to him is to growl to his wife.—Topeka Capital.

OUR FOREIGN BORN

They Amount to Only a Seventh of the Whole Population.

GERMANS IN THIS COUNTRY.

More Than Eight Millions of Our People Are Natives of the Fatherland or Are Descended From Them—Interesting Immigration Facts.

"During the last quarter of a century there has been a startling falling off in the percentage of Germans in the total number of immigrants who have come to our shores," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society. "With more than 17,000,000 immigrant arrivals since 1890 only 1,023,000 have been Germans, whereas in the 114 years between the establishment of the American republic and 1890 out of a total of 15,689,000 immigrants there were 5,125,000 Germans—every third arrival a Teuton.

"If from the 1,023,000 who have come to America since 1890, the period of greatest influx of foreigners, a proper deduction is made for those who returned to their home land and those who have died since their arrival it will be seen that there are fewer than a million former subjects of the kaiser in this country who have not been here more than twenty-six years. Of more than 8,000,000 people of German birth and immediate ancestry among us less than 1,000,000 fail to have the background of birth or long residence in America behind them.

"An examination of the statistics of American immigration shows that since the foundation of our government the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland has contributed 8,400,000 of her people and Germany more than 6,000,000. Ireland, with more than 4,000,000; Great Britain, with a little less than 4,000,000, and Scandinavia, with something less than 2,000,000, have, together with Germany, contributed more than half of the total immigration to our shores since the beginning of the Revolutionary war.

"Austria-Hungary stands next on the list of contributors to the immigrant stream that has flowed from Europe to America. Although Austro-Hungarians began to immigrate in considerable numbers only when the arrivals from western Europe had begun to fall off, sufficient have come from the dual monarchy to populate the state of Texas to its present density. Italy has sent us enough of her people to duplicate the population of Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Oregon, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico.

"The Russians who have come to our shores number 3,419,000. They could replace one-half of the population of New England.

"Although the people of foreign birth constitute only one-seventh of the country's population they contribute nearly one-fourth (22 per cent) of the arm bearing strength of the nation. At the last census many of the states had a greater number of foreign born men of arm bearing age than they had of native ancestry citizens, among them Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota.

"Taking the states where those of foreign birth and their sons together constitute a major portion of the men between the ages of eighteen and forty-four, it will be found that the list includes the above named states and the following: New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, Michigan, South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana, Idaho, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, Washington and California—in all twenty states. We have considerably more than 20,000,000 men of military age in the United States.

"Another striking fact of our immigration situation is the unusual preference of the foreign born and their children for the cities. Of the 35,000,000 foreign stock whites living in the United States approximately 23,000,000 live in the cities. In only fourteen of the fifty leading cities of the country do the whites of full native parentage constitute as much as half of the total population. Only one-fifth of the total population of New York and Chicago is of native white ancestry. Less than a third of the population of Boston, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Buffalo, San Francisco, Milwaukee, Newark, Minneapolis, Jersey City, Providence, St. Paul, Worcester, Scranton, Paterson, Fall River, Lowell, Cambridge and Bridgeport are of native ancestry.

"Conditions have played some curious pranks in the distribution of the immigrant population in the United States. More than two-thirds of the Germans live between the Hudson and the Mississippi and north of the Ohio. The same is true of the Austrians, the Belgians, the Hungarians, the Dutch, the Italians, the Russians and the Welsh. New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey have 47 per cent of the Austrians, 35 per cent of the English, 30 per cent of the Germans, 54 per cent of the Hungarians, 45 per cent of the Irish, 58 per cent of the Italians, 56 per cent of the Russians, 22 per cent of the Dutch, 34 per cent of the Scotch and 46 per cent of the Welsh in the United States."

RED CROSS NEWS

The Tecumseh Red Cross loses a devoted worker in the person of the Rev. Mr. Widdifield, but he is more needed in France more than here; we wish him God speed and the best of luck, and we are proud to have had him as one of our co-workers. We will try and keep up our end of the work here, so that the brave men who go to the front, shall not lack for the comforts that make life in the trenches endurable.

Mr. Widdifield's brother was recently wounded in France.

The Rev. Mr. Rex has taken up Mr. Widdifield's work as Director of transportation. Therefore will all those who have goods to be called for, or who are willing to donate their autos for use of the Red Cross in taking goods to Adrian, kindly communicate with Rev. Rex. Rev. Rex also has a list of boys who volunteered as messengers.

We have lost another of our valuable workers in Mrs. T. C. Harris, who was so successful as Director of the surgical shirt department. Mrs. Harris has gone to live in Ann Arbor, and what is our loss is Ann Arbor's gain.

Mrs. Frank Nyland will take charge of the surgical shirt work, pro tem. All those having surgical shirts, please return them to her, and material for making new ones can be obtained from her also.

The fame of Tecumseh's knitting needles, is evidently spreading. The local branch is negotiating with the State Association, with a view to supplying the State of Michigan with knitting needles. This would mean a nice sum of money, enabling us to buy large supplies of material to be worked up for Red Cross use.

Mrs. Laverne Bidwell has received two responses to her appeal for workers, but she still needs help to make pillow cases.

Four comfort bags were given to the following boys, who have left for the army camps: Fred Holmes, Ernest Coller, Harold Tribolet and Roy Smith.

Miss Louise Phelps has been busy at the headquarters, wrapping up goods to be forwarded to Adrian.

Mrs. Dunn and committee are busy filling pillows.

Mrs. John Nyland reports receiving 16 doz. handkerchiefs and 10 doz. washcloths from her committee.

Miss A. B. Hosmer has sent in 13 mufflers, 4 sweaters, 4 pairs of wristlets, 8 pairs of bedsocks and 2 bathcloths.

Surgical dressings class worked Thursday and Friday afternoon. 14 doz. surgical dressings were made consisting of compresses and wipes.

Mrs. Moreland called on Mrs. Abner Wilson Thursday afternoon and took with her to Adrian 40 Red Cross feather pillows.

We have received a notice from Chapter Headquarters, urging all to finish as much knitting as possible by the first of October, as large shipments will be sent, in order to reach the trenches before Christmas. With the unsettled conditions of shipping, and the scarcity of cargo ships, even Red Cross supplies have to be sent a long time ahead, in order to be there on time. And this in spite of the fact that the Red Cross takes precedence of everything else. No presents can be sent any more to the French war orphans, all space being reserved for the Red Cross.

The Red Cross does not only take care of the sick and wounded soldiers, she puts her sheltering arm around them whenever and wherever they need it, preparing for the hardships she knows they must undergo, the cold of winter, the heat of summer, endeavoring as far as possible to prevent sickness among them through prevention. For example the sweaters will be worn in the trenches, by those soldiers who need them most.

The Red Cross Concert Company gave a concert at Seneca on Sunday evening, in the pretty new Union Church. Three cars took the preformers over and as the road to Seneca is nearly as hard to find as the road to Heaven, Mr. George Armstrong of Adrian in his auto kindly piloted the other cars to their destination.

The ladies of Seneca entertained the company for supper, and there was a most appreciative audience present, the company not having brought enough encores to respond to the demand.

This was the first concert for which tickets had been sold, and the result was $22.00, half of which went to the Seneca Red Cross and half to Tecumseh. The cars were donated.

A most excellent piano was sent from Adrian by Grinnell Bros., to whom the Red Cross tenders its thanks.

On the way home the different cars got lost and wandered around the country.

On October 2nd, the company will give a concert at Deerfield and before the end of the month at Coldwater.

Mrs. Ronald Crane is a new member.

The Patriotic League has raised $5,126.00 to date. Our assessment is $6,000.00.

The Journal of the A. M. A., the leading medical journal of America has the following notice: "The Germans made an aerial attack on the American hospital occupied by the St. Louis and Harvard base hospitals, killing one medical officer and two of the enlisted personnel and wounding nineteen. Incendiary bombs dropped by German aviators in the regions of Verdun, August 19th, killed one female nurse and nineteen male nurses, in Valelaincourt, Mount Halson, Dugny and Beirupt hospitals and wounded forty-nine. The hospitals were marked prominently with Red Cross signs. Austrian aeroplanes bombarded Venice August 14th, and dropped bombs on the hospital wounding several patients."

These are the risks our surgeons and unrses are taking, for the government of Germany, in its policy of frightfulness is picking out the men and women who are saving our soldiers lives. It is up to us to foil them, by harder and harder work, greater and greater generosity for the greatest cause on earth, THE RED CROSS.

An appeal is made by the librarian of the Tecumseh Library for books for the soldiers, either to be used here in the camps, or to be sent to France. There are intervals during which there are no duties, and these are the periods when the soldiers either fall a prey to discouragement or to the worst temptations. Healthy innocent amusement is essential to keep them fit for their work.

Do not select any rubbish that you want to get rid of, but good books and magazines that you can spare. Only magazines issued within the last three months are desired, except the picture and joke publications.

Just imagine how you would feel if suddenly all English literature was taken away from you, and the only thing you could get was a French newspaper, and act accordingly, and at once.

STURGEONS AS THEY FEED.

Peculiar Way These Big Fish Attack and Absorb Their Prey.

The sturgeon feeds along muddy bottoms [illegible] small shellfish, water weeds [illegible] fishes. According to the [illegible] Society Bulletin, its method [illegible] snout and near the point of it are four barbels, or "feelers," about two and a half inches long and placed about three-quarters of an inch apart across the snout. It swims with the snout close to the bottom, which allows the barbels to trail along on the sand or mud.

Whenever the barbels touch the protruding siphons of the soft shelled clam or the razor clam the siphons of the clams contract and by doing so notify the sturgeon of their presence. It halts and with its telescope mouth pumps the sand or mud away from the clam, passes it out of the gill openings and finally draws the clam from its resting place into its jaws and there crushes it. The larger portions of the shell it discards through the gill openings, but if the clams are small it discards very little of the shell, but swallows nearly all of it.

Another way the sturgeon has of feeding is to plow a furrow through the sand or mud with its long pointed snout, then to turn round and go back through the furrow and pick up whatever small mollusks and crustaceans it may have exposed. It also sucks up with its protruding mouth great quantities of sand and mud, sifts them through its gills and thereby finds many small organisms upon which it feeds.

Begin to Save Now.

How many people say to themselves, "Next year will find me with a nice little savings account," and then realize later on that it was like so many other good resolutions—never carried out. The time to begin is now. Nothing is ever gained by indecision. Begin by doing without some one thing which, possibly, may not come under the head of extravagance and still is not a necessity. It is not so much the amount you save at first that counts, but it paves the way for the systematic saving, which in the end makes the successful men and women of tomorrow.—S. W. Straus.

The Island of Hongkong.

Hongkong is an island about eleven miles long, with a width of from one to three miles, and consists almost entirely of a series of hills. There is a good road around a portion of the island on the sea front, but the grades up the mountains are too steep for practical automobiling, and the streets generally are not wide enough and not strongly enough constructed to permit the use of heavy cars upon them.

Unfamiliar Uses of Molasses.

Molasses is not only the most important byproduct of beet sugar manufacture from a financial standpoint, but is also of particular interest chemically and from the point of view of the variety of ways in which it has been utilized. Among these are cattle feeding, alcohol production and extraction processes. In cattle feeding the molasses is mixed with alfalfa meal or beet pulp when available, as the molasses in its original state is too sticky for feeding. Alcohol and vinegar are also made from molasses in this country and abroad. — Metallurgical and Chemical Engineering.

One Word.

"There is one word that we quickly learn in five languages," said an American Red Cross nurse who served in a French army hospital. "It is the word that comes most often to the lips of sick or wounded soldiers when suffering or delirium wrings utterance from them. It is mutter, mere, moeder, ma-[illegible]."

FROM "SOMEWHERE IN BELGIUM

Another Letter from Dr. Hammell, Picturing the Life at the Front.

Somewhere in Belgium
August 19, 1917

Mr. Frank Turner,
Tecumseh Michigan.

Dear Friend:—

For the best of reasons, censorship is very strict, and, as I am in the trenches at present, I shall not be able to tell you anything very interesting.

When I left United States, I did not expect to see a battle before arriving in France. But a short time before we sighted land on this side, we were fired upon by a huge German submarine three miles off. For twenty minutes our gunners returned their most accurate shots. Then the "sub" either submerged or sunk, which, we are not sure.

During my stay of three days in a large city in England. I was a guest of the English Government. I saw many interesting things from the King of England to the results of the "Hun" air raids.

The trip across the English Channel was mighty rough, and altho crossing the ocean I was not a bit seasick, the trip across the Channel made me have a "sickness" as the English term it.

Thanks to a mistake in orders, I was sent to the most famous city in France. The Theatres, the boulevards, the shops were of course most interesting to one who has never visited France. And how the French can cook! My I only regret is, that I cannot eat a dozen meals each day.

And the French maidens? Ah! they deserve a paragraph by themselves. Whenever you go, city village or country, they have a smile for you, (and usually a kiss if you like, so I am told.) When one spys an American uniform, they smile and their dark eyes sparkling, they cry, "Vive l'Amerique." The polite thing to do is to return the compliment by saying, "Vive La France."

After three wonderful days in the above mentioned city, I started on my journey here, "the front." I am attached to the English Field Ambulance No. 74. I am told, that this is the hottest part of the line at the present time. This I do know, that the big guns roar, the shrapnell screams and the machine guns rattle continually. As I was writing the preceding sentence, I glanced up and about two miles to my left, our anti aircraft guns were popping away at a "Hun" aeroplane who was indiscreet enough to venture over our lines where he knows well enough that it is unhealthy for him. Aeroplanes are [illegible] all day long.

As to the casualties and the results of our fire and the Boches' I can say nothing, except this, that all you read in the American papers is only too [illegible], and when this terrible [illegible] over, then, and not until then will the people of U. S. A. realize what is taking place here. It is awful, terrible, wonderful.

My address is Lieut. H. H. Hammell, U. S. M. C with British Army, Field Ambulance No. 74, A. E. I. No. 10 Sue St. Anne, Paris, France. From there my mail is forwarded to me.

Mrs. Hammell is sending me the Tecumseh Herald so I can of my Tecumseh friends. I shall be pleased to hear from you and any of my friends "at home" for over here we live on our letters.

Very Truly Yours,

ROAR OF A GUN.

Caused by Sound Waves Flung Out by the Expanding Hot Gas.

The loud noise made when a gun is fired is due to an explosion, the sudden expansion of a compressed gas, as it escapes into the air from the space in which it was confined. Now, in a popgun the gas that is compressed and then allowed to expand is air which already exists as air. But there is no air or any other gas in a cartridge, and the question is, Where does the gas come from that makes the noise and fires the bullet when a gun is fired?

What happens is that we suddenly burn a powder we have prepared of materials such that when they are burned a large quantity of gas will be produced, and it must be produced very suddenly if the full explosive power is to be obtained. We have another great advantage in trying to make this kind of explosion, as we have not when we fire a popgun—that is, that the gases produced are exceedingly hot, for they are heated by the burning which makes them.

A hot gas naturally occupies a great deal of space—far more than a cold gas—and so when we fire a gun we suddenly produce a great quantity of hot gas in a tiny space which is not nearly sufficient to hold it. If this were done in a closed box it would burst the box, but in the case of the gun we have prepared a way out for it—only that we put a bullet in the way. Out comes the gas, driving the bullet before it, and as it expands it starts the wave of sound we hear.—Kansas City Star.

The Last Word.

"Your better half likes the last word, doesn't she?" questioned the confidential friend.

"I don't think so," rejoined the other. "Anyway, she is always remarkably reluctant about reaching it."—Philadelphia Record.

CONVEX LENS OF THE EYE.

A Burning Glass That Adjusts the Sight to Varying Distances.

One of the manifold wonders of the human eye is the convex lens with which the focal distances of sight are made instantly and without mental effort. This lens in the eye is a literal "burning glass," as may be shown by the simplest of experiments.

Let the person at midday hold a straw against the face of the sun and focus his eyes on the straw. He can look at the straw, with its background of a dazzling sun, and without discomfort. But the moment he looks at the fiery ball of the sun itself subconsciously the lens of the eye comes to its proper focus, with the result that a "burning" sun spot appears on the retina of the eye, and it is said that a few seconds of such looking would burn out the retina as if by fire itself.

In the subconscious adaptability of the eye lens to adapt itself to different distances lies its value to the human sight. The man with a camera adjusts the focus of his lenses by sliding them forward and back. The lenses of the human eye, by changing their curvatures, allow of one looking at fine print six inches from his nose and in a fraction of a second to look up and away, probably fifty miles to a mountain peak that in an instant is in true camera focus.—Pittsburgh Press.

NEGLECTED FOODS.

Their More Liberal Use Would Be a Help In Home Economy.

Among the foodstuffs that American housekeepers have scarcely utilized are turnip tops, radish tops, mustard plants, sorrel and chick peas among the vegetables and the cheese product that can be extracted from whey.

The greens mentioned may all be cooked like spinach or they may be made into delicious cream soups, as they have been for centuries by European housewives. Enough sorrel grows in the average vacant lot in every city to make many purees or cream soups.

Chick peas are as nutritious as beans and when served in a broth are just as tasty. They also can be made into a puree.

Radish tops and mustard leaves make a cheap and appetizing salad.

Professor Mary F. Rausch in a lecture at the University of Washington gave some hints about home economics, one of which was that foods in shallow pans cook more rapidly than in deep pans, thus saving gas. Another was that not a scrap of fat of any sort need be thrown away, but all should go into a double boiler and be tried out for use in frying or as shortening for pastry.—New York World.

When Pullmans Were New.

The real birth of the Pullman car dates from the closing days of the war between the states. In the Illinois Journal (Springfield) of May 30, 1865, is to be found the following:

"We are reminded of a prophecy which we heard some three years since—that the time was not far distant when a radical change would be introduced in the manner of constructing railroad cars; the public would travel upon them with as much ease as though sitting in their parlors and sleep and eat on board of them with more ease and comfort than it would be possible to do on a first class steamer. We believed the words, * * * but did not think they were so near fulfillment till Friday last, when we were invited to the Chicago and Alton depot in this city to examine an improved sleeping car manufactured * * * after a design by George M. Pullman of Chicago."

Faces Over the Doors.

Those who visit Pompeii for the first time are struck by one significant feature of those little houses whose owners have been dead for 2,000 years. That is the faces which are often carved over the door or in the atrium and intended to convey a welcome or a defiance to the entering guest. The New House, as it is called, because it is the last rescued from the tomb of ashes, has before it two marble heads on pillars rising from beds of roses. Their faces are turned to greet the stranger with gay, friendly smiles. No one could enter a house which gave him so cordial a welcome without a happier throb of the heart. In the entrances of some of the other houses are set angry, frowning heads of demons.

Quaker Cemetery In Prospect Park.

There is a Quaker cemetery in Prospect Park West, Brooklyn. The cemetery is much older than the park, and when the park was organized it was done with the understanding that the Friends' burying ground was not to be disturbed. The part will probably always be kept. The cemetery covers several acres—say, from eight to ten—and is beautifully situated on one of the most commanding hills in the park.

Black Eggs.

The black Cayuga duck, a South American bird, frequently lays black eggs. The coloring does not penetrate the shell, being due to an oily pigment which can be rubbed off. In successive layings the coloring fades and disappears.

Sharing a Sentiment.

"Do you think a man ought to forgive his enemies?"

"Yes," said Senator Sorghum. "But he ought to make the score near enough even to let the enemy do some forgiving on his side." — Washington Star.

Ill habits gather by unseen degrees, as brooks make rivers, rivers run to seas.—Dryden.

SUBMARINES IN WARFARE.

Only Men of Iron Nerves and Quick Decision Can Work Them.

"It calls for men of iron nerves and quick decision to man our submarines either in peace or war," writes Frank E. Evans in St. Nicholas. "Submarine experts look upon the factor of nerves as the most important of all, and they have given to it the title of calculation.

"Within the cramped walls that are the home of the crew are housed the most intricate mechanisms that man has invented for warfare. Outside its steel walls are mines, great nets of wire, explosives, shells and seaplanes, all devised for its destruction, and the sharp keels of ships that slice through them as a knife cuts cheese. The smallest shell can penetrate them, and nets can hold the submarine as helpless as a child in the grasp of a giant.

"Danger lies everywhere for the tiger of the seas. The ocean in which it lives is a powder tank that waits but for a spark. Only nerves of iron can cope against such an array of enemies. The slightest hesitation of its captain in the face of any of them means the end of his ship and his crew.

"As one expert has put it, the whole A B C of submarine warfare is to act at an instant's warning with nerves of steel."

MAKING GASES LIQUID.

Knowledge of the "Critical Temperature" Solved the Problem.

In regard to the boiling points of liquid, there is an upper limit to the point at which a thing boils—that is, changes to the state of vapor. It is called the critical temperature. No matter how great a pressure exists on a substance, if it is at a temperature greater than its critical it will change to vapor anyhow.

The ignorance of this point held back the making of liquefied gases—such as air, carbon dioxide, etc.—for many years. The experimenters tried to liquefy gases at ordinary temperatures by enormous pressures, whereas if they had just cooled the gases below their critical temperatures before applying the pressure liquefaction would have ensued immediately.

This is the method employed today in making liquid air. The air is compressed at first and then allowed to issue from a small orifice, thus expanding and cooling; is then pumped back and compressed by the pump, allowed to go through the orifice again, thus cooling still more, until at last it is below the critical temperature, when the compression caused by the pump liquefies it.

Nature of Sleep.

Investigation by scientists of the nature of the sleep of persons in normal health shows that it varies according to the daily diet and the different hours at which sleep is begun. Altogether the ideal hour for retiring is 10 o'clock. The sleep of a person going to bed regularly at approximately this time gradually augments in intensity for the space of an hour. It then suddenly becomes very profound, reaching its maximum intensity at about 11:30 o'clock. Within five or six minutes from this time it has been found that the sleep begins to be less deep. In an hour the sleeper is again in the same condition of slumber as at about 11:15. From this time until after 2 o'clock the rest is steady and light. From 2 until 4 it augments, and then it consistently diminishes until it ceases at the customary time of rising.

Stevenson at Noyon.

The Cathedral of Noyon, in France, exercised a great fascination over Robert Louis Stevenson. "I have seldom looked on the east end of a church with more complete sympathy," he wrote. "As it flanges out in three wide terraces and settles down broadly on the earth it looks like the poop of some great old battleship. There is a roll in the ground, and the towers just appear above the pitch of the roof, as though the good ship were bowing lazily over an Atlantic swell. At any moment it might be a hundred feet away from you, mounting the next billow. At any moment a window might open and some old admiral thrust forth a cocked hat and make an observation."—London Chronicle.

To Keep From Losing Breath.

Where respiration is rhythmical there is no loss of breath in walking fast, running uphill or going upstairs. The method of preventing breathlessness consists in maintaining the rhythm and the speed of respiration. When the breathing is rhythmic the breathing keeps pace with the step. The outbreathing must be twice the length of the inbreathing, and not more than eighteen or twenty complete breath circuits must be made per minute.

Bluebirds.

During the nesting season the bluebird may be found in the United States (west to Arizona, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana), southern Canada, Mexico and Guatemala. In the winter it is found in the southern half of the eastern United States and south to Guatemala.

"Does your wife economize?"

GARLINGHOUSE GARAGE

Improvements are still going on at the Garlinghouse Garage and when completed we will be in position to give our trade every possible service.

Here are some of the improvements:

Large parking space or main garage has recently received a coat of white, which adds to the general appearance.

The large show room adjoining the office is now being repainted ted up for the display of cars and also a large line of auto accessories.

The new cement floor will be down within the next few days, covering the entire garage floor space.

An appliance for an electric automatic door will be installed.

A contract is let for the installation of a large steam heating plant of sufficient heating capacity for heating every portion of the garage.

Toilets for ladies and gentlemen have alredy been installed.

Our repair department is carefully taken care of by Albert VanDoren, who also has plenty of able assistants.

The sale of the Chevrolet line of cars has already started and Homer Marsh, who is in full charge of the sales, is surely having results.

Arrangements have been made to establish a Willard Service Station branch for the overhauling, repairing and sale of Willard batteries and we will also be equipped with conveniences for winter storage of all makes of batteries.

RICE FIELDS OF JAPAN.

Mostly Tiny Gardens, but They Feed 50,000,000 People.

Almost one half of the land capable of cultivation in Japan is planted in rice. Handkerchief gardens would perhaps best describe the little rice fields, many of which are no larger than a tennis court, are equally flat and are surrounded by rims of earth to hold the water when the fields are flooded. The average rice field in Japan is about one acre and a half in size; but, large or small, each field must be leveled, and each must have its rim or dike. Then there must be a system of canals to bring water to the fields and another system of ditches to take it away when it is no longer needed.

If the land were fairly level the preparation of the ground, which is all done by hand, would not be so hard nor would it require such vast amounts of human labor, but Japan is a mountainous country. Terraces must be cut from the steep hillsides and so leveled that they will hold the water at a uniform depth over the small fields.

It is said that there are 12,000 square miles of rice land in Japan, the greater part of which has been prepared with an almost infinite amount of labor. That area of land cultivated in rice virtually feeds a nation of 60,000,000 people.

The little fields are usually permanent, and frequently a farmer owns three or four scattered fields. That further increases the work of caring for his crops. In recent years, however, the government has tried to consolidate the holdings of farmers by a process of land exchange.—Youth's Companion.

SASH WINDOWS.

Probably a Dutch Invention of the Seventeenth Century.

The history of sash windows is somewhat obscure, but the probability is that they were a Dutch invention and that they were introduced into England soon after the revolution of 1688. The derivation of the word "sash" in this sense is the Dutch "sas," a sluice—old English "sasse." In Queen Anne's reign they were yet so comparatively uncommon as to be mentioned as a special feature of houses that were advertised as "to let." In the Tatler, for instance, May 27-30, 1710, there is this advertisement:

"To be lett, in Devonshire Square, near Bishopsgate, a very good Brick House of 8 Rooms of a Floor, and a good Hall, with very good light and dark Closets, the whole House being well wainscoted and sash'd with 30 Sash Lights."

From England they passed into France, where the first to put them up was Marshal de Lorge at his new house at Montmartre. Speaking of this, Lister in 1699 writes in his "Journey to Paris:" "We had the good fortune here to find the marshal himself. He showed us his great sash windows, how easily they might be lifted up and down and stood at any height, which contrivance, he said, he had out of England."—London Standard.

Trapping Turtles.

In the old days in the south the negro fishermen used to have an ingenious and simple way of trapping fresh water turtles. Any boy today can use the same method with the same effect. Turtles have favorite sunning logs. Beside one of the logs sink a water tight box two feet long and a foot and a half wide. The open top of the box should stand about an inch above the water. Nail the box securely against the log in such a position that it will catch the turtles that fall from the log. After the trap has been set leave the pond or lake for a time. On returning approach the log quietly from the side opposite the box. If there are any turtles on the log, frighten them suddenly. They will pitch off hurriedly into the box.—Youth's Companion.

A Queen Who Resigned.

One queen who got tired of ruling over her nation and resigned was Queen Christina, daughter of the great Gustavus Adolphus II. of Sweden, whom she succeeded in 1632. Growing tired of reigning at the age of twenty-eight, she passed the crown over to her cousin, Charles Gustavus, and went to Rome, which city she is said to have entered in the costume of an amazon. Later she tried to regain her throne, but failed. She died at Rome in 1689.

TALENTED LECTURE

By Dr. Claude H. VanTine of the University of Michigan

At the Baptist Church Friday Night

Those who heard Dr. Claude H. VanTine give his lecture last Friday evening, "Why we are at war with Germany," are counting themselves most fortunate for he gave his audience a scholarly lecture and covered the reasons leading up to this great war as only such a man could. Dr. VanTine is dean of the department of history at the University of Michigan and has a world of information at his disposal which has a direct bearing on the subject to which he confined himself.

We are proud of Dr. VanTine, because he is a patriotic American loyal and true to the Stars and Stripes, which has protected him and us, because he is a distinguished historian of international reputation, because he comes from our own great University of Michigan, because he is a Michigan man but most particularly because he is a Tecumseh boy, who has gone out from among us and made his life work such a grand success.

The Baptist church was well filled but should have been filled to the very doors. Dr. W. B. Hartzog in a few words gave the reasons for the course of lectures of which Friday night's was the first, stating that the Universities of our country were sending out talent to give these lectures, their object being that the people may become more enlightened as to the cause of America's entry into the great world war. These lectures are given free, a collection being taken only to defray actual expenses and is given under the auspices of the National Security League. Dr. Hartzog stated that Tecumseh was the first town in Michigan to ask for this course. He then introduced General F. B. Wood who took charge of the meeting and introduced the speaker of the evening.

Dr. VanTine expressed pleasure as being glad to be with the many of his old friends and having this opportunity of addressing them, as it was his home town.

He stated that most people considered the cause of our entry into this war due to the fact that Germany through her U-boat campaign had sunk our American ships and killed our American people. While this action on Germany's part was the direct reason for breaking with Germany still the real cause was a war of Autocracy against Democracy.

Prussia for years back has dreamed of a world conquest, dreamed of a world ruled by a Hohenzollern, because the present Hohenzollern ruler and his fore fathers before him have thought themselves divinely appointed by God to rule. They have educated their people toaccept this belief and have used authority to enforce it. The public schools of Prussia teach it to the children and the text books are full of this doctrine. Prussia, he claimed, for many years has been preparing for this great conflict, has built up an army, the wonder of the world, has equipped it For instance when the war broke she had 50,000 machine guns and every thing else in proportion and had hoarded her resources to take care of her great drive for the world Prussianism.

Dr. VanTine read a personal letter written to him by a friend, one of the world's greatest historians, an Englishman, who claimed that the war could not be won out for American help, but with her help it could be pushed to a successful ending and Autocracy can and will be crushed.

He had a world of information from which he quoted showing how thoroughly Prussia had been planning and preparing for this struggle. There was no doubt that she intended to make war against the United States and at the close to make us pay the cost of the war to her. She practically declared war against us the first day she entered it. He expressed his belief that without America's entry the war would have been over this winter and that peace would have been declared favorably to the Prussian cause but with our entry it would not end this year. Next year Prussia will be weakened and the end will come in two years. He urged loyalty to our country and our President. President Wilson's great messages, he stated, will live as the greatest yet written.

We have tried only to touch a few of the high points in Dr. VanTine's lecture, in fact feel incapable of even trying to reproduce so scholarly an address, but wish to urge our people to attend the balance of these lectures. You think you are patriotic, but you are not. We have not yet realized our position in this great war nor what it will mean to us before it closes.

Patriotic music was sung by the audience lead by the Baptist choir during the opening and closing of the meeting.

UNITED SUPPLY CO. MAKE CHANGES TO THEIR BUILDING

The United Supply Company have just recently completed changes to their building. The rear opening to the building and the opening into the main office room have been widened to enable a car to be driven in. Formerly cars had to stand in the rear but the increasing business of this firm made it necessary for more room in which to handle their service department.

This firm carries a full line of auto accessories, takes care of expert battery work and has just recently taken on the agency for the popular Dodge Brothers car.

Mr. O. J. Marsh, "the big boy" on the job will be pleased to demonstrate the Dodge car to any who are of an inquiring mind.

Herman Babcock of Detroit is another Tecumseh boy who has to report for army duty this week.

PROMOTION

Herbert Henderson who enlisted in Company B and is stationed at Grayling has been promoted from the 32d regiment to the quartermaster department of the 31st under Capt. Kelley of Detroit. He did not leave for Waco with the rest of the boys Friday but wil remain in Grayling until the work of his department is completed and then go to Waco. His father J. M. Henderson returned from Grayling Thursday evening where he has been visiting Herbert since Tuesday and reports all of the boys in splendid health, the out door training agreeing with them all. They are enthusiastic in their work and are glad to be moved further south.

We took the above from the Telegram and are proud of the advancement of Herbert.

Cleaning Fluid.

An excellent homemade cleaning fluid used generally for many emergencies is made by dissolving four ounces of white castile soap in a quart of boiling rainwater. When cool add two ounces each of alcohol, ether and glycerin, four ounces of ammonia and finally one gallon of rainwater and then bottle. This will remove grease spots from clothing and spots from table covers, carpets and rugs.

"Any policy of public regulation of railways that does not stimulate the production of transportation by attracting new capital savings is manifestly an uneconomic policy and opposed to the public interest."
Outlook, July 25, 1917

An Economic Necessity

THE country's business is growing faster than its railroads. It has been so for 15 years. This cannot continue without irreparable injury to commerce and industry.

The New York Central Lines

"America's Greatest Railway System"

are looking and planning ahead. Expenditures by these lines involving hundreds of millions of dollars will be necessary in the next few years to meet the demand for increased transportation facilities. The money may come partly from earnings; but most of it must come from public investment.

The public will invest only when assured a reasonable return. Governmental regulation must therefore be such as to attract new capital savings.

The railroads must be permitted to charge rates that will earn a return sufficient to cover the constantly mounting costs of operation, pay interest on bonds, reasonable dividends on stock and provide a surplus for equipment, improvements and extensions.

NEW YORK CENTRAL LINES

IN JUDGE HOSMER'S COURT

Saturday afternoon Jas. Bellenier and Ed Smothers, both connected with the Adrian condensery and living in Adrian, ran into Homer Marsh's Marsh's coupe in which were Mr. and Mrs. Marsh. Bellenier was drunk and doing the driving and Smothers did a little cussing.

Monday Bellenier was arrested for driving a machine while under the influence of liquor and brought over from Adrian to appear before Judge Hosmer. He pleaded guilty and the judge fined him $50.00 with $7.45 costs which was light considering the offence. As the man handed the money to the judge he said, "Be careful how you spend it, judge," thinking, we suppose, how easily his own money had gone on Saturday, and of the money he had paid Marsh to fix up his loss.

Monday afternoon Smothers was brought before Judge Hosmer on complaint of Homer Marsh for using profane and indecent language before women. He, too, pleaded guilty and came across with a fine of $15.00 and $9.35 costs.

Another case brought before Judge Hosmer yesterday was the hearing of Jas. Miller, Guy Beevers and Wm. Daisher of Macon who had been arrested by Depty. Smith on an assault and battery complaint of Chas. Howe for daubing his son David, aged 14, with wagon grease on Sept. 12th These men pleaded guilty and the judge fined them each $10.00 with $4.88 costs.

MARRIED TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

Sunday was a big day at Lavern Harrisons west of town. Twenty-five years ago that day he and Miss Lillie Vedder had started out in the life together so they had invited a party of friends to make merry in celebration of the anniversary. The home was gay with fall flowers and how the guests were welcomed There were present relatives and friends from Addison, Adrian, Flint, Detroit and this vicinity.

A big three course dinner was served to 66 at 1 o'clock by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Billington, Misses Lucy Harrison and Vera Sisson, Leon Fagon and Chauncey Harrison The place cards were little booklets tied with silver cord and bearing the photograph of the host and hostess

Mr. and Mrs Harrison along with the congratulations of their friends received many beautiful gifts of silver and linen.

In the Sunday Free Press we find a picture of Miss Winnifred Anderson, sister of E. L. Anderon of this place. She was married last week to Dr. Edward LeBaron Goodwin of Richmond, Va., and the wedding was one of the great society events of the season at Grosse Ile.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Harris moved their household effects to their new home in Ann Arbor Friday. Now we hope they will be happy over there and of course we know they will be, but we don't like to see them go just the same. Mrs. E. C. Mann and family moved into the Harris home Saturday.

TO HONOR THEIR FRIENDS ABOUT TO LEAVE TOWN

Thursday evening at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Tansley, Miss Alma and Glenn Tansley entertained a few friends as a sort of a farewell for Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Harris who went to Ann Arbor to reside and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Harriott who plan to spend the winter in Florida.

At six o'clock one of Mrs. Tansley's good dinners was served, with Mr. Reid caterer. Besides the guests above mentioned were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clark, Misses Cecile and Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stewart and son, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Tansley and Harris Dole.

BAD DAY FOR THE LITTLE FOLKS

Little Jack Beardsley, while at play Saturday, received a cut on the head with a stone thrown by another youngster and his father, Dr. Beardsley brought him down to the office where he could care for the wound. It was so deep, that the skull was exposed.

After the Dr. had dressed the wound and was putting him in the car for home, up came Rev. Rex with his little Frances with another cut head. She had ran in the way of a stick thrown at a little playmate and as is usual the bystander was the one hurt. She had a bad cut just above the eye which the Dr. dressed and now she too has forgotten she was hurt.

We have sold over a hundred of these ranges, and all are giving satisfaction. In our canvassing we have several times found families owning one of these ranges fourteen or fifteen years old and still in excellent condition. The Malleable company gives good service, furnishing repairs no matter how old the range.

These are some of the good points of the range—

1—Flues made of copper, bearings patented Aluminum, fused metal, and larger than other ranges, giving more heat and better draft.

2—Ovens so rivited together as to have an air-tight joint.

3—Large reservoir, holding fifteen gallons, can be heated at same time as oven.

4—Door of warming oven drops instead of rolling back. A rolling top is not sanitary because there is no way to clean it.

5—Unusually heavy back or smoke-flue plate.

6—Body of range has tripple wall, asbestos lined.

7—Hand rivited throughout.

The range can be had with leg base like cut above or cabin base, setting squarely.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT HOLLOWAY

Brakeman Bert Lane Crushed Under Wabash Freight Train

Taken to Adrian and Dies Ten Minutes After Arriving

A fatal accident occurred at Holloway yesterday afternoon at 5:30, when Brakeman Bert Lane, while uncuppling a freight car, was caught and crushed under the train.

Lane was braking on the local way freight and his train had just pulled into Holloway and was about to leave a car which was consigned to that place. The train had been cut and Lane was trying to make a flying switch. He tried to turn the rod which pulls the pin but, finding that it did not work, reached in to pull the pin when his glove caught someway and caused him to stumble and fall. He was pulled under the train and crushed.

The unfortunate man had his left hand cut off just above the wrist, his left leg just below the knee was crushed to a mass of broken bone, also the ankle and right foot cut.

The train was stopped and the crew soon pulled him out from under the cars and bound up his leg and arm to stop the flow of blood.

Dr. Nixon, who lives only a short distance from the yards, was called and was soon on the ground. He found the man conscious and complaining of a severe pain in his chest, so it is thought he suffered from internal injuries. The doctor made him as comfortable as possible and he was placed on the local train which arrived a few minutes after the accident and was taken to Adrian where he passed away at the hospital about ten minutes after arriving.

Mr. Lane was a married man and lived at Delray. About twenty years ago he lived at Holloway with his parents, his father John Lane being then a section foreman on the Wabash road. His father still lives at Delray and is employed on the railroad there.

BAD RAILROAD WRECK AT RIDGEWAY

Freight Train Leaves Track Piling up Ten Coal Cars

Occurred at 2:45 This Morning—No One Injured

A bad wreck occurred at Ridgeway early this morning, about 2:45 o'clock, when an east bound freight on the Dundee Branch of the N. Y. Central left the track about 30ft. east of the Ridge road crossing.

The section of the track where the wreck occurred has just recently been relaid and the ground under the track seemed to be soft. It is claimed that the freight was travelling at a high rate of speed as they came into Ridgeway and did not slack up for this new piece of track.

The engine and about nine cars passed over but a section of ten cars following heavily loaded with coal left the track and piled up in a heap. Coal was thrown for some distance from the right of way and the big coal cars were twisted and broken. Several lay on their sides and all were in a big pile of wreckage. The track was torn up for a distance of about 200 or 250 feet and rails lay at the side of the road bed torn from ties and twisted.

The rear section of the train remained standing on the track. No one was hurt as the wreck occurred in the middle of the train. It is thought that the pressure of the heavy cars travelling over this new section of track caused the rails to spread.

A gang of men were working this morning clearing the track, but the wrecking train had not arrived at 9 o'clock.

The coal was consigned to the Edison people of Detroit but it looks as if Ridgeway people got the delivery. Good for Ridgeway! Hope they will keep it.

My Hypothetical Wife

A Story of Preparation For War

By F. A. MITCHEL

While driving through the country I came upon a house situated in a yard filled with shrubs and flowers in which a sign was hung, as follows: "School of Matrimony."

"School of Matrimony!" I repeated to myself. "Surely there is something interesting behind that sign. I will go in and see what it is."

I found a middle aged, intellectual looking man, who introduced me to his wife, a comely woman, who excused herself, leaving me alone with her husband. Before quitting the room she spoke a few words to him, and I noticed that, though what she had to say was of ordinary character, there was something in her tone and manner that denoted a deep affection for him.

"Seeing your sign, sir," I said to the gentleman—Mr. Larramore was his name—"I have called to learn what it means."

"Are you meditating matrimony?" he asked.

"Well, yes. Every man meditates matrimony except those who are married, and many of those meditate divorce."

"It is that divorce—I mean divorce between couples with no well founded reason for separation—which my wife and I undertake to prevent by educating those about to be married in the dangers which they are sure to encounter during the early days of wedded life."

"Will you state your educational plan?" I asked.

"Certainly; there is nothing secret in it. By attending divorce court proceedings my wife and I have collected a large number of reasons why couples drift into what is commonly called incompatibility. On these reasons or incidents we have constructed tables showing that the greatest number of breaks which occur between two normal, well intending married persons take place within three years after marriage. From that time they diminish rapidly. The most difficult period for them to get over is from the third to the tenth month of wedded life. We instruct our pupils in the dangers they are liable to meet during these critical months. Those which follow are but a repetition of those that have been incurred before. Those who know the perils they are to meet have a far better chance of resisting them than those who meet them without having been prepared for them."

"Do your courses consist simply of verbal instruction, or do your pupils receive practical instruction?"

"We deliver lectures, I to men, my wife to women, but we have a co-educative course wherein couples hypothetically married are carried through most quarrels. During the quarrels they use their own judgment as to wherein either one or the other is in error, the instructor correcting them from time to time, pointing out the dangers of certain acts during trying moments or suggesting methods liable to bring about immediate reconciliation."

"I think," I broke in at this part, "that I will enter myself in your academy as a student on the co-education plan."

Having been accepted as a pupil, I paid my tuition fee, and after attending the lectures for a couple of weeks Mr. Larramore showed me a number of photographs of young ladies from whom I might select a dummy wife. I pounced upon a pretty girl whose appearance denoted amiability and applied for her. It happened that she was not engaged. I was introduced to her, and our drill was commenced. I was handed a printed slip which read as follows:

"My dear, when I married you I supposed I was marrying you alone. I had no intention of marrying your family."

I was instructed by Mr. Larramore to speak these words angrily to my dummy wife. I did so, and despite the fact that I was playing a part I saw the hot blood mount to her cheek. She made no reply, for the instructor interposed.

"Those words should not have been uttered," he said, "though they may have been felt. When a man marries a woman, in a sense he marries her family—that is to say, he cannot ignore them. Whatever is near and dear to her must be treated with consideration by him. If some old maiden aunt addresses him on first meeting him by his first name he may writhe within, but outwardly he should act as if the lady and he had been brought up as near relations."

"H'm!" I remarked. "Are my wife's relatives one of the dangers of matrimony?"

"One of the principal ones," replied our teacher.

"I would have you to understand," replied my hypothetical wife, "that my family is as good as yours and, I've no doubt, better."

This was not down in the course of instruction and somewhat rattled me. But Mr. Larramore took advantage of it to get in some excellent points on the subject of marital relatives and how they should be gingerly handled, not on their own account, but on account of their connection with the parties concerned. Then he gave my dummy wife a printed slip, which she read and spoke to me. It was very long; indeed, it was a veritable curtain lecture. Mr. Larramore nodded to me to take my own course in shutting her off. The only course that suggested itself to me was this:

"If you keep on talking long enough perhaps you'll say something worth hearing in time."

At this our instructor called a halt.

"Where is the error in this case?" he asked me.

"The error is in a woman's endless chain of words," was my reply.

"Wrong! Your wife was simply letting off steam. The feminine nerves are different from those of men, and a husband should recognize this. You should have let your wife talk until she was talked out."

"What! Listen to that rubbish? Where do the husband's nerves come in?"

"His part is to leave the room quietly and without banging the door behind him."

"See here, professor," I began angrily, "I'd have you understand"—

"Recess," interrupted the professor, and opened the door of a pleasant little room in which there were flowers and birds and pictures on subjects conducive to happy emotions. "Go in there and make up."

"What a pretty room!" said my hypothetical wife, a smile breaking over her pretty lips.

"Delightful!" I assented.

We were left together for some time, longer than I thought necessary for practice in reconciliation between husband and wife, though altogether too short for a pair of lovers. Indeed, I would not have objected to a much longer period. Mr. Larramore summoned us to new marital trials, apologizing for leaving us so long.

"We have a room in which we put extremely amiable couples," he said, "for the severest test that can be applied. It is furnished throughout in red. The reason for my delay in your case is that I put a couple in the red room, and there resulted such a bitter quarrel that it required all my strength to separate them. Never furnish a room in red; it excites animosity."

"What did you do with this couple?" I asked.

"They are now in the violet room, billing and cooing."

"May I ask, professor, what proportion of divorces your tables indicated are mother-in-law cases?"

"Ninety per cent."

"Is it the mother-in-law virus alone that produces the trouble or are there other ingredients?"

"Quite often there are other ingredients, but it is safe to say that with the mother-in-law removed 75 per cent of such cases would pull through."

"What is the best anti-toxin," I asked, "for a wife on the verge of transferring her affections to another man?"

"Another woman."

"And I suppose my hypothetical wife's part in the anti-toxin for a husband infatuated with another woman than his wife is another man?"

"Only as a last resort," replied the professor. "The interference of the other man is liable to throw a stain on the wife."

Mrs. Larramore was passing, and her husband referred the question to her.

"The treatment of a husband infatuated by another woman," she said, "requires more self control than any other case. The safest plan is for the wife to ignore the infatuation and not appear jealous, for the man is pretty sure to tire of the other woman in time. A man whose home is made attractive to him is not likely to give it up for good unless he is badly handled."

Professor Larramore recommenced his drilling in the matrimonial manuals, but the practice was rather on points calculated to bring about trouble than those in which a quarrel had got under way. These matters did not interest me. I made several irritating remarks to my hypothetical wife that made her very angry for the purpose of being sent to the making up room. When we were returned there the lady said:

"I wouldn't marry you for the wealth of the Indies!"

"Do you know why I said those villainous things to you?"

"Because you are naturally vicious, I suppose."

"Because our former making up was so delightful that I wished to make up over again."

I was drilled with my hypothetical wife in avoiding matrimonial whirlpools twice a week for six weeks, at the end of which time we were each given a certificate that we were master and mistress of the art. When the diplomas were given us the professor said that we were fitted to pass the matrimonial danger period with anything short of a tarantula or a porcupine, and I am sure that we had been subjected to every conceivable test that can possibly arise between two newly married persons.

In parting with my hypothetical wife at her home at 1 o'clock the next morning I said, with a sigh:

"It seems a pity after having been so well prepared for wedlock that we should part at the very point where we should be united."

She looked at the floor and partly turned her head. She did not learn this at the matrimonial school. It is something born in woman to come out on the expectation of a proposal.

"Don't you think," I continued, "that having been hypothetically educated we may as well be actually married?"

"Perhaps our training will avail nothing after all."

"Yes it will. We'll have a room done in violet and filled with buds and flowers."

She consented. We were married, but our education failed when it came to be put in practice. We quarrel at times, like other couples.

BANKS AND BANKNOTES.

England's First Paper Money Was Issued by the Goldsmiths.

With the almost entire use of paper currency at the present time the history of its origin may not be uninteresting. In the days of the Stuarts merchants used to lodge their reserves of gold in the Tower, and when one day Charles I., in a thoughtless moment, annexed a large sum lodged in that way and forgot to put it back the merchants decided that henceforth they would put no more trust in princes, but would look to the goldsmiths.

The goldsmiths thereby became the first bankers, and the first goldsmith who hit upon the novel idea of giving a note, not only to the person who deposited gold, but also to the person who came to borrow, founded modern banking with an original deposit of £5,000.

The banker gave promise to pay up to, say, £25,000, and as long as there was no immediate demand on the part of the persons holding these promises to pay to have that promise converted into cash business proceeded merrily, but necessarily there was a limit beyond which it was not safe to do this kind of business, and it was always possible that something unforeseen might happen that would bring an unusual number of notes for presentation.

As a matter of fact, this did happen frequently in the early days, and finally the government stepped in and granted the almost entire monopoly of issuing notes to the Bank of England.—London Standard.

Highly Estimable.

"Half a loaf is better than no bread," said the philosopher.

"There's no doubt about the respect to which half a loaf is entitled," replied the plain person. "It costs as much as a whole loaf used to."—Washington Star.

The Kind Wren.

The house wren is charitable enough to take care of the young of other species. One has been known to feed and rear four young robins whose parents had met with disaster.

Musical Note.

"Didn't her constant singing in the flat annoy you?"

"Not so much as the constant flat in her singing."—Puck.

Fighting In the Air.

"Before an aviator is prepared to engage another flyer in battle he should know how to loop the loop, do a nose or vertical dive, execute a tail spin, a tail slide or any other of the so called stunts," said Miss Ruth Law.

"Fighting in the air is fighting for position. Consequently it is largely a business of dodging. The man who is the better dodger, who has the most tricks up his sleeve, is the man who is going to win. I have seen men stop controlling their machines altogether and simply fall through space for several thousand feet.

"The point of this, of course, is to give the opposing flier the idea that the plane has been struck. The opposing aviator, thinking he has put his enemy out of commission, will start away. Then the plunging air man will switch on his power, regain control of his machine and overtake his enemy without the latter knowing he is approaching. Such tactics naturally are used at great altitudes."—New York Tribune.

Haydn's Ox Minuet.

Hadyn one day received a visit from a butcher who said that himself and his daughters were admirers of Haydn's music, and as the young woman was soon to be married he made bold to ask that the composer write a minuet for her wedding. Kind "Papa Haydn" consented, and in a few days the man of meat obtained his music. Not long afterward Haydn was surprised to hear this same minuet played under his window. On looking out he saw a band of musicians forming a ring around a large ox tastefully decorated with flowers. Soon the butcher came up and presented the ox to Haydn, saying that for such excellent music he thought he ought to make the composer a present of the best ox in his possession. Ever after this little composition was called the "Ox" minuet.—W. Francis Gates in "Anecdotes of Great Musicians."

For Chess Players.

The Swedish monarch, Charles XII., found himself besieged by the Turks and virtually a prisoner. To while away the tedium of his captivity he would indulge in an occasional game at chess—even when Turkish bullets were flying around—with his friend Grothusen. The position beneath had been reached when Charles exclaimed, "I have a pretty mate in three"—

White—K on K B 5, R on K Kt 7, Kt on K sq. pawns K Kt 2, K R 2.

Black—K on K R 4, B on K B 7, pawns K R 3, K Kt 6.

But even as he spoke a flying bullet sent the knight to smithereens. The king, undismayed, merely remarked, "Now I mate in four." Before Grothusen had solved the position another bullet sent White's rook's pawn spinning off the board. Charles' only comment was, "I can now give mate in five!"

Strangled the Tree.

A Victoria clergyman had an orange and a pine tree in his garden. One spring it was noticed that the orange tree was drooping, and on digging down he found that the roots of the pine, which stood at some distance, had twisted around the taproot of the orange tree and were strangling it to death. The offending roots were untwisted and cut away, and the drooping plant revived. The tree eventually died. Then on digging down at a greater depth the clergyman found the pine had attacked the orange root lower down and accomplished its murderous end.—London Graphic.

The Fertile Rock.

Gibraltar is often called a barren rock, yet it has 456 species of indigenous flowering plants. Castor oil plants, daturas and daphnes attain the dignity of trees and geraniums and heliotropes the proportions of hedges. These floral delights often conceal cannon and other armaments. The few snakes that are found are small and harmless. Lizards several inches long are often seen.

Licorice Root.

Several thousands of tons of licorice root, which is considered a pest and worse than worthless by the natives generally, are annually gathered in Turkey for exportation to this country for use in the manufacture of chewing and smoking tobacco as well as for flavoring confectionery and beer.

Vocalization.

"You must enjoy hearing your prima donna sing."

"I do," replied the impresario. "You don't know what a relief it is to have her get out and throw those high notes around to the audience instead of yelling at me about her salary."—Washington Star.

Rue.

The Talmud enumerates rue among the kitchen herbs and regards it as free of tithe as being a plant not cultivated in gardens. The name rue occurs in the Bible only in Luke xi, 42.

Foxy Customer.

Milliner (coaxingly) — The white feather on the hat makes madam look about twenty-one. Customer (eagerly) —Yes, yes! Why not put on two or three more?—Exchange.

Acquired.

Wife—I can't understand why I didn't see those faults in you before we were married. Hub—That's easily explained. I didn't possess them then. —Boston Transcript.

The man who thinks he knows a woman like a book usually discovers many uncut leaves.

True in Every Language.

Tennyson once attended a dinner where G. L. Craik proposed "The Ladies." In doing so he recalled the cynical advice given by a brother Scot to his children: "Tak my advice and dinna marry for siller. You can borrow cheaper."

Some time later Tennyson at his own table repeated Mr. Craik's story, but expressed the idea without attempting dialect. His son, Hallam, remarked, "Surely, father, Craik did not use those words."

"No, he did not; but, then, Craik is a Scotchman, and I am afraid to venture on repeating him exactly. However, it's almost as good in English as in Scotch, and it's tremendously true in both."

Why the Widow Got Him.

The folks were talking gossip with some neighbors who were making a social call. They were discussing a certain man that everybody agreed was such a fine man and wondering how ever it was that a rather gay grass widow had succeeded in leading him to the altar. "Well, I kin tell ye," said Uncle Ebenezer, who had continued to smoke his pipe without taking part in the discussion, "he had no chance."—Exchange.

TECUMSEH EVIDENCE FOR TECUMSEH PEOPLE

The Statement of Tecumseh Residents are Surely More Reliable Than Those of Utter Strangers.

Home testimony is real proof.

Public Satements of Tecumseh people carry real weight.

What a friend or neighbor says compels respect.

The word of one whose home is far away invites your doubts.

Here's a Tecumseh man's statement.

And it's for Tecumseh people's benefit.

Such evidence is convincing.

That's the kind of proof that backs Doan's Kidney Pills.

Thomas Langton, retired farmer, W. Chicago St., says: "I had kidney complaint and suffered with it a great deal. My kidneys acted irregularly and the kidney secretions unnatural. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, getting them at Wright & Son's Drug Store, and they strengthened my back, regulated my kidneys and benefited me in every way."

Tools For the Farm.

In Farm and Fireside are given the following list of the tools every farmer must own:

"Under the title of 'Repair Shop,' C. I. Gunness, a Massachusetts machinery expert, lists the following tools as invaluable on every farm. The chest includes ripsaw, crosscut saw, claw hammer, steel square, jack plane, block plane, spirit level, brace and set of auger bits. Many other tools might be mentioned, but with those listed practically all of the necessary farm carpenter work can be done."

Four Governors In One Year.

In one year once the state of Maine enjoyed the novelty of having four governors. The year was 1843. Governor Fairchild was elected to serve that year, but resigned. He was succeeded by Governor Kavenaugh, president of the senate, but he also resigned. Then Governor Dunn, speaker of the assembly, took the chair, and he was succeeded by Governor Dana, president of the senate. Governor Anderson was elected for the year 1844.

15 HURT IN STRIKE RIOTS AT FRISCO; 28,000 MEN OUT

More Than $150,000,000 Worth of War Contracts Brought to Standstill.

U. S. MARINES ARE ON GUARD

Employers Shut Down Plants and Await Action by Administration at Washington—Men Deny They Are Unpatriotic.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Secretary Wilson has telegraphed W. T. Boyce, assistant commissioner of immigration at San Francisco, to tender his offices as mediator or conciliator in settlement of the strike of ironworkers and shipbuilders there.

San Francisco, Sept. 19.—A company of United States marines was landed at the Union Iron works dock, where the men went on strike. It is reported another company has been ordered from Mare Island to the plant and that the government will take similar action to protect shipbuilding plants at other bay points.

San Francisco, Sept. 19.—Strike riots and disorders in which 15 persons received injuries necessitating hospital treatment and 30 rioters were arrested, continued throughout the day following the walkout of 28,000 iron workers and shipbuilders, which brought work to a standstill on more than $150,000,000 of naval and merchant vessel construction for the government. The strike is characterized as the most extensive in the history of the Pacific coast.

Employers Await U. S. Action.

Full details of the strike and the demands of the 25 unions involved for higher wages have been reported to Washington. The employers have placed the issue squarely up to the federal officials, closing down their plants and making no attempt to operate while they await government action.

100 Plants Are Affected.

The strikers, some of them skilled mechanics, started quitting work at nine o'clock in the morning when the 10,000 iron workers in the Oakland and San Francisco plants of the Union Iron works laid down their tools. The strike spread rapidly until every shipyard in the bay district was closed down and more than 100 factories, machine shops, automobile concerns and other plants were affected. It was announced that 450 employees of Hall & Scott would join the strike. The company is engaged on government contracts for airplane motors.

Fifteen Riots Occur.

Fifteen separate riots occurred during the day and as many smaller disturbances in which cars were stoned, nonunion motormen and conductors dragged from their platforms and beaten, passengers, including women, injured and cars disabled. Ten rioters were arrested in one place when a mob attacked a car. The police charged the striking iron workers with the responsibility for the disorder.

The rioting started when 6,000 of the Union Iron works employees walking from the plant to the labor temple broke up into groups and spread throughout the city.

Employers in the iron trades and shipbuilding industry charged that the strike of their men was largely prompted by sympathy for the striking street-car men.

Unions Issue Statement.

In a statement issued by the Iron Trades council from union headquarters this charge was emphatically denied and the men's side of the case were laid before the public. The statement claims that the "employers are getting all the war profits while all the men ask is a wage sufficient to maintain their families in decent comfort."

PROBE INTO "MISSING" SHIPS

Daily Mail Accounts for Increase by German "Sink Without Trace" Cipher From Argentina.

London, Sept. 19.—The Daily Mail is authority for a statement that Lloyd's is preparing an exhaustive inquiry into the loss of vessels posted as "missing," which are not included in the weekly admiralty report. The Daily Mail says that sometimes half a dozen or more missing vessels are posted a day. The Daily Mail says:

"The reason for the increase is not difficult to discover in view of the 'sink without trace' cipher message of the German minister to Argentine. . . . Many steamers, which have been posted this year as missing, represented over £250,000 each."

ALLIES TIGHTEN BLOCKADE

Cabinet Also Acts for Industrial Mobilization as War Aid—Says Not War Move.

Madrid, Sept. 19.—At a cabinet meeting held last night it was decided to create two new regiments of field artillery, seven battalions of garrison artillery and seven battalions of heavy artillery. It was decided also to appoint a special committee to draft a plan of industrial mobilization from a military point of view. Eduardo Dato, the premier, explained that these reforms were not undertaken in any militaristic spirit. They were, he said, only a part of the army reorganization scheme which was one of the principal features in the government's policy of reforms.

OFFICERS SCHOOL OPENED AT CUSTER

ARMY MAKES PROMISE GOOD TO GIVE PRIVATES CHANCE TO BECOME "NON-COMS."

FIRST CLASS IS TEMPORARY

No Permanent Appointment Will Be Made Until Late Arrivals Have Chance to Show Ability.

Camp Custer, Battle Creek—The army made good its promise to the new recruits when the 339th infantry opened a non-commissioned officers' school for the enlisted men.

Lieut.-Col. Major, in taking over the class, informed the men that their place was only temporary.

"You are seeing here," he said, "the fulfillment of the promise that capable, earnest men would be promoted This is the first trial. Whether you succeed depends on yourself. We have no time to waste. Men who have not mastered the work which has been taught them in the past two weeks will not be retained in this school."

The names of those selected will not be given out by captains of companies at present, owing to the fact that there will undoubtedly be a number of changes. No permanent appointments will be made until the latest arrivals in camp have had a chance to show their ability.

KAISER HAS NEW ENEMY

President Tinoco of Costa Rica Arrests and Interns Germans for Plots.

San Jose, Costa Rica, Sept. 19.—Diplomatic relations between Costa Rica and Germany are considered severed as the result of steps taken by the government. General Tinoco, the president, discovered that German residents here had joined with some of the followers of former President Gonsales in conspiring against the government. Three of the most important Germans here—Kumpel, Altschul and Orlich—have been arrested. All Germans residing in Costa Rica have been ordered interned. President Tinoco has called congress in special session and will lay the matter before it.

LETTER FROM CAPT. RUSSELL WIDDIFIELD

Rev. J. G. Widdifield kindly allows us for publication the following letter from his brother, Capt. Russell Widdifield, who was wounded in battle:

August 22nd, 1917

2nd Western General Hospital,
Whitworth St. Manchester, Eng.

Back in Blighty and smiling all the time. You will know by this time that I am wounded (Multiple sharpnel wounds), but none of them are at all serious, and it will not be long before I am able to sit up, read, smoke, eat etc, etc., and in fact have a real enjoyable time.

I am afraid that this letter is going to be very egotistic, but then I know that you do not mind and would like to hear all the news.

The only two wounds that bother me at all are outside left heel and left knee, the latter not affecting my joint. I believe that it will be necessary for them to remove the shrapnel from my heel, but that will be an easy job. I have other wounds but they are O. K. by this time, so much so that the bandages can be removed They are as follows,-one in calf, right leg, two in fleshy part right leg inside above knee, two left side head, one left shoulder. This sounds a lot but you would be surprised how little they amount to after all.

On the night of the 13th of August we left our billets and marched to a place called St. Pierre, a small village near our front line. We remained there all night and the next day when about 11 p. m. of the 14th., we went to our front line and took up our position to jump off from in the morning. About 3:30 a. m. on the 15th day of August we were all in position and lay down in "no man's land" waiting for 4:25 a. m. when the guns were to open and we were to make our attack. Each Division had behind them 72 machine guns and 192 cannons, all the way from 18 pounders to 15 inch, the latter throwing a shell weighing 1500 pounds.

It sure was a wonderful sight when the given time arrived and the guns barked just as one. We waited for about one minute and then started to move, walking after the barrage smoking and talking, just as if we were going down the Main street of Peterboro. I was able to keep my men fairly well together and soon had use of them as we ran into a bunch of Heines who began to snipe and throw bombs at us. However we made a dash at them and took the whole bunch prisioners with exception of a few whom the men bayoneted. From here we marched up to the German support trench and just before reaching there had another fight with a few Fritzs who were in a crater. We emptied our rifles and revolvers into them till they thought that they had had enough and then sent them back to the rear After that we had no trouble and took all our objectives without any further difficulty.

About 8 a. m. we were all in position and I had my men digging in consolidating their positions. All that morning things were very quiet and we wandered about without any danger. Many of the boys were busy bringing in prisoners while others were down in German dugouts hunting souvenirs.

You see Heine had been driven back so far that he was busy taking his new position and reorganizing However things were not to remain that way for long and about noon his guns opened up and he launched a very strong counter attack. He took one of the trenches we were in, but was soon driven back, leaving many dead behind him Things kept up this way all the afternoon of the 15th and all day the 16th and 17th and all the while his guns kept raking our newly gained trenches with deadly fire. Till I was hit about 4:15 a. m. of the 18th, we had stood off ten counter attacks, the last few being made with fresh troops which he had brought all the way from Berlin.

I was in a funk hole most of the time but the last two nights was up in the front line and had one of Fritz' old dugouts On the night of the 17th-18th Heine pulled off three counter attacks, one at 12, one at 2 and one at 4, the last one being the only attack which bothered my front.

This night we all felt that something was going to happen as his artillery was so fierce and played with such deadly accuracy on our trench Our casualties were becoming heavier all the time and in one spot you couldn't tell how many were piled up in one bunch

About 4 a. m. a sentry called down to me that Heine was coming so I immediately went up and lined my men along the parapet It was quite dark at this time and very difficult to see anything and I did my best to keep the men from wasting their ammunition. Just about this time Heine opened up with his trench mortars and three fish-tails (a kind of bomb) exploded right beside me, and by the time I had regained my feet the men had retired to the support trench so I followed suit. There I got the men together and sent them back to regain the ground (which they did) and I hobbled off to report to headquarters where I had my wounds bound up and then went to the dressing station.

I would have liked so have remained till night as we were going to be relieved but they wouldn't let me; however I had the satisfaction of knowing that in the attack we lost no ground and took several prisoners. I had some dandy souvenirs such as a revolver, boots, daggers, etc., but I had to leave them with most of my own stuff in the dugout.

I had a nice trip down the line, first in a band car, then ambulance, then train again and so on until I reached Calais and thence by train here. I left the front line about 9 a. m. of the 18th and arrived here at 12 o'clock midnight August 21st, having my wounds dressed all along the line.

To say that I am a lucky boy is putting it mildly as this was the hottest show ever put on by the Canadians, and out of every six men we took in five were either wounded or killed Fifteen officers "jumped off" and when I left only three were left. Mowat was the only one killed.

The Canadians as fighters are wonderful and, to show just how much we have it over Heine, every time he counter attacked we took some of them prisoners. They have no fight left in them except a few picked ones. It is their artillery which causes the damage.

Just how long I shall be in the hospital, I cannot say, but it want be long. However I will let you know what happens from time to time. It sure is great to be back to a real town again to see whole buildings and decent streets. However while in France, one is doing real work My nerves are real good, for which I am very thankful.

SEE BREAD SOLUTION

Bakers Offer "Community" Loaf to Solve High Price.

Patriotism Marked the Opening of Convention of National Association of Master Bakers.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—The "community" loaf of bread has been offered the nation as the solution of the problem presented by the existing high price of bread loaves. The "community" loaf is a huge loaf from which bakers may retail five, ten, 15 or twenty cent portions, as the customer may desire.

This solution of war bread problem has been offered Herbert C. Hoover of the government food administration it became known at the convention of the National Association of Master Bakers here. Hoover and the federal trade commission, it is declared, are now investigating the cost of baking these huge loaves, as well as the standard portions of bread to be retailed at the different prices. The plan was submitted to Hoover by the war emergency committee of the association.

Patriotism marked the opening of the convention, approximately 1,000 bakers from all parts of the country being in attendance. Cheers greeted the declaration by President S. F. McDonald of Memphis, Tenn., that the bakers of the country, although many are Germans or of German ancestry, are to a man behind President Wilson and the government.

"Bread and bullets are to win the war," said Judge L. C. Boyle, former attorney general of Kansas, in an address at the opening session, "and it is apparent that the bakers of the country are responding nobly to the nation's call."

WAR IS BRINGING NEW DAY TO U. S.

Secretary Lane Tells Business Men of Nation's Strides in World War.

PRAISES WORK OF CONGRESS

Declares "Duty" Has Now Become "Opportunity"—War Is Distinctively America's Fight Because She Blazed Way for Democracy.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 19.—"American business in its support of the war to make the world safe for democracy is proving that democracy is safe for the world," Secretary of War Baker declared in the keynote speech delivered before the great war conference of the chamber of commerce of the United States in session here. "We are marching millions strong, our soldiers, our business, our industry, all we have pledged to the great struggle to free the nations of Europe," he continued. His dramatic recital of the crimes of Germany aroused 2000 solid business men gathered from throughout the nation to a remarkable demonstration. They arose, cheering and singing, as Mr. Baker pledged all America's might to the cause of democracy.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 19.—Business men asking their duty to the nation in war were told by Secretary Lane, addressing the war convention of the chamber of commerce of the United States here, to change the word from "Duty" to "Opportunity" and seek answer from the khaki-clad American boys who are crossing the ocean. "We have come upon a new day and a new philosophy," he said. "We are to judge men henceforward not by what they have but by what they give."

The secretary declared that the United States having determined to fight Germany's efforts to master the world "with high explosives and low intrigue" was making full steam ahead.

"If anyone doubts that," he added, "let him look at the record of congress, which has come in for so much derision and reproach. I presume to say that no other parliamentary body in so short a time ever passed so great a volume of well considered and prophetic legislation as has our present congress in the last few months.

Recounts Congress' Achievements.

"We have supplied money for our friends, raised an army of a million and a quarter, inaugurated a new industry—that of making airplanes, revived a dead industry—that of building ships, placed powers over exports and prices, over industries and resources, in the hands of the president that will give him the weapon he needs, made laws to punish domestic enemies, and courageously placed the burden of taxation upon those who can best bear up under it—this is a record that no nation has excelled. It is a record that shows purpose, an unflinching purpose.

"We of America, it is conceded, know how to make money, and we will prove that we know how to make war, whole-hearted, resolute war. War that means organization, machinery, science, war that means men by the million and money by the billion, war that means heart-breaking, ruined hopes, a little glory, perhaps, a certain self respect, a world that men can grow in.

Making War in Earnest.

"We shall make war in earnest, for we know that if Germany wins the world will turn aside from the system of law and liberty which we know and exalt that military caste and system which is the historic enemy of personal liberty. We make war in France that we may not be compelled to do battle here. Let Germany have Canada, or Mexico, or even Cuba, and we would go to our daily work like the Pilgrim fathers with our guns in our hands.

"This is in truth most distinctively our war for we claim proudly that we gave the impulse to Europe which turned its face toward democracy; and for that reason, in fighting with France, England, Italy and Russia, we fight for those who follow in the way we lead, true children of the American conception of government, as a servant, not a master.

New Kind of Hostages.

"It is now nineteen hundred years since Caesar defeated the Germans in France. When they came asking terms he said to them: 'Go back whence you came, repair the damage you have done and give hostages to keep peace for the future.' It was the ancient and barbaric custom to take princes and high men as hostages, and this custom Germany followed when she entered Belgium. But the world does not ask such hostages today.

"It is the problem of world statesmanship to discover what kind of hostage Germany can give when she has been convinced that her dream of world overmastery cannot come true."

The Tecumseh Red Cross is in receipt of the following letter from an English soldier written Aug. 17th last, dated West Sandbury, Kent.

To the Red Cross,
Tecumseh, Mich., U. S. A.
Ladies:

Having received from my wife, Elizabeth Hicks Knox, cuttings out of the Semi-Weekly Herald, in regard to the Red Cross work being carried on in Tecumseh, it gives me great pleasure to see the different ladies giving their time to such a noble cause, and, believe me, all the bandages and comforts and socks and different things connected with same are needed badly for the troops of "Good Old Glory."

I, myself, have seen with my own eyes the several cases of badly wounded men, women and children caused by the raids made on this coast and the good work the hospitals are doing for them with the assistance of the different outside chapters, and I have heard the thanks the boys give to them in their conversations.

I left Canada the end of March last to fight for my country and the cause of freedom and trained in this country (England). I am in the 48th Highlanders, "Gordon," and while on my leave to my own home in Glasgow, Scotland, and in London, I met quite a few of Old Glory's boys and had a few minutes talk with some of them. I am leaving for the front in two weeks' time, and I am glad as most of the boys who came over with me, are there now.

This time last year I was in Tecumsh and little did I think I should be so far away in so short a time.

Well, we await the troops of the U. S. A., and a right good welcome awaits them from their cousins, the British, and I think by spring or summer next the war will be ended with a GLORIOUS VICTORY for Freedom's cause by the Allies.

Wishing all the ladies of the Red Cross success for their bit in helping the U. S. A. boys, I remain,

Faithfully Yours,
Richard W. Knox.

The fact that the fame of the Tecumseh Red Cross has traveled across the ocean ought to make everyone connected with the Red Cross feel an inch taller and it ought to spur us on to renewed efforts. Let us make Tecumseh the leader in this work among towns of its size.

After such a letter as that, it is with real regret that we hear that there are reports of people who are complaining that the Red Cross is continually asking for aid. It is not the people who are doing the work, who are giving their time and money who complain, it is those who have done the least

People who dare no longer criticize the President, think they can safely "knock" the Red Cross or the Allies, who are fighting side by side with our boys. The Red Cross is "as necessary as the army and navy," according to Pershing, Major General Leonard Wood and the others who are leading our troops President Wilson is its president, its accounts are audited by the war department If you knock the Red Cross, you knock the United States

Its officers are all volunteers who are neglecting their own work to work for America, first, last and all the time, and they will sometimes make mistakes as all men and women who do the work of the world will do; you who are not satisfied, if you can do the work better, come and do it, and the men and women who are doing it now will be glad to follow you; if you do not wish to work, then at least refrain from making the work of those who work harder: you do the Kaiser's work in knocking the Red Cross and hindering others from giving. You are either for America or against it. if you wish to work for the Kaiser, then go and join your master in Potsdam, starve and work for him, but do not be a copperhead and sting America in the heel. And this applies not to Germans alone, but to those of all nationalities. who lift one finger to hinder the march of America to victory.

Some of our most loyal citizens are Germans. One boy of German descent, when asked in Adrian if there were any reasons why he should be exempt, answered that he "did not know a damned reason why he should not go," and he went You are enjoying the safety, the plenty, the opportunities of America; we may have horror and hate for the Prussian who fights at the front, but we have only loathing and contempt for the being who stabs us in the back.

MERE MAN MIXED

You know a fellow doesn't know much about these baby cabs and things, does he? Well, when Miss Jane Briggs, the visiting nurse, told a Telegram reporter she wanted a baby crib for an exhibit at the fair, of course he went and put it in the paper she wanted a baby cab. You know a crib is a thing that babies lie down and sleep in, and a cab is something they lie down and sleep in, only you can trundle it around on wheels and take him down town, while if he's in a crib, you've got to stay home or else get one of the neighbors to tend him. It seems as though anyone who had a spare baby cab would also have a spare baby crib, that is to say, having a baby outfit and no baby, but anyway it's a crib that's wanted, not a cab.

If the Telegram reporter who wote the above could drop into town on Saturday night or on our Bargain Day entertainments he would know what a baby cab looks like for ours are all out then.

The Williamson Transportation Co. have contracted the job for hauling an immense amount of gravel on the new roads being made near Clayton. They have bought for the work three new 3½ ton Republic trucks having hydraulic dumps. George Page is driving one.

George Snedecor of Howell, a depuy food inspector, visited his relative Charles Snedecor over Wednesday night. He was on duty at the Adrian fair and had closed up one orangeade stand where he said the proprietor would shove in the oranges at the top of the machin,e supposedly to come out in the liquid at the bottom. Instead they fell at the back, ready to be shoved in the top again, and there was no orange in the beverage sold the dear public.

Future Melting Pot of the World.

Argentina bids fair to be the future melting pot of the world. Of her 0,000,000 people more than half are foreign born. During her history she has received over a million Italian immigrants, a half million Spaniards, a sixth of a million French and a quarter million in other nationalities. Buenos Aires is the most cosmopolitan city in the world, not even excepting New York.—Dan Ward in World Outlook.

1918 MAXWELL WONDERFUL RECORD

On its 10 day, no Stop Motor Test. Has been Running Continually. for the Past Nine Days

Car is Owned by Pliny Gratz of this Place

Pliny Gratz, agent for the popular Maxwell car in this territory, has started a ten day motor endurance test. As far as we know this is the first time a similar test has been made in this state and Mr. Gratz has the distinction of being the first man to attempt it.

The car used is a new 1918 stock car, model 25 and its motor was started a week ago last Wednesday, September 12th at 3o'clock in the afternoon and has been running continually since. The test will end Saturday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when, it will have completed its 10 days' run.

Up to 9 o'clock Wednesday night it had covered 3500 miles. The car starts from the city of Adrian and has two or three routes the principal one being to Detroit where it makes the Maxwell service station.

The publisher of the Herald was invited to make one of its trips and left Tecumseh at 5:30 Wednesday evening going to Clinton, Manchester Saline, Ann Arbor back to Saline, Britton, Ridgeway and Tecumseh arriving at Tecumseh about 10:15 and covering about 73 miles. The car returned to Adrian and left for Detroit about 11 o'clock.

The driving is being done by Clyde W. and Floyd W. Nichols who conduct the Maxwell service Station at Adrian and who are looking after the expert work on this trip.

The engine behaved wonderfully on Wednesday night's trip, everything working as smooth as the day the car first came out of the factory.

The radiator was so cool that ones cheek could be laid on it without any discomfort and the engine itself was perfectly cooled and would not burn the hand when touched, all showing how wonedrfully this system was working. Mr. Nichols stated that they had no trouble at all since the test started and expected that the engine would make good for the entire 10 days.

The car is lettered in white advertising the 10 day run also advertising the Moreland brands of oil.

When the run is completed the car will be taken to Detroit, where the Maxwell people will take down the motor and study the effects the run has had on it. A new motor will be put in the car and any worn part will be replaced and when the car is returned to Mr. Gratz it will be in perfect condition This car sells on the market for $745.00.

The run is being watched with a good deal of interest and is attracting the wide spread attention of the auto trade.

THRICE EXEMPT BUT HE ENLISTS

The following clipping from a Grand Rapids paper will be of interest to the many who remember Fred Patterson, the son of our old friend Dr. Patterson. We are grateful to Miss Eloise Waring of Grand Rapids for his wordof a patriotic Tecumseh boy.

Sturgis, Sept. 3.—As a patriotic American of courage and conviction Rev. Frederick A. Patterson, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, is a shining example and the type of patriot and clergyman who reflects credit upon both church and state.

Mr. Patterson waived three exemption claims in order to enter active military service. He was beyond the draft age, was married, and as a clergyman was not expected to bear arms but in spite of this he has joined the second officers training camp at Ft. Sheridan and is now in training. He is the only rector of the Episcopal diocese of western Michigan in active service of the United States army and is a Spanish-American war veteran.

Mr. Patterson is a brother of Mrs. Frederick W. Powers president of the Ladies' Literary club of Grand Rapids and a son of Mrs. J. W. Patterson of Kalamazoo.

TECUMSEH CONTRIBUTES TO TOBACCO FUND

In the write-up about the Tobacco fund being raised in Detroit, in the Free Press the other day comes this item. We have a strong opinion, who the soldier boy's friend is.

From Tecumseh Mich., a contributor, who desires that his name be not used, sends a $5 contribution, with the following letter:

"I have been taking The Free Press for 30 years and have always noticed that when you start something you always win out and make good. I, have one boy. He has answered the call to the colors with the Thirty-first regiment of Detroit. I will see to his comfort while he stays on this side of the ocean, and shall try to do more later on, through The Free Press Tobacco fund, for those of our boys who have gone over seas.

"My uncle fought in the Crimean war, and I recall his telling me how, when a Russian officer's sword had peeled his arm from shoulder to elbow, and he was on the operating table, he asked Miss Nightingale to get him some strong tobacco that he might keep his nerve."

We have sold over a hundred of these ranges, and all are giving satisfaction. In our canvassing we have several times found families owning one of these ranges fourteen or fifteen years old and still in excellent condition. The Malleable company gives good service, furnishing repairs no matter how old the range.

These are some of the good points of the range—

1—Flues made of copper, bearings patented Aluminum, fused metal, and larger than other ranges, giving more heat and better draft.

2—Ovens so rivited together as to have an air-tight joint.

3—Large reservoir, holding fifteen gallons, can be heated at same time as oven.

4—Door of warming oven drops instead of rolling back. A rolling top is not sanitary because there is no way to clean it.

5—Unusually heavy back or smoke-flue plate.

6—Body of range has tripple wall, asbestos lined.

7—Hand rivited throughout.

The range can be had with leg base like cut above or cabin base, setting squarely.

RECEPTION FOR MR. WIDDIFIELD

The reception given Rev. and Mrs. Widdifield at the parish house was well attended by the church people and other friends. In the receiving line were the guests of honor and the vestry men and their wives and many were the expression of sorrow given at this loss of the pastor and yet of pride at his valor and manhood in enlisting in the Army Y. work. The ladies of the Guild served the guests with ice cream and cake and then Lester Rogers took charge of the affair and called on several for remarks.

Chas. Patterson in behalf of the vestry bade Mr. Widdifield God-speed and hoped for his quick return among us. Dr. Balmer of the M. E. church os. Dr. Balmer of the M. E. church and Dr. Hartzog of the Baptist both expressed regret in losing their coworker and how he had won friends both outside as well as in his own church since coming here. Several others made short addresses and and several patriotic songs the company dispersed, hoping it would not be long before the pastor and his estimable wife would be among us again.

FIVE MORE OF OUR BOYS GO

Five of our boys, John McCaughen, Chas. Willnow, Louis Schneider, David Watkins and Will Jewell, were with the contingent who started from Adrian for Camp Custer Wednesday morning. A big crowd headed by Dr. Hartzog with a large flag greeted the train at the four corners and as it made the stop their young friends rushed to the windows where our boys were. As the train pulled out Rev. Rex jumped on a dry goods box and led in three rousing cheers so the last they saw of the old town was the waving of caps and Old Glory.

In just the two minutes stop here there could not be much of a demonration, but our hearts were sore to see them go yet how proud we are to be able to furnish such splendid boys for the great cause.

When we stock up with nothing but high-grade groceries, we do so because we think the majority of people prefer that kind.

This is why they SHOULD prefer that kind—

Because the good of good eatables is far reaching. Good eating is health, and health is EVERYTHING.

TECUMSEH EVIDENCE FOR TECUMSEH PEOPLE

The Statement of Tecumseh Residents are Surely More Reliable Than Those of Utter Strangers

Home testimony is real proof.

Public Satements of Tecumseh people carry real weight.

What a friend or neighbor says compels respect.

The word of one whose home is far away invites your doubts.

Here's a Tecumseh man's statement.

And it's for Tecumseh people's benefit.

Such evidence is convincing.

That's the kind of proof that backs Doan's Kidney Pills.

Thomas Langton, retired farmer, W. Chicago St., says: "I had kidney complaint and suffered with it a great deal. My kidneys acted irregularly and the kidney secretions unnatural. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, getting them at Wright & Son's Drug Store, and they strengthened my back, regulated my kidneys and benefited me in every way."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Langton had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgrs., Buffalo, N. Y. adv

In Peace and War

In time of peace a nation develops as its railroads expand.

The very life of commerce and trade — agriculture, mines, factories — is dependent upon transportation facilities.

In time of war the railroads must not only take care of this normal traffic but must in addition be ready for every emergency in the transporting of troops, guns and supplies.

The New York Central Lines

with their 12,000 miles of railway and nearly 200,000 employees thus have an important place in the life of our nation in the time of peace—doubly so in time of war.

It is the aim and purpose of the New York Central Lines to serve the government and the people faithfully and well.

About the Puritans.

In the American Magazine William Roscoe Thayer says:

"It is the fashion of late to speak condescendingly of the Puritans as of a people of narrow views and of men of sour temperament, but no descendant of theirs and no later immigrant who now dwells in the commonwealth they founded and enjoys the blessings which it bestows upon us will fail to glory in being able to trace back to such forerunners. The story of the conditions which faced the passengers of the Mayflower when they landed at Plymouth can never be too often repeated. To have as founders of our state men and women who 'had the fear of God in their hearts, but feared the face of no man,' ranks as the initial glory of Massachusetts."

UNITED STATES EXPOSES HUGE GERMAN PLOTS

Von Bernstorff Revealed as Head of Intrigues in This Country.

SPY NET COVERED NATION

Kaiser's Representatives Paid for Blowing Up Merchant Ships Leaving New York—Irish Revolt Aided—Other Secret Activities Told.

The following exposure of Germany's espionage and desperate activity in America is possibly the most startling made since the first declaration of war in August, 1914. It is based on official documents held by the United States government which have not hitherto been made available to the press.

[By the Committee on Public Information.]

Washington, Sept. 24.—Within a few days a German newspaper published in this country employed as the headline to an article dealing with a rumor of German-American disaffection in this country the derisive legend, "Lieb' Washington, magst ruhig sein."

This is, of course, a parody on the refrain of "Die Wacht am Rhein," the German national hymn:

"Lieb' Vaterland, magst ruhig sein."

"Loved fatherland, be restful (or undisturbed)."

In the parody it carries a sneer comprehensible only to one who understands the German mode of speech and thought.

Type of German Propaganda.

Of itself the instance is slight. But it typifies a certain important phase of the German propaganda which subtly but persistently seeks to present Germany's course in America in the most favorable light, even to the extent of defending the improper activities of the Teutonic diplomatic representatives before their passports were given them.

Because of this continuing propaganda certain documents in the possession of the department of justice now assume peculiar importance, in that they prove undeniably the intimate relations between the accredited representatives of the kaiser in the United States and plotters against the laws and the security of this country, whose enterprise did not fall short of projected wholesale destruction of life and property.

Curious Chapter in History of War.

Such of these documents as were essential to legal procedings brought against the Germans have been published. Others are here made public for the first time. They form a curious, if disjointed, chapter in the diplomatic history of the war.

In the fall of 1914, when the German plots against Canada were fomenting in this country, there was established at 60 Wall street an "advertising" office presided over by a big, suave man of Teutonic aspect named Wolf von Igel.

There were two peculiar features about this office. One was that it was frequented during two years of singularly quiet and unbusinesslike existence chiefly by Germans who had nothing whatsoever to do with advertising. The other was a large safe, bearing the insignia of the German imperial government.

Von Igel Defies U. S. Agents.

To this office there came one morning in April, 1916, while Von Igel was preparing a mass of papers which he had taken from the safe for transfer to the German embassy in Washington, four United States secret service agents from the department of justice, who made their way past the guardians always on duty, put Von Igel under arrest and undertook to seize the papers.

The German was large, powerful and brave. With the aid of one associate he stubbornly fought the officers, striving to rescue the papers, to close the safe, to get to the telephone and communicate with his superiors. Revolvers were drawn by the secret service men. They produced no effect upon the intrepid Von Igel.

"This is German territory," he shouted, "Shoot me and you will bring on war."

There was no shooting. But after a protracted struggle the defenders were overpowered and the papers seized.

Find Proof Plot Was Laid.

When the papers were examined by the department of justice the reason for Von Igel's determined fight became apparent. Here in the form of letters, telegrams, notations, checks, receipts, ledgers, cashbooks, cipher codes, lists of spies, and other memoranda and records, were found indications—in some instances of vaguest nature, in others of the most damning conclusiveness—that the German imperial government, through its representatives in a then friendly nation, was concerned with—

Violation of laws of the United States.

Destruction of lives and property in merchant vessels on the high seas.

Irish revolutionary plots against Great Britain.

Fomenting ill-feeling against the United States in Mexico.

Subornation of American writers and lecturers.

Financing of propaganda.

Maintenance of a spy system under the guise of a commercial investigation bureau.

Subsidizing of a bureau for the purpose of stirring up labor troubles in munition plants.

The bomb industry and other related activities.

Some of the Plots Against U. S.

Briefly, Germany's spy plots against the United States, as made public by committee on public information, are as follows:

In the fall of 1914, shortly after the outbreak of the war, the German embassy established a publicity department at 60 Wall street, under the direction of Wolf von Igel. [illegible] was raided and documentary proof obtained that Wolf von Igel was the chief spy and plotter of a vast system maintained in the United States under Ambassador von Bernstorff's general direction.

Paul Koenig, pretending to conduct the secret service of the Hamburg-American Steamship company from a New York office, was discovered to be in reality one of the directors of the German spy system in the United States. He is now interned at Fort Oglethorpe. In Von Bernstorff's code he was known as "XXX."

In a report by Koenig to his boss, Captain von Papen of the German embassy, Koenig describes an agent who has made bombs to resemble lumps of coal to be placed on board merchantmen sailing from New York for the purpose of blowing them up while at sea.

James F. J. Archibald, magazine writer and war correspondent, acknowledged receipt of $5,000 from the German embassy for propaganda work. Edwin Emerson, another correspondent, got $1,000.

John Devoy of New York city, professional Irish patriot, and now editor of the Gaelic-American, was the active agent of Germany in this country in promoting the recent revolution in Ireland. He was the go-between for Bernstorff and Sir Roger Casement, executed for treason by the British government. Devoy handled a check for $1,000 from the German embassy for Casement.

Daniel F. Cohalan, justice of the New York supreme court, asked the German embassy to telegraph to Berlin advice on the Irish revolution, as "the services of this revolution may decide the war."

The Chicago branch of the German and Austro-Hungarian Labor Information and Relief bureau was active in promoting labor disorder. Dr. Max Niven of Chicago received $60 for the "labor fund."

Completeness of the German spy system was due to loyalty to the kaiser of Americans of German extraction who were willing to betray the country of their adoption.

Canada was also the object of German conspirators operating in the United States under the direction of the German embassy. There were unsuccessful plots to destroy the Welland canal and to accomplish the separation of Canada from the British empire.

G. S. Viereck, editor of the Fatherland, now changed in title (but not in purpose) to Vierick's Weekly, offered help in supplying picric acid, a constituent of many high explosives.

William J. Ruff of Quincy, Ill., wanted to help "save lives" by providing the Germans with a device to blow up trenches and destroy ships.

Ray Beveridge, California artist, received $3,000 from the German embassy for a pro-German lecture tour, masquerading in part as a Red Cross feature.

Bernstorff's staff was busy also with promoting the transportation of munitions through Holland, supposedly a neutral.

Wolf von Igel's spy system produced a secret code message April 11, 1916, to this effect: "Herewith respectfully send an extract regarding troops stationed in California and the armament of the coast fort fortifications."

GOV. FERGUSON IS OUSTED

Texas Senate High Court Sustains 10 of 21 Impeachment Charges Brought by House.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 24.—The senate high court of impeachment, which has been trying Gov. James E. Ferguson for the last three weeks, sustained ten of the twenty-one charges in the bill returned against him by the house committee of the whole.

The vote on the first article—that he used $5,600 of state funds to settle a personal obligation—was sufficient to convict. A two-thirds vote was necessary. The ballot was: Ayes, 27; noes, 4.

Next Tuesday at noon the senate as a high court will formally pronounce its judgment. Conviction carries with it, it is understood, disbarment from future offices, but this condition possibly may be ameliorated. Acting Gov. William P. Hobby, an editor of Beaumont, assumes the full power of office. His tenure will extend to January, 1919.

REPORT SHOWS GERMANY ABUSED U. S. FRIENDSHIP

Deadly Germs and Bombs Placed in American Consulate at Bucharest.

PLOTTED TO KILL ANIMALS

Another of Series of Lansing's Disclosures of Teuton Intrigue Against This Government—Plot Admitted.

Washington, Sept. 24.—How Germany "shamefully abused and exploited" the protection of the United States by secreting in the German legation at Bucharest, after the American government had taken charge of Germany's affairs at the Roumanian capital, quantities of powerful explosives for bomb plots and deadly microbes, with instructions for their use in destroying horses and cattle, was revealed by Secretary Lansing.

It was another of the series of Mr. Lansing's disclosures of German intrigue, made public without comment in the same manner as the Von Luxburg telegrams, which have brought Argentina on the verge of war with Germany, the Von Eckhardt letter from Mexico City and the Von Bernstorff telegram asking the German foreign office for authorization to spend $50,000 to influence congress.

Bomb Story From Legation.

The latest story is told in a report to the state department from William Whiting Andrews, secretary of the legation at Bucharest, and a letter from Foreign Minister Porombaru of Roumania.

Parcels and boxes taken into the German consulate at Bucharest with display of great precaution aroused the suspicions of the Roumanian government. On August 27, 1916, the evening prior to the date of Roumania's declaration of war, some of these cases were taken to the German legation, located in a different building from the consulate.

Convinced that the boxes were not taken away from the legation by the German diplomatic mission on its departure from Bucharest, the Roumanian authorities later ordered the police to find and examine their contents. The police communicated with American Minister Vopicka, then in charge of German interests, who reluctantly assigned Secretary Andrews to observe the search. The boxes were found buried in the garden of the German legation.

Plot Is Admitted.

Mr. Andrews' report says:

"Upon my return from the examination, which resulted in the discovery of the explosives and of the box of microbes, both of which the legation servants admitted having placed in the garden, the former confidential agent of the German minister, Doctor Bernhardt, who had been left with the legation at the German minister's request, to assist in the care of German interests, admitted his knowledge of the explosives placed in the garden; told me that more were in the garden than had been found; that a still larger quantity had been buried in the house of the legation, and that still worse things than this box of microbes were contained in the legation, and insinuated that they would have been found even in the cabinets of dossiers which I had sealed.

"Doctor Bernhardt also stated that all these objects had been brought to the German legation after our legation had accepted the protection of German interests, which agreed with the statement of the servants. A similar confession was made to the minister by this man.

U. S. Protection Abused.

"The protection of the United States was in this manner shamefully abused and exploited. In this instance at least, the German government cannot have recourse to its usual system of denial."

Fifty-one boxes were taken from the ground in the garden. Fifty of them contained each a cartridge filled with trinitrotoluene saturated with mononitrotoluene, among the most powerful explosives known, one-fifth of each of one being sufficient to tear up a railroad track. In the other box were bottles of liquid found to be cultivations of the microbes of anthrax and glanders. It bore a seal showing it came from the German consulate at Kronstadt, Hungary. Inside was found a typewritten note in German, saying:

"Inclosed four phials for horses and four for cattle. To be employed as formerly arranged. Each phial is sufficient for 200 head. To be introduced, if possible, directly into the animals' throats; if not, [illegible] their fodder. Please make a litle report on the success obtained there; in case of good results the presence of Mr. Kostoff for one day here would be desirable."

Foreign Minister Porumbaru accompanied this letter with documents to prove the origin of the boxes and their contents.

ARGENTINA HALTS VOTE ON WAR

Kaiser Disavows Luxburg Just as Lawmakers Were Ready to Act.

SATISFIED WITH NEW NOTE?

Teuton Intrigue Suspected to Be Back of General Strike of Railroad Workers—Martial Law May Be Declared.

Buenos Aires, Sept. 24.—Just as the Argentina chamber of deputies was preparing to vote on breaking diplomatic relations with Germany, an official communication was received from the Berlin foreign office.

The German note which is said to give satisfaction to Argentina, disapproves of the ideas expressed by Count von Luxburg, the German minister here, regarding Germany's "cruiser warfare." The word "cruiser" leaves some doubt whether Germany intends to modify her submarine campaign.

Vote on Break Delayed.

A declaration of war on Germany has been postponed, although the majority in the house is bent upon a rupture of relations and proposes to vote for it late today.

A general strike of 200,000 railroad workers went into effect yesterday.

The managers of the road declare to grant the increase demanded would involve a 75 per cent raise in rates.

Union officials say they will refuse to go back to work until their demands are met.

German Intrigue Back of Strike.

It is reported German intrigue is behind the strike. The rumor is given credence owing to the abundance of money among the strikers.

It is probable martial law will be declared.

BRITISH DRIVE IS CHECKED

London Says German Artillery Is Active in Ypres Sector of Belgian Front—Airmen Cause Damage.

Berlin, Sept. 24.—Strong British local attacks southeast of St. Julien in the Ypres region were repulsed by the Germans, according to the official report from general headquarters.

In a hand-to-hand engagement a British company that penetrated a German trench near Monchy, southeast of Arras, was driven out.

A British monitor bombarded Ostend, Belgium, Saturday, the statement adds, and shells struck the cathedral, in which mass was being held. Seven Belgians were killed and 24 wounded.

London, Sept. 24.—Considerable activity was shown by German artillery in the Ypres sector of the Belgian front, where the British have been conducting an offensive, the war office announced.

On the Somme front Scottish troops raided the Teuton trenches near Gouzeacourt, destroying dugouts and killing many of the occupants.

British naval air squadrons continue to make bombing raids on military establishments in Belgium. On Friday night the Thourout and Cortemarck railroad stations were fired and on Saturday the docks at Ostend were bombed.

WANTS ALL TRAITORS SHOT

Blank Wall and Firing Squad for Disloyal Urged by Senator King of Utah.

Washington, Sept. 24.—"Shoot the traitors in this country!" is the advice of Senator King of Utah.

The western senator, whose revelations of the machinations of the Austro-Hungarian embassy so stirred congress, said:

"The only thing to do is to go ahead and expose this crowd of pacifists, cowards, spineless degenerates and treacherous individuals that have thronged the country.

"They should be execrated and thrown into public contempt.

"And if it is found that they have been absolute traitors they should be put against the wall and a firing squad brought into action without delay."

While greatly deploring the tendency of some men in congress to delay legislation that would aid the war, Senator King does not believe that any members of the body have been actually influenced by German money. He said he could not credit this.

SEVEN SHIPS REPORTED SUNK

Five Merchant Vessels and Two British Destroyed—Lost in Fight With U-Boats.

An Atlantic Port, Sept. 24.—Word that five British steamships and two destroyers were sunk by German submarines a few hours out of Lough Swilly, Ireland, September 3, was brought by passengers who have just arrived from England on an American vessel. The reports are regarded as circumstantial. The five steamers, it was said, convoyed by a fleet of six destroyers, put to sea shortly after midnight, and were attacked by massed submarines at daylight the following morning. The news of the disaster was learned when the destroyers which escaped put back to port bringing survivors of the tropedoed merchantmen and war vessels.

He said that it was demonstrated at Washington that milk was one of the most economical foods and will produce fat at a cost lower than any other food substance. Government statistics show that 30 per cent of all dairy animals were slaughtered last year for beef.

The coal situation in Tecumseh is somewhat gloomy with little hope for improvement for some time to come. Our dealers tell us that it is impossible to get any definite dates for delivery on coal. The coal people state that deliveries will be sent forward as soon as possible but it is impossible to get it.

Soft coal is much harder to get than hard coal. Our local dealers find themselves nearly up to the time when fires must be started with a supply far too short to meet the demands that will be made upon them.

In talking with one of the dealers this morning, he was of the opinion that the demand would be met between now and cold weather, that a great deal of the coal which should be delivered in Michigan was being shipped to the Northwest via. the lakes in order to get it through before navigation closes and that later rail shipments would be made.

Another dealer stated that he was filling no orders in full, but was sending out small deliveries to piece it out. This dealer stated he would pay any price demanded so long as he could get the coal.

The situation is about the same in all of the yards. The coal is not here and they can't tell when it will be in.

With cool weather approaching the situation is taking on a serious attitude. Many people have the idea that the local dealers are robbers and that they are trying to hold up the price and force people to buy at their own prices. The local dealers are selling coal today on a small margin of profit and are taking a lot of cussing from the dear people. People had better stop their cussing and buy what coal they can for they may find themselves up to cold weather without anything to keep themselves warm.

The question today is not what we are going to pay for fuel but how are we going to get it. Unless the condition clears wood will be in great demand for fuel this winter. National and state investigations have been going on to get at prices and reasons for the shortage, but as yet no marked relief has been felt. Unless something happens in the near future this country will be up against a coal famine this winter.

A Bit of Human Nature.

The other day a husky and rather rough looking driver was having trouble with his horse and, suddenly losing his temper, started to beat him. A number of men rushed toward him with the intention of stopping him when his arms were suddenly arrested in midair. The would be rescuers paused, too, and looked. Standing close by the man was a little girl, of not more than four years—just looking—looking. Not a word was spoken, no pen could describe the look on the little one's face, but the heavy driver stopped his beating and spoke kindly to his horse. Strangely, too, the horse moved, and there was no trace of the incident except a flush underneath the driver's tan, a few damp eyes among the spectators and a happy smile on the little girl's face.—Philadelphia Press.

Raw Eggs Keep Longer Than Boiled.

Raw eggs keep good much longer than cooked eggs, even when these are hard boiled. This was proved by Dr. Leon Lindet, a member of the Paris Conseil d'Hygiene, after many French soldiers had reported that the hard boiled eggs they received from home had gone bad, while the raw eggs remained edible for weeks.

Dr. Lindet explains this fact by saying that the boiling makes the inner membrane pervious to gases, liquids and microbes, and the white of the egg becomes an agglomeration of coagulated albumen and particles of a serum that is an ideal medium in which microbes thrive.

Wild Carrot Seed.

Seeds of the wild carrot are small but very numerous and are covered with weak bristles which catch on wool, hair and clothing and distribute the weed for considerable distances. They frequently are harvested with grass, clover and alfalfa seed and are widely distributed by this means. As found in clover seed, the wild carrot seeds are usually without barbs, as these are rubbed off in the clover huller.

Timid Sheep.

Sheep when they become frightened, always run to an elevation, because their ancestors originally came from the mountains. They always follow a leader, because in the dangerous mountain passes their ancestors had to go in single file.

UNDERSEA TACTICS

The Scene In a Submarine When an Attack Is Planned.

WATCHING FOR THE SIGNAL.

A Dramatic Moment After the Enemy Is Located Until the Range Is Found and the Red Lights Flash the Order to Fire the Deadly Torpedoes.

A submarine is a maze of machinery. Unlike any other ship, she has two sets of driving engines—one oil and the other electric, and she is built with the nicest regard for weight.

First let us say something about the engines. They are the most important part of the boat.

At first gasoline engines, like those used on automobiles and motorboats, were installed in submarines. The Germans had them in some of the submarines that they used in the beginning of the war. We, too, used them. But as the gasoline engine was made bigger to meet the demand for increased power and speed it literally broke down. The Diesel engine had to be used. It was invented by Rudolf Diesel, a German engineer, while he was a student.

In the Diesel engine air is sucked into the cylinder and subjected to such pressure by the piston that it becomes intensely hot. Then a little oil is squirted in. At once the oil vapor ignites and the mixture of oil vapor and highly compressed air expands with explosive suddenness. The Diesel is the most efficient type of engine ever invented, utilizing as it does about 30 per cent of the energy in the fuel as contrasted with only 13 per cent in the best steam engines. But it also uses air. In other words, it breathes. When a submarine is under water the crew must keep alive by breathing what air they can obtain from tanks. They have enough for not more than thirty-six hours.

So it becomes necessary to equip a submarine with electric motors fed by storage batteries. As soon as a submarine dives the breathing Diesel engine is cut out and the electric motor switched in.

Like the policeman's in Gilbert's song, the life of a submarine sailorman is not a happy one. The quarters are necessarily so cramped that it is difficult to provide ordinary ship comforts. The officers have cots and the crew hammocks for sleeping. In our new boats iceboxes are provided, so that fresh meat and vegetables can be served. In addition, there is a dry food supply sufficient for five days. At sea the crew is put on a daily fresh water allowance. To bathe the men must jump over the side.

Even when the boat is running on the surface the ventilation is poor. The proprietor of a New York sweatshop who did not provide his workmen with any more air than the men in a submarine breathe would be arrested. When the boat is submerged the nauseating oil odor, the battery fumes and the vitiated air exhaled from a score of lungs make one wonder why every one is not sick. As a matter of fact, seasickness produced by these conditions is common enough.

What is the scene within a submarine when an attack is made? A German officer of the U-28 gave this account of an attack on an unnamed British warship:

"The boat is cleared for action. The flagpole is taken down. Part of the bridge is folded up and lashed. The periscope is elevated. The hatch through the combined bridge and conning tower is tightly closed. The motors cease their endless song. From now on electricity will drive us until we rise to the surface again.

"A young lieutenant is posted at the periscope and looks for the enemy. The sailors take their position near the torpedoes. The interior of the boat is lighted with two small electric bulbs. They do not clear the gloom. Everywhere is the smell of stale oil. It is impossible to speak with the din of the machinery and of the inrushing water.

"From time to time the officer in command of the torpedoes looks at his watch, which he wears on his wrist, or at the compass. Intently the men all watch a signal board in front of them on the side of the boat. Suddenly we start to forget the heat, the foul air, the discomfort. In small luminous letters the word 'Attention' flashes up on the board. The commanding officer grasps the lever which will release the first torpedo. The men prepare to launch the second as soon as the first is discharged. Half a second later and the red letters on the board say 'Fire!' The lever is jerked, and the torpedo leaps out. There is a short metallic click and the noise of the water rushing into the empty tube. The second torpedo is at once inserted. A few seconds later and the interior of the submarine looks as before the attack began.

"But what of the first torpedo? We hear only the noise of the motors. We wait. Nothing happens. Then suddenly we are all thrown in a heap by the shaking of the boat. Then the boat rolls as before. The regular purring of the motors is heard. We are on our way home. The attack succeeded."—Popular Science Monthly.

His Worst Fears.

Crawling For Penance.

A Buddhist priest who has been eight years on the way to Lassa expects to arrive there eight years hence. He started from the northeast of Peking, and when met by an English missionary he had completed over 2,000 miles, about half his journey. He does not walk, he crawls, or, rather, he combines both methods. On his hands he wears boards; on his knees he wears pads. He lies full length upon the ground; then, getting up, walks to where his fingers had reached, then prostrates himself and measures afresh. He is under a self imposed vow and believes that if he crawls in this manner to the Tibetan holy city his sins will be forgiven and honors bestowed upon him by Buddha.—Exchange.

Hot Air as a Polisher.

Hot air is used for polishing. The articles to be treated are placed in a basket in a centrifugal machine driven at a very high speed and heated air is blown from a pipe through the basket. A high polish is thus produced very rapidly. Nickel plated articles that have become tarnished are made bright in a few minutes. Wet metal, fresh from the bath, needs no preliminary drying, for the current of air dries and polishes it at the same moment.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Frank Poley Seriously Injured at Coal Dock, Sunday Afternoon

Frank Poley, employed at the D., T. & I. coal docks southwest of town, had a narrow escape from death Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

A switch engine had just shoved a couple of coal cars on a siding near the docks and had ran over on the main track when the coal cars, whose brakes were not set tight enough to hold them, came running back on the siding and struck the engine on the switch

Poley had just climbed to the cab of the engine and was sitting in the fireman's seat when the blow came. He was thrown from the cab and dropped to the ground between the engine and coal car.

It is a mystery how he could have fallen as he did and not have been run over by the wheels, but as it was, he was painfully injured, having sustained eight or ten bruises on his person. Three or four of them are serious and will lay him up for a month or six weeks.

After his fall he had presence of mind enough to crawl out from under the cars and when found was sitting by the side of the track. He was picked up, placed on a railroad truck and wheeled to his home, corner of Maiden Lane and Cummins streets. Dr. Hardy was called and cared for the unfortunate man.

The switch engine was badly demolished. The side of the cab was torn off also the air pump and tank and some piping.

EMERGENCY RATIONS.

Food the Soldier Eats When His Regular Supply Fails.

Of the emergency rations of the fighters of the world the most ostentatious is Uncle Sam's ration of compressed maize meal with meat, farina and three chocolate bars. This ration is deficient in fats for the very good reason that, even though hermetically sealed, it would become rancid if it carried any more fat. It is not therefore a balanced ration, but the container holds enough actual food to keep a soldier from starving for twenty-four hours.

The British troops as well as the Dutch have a sausage made of ground peas highly salted, reported to have been originated by the Scotch and which is put up in regular sausage skins. It is said to be the most sustaining emergency ration known.

The Italian butter ball is interesting because of the perfect preservation of the unsalted butter within the dry cheese envelope. The compressed tablets of tea make it possible for one to eat his tea if water is not available, the Russians getting what they call a dry cup of tea by slipping a tablet of compressed tea into the mouth and allowing it to dissolve slowly. All sorts of meat and fish are dried in sheets and strips and hunks by the various armies.

These are not the foods, however, upon which armies live, but the emergency rations upon which the soldier depends when the regular rations fail.—Christian Herald.

TESTING THE DENTIST.

Ismail Pasha Didn't Want to Take Any Painful Chances.

To illustrate oriental habits of thought Lord Cromer tells in the Quarterly Review this story of Ismail Pasha, khedive of Egypt. It once happened that Ismail was suffering from toothache. He sent for a European dentist, who told him that he ought to have the tooth out. Ismail said that he was afraid it would be very painful. He was informed in reply that if he would allow the dentist to administer laughing gas to him he would feel nothing. He still doubted, but told the dentist to bring his apparatus to the palace.

The dentist complied and explained the process to the khedive. Ismail then summoned an attendant and told him to send up the sentry who was at his door.

When the man arrived the khedive ordered him to sit down in a chair and requested the dentist to take out a tooth on either side of his jaw. Ismail then asked the man whether he had felt anything, and the man told him that he had not. But Ismail was not yet satisfied. He said that the sentry was a young, strong man and that he would like to see the experiment tried on some one of weaker physique.

Accordingly he summoned a slave girl and had the dentist extract two of her teeth. Finding that she did not show evidence of extreme suffering, he then consented to have his own tooth out.

TEST YOUR LUNGS.

A Simple Method by Which One May Measure His Development.

People often suffer from weak, undeveloped lungs without suspecting it. True, small, feeble lungs are usually associated with a small, narrow, or sunken chest, but not invariably. By means of the misuse of physical culture it is possible to develop large chest muscles, thus acquiring a big chest measurement, while the lungs remain small and ill nourished.

Again, lung mischief is often so slow and insidious in its approach that the trouble is not discovered until it is firmly established. Here, however, is a simple test which will tell you whether your lungs are healthy or not:

Take as deep a breath as you can, and then, in a slow but distinct voice count from one onward as far as you can without taking in more breath. The number of seconds you can continue counting is a pretty reliable index to the state of your lungs, so you should have some one to time you.

If your lungs are sound and normally developed your range will be between twenty and thirty-five seconds. If your limit is between ten and twenty seconds there is no need to be alarmed; probably your lungs are merely in need of exercise, to be readily obtained by regular deep breathing in pure air. A range less than ten seconds, however, points to more or less mischief, and you should not delay in having your lungs examined by a medical man.

Half Truths.

Half truths are often more calumnious than whole falsehoods. Not a word may be uttered, but a half suppressed innuendo, a dropped lip, an arched eyebrow, a shrugged shoulder, a significant look, an incredulous expression of countenance—nay, even an emphatic silence—may do the injurious work.

RED CROSS NEWS

Miss Asenath Hosmer reports having sent in 2 mufflers, 4 pairs of bedsocks, 3 pairs of wristlets and several sweaters. She requests those who have knitting out, to please bring it in by Saturday night so that it can be taken with the rest to Adrian. We want to send as much as we can; our quota is 50 of each kind of knitted gaments and we are way behind as yet.

Mrs. John Nyland's quota for the last issue should have read seven doz. washcloths and three doz. washcloths instead of one doz. washcloths.

Received by Mr. Guy Nemire, sale of knitting needles, $4.35.

Miss Mary Barrett is a new member.

Mrs. Sena Crane is earnestly appealing for new members for her committee to make pajamas. She is willing to give instruction any afternoon in the week, if notified in the morning, so that she will be at home. The need is tremenduous, there is a call for half a million and we could have no more competent teacher than Mrs. Crane.

Mrs Dunn has given up the pillow work temporarily, in order to knit for Miss Hosmer, owing to the urgent appeal for knitted goods, which must be sent now if the soldiers are to have them before the cold weather sets in.

Mrs. Herbert Temple of St. Paul, Minn., who is visiting here, has donated an official knitted helmet for showcase at the headquarters where it can be inspected and directions for knitting it obtained. It looks like a mediaeval knight's chain mail helmet and is a most serviceable warm garment, besides having the decided advantage of being easy to make.

The surgical dressing class will meet Wednesday and Friday afternoons of this week.

One of the most faithful workers at the headquarters is Mrs. O. B. Finch who has missed very few afternoons since the Red Cross work started.

And this brings us to one of our most crying needs—workers for the headquarters. Miss Louise Phelps is almost desperate for lack of helpers. She says that there is no use in keeping the headquarters open and a fire going if no one comes to work. Remember that in working for our own boys we are taking out fire insurance; we will either work to make America victorious, or we will work under the German lash, to make comforts for German soldiers, or munitions for Germany to kill our husbands and brothers, for Germany is beating the women and children of conquered nations.

Mrs. Mills has just been told by some of her knitters that they were informed that the soldiers would have to pay for the knitted goods, and that they had better stop knitting. The Red Cross sells nothing; no soldier has ever paid, or will pay one cent for anything the Red Cross furnishes him. Several of these rumors have been traced from person to person, until they have led to a person with a German name.

Now, President Wilson is the head of the Red Cross, Ex-President Taft is an officer, it contains some of the best known names in America; these men all serve for nothing, they and the commanders of the army and navy, the soldiers who are in Europe, tell you that the Red Cross gives everything free, that it is the noblest organization on earth. Now the question is, DO YOU BELIEVE YOUR PRESIDENT? DO YOU TRUST YOUR OWN AMERICAN AMBASSADOR, YOUR OWN GENERALS AND WORKERS OR DO YOU BELIEVE THE LIES GERMANY IS MANUFACTURING? IT IS A LIE THAT THE RED CROSS IS SELLING GOODS TO SOLDIERS. And, remember this, that in repeating these lies, however innocently you do it, you are doing German propaganda work and fighting against your own native land. I, the writer of this, will give $50.00 to anyone who can prove that one solitary article has been sold by the Red Cross to our soldiers.

The Detroit News has a letter from a Red Cross worker as follow: "At Verdun Front they are most enthusiastic over the way the American boys are doing their ambulance work. They say they are such enthusiastic fellows and cared for the wounded in such a tender fashion."

They begged her, the writer, for small cushions, so we in turn must ask them from you. The American boys said that the French poilu now looks for the little comfort pillow which every boy tries to carry with his stretcher. The men with broken legs or shattered backs are thus made more comfortable, if this be possible, and we try to give all we can of these pillows to the stretcher bearers.

These are the pillows that have been made in Tecumseh, under the direction of Mrs. Dunn and for which the headquarters have collected rags. If you have rags, do please boil them and we will send for them and if you have an hour to spare occasionally, come into headquarters and help us make them. The very pillow you make, may ease the broken back of a Lenawee boy.

On Thursday the Red Cross Concert Company will give a concert at Coldwater. Mr. Herbert Temple has donated the use of his car and will drive the company over. They will all return the following day, with the exception of Mrs. Fred B. Wood who will go by train. Program:

A LARGE OFFERING FOR WAR SERVICE

At the close of the morning service at the Presbyterian church last Sunday nearly $200 was raised in cash and pledges for the work carried on by the Presbyterian War Service Commission at Camp Custer.

The particular work of this commission is to look after the social and moral welfare of all Presbyterian boys at Battle Creek. The Army Y. M. C. A. has full charge of this work within the camp and the War Service Commission ministers to the boys when they have "time off" and are allowed to leave the camp.

Dr. Barnes with several helpers employed for this special work, have direct charge of the many activities of the commission. The basement of the church has been converted into a rendezvous and is so equipped as to minister to every want of the young soldier. Special recreation and entertainment is provided.

Besides this most of the Presbyterian homes of Battle Creek keep "open house" all day Sunday and on other special days for the boys. Every good and wholesome influence is put forth to guard from those moral dangers incident to army life away from the restraining influence of the camp.

Dr. Barnes is asking the Presbyterian churches of Michigan for $7500 for this work. The Methodist church is asked to raise $20,000, and the Reformed church $10,000 for similar work. Further opportunity will be given to contribute to this work.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE MONDAY CLUB

A special meeting of the Tecumseh Monday Club will be held Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 26th, at 3 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. W. D. Reed. A good attendance is desired in order to have a quorum for voting on the important matters which must be presented. Those who have new names to submit for membership will please have each name written on a slip of paper with the signature of two vouchers below. New members thus elected will be able to attend the first meeting and hear the addresses by our state and county presidents. Further particular as to opening day will be given in Friday's issue.

At the close of the business session the committee on refreshments for October 1st will hold a brief meeting. Mrs. Herbert Temple is chairman with the following helpers:—Mrs. J. D. Service, Mrs. J. H. Smith, Mrs. S. H. Smith, Mrs. A. B. Smith, Mrs. J. D. Shull, Mrs. R. B. Stuckey, Mrs. Andrew Taylor, Mrs. L. E. Temple, Mrs. F. S. Turner, Mrs. Wilfred Waldron, Mrs. F. B. Wood, Mrs. Chas. Williamson, Mrs. C. A. Wright, Mrs. C. B. Munro, Mrs. G. E. Nemire, Mrs. C. S. Nobles, Mrs. John Nyland, Mrs. John Pentecost, Mrs. G. H. Rathbun, Mrs. W. L. Reed, Mrs. A. F. Rice, Mrs. L. B. Schneider, Miss E. Smith, Mrs. Jas. Smith, Miss Loana Stacy, Miss A. A. Whitenack, Mrs. H. W. Whaley, Mrs. Henry Wilson, Miss Nettie Southworth.

Ether and Matter.

The densest matter is more or less porous. Gold will absorb mercury as a lump of sugar will absorb water, showing there must be interstices or interatomic spaces in it, but the ether shows no such property. If a drop of water could be magnified sufficiently one would ultimately see the different atoms of hydrogen and oxygen that constitute the molecules of water. If a small volume of ether could be thus magnified the indications are that the ultimate part would look like the first, which is the same as saying that it is not made up of discrete particles, but fills space completely. This is expressed by saying that the ether is a continuous medium and incomparable with matter.—Exchange.

Safety First.

I was returning home the other evening about 6:30 o'clock when I saw Tommy, my neighbor's boy, playing with a crowd of other boys. I knew that his family always had supper at 6 o'clock sharp, so I said, "I'll bet you 5 cents you'll miss your supper, Tommy."

He grinned up at me saucily and replied: "Then you lose your bet, 'cause I got the chops right here with me. Ma sent me for 'em at 5 o'clock."—Everybody's Magazine.

Too Mean a Trick.

"See here; I wrote and asked you when you were going to pay that old account and even inclosed a stamp, but you never answered."

"My dear sir, wouldn't it have been a mean trick to use your own stamp to disappoint you?"

High School Notes

The annual election of officers of the class of 1919 was held at the "Vendoma," Tuesday the eleventh of September. The following officers were elceted:

President—Luster Best.
Vice Pres.—Alice Hardenburgh.
Secretary—Jane McConnell.
Treasurer—Perry Hayden.

In accepting the presidents chair Mr. Best declared that he would do all he could to make this years administration a success. But he said in order to avoid as much friction and trouble every member of the class should not only do his "bit", but his best, in every possible way to help the class.

Numerous other business was speedily dispatch, foremost among these the question of what the monthly dues should be. The treasurer informed the class that there was still a little room left in the vault of the Lilley State Bank, and that the Juniors should not be at all "backward about coming forward with the rale."

Tuesday last another "pep" meeting was held in the "Blue Room" (third room back, at your right, - you can't miss it.)

The question of staging a stupendous theatrical production in the near future was discussed and all were very enthusiastic over the proposed plans. Several committees were appointed to investigate conditions in and about Tecumseh, to see if it would be possible to give the public such a treat as they now have in mind.

Feeling the need of some capable person to direct the over flowing pep and ginger of the class, Robert Moore was unanimously elected class yell master.

A class editor was also chosen to see that the "Herald" was supplied weekly with news of the best class in school—the Juniors !

Class Party !

Jane McConnell has very cordially invited the Juniors to attend a class party at her home next Friday night This invitation was enthusiastically received and the cheers for Jane that followed, rattled every window in the building.

Miss Hardenburgh attempting to explain molecular force in the Physics class informed the class that it was the force of attraction between Monacles !

The Editorial staff thought it best not to tell what Luster Best said was the correct pronounciation of "L" in the German Alphabet.

"A Shine in Every Drop"

A WONDERFUL SEARCHLIGHT.

The Most Powerful In the World, It Almost Rivals the Sun.

It is ten feet high, its mirror has a diameter of five feet, and it weighs three tons. Its beam is as brilliant as the sun at 8 o'clock in the morning or 4 in the afternoon, New York latitude, and you can read a newspaper by its light thirty miles away. The heat of its focused beam is so intense that it will set paper afire at a distance of 250 feet. It has a candle power of more than one and a quarter billion.

These are a few astonishing facts in the Popular Science Monthly about the Sperry searchlight, the invention of Elmer A. Sperry of Brooklyn, who is already known as the inventor of the airplane stabilizer and ship gyroscope bearing his name and the first electric arc light.

One of the most powerful beacons along the coast is the Sandy Hook lighthouse. But the Sperry searchlight is twenty-two times more brilliant than that light. Were the Sperry lamp substituted for the lighthouse beacon a ship passing out to sea could be bathed in light until it disappeared below the horizon. By swinging the light back and forth across the sky it has been made visible 150 miles away. For navy use the Sperry lamp illuminates a target ten times more brilliantly than any other projector devised.

Studebaker

WAGONS BUGGIES HARNESS

Tires that did not require setting in thirty years—on a Studebaker

WHEELS are the life of a wagon. Hubs, spokes, felloes and tires of the best materials, put together by skilled workmen, go into every Studebaker.

What is the result? Mr. William H. Horton, of Nineveh, N. Y. writes that the tires on his thirty-six year old Studebaker farm wagon did not need resetting in thirty years—and the wagon was in use every day.

We can prove to you that this is not an exceptional Studebaker wagon. There are thousands of Studebaker wagons in use today that are forty years old and more. And that have cost their owners little or nothing for repairs.

Come in and look over our stock of Studebaker vehicles. Let us show you how well they are built.

What Our Ads Tell You

The goods in the store back up. It isn't that way everywhere is it?

Generally what is printed is better than what the store sells.

But we are particular in this regard. Particular to have SUCH eatables that exaggeration is quite unnecessary.

So when you read a statement about what this store sells, you don't have to discount it to get at the truth. Just take what we say at its face value, and you will find no cause for dissatisfaction.

AMERICAN CHEMISTS.

Some of Their Big Achievements In the Industrial World.

In chemistry, as in other practical matters, Americans have had the wisdom to direct their energies to the special needs and opportunities of their country. For instance, they have built up the greatest sulphuric acid industry in the world. And they have given so much attention to sulphuric acid simply because it is a prime requisite for our superphosphate fertilizers, our petroleum refining, our explosives for blasting and the numerous other substances of which the United States is the leading producer.

Similarly American chemists originated and developed the largest aluminum industry in the world, which supplies us with that lightest of all metals in ever increasing quantities. They built up from its very inception the largest calcium carbide industry, which furnishes us that new chemical for producing acetylene light and which, mixed with oxygen, permits us to weld and cut metals by means of a burning jet of oxyacetylene—an entirely new way of cutting steel—melting it like butter, instead of slowly cutting or sawing it by mechanical devices.

They built up the largest electrolytic soda industry, in which the powerful electrolytic current decomposes common kitchen salt and sets free that greeny gas chlorine as well as caustic soda. The public hardly knew this chlorine gas before its horrible use in compressed, liquefied condition for trench warfare in the asphyxiating gas bombs. Its splendid uses for peace, as a purifier of our drinking water supplies, as an antiseptic and as a bleaching agent were hardly ever spoken of. As to caustic soda, it is the base of soapmaking, of mercerized cotton goods, of soda pulp for our paper supplies, and it has endless other uses in chemical industries.

Our chemists were instrumental in providing us with the largest sulphite cellulose industry, whereby wood is changed into the raw material from which paper is made, and with our immense petroleum refining industry—a succession of chemical treatments and chemical processes. Another American chemical industry is the manufacture of synthetic abrasives, striking improvements over the grinding materials found in nature.

We owe to an American chemist the production of artificial graphite, one of the very essentials of the electrochemical enterprises in which the United States is a pioneer as well as a pacemaker, for graphite "electrodes" and graphite "leaders" are the very entrance doors through which the electric current flows into electric furnaces or electrolyzers whenever the use of metals is impossible.—L. H. Baekeland in Harper's Magazine.

THE UMBRELLA AN ILLUSION?

Well, How About the Millinery and Straw Hats It Saves?

The psychology of the umbrella is worth studying. It does not really, of course, protect the individual from the rain. It does little more than shelter his head. The rain strikes his legs and his body just the same. But it saves the rain from striking one's face, which is disagreeable. It gives a certain illusion of shelter and thus shelters the psychology more than it does the body.

We now have waterproofed clothing, which is a much more effective protection than the umbrella, but people go on buying and using umbrellas just the same. Their bodies do not really need them, but their minds have become accustomed to them. Meanwhile letter carriers and policemen go without them and do not seem to get any wetter than other people do.

It is probable that a colored umbrella protects a woman's psychology in a rainstorm better than a black umbrella would. Having chosen the color in accordance with fashion and her own taste in tints, she has, as it were, a canopy of consciousness over her, affording her a fine protection. On the other hand, a black umbrella is a better protection for a man's psychology than a colored one would be. A red umbrella over the average man, now, would seem to him to gather all the raindrops from the Hoosac range to Mount Desert and precipitate them upon his egregious head.—Boston Transcript.

An Amateur Detective

He Found No Clew, but Had Good Luck.

By AMBROSE HALL

Being directed by the chief of the detective bureau with which I was connected to report to Oliver Ainsworth to investigate a case for him, I did so, and this was Mr. Ainsworth's statement:

"I live in a suburban town. My family consists of my wife, my son, Albert, twenty-two years old, and my daughter, Edith, aged twenty. Other persons come in from time to time, remaining temporarily. There are also the servants, consisting of a cook, housemaid and butler.

"For some time past we have been missing small articles, principally jewels. Only yesterday a brooch set with diamonds and worth $100 disappeared. I suppose in all $1,500 worth of property has been taken. I wish you to come into my house for a long enough stay to discover the thief. Your chief has recommended you as a person who would not be likely to be taken for a detective, you having been well brought up. He has told me also that you are very musical and play on several instruments. My daughter wishes to learn to play on the mandolin, and you can give her lessons. I shall introduce you as the son of an old and very dear friend of mine, giving out that you have met with bad luck and that I have taken you in for awhile until you can get on your feet again."

There was truth in the latter part of this statement. I had recently come from England to seek my fortune in America like others of my countrymen who are ready to do abroad what they would be too proud to do at home. I tried music, for which I have a considerable taste, but after starving awhile in that field fell in with a detective, who secured me a position in the bureau with which he was connected. I think my chief recommendation was that, being a gentleman, I could play parts that would be impossible for an unpolished man.

This assignment with Mr. Ainsworth was my first in my new business, and I knew nothing about how to trap a thief. Persons who are ignorant of an important work they are expected to do are prone to look very wise and appear to be thinking very hard. I put on the semblance of the wisdom of Solomon, and when Mr. Ainsworth was about to tell me of any suspicions that were entertained I stopped him, saying that I always worked by method, pursuing my investigations step by step, and wished to avoid any preconceived notions that might lead me astray. This inspired the gentleman with great faith in me. I must trust to luck or my wits to bear out his confidence.

The story of my supposed impoverishment, which, as I have said, was in the main true, brought a very sympathetic reception from Miss Edith Ainsworth, and the fact that I was to teach her music foreshadowed that I would pass a season in clover. Under the influence of her beautiful eyes I felt that I could be a thief hunter for the rest of my days. I commenced the music lessons at once and was supposed to enter upon my investigations at the same time. Alas, I knew not where to begin! That part of my work which consisted in leading the family to think that I was the unfortunate son of a dear friend of its head I performed with great ease since it was natural to me. I was first cousin to an earl, and my father, having been born to the courtesy title of honorable, had never done a stroke of work in his life except garrison work, for he had been colonel of a regiment in the British army.

I spent a fortnight as a member of Mr. Ainsworth's family, and since I had not secured the slightest clew to the thief I felt it necessary to put on all the appearance of pursuing a deep laid plan of which I was capable. Mr. Ainsworth refrained from questioning me, which was lucky. Indeed, so engrossed was I with my lovely pupil that had a dozen clews been under my nose I would not have detected one of them. I wondered that he did not notice how matters were going between me and Edith, but if there is one thing I observed in my career of detective it is the stupidity of parents in failing to notice the incipient love affairs of their children.

After spending nearly three weeks pretending to be following a deep laid plan of investigation I began to be not only conscience stricken, but fearful that the humbug I was practicing would be discovered. To add to my worry I began to realize that the farce could not last forever and I must soon be separated from Edith. My cup of misery was filling up rapidly when luck came to me. I hit upon a clew.

Lying awake at night when all was still, I heard the distant sound of a chime. I wondered that I had never heard it before, but it was so faint that I would be likely to detect it only under the most favorable circumstances. There were two strokes, followed at an interval by three more. Then all was still again. Presently I heard it again. This time it was three strokes. While the chime was striking I lifted my head from the pillow to hear better and was surprised that I could not hear it at all.

Since the sound seemed periodical I listened for it again, and in a quarter of an hour it was repeated, three strokes followed by one. Struck by a thought, I reached out to a table beside me, lighted a match and looked at my watch. It was a quarter past 3. The sound I had heard was not a distant chime, but one very near, and it was in a watch. When the next time for it to strike came around I was lying on my back and did not hear it, but when it struck 3:45 my ear was on my pillow, and I heard every stroke.

"That," I said, "is a watch that may be made to strike the hour. It is in this house and possibly in this room."

In order to make it appear that I was investigating I had requested such change of rooms as was convenient. I had slept in this room two nights before I heard the chime, but each night there had been a strong wind. Besides, I had proved that unless my ear was connected with the watch by solids the chime was inaudible. Believing the watch to be in the room with me, a few minutes before it should strike again I got up and, pressing my ear against the wall, heard it distinctly. During the next hour I made several such experiments with a view to locating the sound, but without success. Then it occurred to me that a watch must tick and if I could get near enough to it I might hear it. I walked slowly around the room, stopping at intervals to listen, and, drawing near a fireplace, the ticking grew more distinct. Thrusting my head up the chimney, I heard a watch tick near my ear. I was about to reach up to grasp it when a chime rang out fine, clear, melodious strokes.

I put my hand upon a narrow coping and took down what I could feel to be a brooch. Then I grasped other articles and finally a watch.

"Eureka!" I exclaimed, delighted.

Leaving the articles where I found them, I went back to bed, but not to sleep. Day soon came, and, rising, I examined the fireplace and found quite a lot of jewelry. I compared the pieces with a list of the lost articles and found that about two-thirds of them were on the coping.

What should be my next step? I had found the plunder—or most of it—but not the thief. And in this second part of my work I was as much at a loss how to proceed as I had been in the first place. But I felt comparatively easy. I had evidence that I was not another kind of thief in palming myself off as an investigator when I was really simply falling in love. I called Mr. Ainsworth into the library after breakfast and told him that I had made important headway in the case, having located a number of the missing articles. I intended to say no more; but, fearing that if left where they were the thief would remove them, I added that during the morning I would turn them over.

That morning when the postman delivered the mail I received a letter from England that obviated the necessity of my remaining in the detective business. The missive had been following me for some time and was covered with "Try this and try that place," indorsed by different postal officials. It announced that the cousin mentioned earlier in my narrative, a vigorous man of thirty, had broken his neck following the hounds, and since his wife had not presented him with an heir I was Earl of Barrowfield.

I called up my chief, reported the case so far as I had followed it and offered my resignation from his force on the ground that I had business of my own that demanded attention. Before Mr. Ainsworth went out for the day I told him where he would find the plunder I had discovered and made a clean breast of the fact that I had learned where it was, not by a deep laid and methodical process, but by accident, and declined to receive any pay for my services or to permit any charge to be made by the bureau I represented.

Mr. Ainsworth declined to accept my services either as a detective or as his daughter's music teacher. After arguing with him for awhile I showed him the letter I had received that morning changing my condition from a detective to a nobleman.

"While I am not the son of an old friend of yours," I said, "I am or at least have been in forlorn circumstances. I am your debtor, not you mine, since I have received every kindness at the hands of your family."

It was agreed between us that it would be better to inform the members of his family that I was not the son of his old friend, but that in considering me a gentleman they had not been deceived. Mrs. Ainsworth was informed first that the bulk of her lost property had been recovered; that I had come to the house as a detective and was going out a nobleman. From her the news spread to the other members of the family.

Miss Edith did not seem to know whether to be glad or sorry at the turn events had taken. I saw sincerity in her eyes when she expressed her regret that her music lessons must cease and said that she supposed the episode of my being there must end and she would never see me again. I assured her that an acquaintance so pleasantly formed would not be suffered by me to come to an end.

I went to Europe and discovered that the estate to which I had fallen heir needed attention. Nevertheless I found my thoughts constantly wandering back to America. And what drew them most forcibly was the young lady whom I had taught music while playing detective.

I never took sufficient interest to inquire whether the balance of the jewelry was discovered or the thief run down. Later I returned from England and took back Edith Ainsworth for my wife. As a wedding memento her father presented me with the striking watch that led to the recovery of the plunder, and I had engraved upon it an appropriate inscription.

HEED BAD ODORS.

They May Warn You of Places Where Disease Germs Lurk.

Even a bad odor has its uses. Scientists say that the offensive smell which comes from decaying and disease breeding matter is in reality one of nature's measures of preparedness and of prevention.

Offensive odors indirectly prevent the spread of epidemics by calling attention to the breeding place of the disease. They give warning that something is wrong, and they persist in this warning by becoming more and more offensive until the wrong is righted.

The odor does not convey the germ or communicate the disease, because in most cases direct contact is necessary to do this, or the infection is communicated by some substance taken into or brought in contact with the body. But it does tell where the disease exists or is likely to exist. It also gives warning of tainted or unfit food, as the nose is intended by nature to be one of man's chief allies in the fight for health.

Some have even gone so far as to state that mothers should not discourage or forbid children smelling their food before they eat it. The tendency to do this is said to be a natural one. The nose is not placed above the mouth by accident. It was designed in primitive man as a guidepost for his stomach, and it is still a good guide.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Fancy Gardening.

It is a fancy of Chinese gardeners to plant statuettes of tiny men firmly in pots, just like real plants, and then to train live evergreens to grow up over these statuettes. The vines thus form a kind of robe for the statuette men, their white faces and hands protruding from out the greenness.—Argonaut.

The Looking Glass In Fiction.

All nations have shown by their stories how the looking glass is regarded as ministering to vanity. The ancient Greeks depicted Venus with a mirror and even described her chamber as lined all over with mirrors, so that whichever way her eyes turned she could behold her beautiful self. But Minerva never used a mirror. Pass to West Africa and we find a native story which begins with a magic mirror that possessed the power of speech and always said, "Mistress, there is none" when its owner, a woman called Maria, asked it, "My mirror, is there any other beautiful woman like myself?" But one day Maria's daughter entered the forbidden room where it was kept, asked a similar question and got a similar answer. A tale of maternal jealousy and vengeance follows.—London Spectator.

Sunlight and Germs.

Here is an instructive experiment made by scientists to show the effects of sunlight. Some germs of the terrible disease anthrax were sown on two plates of gelatin, and while one plate was kept in the dark the other was placed in the sunlight. The germs grew, and at the end of ten minutes there were 360 colonies or groups in the sunshine plate and 400 colonies in the dark plate.

One hour later the result was: In the sunshine plate, none; in the dark plate, 2,520. No disease germ thrives in sunlight.

Early Opportunity.

"We came to this country and took the innocent red man's land away from him."

"Yes," replied the man who has been having trouble with real estate, "and in some cases the innocent red man was lucky to unload just when he did."—Washington Star.

ANOTHER FORMER TECUMSEH BOY IN THE THICK OF THINGS OVER THE SEAS

A Very Interesting Letter from Will Fitzsimmons, Well Remembered by Tecumseh People

The following letter from an old Tecumseh boy was received by his brother P. W. A. Fitzsimmons and will be of interest to his many friends here. He certainly has had a strenuous time since leaving the states.

Sandwich, Kent Eng.
Stonor Camp.
September 1, 1917

My dear Brother:

I have had quite a little outing since I jioned this outfit.

I left Vancover in good health, went to Montreal and put in two months in the hospital with pneumonia Sailed from Montreal on May 17th on the SS. "Canada"; did police duty all the way across, over a bunch of 350 Servians.

We arrived in Liverpool on May 28th, after being chased by a "sub" on the Irish coast. Went to London, then on to this camp on May 29th. I was drilled two weeks here, then sent back to London on June 14th. Left London June 15th and went to Brightlinsea. Joined a refrigerator barge RE-6; left there June 16th; arrived at Plymouth June 19th at midnight and anchored in the harbor.

We left Plymouth August 19th at 4:30 p. m. for Mesopotamia in tow of the Tug HS-4. Both the two boat and barge, were sunk by gunfire and bombs about 140 miles from land in the Bay of Biscay. We were about two days and nights in a terrible storm, towing a small boat from the tug, as they had no compass or sail. We had a 15ft. life boat with 11 men, and there were 8 men in the other boat.

We were picked up by a French schooner on the 23rd of August She had a cargo of wine from Lisbon for Sainte-Nazaire, but the skipper was drunk and completely lost, so we worked the ship in the French coast the best we could and very nearly lost her on a reef (in fact, we had the small boats lowered again), but we signalled a pilot, who came out and took us into Painpol.

We found after we got ashore that the wind had reached a velocity of 110 miles per hour. If I had not understood how to handle a small boat under sail, with the skipper of the French schooner drunk and out of his course, we would never have been saved. We could not have stood it another night. I was too long at the wheel and was nearly exhausted as it was.

We were treated splendidly by the French people, who cut off the buttons from our coats for souvenirs. I lost everything. I had on a pair of slippers, overalls and tunic, and no hat. What little money I had went with everything else. Some of the boys had on less than I did. They thought we were German prisoners when we first landed in France.

We left Painpol on August 26th, stopped overnight at Rennes, went to Saint Male on August 27th and embarked for Southampton on a channel boat.

We arrived at Southampton on August 28th left Southampon on August 29th. We came to this camp via London, arriving hear August 29.

What do you think of that for a yachting cruise?

Now they have put us in what they call a "survivor's hut" and we have applied for ten days Survivor's leave, which we are entitled to. We found out just now, however, that we will get the leave some time, but no money out side of our regular pay. The pay I get is 76c per day.

Now they tell us that we are dead, because we are supposed to be on our barge on the bottom of the Bay of Biscay and mustawait orders from the War Office in Chatham as to whether we will be resurrected or not. However, we are all as well as could be expected, and mighty glad to be dried out again and rested up before tackling it once more.

I am afraid to send you some souvenirs I have, so I will leave them with the American Consul in Plymouth, who is very nice man from Pennsylvania.

Address me in care of the American consul, Plymouth, until further notice.

Lovingly,
Your brother Bill.

P. S. I forgot to tell you that I was in one air raid here and one in (Popular) London.

BANKERS IN BIG WAR COUNCIL

Atlantic City, Sept. 25.—Nearly 20,000 of the leading bankers of the United States gathered here to discuss the tremendous financial problems raised by the war. From every state in the Union they have come to exchange views of financing measures and to hear the leading officials of not only this country but of the allied nations discuss the money problems, on the wise solving of which success in the war depends.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo is here to tell the bankers how they may aid the nation in floating the forthcoming second Liberty loan and to point out to them the lessons to be learned from the first big borrowing.

THIRD QUOTA WILL BE CALLED OCT. 20

CALL SCHEDULED FOR OCT. 6 HAS BEEN POSTPONED FOR TWO WEEKS.

STILL FURTHER DELAY POSSIBLE

Officers Want Heating Plant Completed Before Next 40 Per Cent Is Sent to Cantonment.

Camp Custer, Battle Creek—Michigan's third quota for the national army, the 40 per cent due to be called October 6, will not be called before October 20. Camp Custer will be in no shape to receive the additional 14,000 before that date, officers declare, and it is possible that the call may be still further delayed.

To receive the men, the camp must be practically complete so that the regiments can move to the quarters assigned them in the original scheme of the cantonment. The various delays, especially in material and labor, have set back the work so that the mobilization scheme can not be followed.

The shells of the buildings might be constructed in time but the heating plant, which is of utmost importance as soon as cold weather settles in, cannot be finished in time to warm the buildings.

The call, therefore, will be delayed for two weeks, which will allow the local boards more time to clean up the matter of exemptions and perfect their system for the next big mobilization.

HARD WORK NOW ON SCHEDULE

Intricate Details of Soldiery Being Taught at Camp Custer.

Camp Custer, Battle Creek—The business of making an army is now under way in earnest at Camp Custer.

Heretofore the soldiers have been taught only the simple rudiments of their profession. From now on they will be introduced to the more intricate details.

For the first time bayonet exercises and bayonet combat are on the schedule. The study is pursued with improvised equipment, but it is vigorous and complete.

Another change is the addition to the program of lectures on "Why we are at war." Officers speak on this topic.

The teaching of first aid to the injured and the introduction of marches as a part of the regular schedule are also on the program.

The setting up exercises, the school of the soldier, squad and company with lectures on military discipline and courtesy will continue as they will always be a part of the soldiers' instruction. With the addition of lectures on personal hygiene and care of the feet they constitute the present program for rifle companies.

The training of the machine gun companies and battalions varies slightly from that given rifle companies. They are being introduced to the first steps in marksmanship, both for the machine gun and the pistol. Advanced lessons in signalling are also given. The same is true of the artillery. The men attached to the big guns are getting their first lessons in the care of material and projectiles.

The program provides for the 40 hours of work with Wednesday and Saturday afternoons free for recreation.

TAKES 1 HOUR TO EXAMINE MAN

Until They Pass, Recruits Are Given Only Simple Drills.

Camp Custer, Battle Creek—Experience gained in the last draft shows that a man can be examined in about an hour. Capt. R. C. Wilson of the 339th, has a system whereby men are sent through in groups of 50, and each group is disposed of in about three hours.

First, the men are numbered by wetting their arms and writing on them with indelible pencil. They are called up by number to have the various tests made, and as each man goes forward his numbered papers go with him. He is fed through the mill with precision gained by experience with the last batch.

Until they are examined and accepted, the men do as did the first bunch simply drill and learn as much as possible. If there is anyone whom the drill affects badly he is sent back to barracks, but as soon as they arrived the recruits were obliged to start learning.

WITH THE BOYS AT CAMP CUSTER

Shower baths are in operation and the men are taking advantage of them in spite of the cold water.

The construction department sends nightly reports to the department in Washington of its progress and a weekly panorama.

Many new arrivals wore their oldest clothes, evidently intending to throw them away as soon as they receive uniforms.

Among the men examined by the surgeons of the 330th field artillery was a Pole from Detroit who spoke but little English. He answered to two names, took physical examinations, got two shots of typhoid preventative and went his way.

Efforts of Mayor Mark Lyman, of Sault Ste. Marie, to smother flames in the clothing of his four-year-old daughter Marion, failed to save her life. The child had found a box of matches in a wagon near her home and set fire to her clothes. She ran down the street and into a woodshed with the flames eating at her hair and face.

Distribution of the second Liberty loan is under the direction of the federal reserve bank in Chicago for this district. Michigan will be divided into two districts, one with Detroit as the center and the other Grand Rapids, and the districts will be subdivided into counties and even smaller districts for intensive efforts. Subscriptions for the loan open October 1 and it is probable that November 1 will be the closing date.

ASK EXEMPTION OF FARM LABOR

Representatives of Two Million Organized Farmers Meet President at Washington.

MEMORIAL IS PRESENTED

Declares Agriculture Is the Only Great Industry Now Undermanned as Compared With the Standards Existing Before the War.

Washington, Sept. 25—Representatives of more than two million organized farmers met President Wilson at the White House and discussed with him the methods of determining exemption of farm labor in connection with the draft. The farmers were accompanied by a large assemblage of senators, congressmen and prominent persons from various states who gathered here to present their case to the President. The farmers presented a memorial drawn by the federal board of farm organizations, a federation of national farm associations, which was formed shortly after the outbreak of our war with Germany, as a means of giving the farmer a voice in national affairs. The board proposes to do for farmers what the American federation of labor does for workers and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States does for organized business interests. Joining with the board were the legislative committee of the national grange. The memorial follows:

"Mr. President: There is an unprecedented shortage of agricultural labor. Because of it the farmers of the United States fear they may not be able to do, as they desire to do, their full share in the great common task of winning the war. For this reason the federal board of farm organizations, speaking for the farmers of America, has asked permission to lay certain facts before you. Agriculture is the only great industry now undermanned as compared with the standards existing before the war. Many industries want additional help. Agriculture actually has less.

"The shortage of farm labor is cutting down the productive power of American farms. Transportation companies contractors, and industrial plants offer for labor prices higher by far than any farmer can pay and still produce food for the consumer at reasonable rates.

Is Skilled Occupation.

"Farming is a highly skilled occupation. Trained farm labor cannot be replaced to advantage by untrained men, women, and boys. Furthermore, the common necessity to make the farm laborer, whoever he may be, a member of the family circle, still further restricts the availability of strangers. The return to the farmer is far below that to men equally skilled in any other occupation, while the special risks he runs from weather, insects, and diseases are greater than theirs by far. Therefore men who leave the farm seldom return to it.

"We do not approve of class exemptions from the draft. But we understand that it is the chief purpose of a selective draft to keep those industries which are most essential to the winning of the war manned to the point of highest efficiency, at least until such time as the need of men at the front shall compel a shortage in every line of work. In our judgment the present method of executing the law will result in greatly reducing the productive power of our farms just at the time when an increase in that power is the one most essential condition of victory. As you yourself have said, 'upon the farmers of this country, therefore, in large measure, rest the fate of the war and the fate of the nations.'

"If the selective service act is based upon the desire of the government to put each man where he may serve his country best then the administration of the act should not limit exemption to those who apply for it, as it does now. Many farmers who should be exempt refuse to apply. Many young men voluntarily enlist in the army who can serve most usefully elsewhere. We ourselves know of many young farmers who have left the farm for the army, to the loss of the nation as a whole. Mere exemption or discharge of skilled farmers from the draft would not meet the case. They should be required to remain in productive labor on the farm during the period for which their exemption may be necessary.

Farmers Answered Call.

"Because the world is short of food, the government has asked the farmers as a patriotic service to increase their product. In answer to the call, the farmers have done, and will do their best. But already a large proportion of the farms are undermanned, and the process of depletion proceeds unchecked. America is making the same mistake that England made, instead of learning from her experience. We believe that it is against the national interest and safety, as well as against the purpose of the law and the government, to let this drain go on.

"What we seek is a more perfect administration of the purpose of the act to protect the essential occupations. We ask you to see to it that farm laborers and farm owners may be kept or placed where they may serve the nation best."

Rear Admiral Keppel Dead.

London, Sept. 25.—The death is announced of Rear Admiral Leicester Chantrey Keppel, retired.

Barney M. Laing, of Tawas City, was taken to a Bay City hospital for treatment for a broken leg. Laing weighs 385 pounds and was walking along First street, Tawas City, when he fell from the sidewalk.

Grand Rapids is making money off its hide dealing establishment. When the new form of government took effect it was decided soon after that instead of burning cats and dogs the animals be first skinned and the pelts sold. So far 202 cat hides and 135 dog hides have been disposed of.

Northern Michigan's apple crop is reported a failure this year. Buyers say the crop is only 20 per cent normal. Heavy snow storms last spring are responsible, it is said. Plums and peaches were unaffected by the storms and the crop will be normal. Early varieties are being marketed now.

Mrs. Hardy's offer of $50.00 to anyone, who can prove that the Red Cross has sold a solitary article to a soldier still holds good.

A report went around this town some time ago, that a soldier had to pay for a pair of stockings, and finding the name of the lady who had knitted them in the toe, he wrote to her "that her stockings were very fine but that he had to pay 75c for them." This story was told to Mr. Cutting by Mrs. A., she advised him not to work so hard for the Red Cross as the goods were sold, and said, that Miss B. has told her that she had a friend who had knitted a pair of stockings, and she had received the above letter. Mr. Charles Burridge asked Miss B. who said, "Oh no, It was not my friend who knitted them, but Miss C. told me it was her friend Miss D. in Belding." Mr. Burridge wrote to Belding, and received a reply that it was no acquaintance of Miss C's but again a friend who had told her that a friend had knitted those same stockings. The trail finally ended at a lady with German name, who replied, and we have the letter on file.

"The story of the socks and the price paid for them came to me very indirectly and so far as I know did not involve the Red Cross at all.

"A lady in Canada made and donated the socks, which as near as I remember were sent to the front with a shipment of other things.

This lady then told a friend of mine about the communication she had from the soldier."

So the last available information says that it does not concern Cross at all, it does not even concern the U. S., and even in Canada we get no nearer than a "friend of a friend."

Further comment is needless.

Owing to Mrs. Hardy's absence Miss Alma Tnsley will assist in the Red Cross news.

Jenny C. Law Hardy,

There has been little done for the past two or three weeks in regard to getting in subscriptions for the Patriotic League. The men who have had the matter in charge are busy men, but have given liberally of their time in trying to see the people and get their subscriptions. Many were not at home when they called, many have taken cards to fill out but as yet have not handed them in, and still others had made promises but have not yet come across.

The subscriptions to date total about $5,200 for the year. The township committee are asking that the township subscribe $6,000. We ought to make it at least $7,000 and it could easily be done if everybody would take this matter to heart and hand in their subscription.

We urge everyone who has not already subscribed to get their subscription in at once as the committee want to make a final report soon. Don't put it off. It's your patriotic duty to give that our boys shall have the comforts which the American Red Cross can give them if the funds are available.

Don't try and make yourself believe that this great war will be over in a month or two and that our boys will not go to France. This war will not end in two or three months, it may last two or three years, and our boys will soon be in France fighting for your liberty and ours. It is a tremendous undertaking our Government has placed upon the young men of this country, the biggest in our history and it would be deplorable if the people of this country should refuse to provide them the necessities and comforts which the Red Cross can give them.

Be patriotic, be generous, for you have lived in peace and comfort all your lives. Don't wait to be urged to ... to this cause but get behind the movement and put Tecumseh township where it belongs, with a $7,000 yearly subscription to Lenawee Patriotic League.

Ed Frensdorf of Hudson has been made acting warden of Jackson prison by the board of control. Now it appears that our attorney general claims that he cannot legally hold the office of warden because he is a member of the board of control. This appointment is made to take care of the vacancy of the present warden who has enlisted in the aerial service for the period of the war.

It may be that Mr. Frensdorf by law is disqualified, but in every other way he is qualified to fill this vacancy. Since his connection with the Jackson prison board he has devoted a large amount of his time to its welfare, he has become intensely interested in it and is today one of the best authorities on prison management in the country. The industrial success of Jackson prison and its activities in general are largely due to Mr. Frensdorf's efforts.

It would be unfortunate if Mr. Frensdorf was not permitted to act in the capacity of warden. It would seem that in this case an exception to the rule should be made. Stick to it, Ed.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Evans of Tipton were in town Wednesday leaving on a trip to the Soo and other points through the state expecting to be gone about a week.

The Lilley State Bank have enstalled a new section of lock boxes, 63 in all, which now gives them 226 boxes. This department of the Bank has proven so popular for the storing of valuable papers that it became necessary to add this new section to take care of the wants of the public.

THE BRIDESMAID BEAUTY CHORUS IN "WHEN DREAMS COME TRUE" AT THE BRADLEY OPERA HOUSE, NEXT THURSDAY, OCTOBER 4th.

"WHEN DREAMS COME TRUE"

"When Dreams Come True," the first musical comedy written by Philip Bartholamae, author of "Little Miss Brown," "Over Night" and "Very Good Eddie," will be produced at the Bradley Opera House next Thursday, October 4th.

Silvio Hein, who composed the music, will be remembered as the composer of the scores of Marie Cahill's most pronounced successes, and of other well known works.

The three acts of "When Dreams Come True," are entirely differene in ouline, the first carrying some dramatic touches, as well as a number of comic situations; the second being farcical, and the third having musical and dancing features.

The play contains nearly a score of dancing numbers showing the newest inventions of the Castles and other famous dancers, in addition to the latest variations of the Brazilliene, Fox Trot, Tango and other popular dances.

The song hits are many and include among others "When Dreams Come True," "Who's the Little Girl?" "Come Along To The Movies," "You Dear, You" and "Dear World."

Tht acting company is an exceptional large one, the principal parts requiring the services of more than twenty girls, in addition to the chorous. The chorus numbers twenty-four exceptionally handsome and shapely young girls, who act as a background for the principals and wear some of the most stunning gowns ever shown on the musical comedy stage. A feature of the performance is in the youth of the majority of the company, nearly all of the people are still on the sunny side of thirty, and consequently, there is a youthful dash to the performance of "When Dreams Come True" that is a delight to the spectator.

A carload of special scenery is carried as well as some wonderful electrical effects. "When Dreams Come True" is a guarantee attraction in every way.

T. H. Temple and family motored through from Detroit Thursday, and are the guests of his brother F. J. Temple and family.

Word has just been received by Ed Hand of the death of his brother in law Asa Howe of Detroit. No particulars have been received as we go to press.

The Red Cross Concert Co. motored to Coldwater Thursday where they gave one of their popular concerts. There was a good audience to receive them and they realized about $60.00. While in Coldwater the company were entertained by Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Gamble and it is needless to say they had a fine time.

Imagine the feelings of a lady in the eastern part of town when upon going down cellar to look over her canned fruit, she found all her peaches and cherries gone A few cans of pears that were on another shelf had been overlooked. In these times of high prices in fruit and sugar, this was no small loss Sneak theives are busy at their calling and if caught should be given the full extent of the law

MEETING TO DETERMINE JACKSON—TOLEDO AUTO TRAIL HELD HERE TO-DAY

Representatives from Towns Along the Trail Here.

A meeting was held this afternoon at the Lilley State Band, the object of which was to establish an auto trail between the cities of Jackson and Toledo. Invitations were sent out to the various cities and towns along the trail to send representatives. The object of the meeting was to determine the route, make suggestions as to improvements in roads and to provide a plan for properly marking and signing the various turns along the route

The good roads in the northern part af Lenawee County, especially in Clinton and Tecumseh townships, have for a number of years attracted travelers our way and thousands of cars make our town enroute each year. It has helped to advertize Tecumseh and we believe we have left a good impression on most of the people traveling this way. We want them to come this way and therefore our Commerce Club are taking a lively interest in this Jackson-Toledo trail.

Similar meetings are being held in different sections of the state and various auto-trails are being laid out.

A meeting has been called for October 3rd to convene in the City of Ann Arbor to take action on a route connecting Flint, Ann Arbor and Lima, Ohio Representatives from Tecumseh will attend this meeting

BIG RED CROSS DANCE AT CLINTON

Friday Evening, Sept. 28, at New Clintonian Garage

Friday evening, September 28th, there will be a big dance at "Jummy" Lancaster's new garage in Clinton under the auspices of the Clinton Red Cross.

"Jummy" is planning on opening his big garage right and has donated the building to the Red Cross for the big dance which will be one of the biggest affairs of its kind ever held in Lenawee County. In its enlarged condition the Clintonian Garage will accommodate all who wish to dance. The entire main floor is a block long and will be used exclusively for dancing

The music will be furnished by Fisher's orchestra from Ann Arbor and the Clinton and Saline bands.

Refreshments will be served during the evening and those in charge expect to make this one of the biggest events that Clinton has seen for many a day and incidentally add a nice sum to the Red Cross fund. So plan to attend and dance for the soldiers Price per couple is $1 00.

WESTMINSTER GUILD

Tuesday evening the beautiful home of Albert Boyce was thrown open to the ladies of the Westminster Guild when his niece Miss Edith Rector entertained the organization. She was assisted by the officers, Mrs. R. B Stuckey, Mrs W. A. Rex, Mrs Dale Hodges and Miss Edith Ingersoll It was a sort of get-together meeting and the hostesses had invited some twenty-five guests, making a party of about fifty

The president Mrs. Stuckey called the gathering to order and stated the order of the program for the year The study will be "Missionary Milestones" with a course on Africa to come later. It was suggested that Red Cross work be taken up at each session while the usual papers were being read

Mrs. Dale Hodges was elected to represent the Guild at the coming Synodical meeting

Following the business meeting, the ladies whiled away a couple of hours very pleasantly with different sorts of games and the hostesses served a dainty lunch.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Monday evening being Mr. Willard Warner's birthday, his wife invited a few of his friends and neighbors in to spend the evening with him. About 8 o'clock while all within were quiet, there came a knock at the door, Willard responded when to his surprise he realized what was happening. It is needless to say that all had a good time.

Refreshments were served and singing of songs made the time pass too quickly.

Another mile stone in Willards life has passed. Best wishes were expressed that the remainder of his life would be happy

THE KILTIES

Canada's Great Concert Band Heard at the Opera House, Tuesday Evening.

A large audience was present at the opera house for the concert given by the Kilties Band of Canada and they surely were well repaid for their attendant.

We are told by one of their number, that they were 90 when first organized but now 40 are in France serving their country. Seven of those present Tuesday night, were home on a furlough and will report for duty again in December.

The band were in full Highland costume, wearing the Gordon plaid, and presented a fine appearance. When the curtain rose they were greeted with rounds of applause and all hrough the program cheer after cheer were given them.

The first number, a March was fine but the Overture, William Tell was splendid and was applauded to the echo.

Don't you love the noisy rollicking music of the bagpipes? If so you surely were delighted with this number for it was fine and Wee Jamie Clark was at his best.

The "Songs of Scotland" "Highland Laddie" "The Campbells are coming", "Bonnie Doon," "Auld Lang Syne" took one back to the days of long ago, when mother sang her little ones to rest with these dear melodies and then the "Trombone Wheeze!" you can hear the echo yet.

The Hunting scene was full of life and action and one could almost follow them over hill and dale in persuit of their game.

How everyone followed the Patrol as they marched around he Camp with the National melodies sounding on the air. Surely every old soldier present enjoyed that number.

J. Coates Lockhart was the next on the program and sang "Rose of My Heart." He was called back some five or six times and each time gave a fine selection, each one just a little better than the last.

The Highland Fling by Wee Jamie Clark was finely given and he was encored heartily.

The Scothish march, "Cock O' the North" was a rousing number and was well received. And then to close the entertainment with a grand send off, the band rising to their feet played "The Star Spangled Banner" the audience rising to pay tribute to our National song

The leader of the band expressed himself as well pleased with the audience who were so appreciative of the program as given. He was pleased wih our town and all the people he met, as were all of the members of the band, who enjoyed a social chat with the men about town.

We congratulate Mr. Marks on securing this Band at this time and on the fine audience that were present on so short notice.

WIT AND WISDOM

Miss Nannie Kyle entertained the members of the Wit and Wisdom club Monday evening for a business session. Two new members were taken in, Dr. and Mrs. Balmer. "Vacation Experiences" was the subject of the roll call and the ersponses were quite amusing.

The first meeting of the season will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Howard, Monday evening Oct. 8. The officers for the ensuing year are

NARROW ESCAPE

Monday night while Leora Splettstosser was riding on her wheel, she was ran into by Otto Sipe who was running an automobile. What Our Ads Tell You

The goods in the store back up. It isn't that way everywhere is it?

Generally what is printed is better than what the store sells.

But we are particular in this regard. Particular to have SUCH eatables that exaggeration is quite unnecessary.

So when you read a statement about what this store sells, you don't have to discount it to get at the truth. Just take what we say at its face value, and you will find no cause for dissatisfaction.

WAGONS BUGGIES HARNESS

Tires that did not require setting in thirty years—on a Studebaker

WHEELS are the life of a wagon. Hubs, spokes, felloes and tires of the best materials, put together by skilled workmen, go into every Studebaker.

What is the result? Mr. William H. Horton, of Nineveh, N. Y. writes that the tires on his thirty-six year old Studebaker farm wagon did not need resetting in thirty years—and the wagon was in use every day.

We can prove to you that this is not an exceptional Studebaker wagon. There are thousands of Studebaker wagons in use today that are forty years old and more. And that have cost their owners little or nothing for repairs.

Come in and look over our stock of Studebaker vehicles. Let us show you how well they are built.

DESTROYS SLEEP

Many Tecumseh People Testify to This.

You can't sleep at night.

With aches and pains of a bad back.

When you have to get up from urinary troubles.

If the kidneys are at fault.

Set them working right with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is Tecumseh proof of their merit.

J. B, Smith, E. Chicago St., says: "I was caused a great deal of suffering by pains in the small of my back and when the attacks came on, it was all I could do to attend to my work. When stooping, I was dizzy and spots of fire seemed to flash before my eyes I did not rest well and monrings when I got up, was tired and languid. I doctored and used remedies of various kinds, but got no benefit until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They made me feel like a different person, completely ridding me of kidney trouble."

OVER FIVE YEARS LATER Mr. Smith said: "I gladly confirm my endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills given before. I use them occassionally when I feel in need of a kidney medicine and they never failto help me."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Smith had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgrs., Buffalo, N. Y. adv

HEALTH AND HOUSE SCREENS

One Effective Way to Foil the Flies and Mosquitoes.

It is a duty to protect the health of the home and to fight any peril that may menace it. You may have doubts or become discouraged when it comes to cleaning up and keeping so clean that you won't have flies, or when you try to keep them down by poisoning or trapping, but there's one means of protecting yourself against flies that is safe and effective. This is thorough screening. Doors, windows and porches, upstairs and downstairs, should be thoroughly screened in summer for the comfort of the home and the health of the family. Mosquitoes are a health menace as well as flies, and thorough screening protects against both.

A few years ago screening was considered almost as ineffective as a means of protecting against flies as poisoning, disinfecting and a few feeble efforts at cleaning up. None of these methods prohibited flies. They apparently continued to come in their usual large number But the trouble was we did not know how to properly use screens Then only the kitchen and dining room doors and windows were screened, while the doors and windows of the other part of the house were left unprotected.

Later we found that not only all the openings to the house must have screens in them, but that they must fit and be made so fly tight that no fly could enter. This was found more effective. But not until the porches were screened, particularly the back porch, where most of the food was handled, did we come to know the real safety and comfort that lay behind screened doors, windows and porches.—Exchange.

SPEED IN BASEBALL.

What an Infield Double Play Means In Time and Action.

Making first base, though more dramatic to watch, is an uneventful expedition compared with the trip to second. It takes a fast man to negotiate the journey in 3 3-5 seconds. No thrown ball goes over 300 feet, and if a batted ball travels beyond the safe limits of a single throw it must be relayed by the fielders. While you are watching the outfielder scamper after the ball the relay line is being swiftly formed in the infield. There could be no such quick and accurate fielding of deep outfield hits if the outfielder taking the ball did not know that behind him was ranged his line of relays ready to take the ball the instant he could turn and throw it.

To make a double play in the infield the shortstop, for example, must field a ball that has been batted about 135 feet. He passes the ball from ten to twenty-five feet to the second baseman, who must then throw it ninety feet to first. All this while the batter is running ninety feet, a trick that, as we have seen, it takes a snappy runner to turn in 3 3-5 seconds. It's a close call and a case of utilizing the fraction of a second, but with sharp fielding the margin is all on the side of the fielders. The double play is the menace ever threatening the runner on first.

Fruit Acids as Mouth Cleansers.

Unless the teeth are very badly damaged or eroded the acids of fruit, such as that contained in grapes, oranges, lemons or apples, will be found to be a satisfactory mouth wash. The advice of a dentist should be sought, however, to determine the condition of the teeth and to decide whether an alkaline or acid wash is preferable for the individual case. But there is no question, according to the Popular Science Monthly, as to the efficacy of the food acids in removing quickly and entirely the mucous films that are the first stages of dental decay.

An apple eaten in the evening will cleanse the teeth mechanically and chemically and if followed by vigorous brushing will protect them from bacteria during the night.

Automatic Cooking Boxes.

Automatic cooking boxes were in general use among the Hebrews nearly 2,000 years ago. The Greek and Roman writers frequently refer to them. In his edition of "Juvenile," for example, Friedlander cites a commentator who refers to "the Jews who a day before the Sabbath put their viands hot into the cooking boxes, the pots being covered with napkins and wrapped about with hay, so that they may have warm food on the Sabbath."

FREE SPEECH DEFINED

Illinois Senator Rebukes the Pacifist Propagandists.

Says They Befoul Own Land, Betray Own Fellow-Citizens and Surrender Country.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Replying to the German reply to the Pope's peace proposal, Senator Lewis of Illinois, the Democratic whip of the Senate, declared in a vigorous spech that no peace is possible until America has achieved all her war aims. He assailed German perfidy and delivered a stinging rebuke to the pacifist propagandists, declaring they are "befouling their own land, betraying their own fellow-citizens, and surrendering their own country."

"Who are they in America that demand the right to argue against this war of America?" he said. "Who are those who ask to debate the righteousness of their own country? To dispute the honor of their own men and question the virtue of their own women? Who are those who demand to denounce their country's cause while they praise the purpose of her destroyers? Who are those who cry for constitutional free speech to befoul their own land, betray their own citizens, and surrender their own country? Let us now reply to all those, saying—yes, your country guarantees free speech to every American, but that man who uses free speech against America is not the man to whom free speech is guaranteed. In this land there can be no free speech to any man to destroy the freedom of his fellow-men. There can never be liberty of speech to an American citizen to destroy the liberty of the American nation. Let this meaning of our constitution be now proclaimed, as fixed to all mankind."

GREAT WAR TAX BILL COMPLETED BY CONFEREES

Excess Profits Revenue at Billion—$200,000,000 Added to Measure.

TO BECOME LAW THIS WEEK

New System of Graduating Amount of Assessment of Corporations Is Adopted—Incomes to Bring Huge Sum.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The joint conferees on the war revenue bill, completed their draft after two weeks of deliberation. Immediately after the bill was approved, Chairman Kitchin of the house ways and means committee hurried with it to the house, where it was formally offered.

As revised by the conferees the measure has been raised from the levy fixed by the senate of $2,416,670,000 to an aggregate of approximately $2,700,000,000. Chairman Simmons of the senate finance committee estimated that the increase made by the conferees would approach $275,000,000.

In Conference for Months.

The war revenue bill has been before congress for nearly four months. As redrafted by the conferees, said Chairman Simmons, it has been immensely improved, and he believes there will be no obstacles to its speedy approval by congress this week.

The chief changes made in the bill by the conferees were in the excess profits, income tax, liquor taxes, taxes on tobaccos and cigars, insurance, war stamp taxes, inheritance tax, postal rates and transportation.

The income tax rates as agreed upon are substantially the same as passed by the house with the Gerry amendments as passed by the senate. The house agreed to the senate amendment increasing the normal tax on corporations from 4 to 6 per cent. The bill abolishes "collection at the source" and substitutes information as provided in the senate amendments except as to what is known as the "tax free covenant bonds" of corporations.

Profits Tax Modified.

The excess war profits tax, as agreed to by the conferees, is a modification of the senate bill, the principal changes being in the maximum and minimum rates of exemption upon which the tax is to be determined. The senate graduated scale of exemptions ran from 6 to 10 per cent, while the house exemption rate was 8 per cent. The conferees adopted the graduated rate of from 7 to 9 per cent.

In lieu of the house zone tax on second-class publications the conferees included a new zone system effective July 1, 1918, with different rates for reading matter and advertising matter, with special but increased rate for religious, agricultural and other publications.

Postal Increase.

A flat increase on reading matter of one-fourth of a cent per pound until July 1, 1919, and one-half cent thereafter was provided. Advertising matter exceeding 5 per cent of the total space would be taxed from ¼ to 2¼ cents additional until July 1, 1919, and from one-half cent to 4½ cents more until July 1, 1920; and from three-fourths cent to 6¾ cents to 1921 and from one cent to nine cents thereafter.

An additional tax of one-half cent per pound until July 1, 1919, and one-fourth cent thereafter, on religious, agricultural, fraternal and similar publications was adopted.

The one-cent tax on letters, excepting drop letters and postal cards, was restored by the conferees. A one-cent additional tax on postal and private mailing cards was added.

Railroad Tickets Hit.

The conferees levied 3 per cent in lieu of the senate rate of 5 and the house rate of 10 per cent on passenger transportation, estimated to raise from the compromise levy about $90,000,000 instead of $37,500,000 under the senate plan. The 3 per cent tax on freight transportation was retained and the tax on express transportation was increased so that one cent would be levied on each 20 cents paid instead of each 25 cents. The house 10 per cent tax on Pullman accommodations, cut to 5 per cent by the senate, was restored and is estimated to raise $5,000,000.

In lieu of the house 5 per cent tax on sales of automobiles by manufacturers and the senate federal license tax on owners, the conferees adopted a 3 per cent tax on all motor vehicles, including trucks, payable by manufacturers, producers and importers.

Taxes of 3 per cent on manufacturers' sales of musical instruments and jewelry also were written in, with a tax of one-fourth cent a foot on motion picture film.

On sporting goods, the revised bill levied 3 per cent on manufacturers' sales instead of 5 per cent proposed by the house and 2 per cent by the senate.

The senate 2 per cent manufacturers' sales taxes on perfumes and patent medicines was retained.

The senate 1-cent stamp tax on bank checks was not restored, but its tax of 1 cent on parcel post packages costing 25 cents or more was retained. Other stamp taxes, all made effective December 1, were retained and the house tax on indemnity bonds restored.

New Inheritance Tax.

The new rates on inheritances, with those of Americans in military service exempted, range from one-half of 1 per cent on $50,000 estates to 10 per cent on estates of $10,000,000 and more.

The bulk of the increases of between $350,000,000 and $300,000,000 made by the conferees in the senate bill was secured from the postage, public utilities and manufacturing sales section and the new inheritance taxes.

With but few exceptions, the new taxes are effective with the passage of the act.

Senate Version Stands.

The income tax section was adopted virtually as written by the senate. The new 2 per cent normal tax on incomes of more than $2,000 for married persons and $1,000 for single persons is in addition to the present law exempting incomes of less than $3,000 for single persons and $4,000 for married persons. Thus those between the new low exemption bases and the present exemptions will pay only the 2 per cent tax, but single persons having an income of $3,000 or more and married persons whose income is $4,000 or more would pay the full 4 per cent normal tax.

Surtax Is Agreed Upon.

Surtaxes were agreed upon as follows:

One per cent on incomes over $5,000 and less than $7,500; 2 per cent between $7,500 and $10,000; 3 per cent between $10,000 and $12,500; 4 per cent between $12,500 and $15,000; 5 per cent between $15,000 and $20,000; 7 per cent between $20,000 and $40,000; 10 per cent between $40,000 and $60,000; 14 per cent between $60,000 and $80,000; 18 per cent between $80,000 and $100,000; 22 per cent between $100,000 and $150,000; 25 per cent between $150,000 and $200,000; 30 per cent between $200,000 and $250,000; 34 per cent between $250,000 and $300,000; 37 per cent between $300,000 and $500,000; 40 per cent between $500,000 and $750,000; 45 per cent between $750,000 and $1,000,000, and 50 per cent on incomes exceeding $1,000,000.

Messages to Pay.

House and senate provisions for a tax of 5 cents each on telegraph, telephone and radio messages costing 15 cents or more and designed to raise $7,000,000 were retained, but the house tax on gas, electric and telephone service was eliminated.

Taxes on life insurance, eliminated from the house bill in the senate, were amended and reinserted, raising about $5,000,000.

Amusement taxes agreed upon provide a tax rate of 1 cent on each 10 cents or fraction thereof of the admission charge. Nickel theaters and shows, rides and other outdoor park amusements with a maximum admission of 10 cents and benefit entertainments and agricultural fairs were exempted.

After November 1, 1917, members of all clubs, except fraternal orders, paying more than $12 annual dues would be subject to a 10 per cent tax.

Increased senate rates on whisky and beer were virtually retained and that on wines somewhat reduced. The tax on distilled spirits was made $2.10 per gallon when for beverage use and $1 less for industrial purposes, estimated to raise $125,000,000. The amendment prohibiting importation of distilled spirits for beverage use was retained.

Floor taxes to reach withdrawn liquors were approved. Beer was taxed $1.50 per barrel additional, to raise $46,000,000, an increase of 25 cents per barrel over the house rate. Present wine taxes were doubled.

Taxes on nonalcoholic beverages were compromised.

Senate rates on cigars and cigarettes were retained, but those on snuff were increased from 4 cents to 5 cents a pound.

RETAIL COAL PRICES CUT BY GARFIELD

Fixes Maximum Prices to Be Charged on Thirty Per Cent Increase Basis.

RATES ARE EFFECTIVE TODAY

Administrator Says Public Will Benefit in Communities Where Dealers Have Been Making Excessive Profits.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Three important orders affecting coal prices were issued by Fuel Administrator Harry A. Garfield.

By their terms the following become effective today:

1. Maximum retail prices of anthracite and bituminous coal, based on dealers' average gross margin of profit in 1915 plus 30 per cent added to the present cost to dealers, as fixed by the government.
2. Reduction of 60 cents or 15 per cent in prices at the mines of Pennsylvania anthracite pea coal.
3. Increases ranging from 20 cents to $1.30 a ton for bituminous coal at the mines in nine states where operators have claimed that the former prices fixed by President Wilson were not sufficient to cover costs.

Contracts Unaffected.

Mr. Garfield's order covering retail prices contains full directions to dealers how to figure their average gross margins in 1915 and how to fix their present prices. It is stipulated, however, that the new order does not affect contracts between retailers and consumers.

Whether the public will receive considerable reductions is difficult to judge. It is Mr. Garfield's belief in many communities, where the retailers have been making excessive profits, there will be marked decreases in prices to the public. In other localities, where retailers have been content with modest profits, it will not make so much difference.

Must File Sheets.

Retailers throughout the country will be called upon to file sworn cost sheets with the fuel administrator and the federal trade commission. Under power conferred by the food control act heavy penalties may be imposed upon those who fail to carry out the fuel administrator's orders.

For the present the retailers will be put upon their honor to fix their prices according to regulations. In the near future, however, local committees will be organized in each city by state fuel administrators. It will be the duty of these committees to enforce the retail price rules.

In no case may a dealer make a greater profit than during July of the present year.

Price Computation.

To compute the retail price a dealer must take his average gross margin in 1915 plus 30 per cent and then add it to the price of the coal at the mines, plus the jobber's profits of from 15 to 30 cents a ton plus the freight from the mines to his city. If the dealer made a gross profit of $2 a ton in 1915 he will make about $2.60.

The public will benefit directly by the reduction in anthracite coal at the mines.

These reductions, which apply only to Pennsylvania anthracite pea coal, are as follows:

White ash reduced from $4 to $3.40.
Red ash reduced from $4.10 to $3.50.
Lykens Valley reduced from $4.35 to $3.75.

Secretary Reveals Existence of Huge Sum During Visit of Sleuths to Chicago Offices.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Further revelations of a nation-wide I. W. W. conspiracy for sedition and revolution included the statement of the secretary of the organization here that $500,000 has been raised to finance a revolt against the government.

Federal and state operatives visited the West Madison street headquarters of the organization and questioned another group of members.

The I. W. W.'s were defiant.

One, the Chicago secretary, turned to the officer and shouted:

"We've raised $500,000 already to fight your government and you haven't begun to stop us."

Government raids on the I. W. W. meeting places have stopped further gatherings.

Three Leaders of Organization Taken in New York—100,000 Face Prison Terms.

New York, Oct. 1.—Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Carlos Thesca and Arthur Giovanni, I. W. W. leaders, have been arrested here by government officers. By the arrest of three idols of the I. W. W. in this city, the federal government revealed a process by which it is purposed to swell the jails of the nation with treason prisoners. One hundred thousand indictments lurk behind the swift movements of the government.

Tightens Blockade of Germany.

London, Oct. 1.—The allies plan a more vigorous blockade of Germany as a result of the conference between Lord Robert Cecil, British minister of blockade, and the French minister of blockade. A proclamation was signed by the king prohibiting the exportation of certain articles to Sweden and Holland.

Former Allan Liner Sunk.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 25.—The British steamship Virginian of 6,827 tons, formerly an Allan liner in transatlantic passenger trade, is said to have been one of the victims of the massed attack by German submarines on a convoyed fleet of British merchant vessels off the Irish coast early this month.

BRITISH DEFEAT DIVERS IN FIGHT

Submarine Torpedoed by English Undersea Boat, Says Statement.

CREW BLOWN OUT OF TOWER

Victors Find Germans Swimming in Pool of Oil After Craft Is Destroyed—Bombs Destroy U-Boats.

London, Oct. 1.—Another series of thrilling reports of recent naval actions against German submarines, illustrative of the manner in which the U-boat menace is being met, was given out by the admiralty. The figures are official and authenticated, but no dates are given.

The statement begins by reciting how a torpedo gunboat sighted a periscope 600 yards away and turned ship so that the periscope was traveling in the opposite direction to that in which it was first seen. When at a distance of fifty yards the periscope disappeared, and the gunboat, altering its course, passed over the submarine.

Drop Explosive Charges.

The impact of the collision was felt, and when the captain estimated that the submarine was under the afterpart of his ship, explosive charges were dropped astern. A seaplane reported patches of oil on the surface and a mine-sweeper found an obstruction on the bottom at this point.

A torpedo boat patrolling in the Atlantic found a steamer torpedoed and sinking. The survivors were rescued, and then the torpedo boat circled about the locality for more than an hour. Finally, a white patch of water was seen dead ahead.

The torpedo boat dashed over the spot, grazed the submarine and dropped three submarine bombs. Oil and air bubbles reeking of gasoline came to the surface, and the mine-sweeper found another obstruction here.

"Sub" Against "Sub."

The next encounter described in the statement was that of submarine against submarine. A British U-boat sighted a German submersible while both were on the surface.

The British submarine dived and later picked up the enemy through the periscope. A torpedo, fired at 800 yards, caused a violent explosion in the German vessel.

When the British arrived they found a patch of oil in which Germans were swimming. The Germans said that they had been blown out through the conning tower, and that their craft had been hit amidships, overturned and sank.

U-Boat on Fire.

The training of mercantile marine officers in gunnery tactics is bearing fruit. A British merchantman was attacked by submarine gunfire from a distance of three miles. The shots were wild and she immediately replied. At the sixth and seventh rounds, smoke and flame burst from the fore part of the submarine, which abandoned the chase.

VILLAGES OF GALICIA.

Where Family, Cattle and Fowls All Live In Two Rooms.

The villages of Galicia are especially interesting on Sundays and holidays, when the national costumes are donned.

The cottages are generally made of stone or board plastered over and are then covered with a coat of whitewash. The straw roof is frequently crowned with green growing moss, which adds to its picturesque appearance if not to its healthfulness. Water is drawn from the wells by a long pole balanced near the center. These wells have a decided old world appearance.

The interior of the cottages is usually divided into two rooms. In one room the entire family lives, eats and sleeps. In the other, in more or less harmonious contentment, dwell the cows, pigs, chickens and geese. No household would be complete without a number of geese.

Around these cottages a number of children are sure to be seen playing. A dozen or twenty or thirty of such cottages, each separated only by a small yard, make up a village. If there is a marriageable daughter in the house the lintel of the door and the window surroundings are ornamented with little irregular bands, which is a notice to the marriageable young men.—Christian Herald.

VALUE IN DEAD LETTERS.

The Loss and Trouble That Are Caused by Sheer Carelessness.

More than two and a quarter million dollars' worth of checks, drafts, money orders and other valuable papers were found in undelivered letters by the dead letter office during the last year, and practically all were restored to their owners.

The first assistant postmaster general announces that the dead letter division handled 10,889,890 letters and parcels during the year, a slight increase over the previous year. One third of these letters and parcels, or 3,677,194, was delivered. 101,485 contained things of value without clew to their senders and were held for claimants, 7,019,436 had to be destroyed and 41,775 still are being investigated.

In addition to the valuable papers, with a face value of $2,303,119, found in undelivered letters, many contained stamps, and some currency was found loose in the mails.

The dead mail received by the dead letter division during the year contained 677,704 misdirected letters, 115,766 unaddressed letters, 228,700 letters held for postage, 110,200 letters written on hotel letter paper by persons unknown to the hotels and 104,700 letters bearing fictitious signatures.

Army Aviation Service.

Significant, in view of the popular conception of flying as extreme daredeviltry, is the record of the United States army aviation service from Jan. 1 to Dec. 26, 1916. During that period 7,087 flights were made by military pilots. In all 3,357 hours were spent in the air, which means that more than nine hours each day of the year some soldier airman was aloft. The distance traveled amounted to approximately 251,775 miles, or slightly more than ten times the circumference of the earth. There was no fatality. Evidently these figures cannot be fairly compared with current railroad and motorcar statistics. Contrasts are not needed, however, to accent their import. Sane flying is not yet accident proof and possibly never will be, but neither is it extremely foolhardy.—Searle Hendee in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Richard the Hunchback.

Of all the kings of England perhaps Richard, the hunchback, has the most sinister reputation, his only rival being the crafty John. He died on Bosworth field fighting for the crown he had gained by murder. It is a matter of history as well as of Shakespeare—not always the same thing—that the tide of success turned against Richard when Lord Stanley took himself and his men from his side to that of Richmond. When hard pressed Richard cried: "I am king of England! I will not budge an inch." Then, being overwhelmed, he died, crying: "Treason! Treason!"

The Social Ladder

There Is Money as Well as Position on the Top Round

By ETHEL HOLMES

Billy Saxton and Eunice Mainwaring were married at an unfortunate time. They had been both brought up in luxury and had met, loved and become engaged in the social whirl. But they were the last of a long line of rich people, and neither possessed anything whereon to live except their clothes, though this in Eunice's case was considerable.

Love spurred Billy to make an effort, and he secured a position giving him $25 a week. The two figured out how they would make it do, and, Cupid holding the pencil, brought their requirements within it. So they were married. But unfortunately the pan-European war came on about this time, and prices began to soar. Billy's salary remained where it was. Articles that they required rose from 50 to 100 per cent. Therefore their income was really not more than from $10 to $20 a week. Cupid, after he has got a couple off his hands by marrying them, does not further trouble himself about their affairs. The Saxtons made new figures, but the little god was not wagging the pencil, and this time the result spelled ruin.

After a long conference it was agreed between them that Billy should go to Mr. Goldwin, the head of the firm by which he was employed, call his attention to the raise in prices of necessities and ask if something could not be done to enable him to earn a better income. The next day after business hours when Mr. Goldwin was about to leave his private office Billy opened the door and walked in. Billy had on a suit he had worn at the time of his marriage, a beautiful polkadot necktie and yellow spats. Most of his attire was somewhat worn, but it was in good style, and its owner looked more like a deposed prince of the blood inquiring for a rich American wife than a mere clerk.

Billy stammered forth his case while his employer listened, rather noting the young man's aristocratic appearance than the burden of his argument. But when the request came Mr. Goldwin told his employee that, while he saw the justice of his demand, he could not grant it. The profits in his business, while prices had been rising, had fallen proportionately. True, the firm had been doing a larger business than before, but everything required in it had so risen in price that the more business done the more money lost.

Billy knew that this was not so, and the knowledge only made him feel the more bitter at the refusal. He went out sorrowful. As he made his exit the wife of the head of the firm entered. She was richly dressed and bespangled with jewels. She had come to drive her husband home in his auto.

"Who is that young man?" she asked.

"His name is Saxton. Why do you ask?"

"He's the most aristocratic looking person I have seen in a long while. Is he in your employ?"

"Yes; he has a minor clerkship."

"A minor clerkship! A young man of his age and to the manner born occupying a minor clerkship!"

"Our clerks are not appointed because they are aristocratic looking and wear fine clothes."

"Nevertheless I think I see in this young man something more valuable and ornamental than one perched on a high stool turning over the leaves of a ledger."

"Well, my dear, if you will tell me how to make him thus valuable I will see what I can do about it."

"Ask him to dinner."

Mr. Goldwin, having just refused Billy a raise in salary, was not minded to invite him to dinner. Such an invitation would suggest that the employer had reconsidered the request of the employee and would show a favoritism to one of the office force that would have a bad effect. Mr. Goldwin said that he would see about it, and the subject was dropped for the time. When Mrs. Goldwin brought it up again her husband told her that Billy had a wife and it would be out of the question to give him an invitation without including his consort. Mrs. Goldwin, not being sure that Mrs. Saxton was up to Billy's aristocratic standard, dropped the matter—at least for the time.

One Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Goldwin were reading the morning papers, he the financial articles, his wife the society columns. Mrs. Goldwin's eye alighted upon an announcement of the first appearance in the social world for some time of Mr. and Mrs. William Saxton at a function given by Mrs. Saxton's aunt, Mrs. DeVersey Mainwaring. Mrs. Goldwin at once called her husband's attention to the announcement and berated him soundly for not having given the invitation she had suggested. Mr. Goldwin, who knew something of social customs, suggested that Mrs. Saxton must be considered in the matter and raised a lot of objections, which for the time being carried his point.

But his wife, whose sole ambition in the world was to force an entrance into society, was not satisfied. After this she scrutinized the society news and saw on several occasions the names of Mr. and Mrs. William Saxton at different functions. The reason for this was that an uncle of Billy, wishing to sell a piece of property, told his nephew that he would give him a commission if he would make a sale. Billy sold the property and received $500 commission.

This uncle of Billy's was a practical, matter of fact man, and Billy asked him how he could best invest the money paid him.

"Billy," said his uncle, "every man should use what he has on which to build. The only thing you have is the entree into society. There are persons who would give you a fortune for an introduction to the gilded world. But you couldn't deliver the goods. Still, in society lies your field. My advice is for you to spend your $500 in suitable clothes for yourself and wife and other necessities in keeping in with the swells. Meanwhile keep your eye skinned for a chance to make a profitable deal. Some financial magnate may take a fancy to you and give you a tip."

Billy saw the drift of the advice, and Billy's wife advocated following it with all her heart. Billy's investment in clothes was confined principally to a dress suit, and the rest of the funds devoted to apparel went to his wife. After this the names of Mr. and Mrs. William Saxton were to be found quite often in the society columns of the newspapers.

One day James Edgerton, a business acquaintance of Billy's, called upon him and told him that he was about to place a very large order for goods dealt in by the John Goldwin company. He intimated that if Billy could get him satisfactory figures he would give him the order. Billy figured that the commission involved would amount to a small fortune. He called on Mr. Goldwin and submitted the matter. Goldwin was eager to secure the order. When the bids were all in Edgerton said to Billy:

"By the bye, Saxton, is Mrs. Montgomery Saxton a relative of yours?"

"She is my aunt."

"I see by the papers that there is to be a wedding in that family in June, and all the swells will be there. Are you going?"

"Certainly."

Then the conversation turned again upon the bids. When Billy went home that evening he told Eunice about this mention of the wedding.

"Did you tell him you would get him an invitation?" asked Eunice.

"Why, no; I didn't think to do that. He is only a business acquaintance."

"Stupid! Go ask your aunt for an invitation for him and his wife, if he has a wife, and tell her that this order you are expecting from him is dependent upon her sending him one."

Billy hurried off to his aunt and upon making known his reasons for asking for the invitation received it and the next day when he called on Edgerton to talk business tossed it on the desk before which he sat. Edgerton put it in his pocket, and before Billy left him he had the order he coveted. But there was a condition attached to it—he must place it with Sampson, Bliss & Co., a firm Edgerton wished to favor.

Billy reported to Mr. Goldwin the result of the negotiations, much to that gentleman's disappointment. Goldwin had mentioned the matter to his wife, and when she asked him if he had received the order he was obliged to make known why he had not received it. He told the story Billy had told him, including the exchange of the wedding invitation for the order. There followed a storm in the Goldwin family, during which Mrs. Goldwin said she did not believe that Billy had been forced to give the order to Sampson, Bliss & Co. and if her husband had followed her suggestion to invite the Saxtons to dinner his firm would have received the order.

This put a suspicion into Mr. Goldwin's head that Billy had favored another concern in preference to his employer's, and it rankled in his heart. Billy's services were easy to replace, and when he went to his office the next day his employer showed his spleen by discharging his clerk. Billy was told the reason for his dismissal and was very much hurt thereat. He told Edgerton about it, and Edgerton went to Sampson, Bliss & Co. and secured him a position at double the salary he had been receiving.

Billy's commission on the order was some $12,000 and a new salary at $50 a week. But this was only the beginning of a successful career. It was known that he had controlled an order amounting to several hundred thousand dollars, and a number of concerns offered him a better salary than that given him by his new employer. But by the advice of Edgerton he declined them all. The truth is that Edgerton's wife was a woman well calculated for a social shiner, but had needed a start, a first appearance, to enable her to get her tentacles on those she would utilize for climbing. The invitation that came through Billy Saxton was all she required, and the next season found Mr. and Mrs. Edgerton fully recognized as members of the golden circle.

As for Mr. and Mrs. Saxton, they, too, had made a start. It was not up the social ladder, for they had been born on the top round. It was in making their social position pay financially. Mrs. Saxton has taken up the matter and with hints from her husband has already received certain tips that have enabled him to get in on the ground floor of enterprises that promise large results. The couple's ancestors would have scorned to make capital out of their social position, but the present social circle is a very different one from that of the olden time. The social circle of those days was based largely on refinement, and, although the possession of wealth has always been conducive to refinement, it was then possible for refined persons to maintain a position in society without wealth. Today that is impossible except when the position is inherited, and then only for a short period.

St. Augustine Nights.

By night (in St. Augustine) you may hear the negroes sweeping the streets, doubly darkling over their surface and softly gossiping together. Theirs are not the only black voices you hear, for their casual race seems to have no more stated hours for sleeping than eating. Their mellow murmurs, especially when the nights are warm, rise in what seems perpetual joking, as if from their humorous pleasure at being alive together in the same amusing world, and if you have no worse conscience than the talkers their voices will lull you again to the slumbers they have broken. It is as if a swarm of blackbirds carrying news of the spring northward had swept chuckling through the trees and fluttered the fans of the palms and the leaves of the magnolias with such comment in their course as would naturally occur to blackbirds.—W. D. Howells in Harper's Magazine.

Value of Responsibility.

Greater than the value of contact with facts is the value of responsibility. In a man's life it is the arrival of some responsibility which arouses the powers and makes durable the qualities of manliness.

The effect of responsibility is instantaneous. It is like a magnet in its power to charge the individual with the faculties needed for the matter in hand. A light is generated among the fragments of information. Even after a systematic education these fragments seem to lie in the mind in a chance order until this light appears and shows them ready for use; then abilities develop which never would develop, even with practice, without responsibility.—Atlantic Monthly.

Where One Czar Fell.

A church in Petrograd having both autocratic and revolutionary associations is the Church of the Redeemer. It was erected at a cost of £500,000 on the exact site of the murder of the ex-czar's grandfather, Alexander II. The spot where he fell remains (though now within the building) precisely as it was, even to the blood on the stones, each of which has an identification number. Above these is a wonderful canopy of malachite stone, from which depend an orb, a scepter and a crown of thorns. Folding doors of pure silver and ikons incrusted with precious stones surround the shrine.

RED CROSS NEWS

There was not prouder woman in Tecumseh, than Miss A. B. Hosmer on Saturday evening, with a table piled high with every kind of knitted articles needed by the soldiers, and more coming in all the time from her committee. She said that it made her feel good to think of the comfort the soldiers in the trenches would take from the warm wool garments. She wishes to express her heartfelt thanks to her knitters, for heir excellent work, and wanted to tell them that she is proud of Tecumseh. Mrs. Hart of Adrian who inspects the work, said that all the Tecumseh work was first class.

Miss Hosmer disposed of her last 20 pounds of wool in less than 24 hours, and will bring more back today. Mrs. Heesen drove over with the goods which consisted of 20 large knitted sweaters, 28 large mufflers, 38 pair wristlets, 7 pair bed socks.

Received by Guy Nemire for donation fund.

Chas. Burridge, Mr. Cutting and Mr. Finch are hard at work inventing a machine, which will enable them to take care of the large orders of knitting needles, that are offered to them by the State Red Cross. If they succeed it will be something for the town to be proud of.

The Tecumseh Laundry has done another big washing of rags for the comfort pillows.

Mr. Will Coller painted two large signs on muslin, for the Red Cross Concert Company, to place on the back of their autos.

Dr. Bredows class in surgical dressings met on Friday. Owing to several members being out of town, only six were present. 116 large and small compresses were finished. The class will meet every Wednesday and Friday at 1:30 p. m. until further notice.

The white wall paper donated by Mrs. B. J. Pulver was put on with money donated for the purpose and new blue and white linoleum has been laid on the floor, making a very light, clean workroom.

Mrs. Harry Dunn is going to resume work on comfort pillows. All those wanting to help, please call her up about the middle of the week. Our American comfort pillows have been greatly appreciated all over the fighting lines.

Mrs. Sena Crane needs helpers very much to make pajamas. She offers to give instruction in the afternoon to anyone who will call her up in the morning, so that she will be at home. Mrs. Crane is a splendid needlewoman and the pajamas made under her direction have received much praise.

Mrs. A. W. Mills is waiting for yarn. As soon as it comes she will notify her committee.

The Rev. W. A. Rex, who is director of transportation, is appealing for volunteers to take goods to Adrian; if you have some spare room in your car, call up No. 400 before you go.

Mrs. W. A. Rex offers to do all job printing and duplicate letter work for the Red Cross.

The Red Cross Concert Company, consisiting of Mrs. Fred Wood, Mrs. Robt. Moore, Mrs. Ella Hodges, Mrs. J. C. Law Hardy, Mr. W. S. and Mr. Fred Dickinsn, Mr. Floyd Juckett, Mr. Harold Lowry and Mr. Herbert Temple, gave a concert in Coldwater on Thursday evening. Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Gamble entertained seven of the company most charmingly and the other two were entertained by Mrs. Glen Cowell. The audience was most enthusiastic, asking for several encores to every number, finally winding up by giving three cheers for the Tecumseh Red Cross Company. Owing to the Hillsdale fair, the audience was not as large as could have been desired, but a collection netted $60.62, of which half wnt to the Coldwater Red Cross and half to the Tecumseh. This makes $430.00 to date.

The company left after a delightful time on Friday morning, promising to give another concert at Thanksgiving. Mr. Herbert Temple drove eight of the company over and donated the use of his car. The company performs in Deerfield tonight.

Mrs. Floy Freeman Reason writes that Col. Reason, who is now officer commanding No. 111 Canadian Stationery Hospital in France sent the following for the Red Cross news:

"You would be pleased with the men that come into the hospital. They give no trouble whatever, are always very grateful for what is done for them and are always ready to lend a hand to help a comrade or any of the staff who may need it. The other day I saw a young Australian, I should say that he was not more than 17 years of age, taking a German prisoner of about the same age out for a walk. The 'Anzac' and 'Fritz' were supremely happy and it would be hard to tell from the looks of them and the well fed appearance of both which was the prisoner."

Mrs. Reason writes that she is proud of the work Tecumseh is doing. We did not take up Red Cross work here for the hope of praise, yet it seems from the letters that pour in that there is nothing Tecumseh could do that would bring her more honor than unselfish labor for America's Red Cross. Let us put our shoulders to the wheel and try and beat every town our size in the good work.

Above all, let us show our contempt and scorn for every slur, every slander on the Red Cross. If there was one thing one should have considered above the reach of Hohenzollern calumny, one would have thought it was the unselfish organization that cares for friend and foe alike. And shame on the American who helps the German propaganda by repeating what will hurt the one organization that can save the lives of our boys.

There does not seem to be a rush to claim the $50.00 offered to anyone who can prove that the Red Cross has sold goods. After all this talk, no one person to come and pocket $50.00 of easy money. How funny!

Publicity Director.

MONDAY CLUB OPENING DAY

On Monday, October 1st, the Tecumseh Monday Club held its first meeting, designated in the program as President's Day. Mrs. F. C. Dickinson, the new president, presided with Mrs. Emilie Hall in the secretary's chair. The front of the room was beautifully decorated with flags masses of goldenrod, baskets of zinnias and dahlias and trailing bittersweet. The decorations were planned by Mrs. Paul Bowen.

After a few opening words the president introduced Mrs. W. W. Crabbs of Morenci, president of the County Federation. Mrs. Crabbs discussed club work in Lenawee county, bringing up the vital issues with which the clubs must deal this year. She was heartily applauded. Mrs. Horton of Morenci then sang two numbers in a most pleasing manner. They were "Sylvan" by Landon Ronald and "The Nightingale Hath a Lyre of Gold" by Whelpley. Mrs. Fred Wood accompanied in her usual delightful manner.

The next speaker was the State President, Mrs. Albert E. Bulson of Jackson and nothing short of a stenagraphic report could do justice to her address. Compelled by lack of time to be brief, she touched quickly, but emphatically on the great issues which the women of Michigan must meet during the next month; the second Liberty Loan, the second Hoover Food Drive, the committee for National Defense and other questions so vital that her audience listened with bated breath. Many members afterward expressed the regret that the meeting had not been an open one so that all the women of Tecumseh might have been there.

At the close of Mrs. Bulson's address Mrs. Horton sang a selection from "In a Persian Garden" by Liza Lehman and an "Autumn Song" by Landon Ronald. These numbers were greatly appreciated by those present and helped to round out a perfect afternoon.

An informal reception followed the meeting. Orange Ice, cake and coffee were served by Mrs. Herebrt Temple's committee. Other out of town guests were Mrs. Frank Dodge of Adrian, State Corresponding Secretary and Mrs. Albert G. Wesley, President of the Adrian Woman's Club.

"WHEN DREAMS COME TRUE"

"When Dreams Come True" is the most pretentious attraction booked at the Bradley in many monhs The company coming here is a big city company in every sense of the word carrying a complete 60 foot car load of special scenery and effects. Their contract with the local transfer company calls for 16 hanging pieces, two loads of flats and from 40 to 60 trunks and crates. To anyone who knows about the amount of stuff carried by theatrical attractions they will readily understand that this means "some stuff" - it is very seldom that half this amount of scenery and other stage effects is carried by an attraction.

One of the most talked of choruses in this country at the present time is that seen with "When Dreams Come True" There are some seventeen dancing numbers, most of them invented staged by Lawrence Ackerland, the leading man with the company who also participates in nearly all of the numbers.

'Glorious girlhood, gorgeously gowned,' might be used to describe the chorus of "When Dreams Come True" which is aptly described as a dainty musical comedy of youth, full of tuneful music and catchey songs. This is one of the best of its type of plays produced during recent years, the play is the work of Philip Barthofomae, author of several big musical successes including "Overnight" and "Very Good Eddie" while the music is by Silvio Hein who has composed the scores for some ofthe most pronounced successes of recent years. By the way, the Adrian orchestra will be engaged to furnish the music which assures you that every number will be rendered [illegible] up to the minute.

"When Dreams Come True" will be at the Bradley next Thursday, October 4th and the theatre going public are assured one of the best entertainments coming to Tecumseh this season.

JUNIOR NOTES

Believing that the readers of the "Herald" might be interested in knowing just who are the members of the Junior class, the following list was given to the editor for publication.

Luster Best, Pres.; Alice Hardenburg, Vice Pres.; Jane McConnell, Sec'y; Perry Hayden, Treas.; Elizabeth Comfort, Robert Moore, Cecil Moore, Helen Morgan, Marion Crittenden, Mabel Lockwood, Harley Van Vleet, Milburn Brooks, Eula Schwartz Vera Sisson, Lucile Miller, Gladys Gilbert, Gladwin Orr, Violet Boyd, Kenneth Fletcher, Harold Blessing, Edgar Meads, Jessie French.

Herr Fletcher and Fraulein Moore are in great danger for Miss (German) Miller has threatened to have their heads removed if they didn't get their ja, ja, say's better.

Speaking of heads reminds us of an amusing incident in English III class when Miss Palmer was describing a thrilling moment at the circus, "Yes sir that trainer put his head in the lions mouth and left it there!"

Concerning Foot Ball

The foot ball with Manchester last Friday resulted in a 21 to 0 defeat for our griddies.

We journeyed to Manchester in four cars arriving there at three o'clock. Althought the first two cars made a speed way of the road we all arrived there safely.

The game was called with Tecumseh receiving the kick off, and they started like veterans, especially the back field. After the ball had changed hand a few times, the quarter ended with the Germans in possession, near our goal line.

The second quarter resulted in a touch down for Manchester and it ended, with a schore of 7 to 0.

Manchester continually tackled high and was penalized several times or off side play.

The second half commenced with Tecumseh, receiving which after some splendid efforts by the back field, was spoiled by a poor pass by Tecumseh. This of course resulted in another touch down for Manchester and the quarter ended 14 to 0 with Tecumseh in possession of the ball.

A perfect pass hurled by Joe to Pat to start the fourth quarter. Pat was a little over anxious and after dodging all but one, hurled this last one and was penalized 15 yards, after a long delay, as Manchester's referee did not act as though he was acquainted with the game, a poor pass by Davidson ended in a touch down for Manchester. The game ended with the ball in Manchesters possession in the middle of the field.

Sat and Pat Murphy featured for Tecumseh and without a doubt we could have had better support.

Harold Skinner was the able referee during the last half, and he proved to be a good one.

After visiting the confectioners where we paid for drinks that were undrinkable, we made an uneventful trip for home except for a stop at Meads where we filled up on water mellons.

We all solemnly vow that Manchester will bite the dust week after next, when they play here.

Lets all get out and Cheer! for our team. Any one who fails to be on the dock when we play Manchester is a "Slacker."

Come out every one and help us to put Tecumseh back on the Foot ball map. We want to have some pleasant memories to carry with us into our new building.

WATCH FOR THE HIGH SCHOOL CIRCUS

It is rather amusing to notice how some people still take the Vendoma for a Hotel. Our only excuse is that the elevator is busted!

Oh what a mess in Algrebra II. Ask the ones who know.

Miss Comfort informed the English III class that Samuel Sewall was famous for his "Dairy." Now we know shes a farmer-(ess.)

All the "Freshies (at least itsounded that way) were in the gallery to hear the Kilties Tuesday night.

We'll wager that there were some (?) lessons the next day.

WARNING

To the Juniors and all other animals of the Tecumseh High School!

Do not sneeze or cause any draught of air to come near Miss Hardenburg.

Why!

We will tell you. In a Physics test, after using several sheets of paper, on a problem in which she was asked to find her weight in grams she put down .045 grams.

TECUMSEH CIGAR MAKERS OUT ON A STRIKE

Quit Work Saturday Night.

Demand For $1.00 Per Thousand Increase is Not Granted

The cigar makers working in our two local factories went out a strike Saturday night after a conference with their employers A committee representing the Cigar Maker's Union met with the employers Saturday evening and the differences were gone over but no increase in wages was granted.

The men who were getting $8.00 per thousand asked for an increase of $1.00, making the price asked for $9.00 per thousand. They claimed that the increased cost of living and prices paid by other shops in various towns and cities about warranted this increase to them.

The employers on the other hand while acknowledging that the cost of living has increased, claim that they are paying as liberal a wage as conditions will warrant at the present time and that the prices paid by them are as high as other shops employing men labor are paying and in some instances higher. To keep the grade of their goods up to the present standard and to compete with other goods placed on the market makes it impossible to make the advance asked for by the men.

Not a cigar has been made in Tecumseh this week and both shops are idle About 20 or 22 men are employed in the two shops and this is the first strike that has occurred in either shop which has meant a walk out. The differences are at present dead locked, nothing having been conceded by either faction.

The Whiting shop has been in business since 1892 while the Freeman shop has been operating much longer. These factories have always put out quality goods, their "Chic" and "Beauty" 5c cigars being popular sellers all through the Southern Michigan territory.

The men are backed by the Cigar Maker's Union in the strike, who have ruled that their demands are just, but urged that ever effort be used to bring about a friendly solution of the differences existing between themselves and their employers before resorting to a walkout.

We understand that the men are drawing $5.00 per week from the Union for single men and $6.00 per week for married men while out on the strike. We were told this morning that one of the shops had goods finished that would supply their trade about two or three weeks and stock on hand which would carry them to the first of the year.

WANTED! CAMP LIBRARIES! NOTICE!

Anyone who has ever spent any time at all in a town possessing no Library whatever realizes the blessing of books is never half appreciated one occasionally hears ehe remark "I don't know how we'd ever get along without the Library." Probably there are many more who feel it than there are who say it, but everyone in this town is going to have a chance to give some tangible indication of appreciation they feel for the use of books.

The Michigan War Council sends the following word;

"The government order given to Public Libraries is to raise $1,000,-000 for Camp Libraries. The suggested assessment for each locality is five per cent of the population. This means that Michigan with a population of 3,000,000 must raise $150-000. That also means that Tecumseh's share is to be $150.

It is true that three are many demands upon us all at this time but it is no more than right that there should be. In a national crisis every resource must be used, and books have always been a power.

Any payments, whether from business firms, Public Organizations, or from private individuals may be left with the librarian at the Library or at her home, or with any member of the Library Board.

Signed,
Elizabeth Widney Lib'n.

WAGONS BUGGIES HARNESS

Tires that did not require setting in thirty years—on a Studebaker

WHEELS are the life of a wagon. Hubs, spokes, felloes and tires of the best materials, put together by skilled workmen, go into every Studebaker.

What is the result? Mr. William H. Horton, of Nineveh, N. Y. writes that the tires on his thirty-six year old Studebaker farm wagon did not need resetting in thirty years—and the wagon was in use every day.

We can prove to you that this is not an exceptional Studebaker wagon. There are thousands of Studebaker wagons in use today that are forty years old and more. And that have cost their owners little or nothing for repairs.

Come in and look over our stock of Studebaker vehicles. Let us show you how well they are built.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT

TWO PEOPLE SERIOUSLY INJURED AS TRAIN NO. 12 RAN INTO NORTH DEPOT

Nurse Bretternitz of Saline Struck By Train and John Taylor of Wauseon Fell from Train on Seeing the Accident

ACCIDENT YESTERDAY AT 1:01

Miss Anna Breitternitz of Saline, a trained nurse whose last case in Tecumseh was that of Rev. Geo. W. Jennings, met with what may prove a fatal accident Monday. She had taken dinner with Dr. and Mrs. Reed and called on Mrs. L. E. Temple and was to take the 1:01 north bound train. She was on her way and attempted to cross the track ahead of the train, but was too late. She was struck and dragged quite a distance, receiving severe injuries about her head requiring several stitches. She also suffered concussion of the brain.

She was taken to the home of Mrs. Temple and medical aid called, Dr. H. R. Conklin dressing her wounds and making her as comfortable as possible under the circumstances. Later she was taken to the home of her sister Mrs. Henry Boetgzer in Saline by Guy Belding. Miss Beth Satterthwaite accompanied her. She stood the trip nicely and strong hopes are entertained of her recovery.

John Taylor of Wauseon, a passenger on the train, seeing the accident went out on the rear platform and opened the door, falling to the ground. He was cut about the head and suffered a fractured rib. His heart was quite weak when the doctor examined him. Dr. Beardsley rendered the necessary aid and he was placed in the baggage car and taken to Jackson and placed in a hospital.

As we go to press it is reported that Mr Taylor is dead, but the report is not confirmed.

WHERE YOU ALWAYS DO BETTER

TECUMSEH MICHIGAN

WILL OUR STORE BE YOUR STORE?

The policy of this store to SERVE is not only more strictly adhered to today than ever, but it is also broadened to meet conditions of the hour.

We are going to serve you more thoroughly and more closely.

Your problems will be our problems. Rising costs to you mean rising costs to us. We MUST keep them at a minimum for ourselves. We must cut them for you because we are your source of supply—YOU LOOK TO US FOR THE REMEDY.

The LAW of compensation is still working and you have to pay for what you get, but in times like these there is too often a tendency on the part of dealers to overcharge the public by attempting to have them pay for what they DON'T GET.

The only way for us to save money FOR YOU is to sell at prices lower than those of other stores for goods of equal quality and desirability.

This may be accomplished by our doing a larger volume of business, and that is how it SHALL be accomplished.

WE SHALL ACT NOW!

We will not wait for volume before we cut YOUR costs—volume will come as the result.

We want this store to be more than ever your store and we hope you will never think of going out of Tecumseh for anything this store sells.

WHATEVER YOUR NEED IS, COME AND HELP TO MAKE IT YOUR STORE IN REALITY

A ROMAN SCARFPIN

It Started a Romance

By WILLARD BLAKEMAN

My grandfather was a sporty old gentleman and at sixty-three was as marked in his attentions to the ladies as a young man of twenty-five. And there was something about him that drew the fair sex to him I have seen a girl of twenty gladly leave a young man of twenty-five to chat with the old gentleman, very much to the younger one's dissatisfaction. I liked to hear him tell his escapades, and one day he related the following story:

When I was a young man a railroad train was a very different conveyance from what it is now. There were no sleeping or parlor cars, the coupling was the old method—by means of a pin and link, permitting the cars to swing from side to side—and, as for lights, there were nothing but lanterns. When a train passed through a tunnel these lanterns were left unlighted and the passengers in darkness.

I was traveling one day on one of these loosely bound together trains—I think I was nineteen years old at the time—when I had an adventure which influenced my whole life. On the opposite side of the car, several seats before me, sat a very pretty girl. She had a mouth that can only be described as kissable. I would have defied any one who saw it to refrain from wanting to kiss those vermilion lips.

At any rate, as soon as I saw them I was seized with a desire to kiss them, and the oftener I looked at them the stronger became the inclination. We had traveled in the same coach for several hours when suddenly the train shot into a tunnel.

The moment we were left in darkness an idea popped into my head. It was to go across the aisle and kiss those lips. I knew the tunnel and that a train required several minutes to pass through it. I would have what time I needed. The girl would not know who had kissed her. She might suspect me, but she would not be certain that I was the aggressor, and I had confidence in my ability to look innocent.

I arose from my seat, counted three seats forward by putting my hand on their backs and sought the girl by feeling for her. My hand touched her sleeve. I bent forward, brushed my face against hers till my lips met hers and took what, under the circumstances, might be called a reasonably long kiss.

I expected a shriek, but beyond a not overloud expression of surprise, which was drowned by the rattle of the train, there was no comment on my audacity. As soon as I had gratified my desire—every one knows how sweet is a stolen kiss—I retreated to my seat, and when the train left the tunnel my head was resting on the back of my seat, and I was a picture of innocent slumber.

After a few minutes I opened my eyes, yawned, looked out of the window and then about me. The girl was quietly reading a novel she had been perusing when the train entered the tunnel. I was pleased that she did not appear flustered. Her lips looked more kissable than ever, and I wished the whole journey were in a tunnel and I could repeat what I had done ad infinitum.

A young man is particular as to the set of his neckwear, and I passed my hand over my scarf to make sure that I had not disarranged it while stealing the kiss.

My scarfpin was missing.

Here was something on which I had not counted. The pin was a gift and a valuable one, a mosaic my mother had brought from the Eternal City. I knew that I had lost it while taking the kiss and had probably dropped it on the seat occupied by the girl or on the floor at her feet. But to look for it there would be a dead giveaway. What should I do? Brazen it out by making a search for the pin where I had lost it? I dared not.

In those days at the end of the car were a water cooler and a tin cup. I arose from my seat, walked slowly forward to the cooler, took a drink of water, turned and went back to my seat. As I passed the girl I glanced on the vacant part of the seat on which she sat and on the floor beside her, hoping to see my pin. It was not in sight. On my return trip I cast a momentary glance at the girl. She was reading her novel and did not look up. There was a suspicion of an amused look about those kissable lips.

Of course my examination of the seat and the floor was by no means thorough. I hoped the girl would leave the train before it reached my stopping place. This would give me an opportunity to make a satisfactory search for my pin. But we passed station after station without her making a move. Then came my stopping place. Should I give up my pin or go on till the girl left the train? I concluded to go on.

When the conductor came through the train after it left my stopping place and saw me still sitting there he stood stock still. This in itself was embarrassing. I bought a ticket to a point about twenty miles ahead. The girl, for some unexplained reason, turned and looked my way. There was the same suspicious look in her eye. The latter might have meant amusement, triumph or tantalization.

We rode on together for another ten miles, when the girl began to gather her belongings. Thank heaven, she was preparing to alight! True enough, when the next station, Talbotsville, was announced by the brakeman the young lady arose from her seat and moved to the door. She had scarcely reached it before I changed my seat for the one she had left and begun my search.

I looked on the seat. I looked on the floor. I lit a match to see better while hunting beneath. No pin was to be seen. I examined the aisle between the seat I had occupied and that on which the girl had sat. I was doomed to disappointment.

I now suspected that she had my pin.

I left the train at the next station, took a cab and rode back to Talbotsville. There I visited the two newspaper offices of the place and left an advertisement at each stating that a mosaic scarfpin had been lost on a certain train and the finder would be properly rewarded for its return; no questions asked. Then I went to my home, having left instructions at the offices of the papers to send me any replies that might come for me.

A couple of days later I received a letter signed Julia Waterman stating that she had found a mosaic scarfpin on the train mentioned. As to "no questions asked," the finder of the pin would ask the questions. She would return the pin without reward after the loser had explained how he came to lose it.

My suspicion of an amused smile was now explained. The girl had had my pin all the while I was looking for it. It was evident that I must confess. I wrote Miss Waterman that no girl with such kissable lips should be permitted to travel on any train that passed through a tunnel, for they offered an irresistible temptation. I was quite willing to give my pin, though it was a gift from my dear mother, for the kiss I had taken. It grew sweeter each day in my memory. If she would accept the one in lieu of the other I would consider the account closed.

The next day I recovered my scarfpin by express and a note saying that the writer had no kisses to dispose of in exchange for anything. She reserved the right to give her kisses to whomsoever she might choose. Not another word did she write. There was no demand for an apology or for a confession from me that I had committed a wrong. What I didn't like about it was that it closed the incident.

Now, I did not propose that it should be closed. I wished to form the young lady's acquaintance with a view to getting another kiss. One more? No; a dozen. A dozen? No; a hundred, a thousand, ten thousand. But how reopen the matter? I must invent some plan. Almost any plan would do, provided the young lady would be pleased to make my acquaintance. No plan would suffice if she desired that the matter be dropped. In other words, I might be the gainer by pushing on, and if I did not push on I would certainly be a loser.

I wrote her that I would be glad to expiate my robbery by giving her my scarfpin, but since she would not accept it in exchange for what I had taken, I would be only too glad to donate it or its value to any charity she might designate. This would not be disposing of the kiss for her own benefit, but for the relief of the needy. With this note I sent the scarfpin. The offer without the pin would have been useless. By sending the pin I forced her to take another step.

When a woman gives way to a persistent admirer, she is apt to do so all of a sudden. Miss Waterman replied to my note in a very different vein than before. She wrote me that I had behaved very well in atoning for my fault. As to what should be done with the pin, perhaps we had better talk the matter over. She would be pleased to have me call upon her for the purpose on a certain evening.

Napoleon at the battle of Wagram, when he saw a certain maneuver of the enemy, closed his fieldglass, considering the battle won. I folded Miss Waterman's note, considering that an acquaintance was effected. No more skirmishing was needed. On the evening designated I went over to the place of her residence on a train and at 8 o'clock in the evening appeared at her home.

Miss Waterman must have regretted her giving way or considered that an acquaintance formed in such manner was beneath her dignity. At any rate, she held me at some distance. This did not trouble me at all. There was plenty of time for it to wear off, and I made no mistake by proceeding too rapidly. She did not remain long on her dignity. She was full of love for adventure, and I had won her good will by my daring. We were soon laughing at the position I had been placed in, and she appeared to enjoy it immensely.

During the kiss in the dark her hand had come in contact with my scarfpin, and she had snatched it out of its place. She had noticed me, as I had noticed her—in fact, as boys and girls notice one another—and had especially admired my Roman scarfpin. When I passed her in the aisle on pretense of getting a glass of water, but really to look for the lost pin, she was brimming over with mischief.

That was half a century ago. That scarfpin never came back to me, but your grandmother gave herself to me in exchange for it. It has descended to your sister, who is the image of Julia Waterman when I stole that kiss in the dark.

But in the days of Pullman cars there are no such episodes as there were in unlighted railway trains and stagecoaches. Even the canalboat in those days furnished its quantum of romances.

OUR FIRST WATER WAGON.

A Prohibition Petition That Saw the Light Here In 1681.

The water wagon started on its journey through this country longer ago than most persons realize. I offer you as a proof of this assertion a copy of a quaint document that had its birth in the month of April in the year 1681, says Girard in the Philadelphia Ledger.

This old document is in the form of a petition to a royal governor signed by twelve men who were determined that the brewers' big horses shouldn't run over them and reads as follows:

"Whereas, wee, ye inhabitants of ye neu Seated Towne near ye falls of Dellaware (called Crewcorne), finding ourselves aggrieved by ye Indians when drunk, informeth that wee be and have been in great danger of our lives, of our houses burning, of our goods stealing and of our Wives and Children affrighting insomuch that wee are afeared to go about our Lawful affairs least when we come home we finde you and our concerns damnified.

"These things considered, wee doe humbly & jointly desire that the selling of brandy and strong liquors to ye Indians may be wholly suppressed, when if done wee hope wee shall live peaceably."

His Sermon.

"I used to worry about what I put into a sermon," said the minister.

"Yes?"

"But when I found that what people discussed was mainly the length of it I put about fifteen minutes into it and let it go at that."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Love.

Love is the most powerful of spells. Every other species of sorcery must yield to it. There is but one power against which it is helpless. What is that? It is not fire; it is not water; it is not air; it is not the earth with all its metals. It is time.—Heine.

When Lafayette Was In Jail.

After our Revolutionary war, while Lafayette was trying to reach Holland to escape enemies at home, he was seized by the Austrian government and imprisoned as a dangerous character. His wife also was imprisoned at Paris during the reign of terror, but succeeded in getting to Vienna and pleaded with the emperor for her husband's release. Lafayette's friends in this country did what they could in his behalf, and finally, on the 25th of August, 1797, he was set at liberty after five years' confinement in a dungeon. During this imprisonment two American friends of Lafayette—Francis K. Huger of Charleston, S. C., and Dr. Eric Bollman—made a daring attempt to liberate him, for which they both were imprisoned.

Horses Have Quick Ears.

The horse is really one of the best listeners in the world. He is always on the alert for sounds which concern or interest him. When he looks at anything he turns his ears toward it to observe the better whether any sound comes from it. If a horse is particularly interested in your driving of him he aways turns his ears backward toward you, but if he has no concern on that subject or if he sees anything ahead that interests him he keeps his ears pricked forward. A horse hears the whinny of another horse at a greater distance than the average man can hear it.—Boston Transcript.

Vegetable Cutlets.

Try the following recipe on your "meatless day:" Take equal quantities of carrots, turnips, parsnips and onions and sufficient potatoes to form half the mixture. Slice the onions and brown in a little butter. Boil the other vegetables and chop them up finely, mixing them with the potatoes, which should be mashed. Season and add some chopped parsley. When cold form into cutlets and fry in egg and breadcrumbs.—London Answers.

The Real Wonder Workers.

"Do you believe in fairies?" asked the sentimentalist.

"Fairies!" grunted the practical person. "What did they ever do? It took us human beings to put over things like locomotives and telephones and electric lights."—Washington Star.

Glaciers Are Brittle.

The substance of a glacier is brittle, though solid, and its descent down a valley is caused by its constant fracture, produced by gravitation and the sliding forward of the whole mass.

WANTED ! CAMP LIBRARIES ! NOTICE !

Anyone who has ever spent any time at all in a town possessing no Library whatever realizes the blessing of books is never half appreciated one occasionally hears ehe remark "I don't know how we'd ever get along without the Library." Probably there are many more who feel it than there are who say it, but everyone in this town is going to have a chance to give some tangible indication of appreciation they feel for the use of books.

The Michigan War Council sends the following word;

"The government order given to Public Libraries is to raise $1,000,000 for Camp Libraries. The suggested assessment for each locality is five per cent of the population. This means that Michigan with a population of 3,000,000 must raise $150-000. That also means that Tecumseh's share is to be $150.

It is true that three are many demands upon us all at this time but it is no more than right that there should be. In a national crisis every resource must be used, and books have always been a power.

Any payments, whether from business firms, Public Organizations, or from private individuals may be left with the librarian at the Library or at her home, or with any member of the Library Board.

HOUSE PASSES WAR TAX BILL

Revenue Measure Approved by Lower Body Without Vote in Opposition.

SENATE WILL ACT TODAY

Bill Carrying Total of More Than $2,700,000,000 Expected to Pass With Little Opposition—Bar All Amendments.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The great war revenue bill, carrying a total of more than $2,700,000,000 to be raised by taxation from the people, passed the house without a vote in opposition and after a debate free from bitterness.

With its final passage by the house the bill goes again to the senate for concurrence there in the work of the senate and house conferees, who made several changes by way of compromise.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, will get the bill before the senate for final adoption at the earliest opportunity, possibly today and not later than Wednesday. He expects some opposition to it, especially on the magazine and war profits taxes, but think that not more than a dozen senators will vote against the bill on final passage.

Permit No Amendments.

The senate debate, however, may run through two days. Senator Simmons does not expect it to run longer, and the senate majority favoring the bill will permit no amendments, as such would send the bill back to the house.

Representative Cooper, Wisconsin, criticized in the house the zone plan written into the bill for the taxation of magazines and newspapers using the mails, calling it reactionary and quoting from the opinion held by President Wilson, while governor of New Jersey in support of his views.

"There is no more reason for applying the zone system to magazines than to letters," he said. "The post office department is self-sustaining except for the rural free delivery. If we want to save money, why don't you knock out the free delivery in the rural districts? Why do you subsidize the farmer? Of course I wouldn't say there were too many votes concerned. I would say it was wise statesmanship."

Income Tax Increase.

Chairman Kitchin said that if the war continues the normal tax on incomes will probably be increased, but not surtaxes. The present bill, he declared, would raise $1,200,000,000 in incomes taxes, or four times as much as in 1916.

Representative Cannon, Illinois, suggested that the great profits of the period before the war would not be made by munition makers because the prices on these articles are being fixed. Representative Moore suggsted that in the bill everything "from the cradle to the grave is taxed."

Representative Fordney of Michigan, ranking Republican member of the ways and means committee, said he agreed with the bill in all but two respects. He could not agree to the definition of capital in the bill nor to the taxes on gross sales.

During the year 8,301 new buildings were erected. Tentative personal assessments also show a big increase, reaching the total of $795,541,695, an increase of more than $376,000. CALL HAYWOOD CONTRIVER OF I. W. W. PLOTS

Government Makes Public Some Evidence to Show Anti-War Activities of Organization.

BOOK TELLS HOW TO DESTROY

Says It Might Be Necessary to Paralyze Transportation and Then Proceeds to Suggest Methods to Cripple Railroads.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—William D. Haywood, secretary and treasurer of the I. W. W., was named as the director of all that organization's opposition to the war. It is declared that he conceived most, if not all, of the plots designed to hamper the army and navy, and personally or through aids carried many to completion.

Branding of Haywood as the commander in chief of the biggest of all anti-war conspiracies followed release by the government of some of the evidence on which Haywood and 155 other leaders of the I. W. W. were indicted by the federal grand jury here last week.

Included in this evidence is a book sent by Haywood to Duluth to be translated into Finnish and distributed among malcontents on the Messaba range, an I. W. W. stronghold.

Extracts From Sabotage Book.

Here are some extracts from the book:

"We are going to take over the industries some day for three very good reasons: Because we need them, because we want them, and because we have the power to get them. Whether we are ethically justified or not is not our concern.

"We will lose no time proving title to them beforehand; but we may, if it is necesary after the thing is done, hire a couple of lawyers and judges to fix up the deed and make the transfer perfectly legal and respectable. Also, if necssary, we will have a couple of learned bishops to sprinkle holy water on them and make it sacred.

"Is a strike contemplated by the most indispensable workers—those of the alimentary trades? A quart of kerosene or other greasy and malodorous matter, poured or smeared on the level of an oven . . . and welcome the scabs and scabby soldiers to come and bake the bread.

"The bread will be uneatable, because the stones will give the bread for at least a month the foul odor of the substance they have absorbed. Result: A useless oven."

The book says it might be necessary to paralyze the railroads, and to this end suggests:

"It would be well to choose those workers among the most skilled and experienced . . . who would by a single stroke disable and render useless for some days the materials necessary for the regular performance of the service and the movement of trains.

"It is well to reckon beforehand with the scabs and the military. . . . It is evident that if the strikers, aware of the government intentions, should fail before stopping work to carry and foil the thrust of military intervention . . . they would lose their fight at its very inception."

Tells Anti-War Plans.

A letter received by Haywood from James Rowan at Seattle under date of August 2 reads:

"Fellow Workers: . . . The old bugaboo of 'patriotism' is being preached on all sides. . . .

"We have the good will of the German people here and we feel that they are in sympathy with our cause. We do not call them Germans, however, but refer to them the same as others, the Fellow Workers.

"We are going to carry our points if we have to stop every industry on the Pacific coast. We did not declare war and we have not consented to the workingman giving up his liberty and being drafted."

Great Mass Meeting Urges No Annexation to End War—Leaders Are Clericals and Socialists.

Copenhagen, Oct. 3.—A monster demonstration in favor of a peace without annexation was held Sunday at Frankfort-on-the-Maine. Leaders in the clerical, radical and socialist parties sponsored the demonstration. The crowd numbered 40,000 or 50,000, and addresses were made from six platforms simultaneously.

FROM DR. HAMMEL

Tecumseh's Brave Little Doctor Dresses Cases wih Bombs Dropping Through the Roof Three Feet from Him

The following extracts from letters from Dr Hammel have been received by a friend from Mrs Hammel:

Somewhere in Belgium,

I was just musing what a wonderful country this is Everything here is old, old. Truly this is the "Old World." In France and Belgium every here and there little villages with their old world churches nestle among the trees. The beauty of the scene is marred now by the never ceasing stream of motor lorries (trucks), artillery and the various implements of modern warfare. Tonight I stood at the crossroads and marvelled at the faces that passed by, English, Irish, Scotch, Australian, Belgian, French, Chinese, all of these different people passed by in a few minutes. All have one ultimate purpose, to put down the —— Hun.

Oh, don't worry about food. We feed like kings. Why, even in the front trenches, you would be surprised how well they feed, men and alls. They realize if a man doesn't feel full in the stoma h that he doesn't work to the best of his ability.

You can tell anyone and everyone for me that there is no romance about this war. It's grim, horrible but nevertheless, necessary murder. This is a man's game, a game requiring that above all, you must be a man with nerve.

You can believe most of what you read about British advances in the fire for we are giving the Boche more than he can take care of.

Last night about 10 o'clock the Hun came over bombing. Of course he does not intentionally bomb medical units, but sometimes there are accidents. Last night he dropped a bomb on some of our ammunition and one of the shells went off and a piece of it tore through the roof of the shack that three of us were dressing cases in. I turned around and looked at the hole in the ground about three feet frommeand thought to myself, "That's a pretty close call."

Dressed cases all night until 6 this morning. (The Huns bombed all night as it was moonlight.) Ate a little breakfast and then proceeded to examine 65 men for fitness as to duty. Then I was ready for bed as I had been on duty nearly thirty hours.

Talking about the duration of the war: Two "Tommies" were sitting in a dug-out, solemn as could be, shells bursting all about.

One says, " 'Enry, 'ow long are you in for?"

The other answered, "Hi hinlisted for seven years."

The first one said, "Lucky beggar. Hi am in for the duration of the war!"

He sure was an optimist (?)

Sept. 3rd was the second anniversary of this company in Belgium. We had a big dinner for the officers in the evening. That was the first evening we had had any time for entertainment because after our work is done we censor all the going out mail and it sometimes takes into the wee hours of the morning to get it out.

A cablegram from the doctor Saturday afternoon said he was in the best of health and everything eeemed happy with him.

As was stated in a former issue of the Herald the coal situation in Tecumseh is serious and if relief does not come soon, many of our people will shiver. We do not wish to be alarming in our statements, but are rather inclined to take an optimistic view of the situation. The statements made by the local dealers at Thursday night's meeting show a decided shortage on hand in the local yards and with but little hope of immediate delivery. The 280 tons on hand with a scattering car now and then, if conserved and delivered in small loads to the people, will serve to tide over until it is possible to get fuel moving. While the situation is critical, still it is not hopeless.

These are strenuous times and, with industries speeded up to the limit, business going on as usual and the Government shipping large quantities of freight for war purposes, it is making the railroads figure some to keep everyone supplied. Coal is being mined in enormous quantities and it is being moved. We don't believe that Michigan people or her vast industries will be shut off from a coal supply but do believe that between now and December 1st shipments will be directed our way. The authorities are taking the right steps and will push the matter until relief comes our way.

We advise people not to demand big deliveries of coal from our dealers but to be content with small allotments until a sufficent supply comes in and we believe that if this is done we will be able to get along for awhile.

AIRMEN RAID GERMANY

French Flyers Bomb Four Cities in Reprisal Attacks.

Frankfort-on-Main, Stuttgart, Treves and Coblenz, Placed Under Fire—Germans Attack Dunkirk.

Paris, Oct. 3.—The German cities of Frankfort-on-the-Main, Stuttgart, Treves and Coblenz were bombarded Monday night by French aviators in retaliation for German aerial attacks on French cities. The following official announcement was given out:

"The Germans made a new attack on the town of Dunkirk. The bombardment was very violent, causing serious material damage. It is reported there were no serious victims among the civilian population.

"In reprisal for the bombardments carried out by the Germans against Bar-le-Duc and Dunkirk, our aviators threw down bombs on the towns of Frankfort-on-the-Main, Coblenz, Treves and Stuttgart.

"Our bombing airplanes made numerous expeditions in the course of which 2,110 kilograms (4,654 pounds) of explosives were thrown on military buildings in Rombas and 6,000 kilograms (13,200 pounds) on the railway stations at Metz-Sur-Woippy and Thionville, the airdrome at Chambley, encampments at Spincourt and Tilly and munition depots at the Lorgean farm, where a violent explosion was observed.

"Two German airplanes were brought down yesterday by our pilots and four others were compelled to land in a disabled condition."

SAYS HE'S AMERICAN

German Submarine Commander Claims U. S. Citizenship.

Mourns Over Foreseen Ostracism After the War of Teutons in All Other Nations.

London, Oct. 3.—The commander of a German submarine that has successfully attacked at least one vessel claims American citizenship.

Sponsors for this statement are members of a British force whose ship was torpedoed a few weeks ago in the Bay of Biscay.

Their story is in marked contrast to that told by the survivors of the Belgian prince. When the captain learned that some were Americans and Canadians he showed great interest.

"I'm an American, in a way," he said. "I used to live in Boston and was naturalized there.

"After the war a German will be an outcast wherever he goes," he said. "No chance to make a living in Germany and forever barred from the United States, Canada and England. It's a bad prospect."

Before leaving them in their lifeboats the German-American saw that all had proper clothing and life preservers, and even passed cigars around.

SAY LOAN EASILY ASSURED

New York City's Financiers Arrange Formation of Big Pool to Keep Market Steady.

New York, Oct. 3.—The "$3,000,000,000 minimum in four weeks," the goal set for the new Liberty loan, is easily assured, according to New York city's financial leaders.

These assurances follow telegraphic reports received from throughout the country. New York city's first 24-hour total of more than $51,000,000 seems only an impetus to many cities from where predictions were received that their respective quotas would be surpassed.

Determined to pass its quota of $900,000,000, the New York money committee of the Liberty loan has arranged for the formation of a $200,000,000 money pool to keep the money market easy for the period of the loan.

SOLDIERS MAY KEEP A COW

May Also Feed It at Uncle Sam's Expense If They Use the Milk.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Soldiers in the American army not only may keep a cow, but they may feed it at government expense, provided they consume the milk, says a ruling of the judge advocate general. The decision was rendered on the question of whether feed for a cow kept by a detachment of soldiers for the production of milk for the detachment mess could legally be purchased from the ration savings in view of the regulation that "such savings shall be used solely for the purchase of articles of food."

Military training will be equivalent in credit to a two-hour study, U. of M. officials have announced. The training is elective and will excuse freshmen from gymnasium work, which otherwise is compulsory. Military instruction must be taken two years before credit is given.

Richard H. Fletcher, state labor commissioner, was elected first vice-president of the Association of Governmental Labor Officials of the United States and Canada at the annual convention of that organization in Asheville, N. C.

The state war board has decided to donate $25,000 toward the construction of the Monroe and Toledo road so the completion can be effected in time for shipment by automobile trucks this fall. To hasten the work the railroad commission has been asked to get sidings run from railroads along the line.

A VISIT TO STUDEBAKER

We have heard so much about Studebaker quality in wagons, buggies, and harness that we wanted to see for ourselves how they are built so made a special trip to South Bend for that purpose and was more than pleased with it.

We found the Studebaker plant covers over 100 acres of buildings. There are 6,000 people working in this plant and 9,000 in Detroit plant.

It was very interesting to see a wagon built from the time the lumber was brought in from the yard, never stopping until painted and ready for shipment. Particularly interesting was the bending of the wood rims for the wagons, and the careful manner in which each piece was inspected for defective material. Clear lumber only is used in the better class of wagon, all seconds go to build the lower-priced wagons, and even then the second grades are about the same as many firm's first grade wagons. If any defects develop in a first grade wagon, buggy or harness, it is the result of an oversight of the inspectors, and new parts are furnished the customer at once.

All paint is manufactured right in the plant. Buggies are not dipped but all hand painted with several coats of paint and varnish. All wagons are first treated with a coat of oil, then a coat of lead, then the red color, then striped and a coat of varnish added. If you could see the pains taken to have even the braces painted on the under side before being put on the wagons and how carefully these braces are placed to add strength, you would well realize why these wagons last a lifetime.

Any farmer buying a wagon, buggy or harness can rest assured when he buys it with the name "Studebaker" he is getting the very best that 63 years of experience can offer.

In the sample room is the wagon built of mahogany and aluminum that took first prize at the World's Fair at Chicago; also the wagon that took first prize at the Centennial Exposition in 1876. The buggy in which Lincoln rode to the theater the night he was assassinated; the buggy General Grant used; and another buggy that has seen continuous service from 1857 to 1908 and is still in good condition, all Studebakers.

In the work rooms you can see old men still working who have put in 45 years of their lives with this one firm.

Another interesting sight was the Studebaker School Bus. In many western states there are no district schools, but a central school to which all the children are carried in wagons each day, one wagon for each neighborhood. It is built close to the ground for safety and has room for from 20 to 24 children. When desired a heater can be installed for warmth in winter.

Many of us have the idea that the auto truck and automobile were taking the place of horsedrawn vehicles. If you could see the many special wagons for coal, ice and general trucking being built for some of the largest firms in the country, you would realize that the horse is here for a while yet. Special attention was called to an order of twenty mammoth wagons being built for the National Biscuit Company. A train load of water wagons with the 20 brass faucets on the sides to be used for filling canteens, goes out every day for the government. The order for these was 2850 and for special khaki-colored army trucks 7000. These government wagons are being built at the sacrifice of regular business which illustrates how this firm are "doing their bit" for their country. adv

SOME TIME!

The Junior class party out at Jane McConnel's last Friday night was a success from start to finish.

Twenty of the party including three teachers met at Halladay's where they waited for the transportation, which turned out to be a good old hay rack managed by Capt. Edgar Meads. And the citizens of Tecumseh who were strolling along the great White Way that night received quite a surprise when this load of cut ups went rattling down through town enroute to Jane's.

The night could not have been a better one for a spree like this and the old moon was fairly beaming. Besides this it was neither too chilly or to warm, (The girls will vouch for this.) It didn't take long to make the trip, the average speed being 12 knots, and everyone forgot their dignity, even the teachers, we are sorry to say, from the moment they so unceremoniously boarded the hay rack till they got out "tired but happy" at their respective homes at just—?—o'clock.

McConnels big lawn was decorated wih Japanese lanterns and several games were played out in the open before the crowd was called into the house.

Muriel Halladay as the capable chairman of the entertainment committee had a splendid program all mapped out and everything went ripping along without a hitch.

It was great fun to see the looks on the girls' faces after they had just been kissed by our staid principal O. B. Goodrich (or was it Perry Hayden!) in the closed off parlor. But the crowning moment of the evening was when Miss Hazel Miller (a teacher too!) coquettishly decorated her physiogamy with nice black soot from the bottom of a plate, when "Goody" hypotnized her. It was certainly a scream.

But Ah! those eats! Mrs. McConnell must have been put on earth just to cook sweet corn for Jolly Juniors. Those big ears fairly dripping with butter were certainly excellent tummyque,, (that's Pig Latin, for "best ever" in the line of eats). Then also there was that big pile of sandwiches contributed by the girls, and last but not least those watermelons! Dozens of them.

No one even thought about the time till the wee hours were drawing nigh, and not till then did the Jolly crowd board the good ship "Meads" and set sail for home.

Everybody had the time of their young lives and urged that there be given "Three cheers for Jane."

P. S. The Juniors and teachers hereby wish to beg their most humble pardon of the farmers along the road whom they roused from their peaceful slumber and calm repose.

The annual congregational meeting of the Presbyterian church was held Tuesday evening. A big picnic supper was served at 6:30 and following John R. Nyland, chairman of the board of trustees, called the business meeting to order. Reports from the different organizations were given as follows:

Treasurer of church—J. H. Smith

The pastor reported his time for so many months was taken up with manual labor at the church that the number of calls on his parishioners had not reached the number of the preceding year, but he has been careful to visit the sick and infirm. Right now he is looking after the fires, ringing the bell and doing other janitor work. It sure does pay to have a preacher who is a worker

MONDAY CLUB

Monday, Oct. 8th, is the first study day of the year and a most interesting afternoon is assured to Monday Club members. There are several important business matters to be attended to and a good program follows. Mrs. Mary Henne will read dramatic selections from Byron's "Hebrew Melodies." Those who love poetry will enjoy this.

The old song, "By the Waters of Babylon Sat We Down," will be sung by Mrs. Eugene Rosacrans as a special favor to the club.

Mrs. Harriett Clark of Adrian will read her paper, "The Chosen People," which she delivered last year to the Adrian Woman's Club.

The program will close with two other Byron selections read by Mrs. Henne.

A full attendance is desired that the members who thus take part may know that their efforts are appreciated. We all like this courtesy shown us when our turn comes.

"WHEN DREAMS COME TRUE"

One of the Best Yet Seen at the Bradley

Manager Mark certainly scored a hit when he secured "When Dreams Come True" for Tecumseh Thursday night. This opera was one of the best yet seen in Tecumseh and was much appreciated by a good sized audience.

Chuck full of mirth, good acting, music and dancing, the company won their way to the hearts of the people and they responded with round after round of applause.

The costumes were new and attractive as well as the special scenery carried by this company.

The story was full of complications but each was surmounted with neatness and dispatch, much to the amuse of the audience. The bright spots were the excellent work of Harlan Briggs as "Hercules Strong," a dtective, and Carolyn Glenn who took the part of Mathilda and who always had it "down black-on-white." Ths pair were in themselves the whole show. The part of Beth, the dream girl, was beautifulyl interperted by Miss Edna Morn, who came in her share of favorable comment.

There were few weak places in the whole cast, each doing full justice to their parts. In the third act several of the company took part in some clever dancing. An orchestra from Adrian furnished the music.

MEETING HELD THURSDAY EVENING TO CONSIDER COAL SITUATION

Immediate Steps to be Taken to Relieve Conditions.

Governor and State Officials to be Appealed to and Every Effort Will be Made to Secure Coal

A meeting was held Thursday evening in the Council chambers to consider the coal situation in Tecumseh. President Waldron presided and President Charles Burridge of the Commerce Club, representatves of our local coal firms and others were present. The object of the meeting was to go over the matter thoroughly, ascertain just how much coal there is on hand in the local yards, what the situation is in regard to shipments, what the requirements areand to discuss the best way to proceed to get the goods.

Our coal dealers told the committee plainly that conditions here were serious and that it was most impossible to get a car of coal in for love or money. Their dealers all tell them that it can't be secured but just as soon as coal is available it will be shipped.

This condition with cold weather fast approaching and our people far from being supplied with fuel makes the next few weeks look pretty gloomy. Something must be done and thats what our village officials intend to do.

Sworn statements were made by our five local dealers stating that the total amount on hand in the local yards is 280 tons (all varieties) and that the needs of this community up to February 1st next would be 3600 tons. They estimated that the average numberof tons neededduring the months of November, December and January would be 1200 tons per month.

President Waldron was promised every assistance from President Burridge of the Commerce Club and from the coal dealers. An appeal accompanied by a sworn statement showing supply on hand and our requirements will be sent to the Governor at once with a request for immediate relief or for instructions as to the best procedure to brng quick relief.

The Village authorities mean to push this matter to the limit and hope to get coal moving our way as soon as possible.

WEST BRANCH CROWDED

Owing to the large enrollment in the first and second grades of the West Branch School, it has been thought wise to make some change in the program. Through these changes an effort is being made to give the teacher more chance to supervise the work of the children.

Beginning Monday, Oct. 8th, the first grade children will go in the morning and afternoon as usual but they will be excused at 10:05 a. m. and at 2:05 p. m. The second grades will begin at 10:20 in the forenoon and be excused at 11:30. In the afternoon the second grade begins at 2:20 and closes at 3:30.

This plan will be followed until further notice is given.

Miss Mabel Nevison came over from Adrian Wednesday for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mominee and children were guests of Mrs. Byron Sones of Milan Sunday.

The question most heard on the street just now is, Have you got your coal? And he is lucky one who can answer yes.

Will Celler has written 118 hunter's licenses for the month ending October 1st. Not bad for the beginning of the season.

A FAIR WARNING

One That Should Be Heeded by Tecumseh Residents.

Frequently the first sign of kidney trouble is a slight ache or pain in the loins. Neglect of this warning makes the way easy for more serious troubles—dropsy, gravel, Bright's disease. 'Tis well to pay attention to the first sign. Weak kidneys generally grow weaker and delay is often dangerous. Residents of this locality place reliance in Doan's Kidney Pills. This tested remedy has been used in kidney trouble over 50 years—is recommended all over the civilized world. Read the following:

Mrs. W. Service, Logan St., Tecumseh, says: "My kidneys were out of order and I had weakness and soreness across my back. I felt run down and tired out and could hardly keep going. I had frequent headaches, too, and my kidneys acted irregularly. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured fro mWright & Son's Drug Store and they helped me right away. They strengthened my back and put my kidneys in good order."

A Deathbed Injunction

It Was Fulfilled

By F. A. MITCHEL

In 1915 there was a lull in the fighting in Flanders. Two British officers passed each other in rear of the trenches. Both stopped and stared.

"Upon my word," exclaimed one, "if I was not sure I had no brother I would think you were my father's own son."

"The resemblance between us is remarkable," replied the other.

"What's your name?"

"Hethrington."

"Where from?"

"Formerly from England; recently from Canada."

"Are you Ralph Hethrington, who left his home in Hampshire some years ago a runaway boy?"

"I am."

"Then you are my cousin. I am Alan Hethrington."

"Heir to the barony of Medowcroft?"

"The same. Why did you run away from home?"

"It was a case of stepmother."

"I see. I know all about your stepmother. She was a bad woman. But why did you not write to your father?"

"I was a mere boy when I ran away, and I feared father would try to get me back. When I grew older I thought that since father had preferred his wife to his son the son owed him nothing."

"Your father and stepmother are both dead."

"That I know. I was found in America by the solicitor who had charge of the estate."

"You are very rich."

"My wealth does me no good here."

"I am heir to a title with nothing on which to keep it up."

"You may not need to keep it up. Only one out of every three of us will get home."

The cousins parted with an agreement to look each other up. Indeed, they met again that same evening.

"Are you going to write your folks that you have met your runaway cousin here?" Ralph asked Alan.

Alan cast a quick glance at the questioner.

"Why do you ask that question?"

"I don't know."

"I haven't written yet of meeting you, and I don't think I shall."

"Why not?"

"I have something in my mind. But I don't care to make it known to you now. I may never make it known to you. It is dependent upon a certain contingency."

Ralph did not press the matter Alan's tone was sad, and his cousin surmised that the contingency referred to was the death of one or both of them. Ralph lived for the present and thought little of his own death, though it was ever before him. He preferred to talk with his cousin on other subjects.

"Did you leave a girl behind you?" he asked.

"Yes; Lucy Arden."

"You don't mean it! Why, Lucy and I were great chums when we were children. I used to tell her all about my stepmother's treatment of me. Lucy was my only confidant and sympathizer."

"She is a noble girl. She should marry a man more worthy of her than I am."

"Tut, tut! You're good enough for any woman. My ideas of the sex, when grown up, have been derived from my stepmother, who was not attractive."

"Your stepmother was a devil. Lucy Arden is an angel. I infer from what you say as to women that you did not leave a Canadian sweetheart behind you."

"No, I did not. Perhaps it is as well. If I am killed no one will be hurt by the loss."

"You are right." Alan rejoined sadly. "It would be better if I were similarly situated."

This was the last conversation held between the cousins in a state of quiet. Soon after it was held the Germans made one of those vigorous attempts to reach the coast which were attended with great slaughter, and both young men were wounded. One morning Ralph Hetherington woke up in a ward in a hospital, and at the other end of a long line of cots on the opposite side of the room he espied his cousin. Alan was very pale, and Ralph was some time in making out his identity.

A nurse gave Ralph the information that Alan was very badly wounded and not likely to pull through. Ralph had lost an arm, but was in no danger for his life. He arose and went over to pay his cousin a visit. Alan looked up at him with an unintelligible eagerness.

"Heaven must have sent you here," he said to Ralph. "You are all right except for the loss of that arm, I suppose."

"Yes; not scratched elsewhere. I hope you will come out all right."

"No, I won't. I'm done for. And that's the reason why I have been wanting to see you. Everything works for my plan."

"What plan?"

"You'll be retired on account of that empty sleeve and will be no more exposed to this hell."

"Better this hell than a life without a purpose."

"Listen to me. You remember what you said about leaving a girl behind to mourn you when you are killed? Well, I want to save Lucy that mourning."

"You'll do that by getting well."

"I won't get well. I'll never leave this cot alive. Now, I want you to do this: When you go home to England go as Alan Hetherington. You're enough like me to be my twin brother. Besides, this hell's crater will change any man. It has changed both of us. Lucy will believe you are I. You have what she would not get with me—a fortune. By my death you will inherit the title, but since you are supposed to be I you will get it either way. Nurse, what became of my identification tag?"

"Here it is, sir." And the nurse produced it from where she had hung it at the head of the cot.

Alan was too far gone to take it, and Ralph received it. When the nurse was out of hearing Alan, after a brief rest, proceeded.

"Hang your tag on my cot, and when I am put away as Ralph Hethrington you will be Alan Hethrington. You will give comfort to my father and mother and to the dear girl who would otherwise mourn me. Moreover, when you come into the title you will be able to keep it up as it was kept up centuries ago when Richard Hethrington received it at the hands of his sovereign.

"I desire that Lucy Arden shall receive all that she has been led to believe would be hers; that she shall be Lady Medowcroft; that she shall have the fortune you will bring to the barony."

"I see your design," said Ralph. "You would have me invalided home as her fiance and that she shall marry me believing me to be Alan Hethrington."

"There is a suitor with a fortune double yours. But I shudder at the idea of her marrying him."

Ralph Hethrington made no reply to this proposition. He was thinking of winning Lucy Arden as the man to whom she had engaged herself. He shrank from the deception. On the other hand, by perpetrating the deception she would be Lady Medowcroft and he would be enabled to bestow upon her the fortune he had made in America. What if he refused? No one could tell. But Ralph feared that she would decline the title and the wealth, possibly on conscientious scruples, possibly because she would not marry a man she did not love, for he had not seen her since she was twelve years old.

Naturally this dying request had a serious effect on the man to whom it was spoken. It was heightened by one consideration of which the man who made it was ignorant. Ralph Hethrington had carried with him to America a vision of his child friend, Lucy Arden, and it had grown into a dream that some day he might return to England and the boy and girl friendship might be replaced by the love of a man and a woman.

Singular that a plan for the realization of this dream had been provided for him by the very man who, had he lived, would have stood in his way. Ralph was stupefied. He knew not what to think about this strange fate that had overtaken him. Had Alan not made the request that he should personate him Ralph might go home and quite possibly the plan be worked out, Ralph maintaining his own identity. As it was, he felt that the request complicated matters. But he shrank from not carrying it out, in deference to his cousin's wishes.

What Ralph finally did when he was returned to England, retired from the army, was to go to his cousin's parents and say nothing as to his identity till they had shown whether or not they regarded him as their son. The father greeted him as such; the mother probably would not have done so had not her sight begun to suffer from old age.

Hethrington put off making a final decision as to whether he should personate himself or his cousin till he had met Lucy Arden. Lucy was sitting on the porch as he came up the walk.

At sight of him she arose to run to meet him, but paused. In the advancing figure she saw that which reminded her of her boy friend of years agone Was it in the walk? Was it in the way he carried his head? Was it a peculiar way he had of swinging the arm that was left him? No matter; he was not Alan Hethrington, but Ralph Hethrington.

The figure advanced to the steps and looked up at her inquiringly.

"Ralph!" she said.

"Lucy! You know me?"

"Yes, you are Ralph Hethrington grown. I see that you have come from the war. Do you brings news of your cousin Alan?"

"Yes; he is dead."

A shiver ran through the girl's figure. Presently Ralph spoke again, in a low tone.

"Alan wished to spare those who loved him from mourning him. He asked me to personate him. I have already done so to his father and mother."

There was a long silence, during which the soldier ascended the steps and sank on to a bench. Presently Lucy said to him:

"Do not set his parents right in this matter for the present. Did Alan say anything about me?"

"Yes; he told me the relationship between you and him."

"Did he—did he ask you—to personate him to me?"

"He did," was the almost inaudible reply.

A faint color appeared in the girl's cheek.

The soldier of the empty sleeve is now Lord Medowcroft, though he was known as Alan to his uncle and aunt till they died, near together, a few months ago. He married Lucy Arden.

Painting a Battleship.

One hundred tons of paint, costing approximately $25,000, represents the initial color requirements for a new battleship. The annual upkeep cost may exceed this sum, since it is the custom to repaint the different parts of a modern war vessel every three to six months. This would indicate an annual paint protection outlay of nearly $1,000,000 for the navy. If to this sum is added the cost of painting the thousands of lake boats, freighters, river steamers and pleasure craft some conception may be had of the importance of marine painting.

Among the most important naval paints are those which are applied to protect the submerged parts of the hulls from corrosion or fouling by barnacles. The word barnacle is the popular name for that form of marine crustacea which consists of a clamlike body lodged in a shell that is often formed in a series of rings or plates. They adhere with great tenacity. Without anti-fouling paints the speed of vessels would be greatly retarded by the piling up of a thick incrustation of barnacles and attached sea grass.—Boston Herald.

Vegetable Soups or Purees.

Soup is not necessarily made from meat stock. Vegetable soups or purees are made by boiling potatoes, beans, peas or other vegetables until soft, mashing through a sieve and then heating with a little liquid (water, milk, soup stock or whatever seems desirable) and flavoring. Using leftover vegetables for such purees is an economical practice. Milk soups, which are really milk thickened and flavored with some vegetable, fish or other food, to give flavor and perhaps thickened still more with a little flour or stale breadcrumbs, are both nutritious and appetizing. They furnish also an excellent means of using up skimmilk. Those who wish to bring down the cost of food should remember that skimmilk, a cup of which contains as much protein as a cup of whole milk, is far too valuable a food to be overlooked.

Japan's New Naval Base.

Japan's purchase from Portugal of the little island of Macao, at the mouth of the Canton river, near Hongkong, has given Japan a strong naval base, such as Gibraltar gives to Great Britain and Helgoland gives to Germany. It can be used to menace any European power that tries to thwart the ambitions of Japan in China.

Walnuts as Food.

The ancients held the walnut in high esteem. Mortals could and did exist on acorns, but walnuts were so delicious in taste and flavor, so palatable and nutritious, that they were revered as food only for the gods to dine upon. Modern investigation and modern customs have popularized the uses of the walnut to such an extent that it is now regarded not only as a luxury, but as a food of great nutritive value. A chemical analysis of the nut shows that it is six times as nutritious as meat. No vegetable or fruit, with the possible exception of the olive, can be compared with the walnut as a strength giving and fat producing food. All nuts are possessed of elements of nutrition, but the highest in rank is the walnut.—Manchester Guardian.

Magnetic Metals.

Magnetic properties are not confined to iron. Alloys made from various combinations of metals—copper, manganese, tin, aluminum, bismuth and some others—show more or less marked magnetism. Recent work has shown that the highest amount of magnetic power among ironless alloys is obtained by mixtures of copper and manganese plus either aluminum or tin. It is difficult to explain why such alloys should be magnetic.

Fluent Women Novelists.

Several women novelists beat the men as public speakers. Mrs. Bailey Reynolds is a beautiful speaker; Mrs. Humphry Ward is equally fine; Lucas Malet says just what she desires to say, and Sarah Grand might get a seat in the cabinet if she were a man, says the London Answers.

What It Was.

YANKEES FIGHT DIVER

U-Boat Disappears After Battle With U. S. Destroyer.

Evidence of Submarine's Destruction Found, but Navy Department Avoids Claim.

Washington, Oct. 8.—In making public an account of an action between an American destroyer in European waters and a German submarine, the navy department avoided any claim that the U-boat had been destroyed, although all indications pointed to that result.

The report on which the department's statement was founded was made by Vice Admiral Sims, in command of American destroyers in the war zone, indicating his belief that a victory had been scored, but Admiral Benson, chief of naval operations, pointed out that the experience of Great Britain and France in similar cases made it unwise to place too much confidence in circumstantial evidence.

The report showed the efficiency and skill of the destroyer crew, and drew a graphic picture of the pursuit of the submarine with shell fire and depth bombs. Admiral Benson said that in this and other incidents which also will be made public when military reasons permit, there is every reason to believe that the underwater craft was destroyed. He added, however, that the department would not make claims which could not be sustained beyond doubt.

The allied powers have found by experience that the German submarine commanders attempt to create the impression on the surface that their craft have been destroyed and thus terminate the pursuit.

There have been cases where destroyers have dropped depth bombs and oil has come up, indicating a hit. The assumption is that the oil was released to divert attention while the U-boat crept away.

Admiral Benson made it clear that no government has definite knowledge of the number of German submarines or the rate of construction. Reports to all admiralties, however, agree that Germany has larger U-boats than those now in use, either already afloat or coming forward. He gave no figures as to the size indicated.

REFUSES LIBERTY LOAN ADS

German Paper in New York Says It Is Justified in Opposing the War.

New York, Oct. 8.—The New York Volkszeitung, a Socialist newspaper published in German, has refused to publish any advertisements of the Liberty loan. Max Weigel, advertising manager, said:

"As Socialists we are opposed to any war measure and are justified in refusing any advertising which would tend to prolong the war. We are justified in working in opposition to the prosecution of the war.

"About two years ago we were offered advertising for the German loan. The publishing association held a meeting and decided against any such advertising. It was under this rule that the copy was refused."

WILSON REVIEWS WORK OF SOLONS

President Gives Praise to Body for Work It Has Done to Carry on War.

LA FOLLETTE DEFENDS STAND

Senate Confirms Promotion of Pershing and Bliss—Record of Achievements by Congress Unparalleled.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The work of the congressional session adjourning was praised by President Wilson in a statement, saying:

"The needs of the army and navy have been met in a way that assures the effectiveness of American arms, and the war-making branch of the government has been abundantly equipped with the powers that were necessary to make the action of the nation effective.

"The Sixty-fifth congress, now adjourning," the president added, "deserves the gratitude and appreciation of a people whose will and purpose I believe it has faithfully expressed. One cannot examine the record of its action without being impressed by its completeness, its courage and its full comprehension of a great task.

Safeguard to People.

"I believe that it has also in equal degree and as far as possible in the face of war safeguarded the rights of the people and kept in mind the considerations of social justice so often obscured in the hasty readjustment of such a crisis.

"It seems to me that the work of this remarkable session has not only been done thoroughly but that it has also been done with the utmost dispatch possible in the circumstances or consistent with a full consideration of the exceedingly critical matters dealt with. Best of all, it has left no doubt as to the spirit and determination of the country, but has affirmed them as loyally and as emphatically as our fine soldiers will affirm them on the firing line."

Congress Adjourns.

The extraordinary session of congress, which began April 2, generally regarded as the most momentous in American history, was adjourned sine die at 3 p. m. Saturday.

Vehement criticism of Senator La Follett and his own defense, accupying virtually the entire day, marked the close of the war session, with other customary adjournment and legislative procedure, including President Wilson's attendance at the capitol.

The usual eleventh-hour grist of legislation was put through, following six month of important war action, and tonight most of the members who had remained for the final day were enroute home to await the call of the next session, December 3.

La Follette Defends Act.

With galleries crowded to capacity, the senate chamber was the scene of five hours' stirring discussion of Senator La Follette's attitude, but in the house there was little to mark the occasion except submission of a committee report mildly censuring Representative Heflin of Alabama for criticizing fellow members in connection with Count von Bernstorff's request for Berlin to furnish funds to influence congress.

Bristling with defiance, Senator La Follette made answer to those who have charged him with disloyalty and demanded that he be removed from his seat.

With his characteristic vehemence he cried that free discussion was the only road pointing to victory in the war. Just as vigorously he declared that President Wilson has usurped the power of congress.

"Neither the clamor of the mob nor the voice of power," shouted La Follette, "will ever turn me by the breadth of a hair from the course I mark out for myself, guided by such knowledge as I can obtain and controlled and directed by a solemn conviction of right and duty."

Galleries packed to their utmost capacity heard La Follette speak for two hours. When he stopped Robinson of Arkansas and Kellogg of Minnesota replied, denying contentions La Follette is said to have made in his now famous St. Paul speech.

During interruptions of the day's debate congress found time to dispose of a few last-moment matters, with President Wilson in attendance during the last hour in his room near the senate chamber, signing bills.

Among the last acts of congress was the confirmation in open session of many nominations, hastily sent in by the president, including those of Major Generals Pershing and Bliss to be generals.

Among the more important bills signed by the president on his visit to the capitol were the soldiers and sailors' insurance and the trading with the enemy measures.

Earlier in the day the president signed the $7,758,124,000 urgent deficiency bill, the largest appropriation measure in the nation's history.

The usual adjournment scenes were re-enacted with addresses by Vice President Marshall and Speaker Clark and resolutions of courtesy to the presiding officers, who both urged the members to speak at home for the new Liberty loan.

Failed to Pay for Eggs, Charge.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Edward A. Bates, arrested by postal authorities, was held to the federal grand jury by United States Commissioner Mason in $3,000 bail on a charge of using the mails to defraud. It is alleged Bates bought about $15,000 worth of eggs from farmers and failed to remit the money.

PRE-FESTIVAL CONCERT SERIES

Commencing October 11

Ann Arbor has planned a musical season of unusual importance for a series of concerts made up of the world's greatest artists and organizations has been announced. The series is so attractive that gerat enthusiasm has been manifested by patrons and music lovers, and inquiries and orders for tickets are coming in from all sides.

With the splendid railroad facilities it is possible for persons for miles around to attend without great inconvenience. The Ann Arbor Railroad and the Michigan Central Railroad offer convenient service North and South and East and West, while the Detroit, Jackson and Chicago Electric Lines will run special cars directly to the auditorium immediately before and after each performance East and West as far as Detroit and Jackson, respectively, with connections at these points. All concerts will begin at 8:00 o'clock CENTRAL STANDARD TIME.

The first number announced is a song recital by the world famous Spanish-Italian Coloratura Soprano, Amelita Galli-Curi, whose rise to world eminence was one of the most spectacular musical achievements in generations. Less than a year ago, although she was well known abroad and in South America, she was practically unknown in this country. Charles L. Wagner, the energetic New York impressario, was the first to recognize her exceptional musical gifts and shortly after she came under his management for gues appearances with the Chicago Opera made her name a household word thoroughout the land. In addition to possessing a most beautiful and exceptional voice, which has caused her to be characterized as "The Woman with the Wonder Voice" her personality is most charming and her stage presence entirely in harmony with her splendid artistic accomplishments. On the occasion of her appearance in Hill Auditorium, October 11, she will be accompanied by a flutist and pianist, which will add variety to her offerings.

The second number on the series will bring to Ann Arbor a musician who by general consent, is recognized as the greatest master in his line, Eugene Ysaye, "The Master Violinist of the World." Ysaye is a Belgian and represents what might be termed the last of the old school. For twenty years his work has been the standard by which others have been judged. It is particularly fitting that this monumental character should be heard on Ann Arbor's all-star series at this particular time when Ysaye's fatherland is laboring under so great an oppression.

The third number will bring to Ann Arbor on December 10, Ethel Leginska, "The Paderewski of Women Pianists." Those who heard her at the last May Festival when she contributed a Rubinstein Concerto with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra were so insistent that it was absolutely necessary for the management to re-engage her at the first possible opportunity. She will be heard in a full recital in a program arranged for presenting this splendid artist's many diversified qualities as a woman pianist whose position in the pianistic world is unchallenged.

January 16th, Walter Damrosch will bring to Ann Arbor the New York Symphony Orchestra, of nearly 100 men, at which time the organization will make its first appearance in the University city. This organization stands as one of the world's greatest and is unique from many points of view. It was founded more than two score years ago by Dr. Leopold Damrosch, who was at its head for a number of years until succeeded by his son. During this long period of years, it has been conducted by only two men, the older and younger Damrosch.

The Pre-Festival Series will be brought to a close by a recital, February 15, by Julia Culp, "The Renowned Dutch Singer of Songs." In the world of music there is perhaps no one whose reputation in this particular field is more secure than that of this beautiful young Hollander whose several tours of America have won for her the esteem of all lovers of music. She will be assisted by Conrad Bos, whose work is such as to stamp him as a most valuable assistant.

The attention of the public is particularly called to the fact that tickets may be ordered by mail at this time and that all orders will be filled in the order of receipt, selection. Tickets will entitle the holder to the privilege of securing the same seat for the May Festival and retaining it for succeeding years, at $6.00 each. Other seats may be purchased at $4.00; $3.50; and $3.00 each.

All illustrated prospectus will be sent to any address upon application to the Secretary, Charles A. Sink, Ann Arbor.

SOX WIN SECOND GAME OF SERIES

Chicago Team Defeats Giants 7 to 2—Five Runs in Fourth Inning.

MCGRAW TWIRLERS HIT HARD

Red Faber Hurls Team to Victory—New Yorkers Use Schupp, Anderson and Perritt in Vain Attempt to Stop Foes.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—The White Sox yesterday wade it two straight from the Giants, copping the second battle of the world series by playing the visitors' own game—the hit and run.

After all the preliminaries had been cleared away the Giants opened their attack as they did the day previous. Burns worked the count down to three and two and singled as he did off Cicotte. The hit did no damage, as Faber regained control of the ball. Herzog bounced to Gandil on a hit-and-run, and a relay to Weaver forced the runner going to second. Kauff lifted a weak fly behind first base, and Jack Collins managed to get under it, but it dropped to the ground. Nothing happened, for Jack leisurely picked up the pill and heaved it to Weaver, forcing Herzog at second. The great Zim then rolled out via the second-to-first route.

The Sox were helpless in their opener, two men fanning and creating the false impression that Mr. Schupp was going to play hob with South side hopes.

Giants Make Two Runs.

The Giants set off a bundle of rockets in the second that illuminated Red Faber's countenance, which showed slight traces of distress. After one gone Robertson and Holke bumped safeties, the first being an infield hit. McCarthy punched a long single to left. Robertson slid to the plate on Jackson's peg and kicked the ball out of Schalk's fingers. That runner counted and Holke came in. McCarthy dropped anchor at second. Faber heaved Freddie Schupp out at first, and Burns got his at the same station.

Before a hand was out in the last of the second the Sox had gummed the count on four hits. Jackson and Felsch led with singles, the general going to third. Gandil splashed a safety off Schupp's glove and Jackson scored. Buck bunted a short fly to left, and Felsch counted. Schalk bunted to Schupp, forcing Gandil at third.

Liebold batted in place of John Collins. Liebold struck out. McMullen forced Weaver at the plate leaving the count tied and three Sox marooned on the bases.

Faber fanned Herzog and made a submarine play on Kauff. The pitcher fielded a grounder, dived beneath the surface and tagged Benny. The Great Zim sent a hopper to Faber for the third out.

Jackson hit safely to center with one down in the third. Felsch and Gandil struck out. While Anderson was throwing the ball through the hole in Felsch's famous home run bat the general moved to second on a passed ball.

Holke forced Robertson, and Schalk pegged Holke stealing.

Weaver and Schalk broke off hits in the last of the fourth. While Faber was trying to bunt Holke came in. Clean smashes to center by Liebold and McMullin scored Weaver and Felsch.

The Giants called a halt and Poll Perritt took the slab. Ed Collins rammed a single to right, which the fielder threw home. Liebold slid in ahead of the play with the third run.

McCarty Injures Self.

McCarty made a dive for the runner, missed him and damaged his right arm falling over himself. The catcher was given safe conduct to the coop and Bill Rariden came forth to assist Poll Perritt. Jackson shot a long single to center. McMullin and Ed Collins rambled home. Felsch lined to Herzog and Jackson was doubled off second base. Five runs and six hits is bringing home the bacon, all right.

Perritt knocked a single to center after one out. Burns hit to Weaver and he and Ed Collins did the rest. With two out, Weaver on third and Faber at second, Red watched his chance and stole third. Bill Rariden pegged to Zim and tagged Faber.

In the sixth, Ed Collins singled and stole second. Ed and the General worked the double steal. Felsch grounded to Holke.

Giants Run Into Double Play.

Panic seized the Giants in the seventh and they tried to run away from themselves. Fletcher singled. Schalk pegged Robertson out. Felsch came in, caught the liner and carried the ball to second base for a double play while Fletcher was bearing down on the home plate. The Sox did nothing in the seventh. Schalk hit safely and was caught stealing.

In the eighth Rariden led with a safety. Joe Wilhoit batted for Perritt. The pinch hitter lined to Weaver and Rariden was doubled off first. Burns drew a walk. Herzog forced Burns, third to center.

Jeff Tesreau fanned Red Faber in the eighth. A pass put Liebold on first. Rariden stopped him stealing. McMullin skied to Kauff.

In the ninth Kauff popped to Weav-

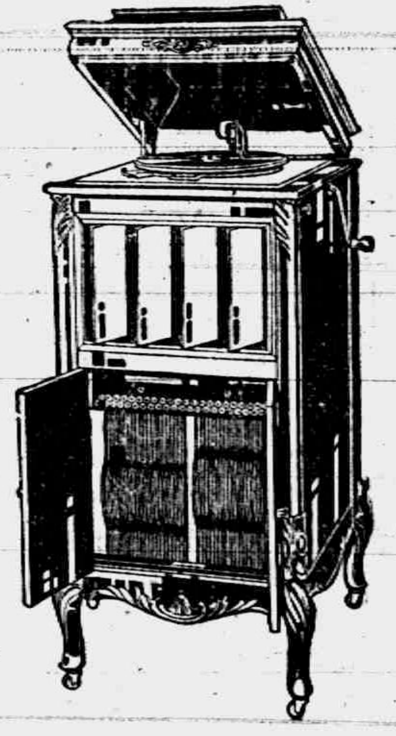
Tone plus tone control

You would not get much pleasure out of a piano that could only be played when the loud pedal was down; and there would be no satisfaction in playing it with the soft pedal nailed down all the time, either.

In the same way there is not much pleasure owning a "talking machine" with a fixed volume of tone. Tone-control is just as necessarp to enjoyment as tone-quality.

With a Columbia Grafonola you get both.



A convincing example of the triumph of tone plus tone-control is this complete and completely enclosed upright Columbia Grafonola-

Watch For Your Chances.

"Every young man has chances coming his way constantly; it is not a question of having chances, but of recognizing chances when they come," says President Bedford of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. "You sometimes hear a fellow say, 'I had a chance once, but didn't take it.' Never mind the chance that is past; watch out for the next one and qualify to be able to seize it.

"Success that is worth while is, after all, very largely a matter of plain, everyday morality combined with tremendous industry and a deserved reputation for integrity and for fairness toward the other fellow."—B. C. Forbes in Leslie's.

Medicinal Value of Apples.

People ought to know that a good thing is to eat apples just before retiring for the night. Persons uninitiated in the mysteries of the fruit are liable to throw up their hands in horror at the visions of dyspepsia which such a suggestion may summon up, but no harm can come even to a delicate system by the eating of ripe and juicy apples before going to bed. The apple is excellent brain food, because it has more phosphoric acid in easily digested shape than any other fruit. It excites action of the liver, promotes sound and healthful sleep and thoroughly disinfects the mouth. This is not all. The apple prevents indigestion and throat disease.

Mint occurs only in Matthew xxii, 26, and Luke xi, 42, as one of those herbs the tithe of which the Jews were scrupulously exact in paying. The horse mint is common in Syria.

Not Identical.

"Time is money," remarked the proverbialist.

"And yet the man with millions is the one who seldom seems to have five minutes to spare."—Washington Star.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Worry In Sickness.

When an animal is sick it does not worry about it, nor about the outcome. Its mental attitude does not hinder nature's healing processes. It goes into the sunshine, takes the rest cure and stops eating and recovers. But if we have rheumatism in one joint we expect other joints to become affected. We worry about it. It is, of course, well established that the right mental attitude assists in cure, and it is equally important to understand that the wrong mental attitude hinders health restoration. Reason, imagination and will power are big factors in the restoration and maintenance of health. Every one should know the laws of suggestion and apply them in relation to health. Discover what habits of living—exercise, breathing, diet, mental habits especially—are conducive to health, live hygienically and expect health, happiness and success. The right mental attitude is vitally important.

CLIMBING TO SUCCESS.

Advice to Young Men Who Want to Get Ahead in Business.

Frederick [illegible] Bedford of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has climbed [illegible] every step of the way from the [illegible] obscurity to the summit of success. I asked Mr. Bedford to tell some of the things he had learned during his journey, to give some suggestions or pointers for the guidance of [illegible] climbers.

"Well," he began, "my advice to every young man would be this:

"Do everything you are told—and do it with all your heart and strength—willingly, cheerfully and enthusiastically, and then look around for more work to do.

"Don't measure your work by hours, but by what it is possible for you to accomplish from the time you enter in the morning, and be early rather than late, until the place closes in the evening, and don't quit the moment the place officially closes if there is work still to be done.

"Read and study and think along the lines of your business. Learn what it is all about, what service it contributes to making the world go round more comfortably and efficiently. Cultivate the habit of looking ahead, of acquiring as much foresight as possible. Have imagination and vision.

"Then try to plan out your life, to map out a course; consider and calculate the steps necessary to carry you toward your goal; go forward step by step—and don't get your sequences mixed. Do one thing at a time. If your job at the moment is to keep books master bookkeeping thoroughly and study the fundamentals of accountancy; don't merely keep your books mechanically. From accountancy go on to study finance, and this will help to open other doors. Or if a man starts in a manufacturing department let him first master that department and then learn all there is to be learned about other departments. Thus will he become familiar with the whole process of manufacture.

"His next step would be to learn the outlets and the uses for his manufacture—the market for his product. By studying what and how much his market will take or will not take he becomes a capable merchandise man. This double knowledge of manufacturing and merchandising qualifies him to fill an executive position and opens the way to rise to the very top, whereas the fellow who was content to jog along in a rut in one department will still be about where he began."—B. C. Forbes in Leslie's.

How the World Is Fed.

A study of how the world is fed reveals many interesting facts. Australia, the smallest continent, for instance, is the largest meat center of them all. Asia, largest continent, on the other hand, is the smallest meat center among them. Africa and South America lean toward vegetarianism, while Europe and North America are large consumers of meat and other animal products. Taking the world's supply of cattle, hogs and sheep, writes Harold J. Shepstone in the Millgate Monthly, it appears that mankind at large uses in the neighborhood of 20,000,000 tons of meat a year. This would be an average of about thirty-nine pounds per capita throughout the world. In butcher's meat we find the Australian consumes 192 pounds, the American 172 pounds, the Englishman 119 pounds, the German 113 pounds, the Frenchman and Belgian eighty pounds, the Russian fifty pounds.—Manchester Guardian.

Activity of the Tongue.

Nobody's tongue is still for a moment—at all events, in waking hours. The tongue is the most incessantly active of all the body's members.

We think of the tongue as an organ of speech, but it is also an organ of feeling. When one eats it is constantly feeling about in the mouth and deciding out of its own "mind" what particles of food are small enough or too big to swallow.

Yes, indeed, the tongue has a mind of its own—a ganglion or minor brain—that is busy at mealtimes in regulating the supply of food to the stomach. But for its unceasing guardianship we should suffer much oftener than we do from the distresses of indigestion.

We think of the finger ends as our most sensitive organs of feeling. They are not such at all. The end of the tongue is incomparably more delicate and discriminating.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Inviolable Envelopes.

The ordinary mucilage with which the flaps of envelopes are gummed is composed of gum arabic or dextrine and is only too amenable to the persuasiveness of moisture or "steaming" in the hands of the unscrupulous. Persons who wish to guard their enclosures, whether emotional or financial, against such potential can seal their letters by a method referred to in the Annales des Telegraphes. This consists in applying white of egg to the flap of an ungummed envelope, then before it has time to dry of itself sealing it by passing a hot iron over it. If the temperature of the latter is from 90 degrees to 100 degrees C. the albumen will be coagulated and the two surfaces of the paper will be solidly united and water tight.

"BABES IN THE WOODS" IN "VERY GOOD EDDIE"

Scene from 'Babes in the Woods' one of the big song hits with "Very Good Eddie" which comes to the Bradley, next week Thursday, October 18th.

BIG CITY COMPANY OF "VERY GOOD EDDIE" COMING TO THE BRADLEY

Not since the memorable "Spring Maid" played here in 1912 has the management of the Bradley presented as classy an attraction as "Very Good Eddie" which is known as the smartest and brighest musical comedy in years, which comes to the Bradley Opera House, Thursday, October 18. In presenting this excellent attraction the local management assures his patrons of one of the very best. This same big play pleased capacity houses at the Garrick theatre, Detroit, all last week.

"Very Good Eddie" ran for an entire year at the New York Princess theatre, the play is founded on Philip Bartholomae's successful farce, "Over Night." It is a musical comedy that is something different from other plays of this class, as unlike most musical comedies it has a connected story with laughable situations following one another in rapid succession. The tuneful music, catchy songs, swagger fashion chorus, superb cast of players and a perfect production in every detail make "Very Good Eddie" a delight from start to finish.

Now, in this age of fashion shows, for the latest thing with the smart set of New York, theatregoers of Tecumseh need go no farther than the Bradley, for the gowns worn by the young ladies in "Very Good Eddie" will exemplify the newest models of such Rue de la Paix creators as Callot, Soeurs, Cheruit and other Parisian designers.

Two or three of our townspeople have seen "Very Good Eddie" in Detroit, find out who they were and ask them what they thought of it. The only report that we have heard so far was 'that they wouldn't miss the opportunity of seeing it again' and will without doubt be the first ones to secure tickets for the 18th.

If "Very Good Eddie" does the business here that it does in every other city they play, standing room will be at a premium, and why shouldn't they do the same here as elsewhere? The people of Tecumseh and vicinity are human, the same as anywhere else, and when the opportunity to see an attraction of the caliber and class of "Very Good Eddie" right in their own home town presents itself, will certainly take advantage of it. For the people who want to assure themselves of the best seats, we want to say, that while the regular advance sale will not open until Tuesday, October 16th, at 8 a.m., that orders will be accepted now and filled in the order that they are received. Orders accompanied by cash of course will be given the preference.

"Very Good Eddie" is taking by storm every city in which it is presented. Don't be one of the poor fellows to say the morning after the show when his friends are all talking about it, "I wish I had of known it was so good, I wouldn't have missed it!" We're telling you now it's the best since "The Spring Maid," so you want miss it!

CELEBRATED ANNIVERSARY

The following taken from the Kiowa Record, Kansas, is of interest to many in and around Tecumseh as the parties were former residents of Lenawee Co., Mr. Coryell residing in Ridgeway. He is a brother of Mrs. Sarah Lamkin of Tecumseh.

The fifty-seventh anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. L. Coryell was celebrated at the beautiful home of their son, J. E. Coryell, in this city, on the evening of Tuesday, September 25, 1917, when guests to the number of thirty-five came to extend congratulations to this aged couple. They were joined in wedlock by Rev. L. P. Tompkins of Lenawee county, Mich in the presence of about thirty witnesses on Tuesday, September 25, 1860. Of that number only two are known to be living at this time.

Mr. Coryell is now eighty and his wife seventy-seven, both of whom are better preserved than the average younger people.

As a token of their esteem the friends presented them a beautiful rocker. A vey unique program was planned and executed, led by Rev. McCoy of the Congregational church of Kiowa, whose beautiful congratulatory speech and prayer strengthened the bond of marriage vows and the union of hearts of this venerable bride and groom. Thus ended a very pleasant evening's enjoyment.—Contributed.

Seldom have relatives and friends the privilege of celebrating the fifty-seventh anniversary of a venerable bride and groom of yesterday, but such was the great pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Coryell, their family and near friends, last Tuesday evening. The occasion was the fifty-seventh anniversary of his parents which was so delightfully commemorated at his new home.

The pretty home was beautifully decorated in blue and white, handsome plants and flowers. At 8 o'clock to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Catherine Coryell, the bride and groom descended the stairs and took their places in an archway under a large white wedding bell, beautifully significant of the occasion. Mrs. Coryell wore a lovely gown of pale green silk and carried a boquet of bride's roses.

They were met by Rev. C. C. McCoy who pronounced a most original and exceptional beautiful ceremony. Instead of having the bridal couple blight their troth again in a humorous manner, he paid a splendid tribute to the long and happy life together since the sacred vows were exchanged fifty-seven years ago; for the vows have been more than fulfilled. They have "loved, honored and cherished each other" with unfailing fidelity throughout the long journey.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom received the congratulations of the guests. An informal and appropriate program was presented, Rev. McCoy presiding:

Mesdames Singleton and Richardson sang "Love's Old Sweet Song," their voices blending beautifully in the exquisite melody of long ago.

Mesdames Mackey and Gregory Messrs. J. H. Nichols and Harry Spurrier followed with "Observations on Married Life." All were especially happy in their remarks, adding greatly to the pleasure and entertainment of the evening. The ladies, with true feminine grace paid a special tribute to the bride of other days, the gentlemen gallantly supporting the groom. Mrs. H. D. Records helped furnish the bit of humor always so welcome, and read in her exceedingly clever manner. "When Mandy Had a Beau."

Mr. Coryell and daughter, Miss Catherine, closed the program with a lovely duet, "I Will Love You When the Silver Threads are 'Mongst the Gold." The pretty song, charmingly rendered, was an appropriate closing number.

Mr. and Mrs. Coryell, assisted by Miss Catherine, served an elaborate collation in two courses, after which Mr. McCoy, in behalf of the guests presented the bride and groom the handsome rocking chair as a token of esteen. Mr. William Coryell acknowedged the gift and also responded to the remarks made by Mesdames Mackey and Gregory, Messrs. McCoy, Nichols and Spurrier, in a most cordial, genial manner. Both he and his gentle companion through so many years are enjoying remarkable health for their advanced age, and greatly appreciated the delightful celebration of their fifty-seventh wedding anniversary.

Hudson River.

The entire length of the Hudson river is 300 miles. From Troy to the mouth of the river in New York bay, a distance of 150 miles, the river is tidal, owing to the low grade of its bed, by which the ocean tide is able to back up. It is this lower tidal navigable portion of the Hudson that is of so much importance, and of course the water is salt. It is regarded really an estuary of the sea. Above Albany and Troy the river is a small stream, and to its source the water is fresh.

RED CROSS NEWS

Tuesday, October 9.

Mrs. Finch has been taking care of materials and the sorting department at Headquarters during the absence of Mrs. Helen Clark. We can always depend on Mrs. Finch to help out.

Mrs. Sena Crane spent Wednesday at Headquarters, cutting out pajamas, and she has a number ready for any prospective workers. Only one lady responded to her last appeal, and there is work for a number, please do not fail her.

Mr. Otto Garlinghouse is having the whole floor of his garage covered with cemeint. And has kindly offered the use of it to the Red Cross for an entertainment, as soon as it is ready. They did very well in Clinton with their entertainment in the new garage.

Chas. Burridge has been working overtime, helping Mr. Cutting and Mr. Finch dispose of the numerous orders for knitting needles.

Mrs. Harry Dunn and committee spent Friday afternoon making comfort pillows at the Headquarters.

Mrs. Lavern Bidwell has a number of comfort pillow cases ready for somebody's patriotic fingers; if you can make some, just phone her.

Mrs. A. W. Mills wishes to notify those ladies who are knitting socks, that there is no more yarn at present. When you have finished what you are doing, please knit mufflers and wristlets. Needles, yarn and full directions can be obtained from Miss Hosmer.

Miss Hosmer requests all those ladies who take work from her, to bring it back to her and not take it to the Headquarers. It is hard work to keep track of it, and we want every committee to have full credit for the work done.

The number of sweaters sent to Adrian last week was 27.

Mrs. G. H. Bancroft, and Mrs. B. F. Roberts of Tipton called at the Headquarters on Thursday and kindly carried the Tipton snippings home with them.

Miss Phelps is always glad to see visitors from other towns at the Headquarters.

The Red Cross concert company gave a concert at Deerfield on Tuesday evening. The members who took part were Mrs. Fred B. Wood, Mrs. Robert Moore, Mrs. Ella Hodges, Mrs Edward Heilman, Mrs. J. C. Law Hardy, Duaine Service, Fred Dickinson, and Robert Moore, who acted as property man. Mr. Fred B Wood and Mr. Robert Moore donated the use of their cars.

The night was cold and wet, but the collection netted $22.72 of which one half went to the Tecumseh Red Cross and one half to the Deerfield Branch.

The Red Cross Concert Company requests all those towns, that desire their services to kindly call upon them, before the bad weather breaks up th roads. The company gives its services absolutely free, every cent taken goes to the Red Cross, there is no deduction for any reason whatsoever. The company sells no tickets but takes up a collection, of which one half goes to the town, where the concert is given, and one half to the Tecumseh Red Cross. If the town where they perform has no Red Cross then the whole collection goes to Tecumseh.

The following extract is from a letter written to an American Red Cross nurse, by a Russian soldier: "Further, sister, I ask you to receive my grateful thanks, for your care and trouble, which I saw during my months stay in your hospital. - - - Sister, not a day goes by, that I do not think of you. I am always telling my comrades of your kind care and trouble, and without doubt I shall forget only when a bullet or a shell finishes me, which, of course God forbid. So I shall remember forever the lazaret of the American colony.

"Sister, I beg you to forgive me for troubling you with my letter I for my part felt that I must write you. I write this lying in the trenches, be so good and send an answer. I will await an answer from you as if it were from my own people.

-From Corporal Simeon Lokichev."

Mrs. Arthur E. Corbin of Detroit who recently returned from Petrograd, says that the Russians adore the American people, on account of the work the Red Cross has done.

W. A. Holman, prime minister of New South Wales, Australia, speaking in Chicago a few days ago, said "that one-tenth of Australia's male population is in the war" that means one tenth counting babies and old men, and that they are maintained and equipped by Australia, in addition to the aid given the government forces in London.

Add to this $3.50 per capita given by Australia to martyred Belgium and her contributions to the Red Cross, and it will be seen that Australia is no slacker.

Shall we do less for America?

Mesopotamia.

The Mesopotamia of the Bible, "Syria between the two rivers," the Tigris and the Euphrates, is a tract nearly 700 miles long and from 20 to 250 miles broad. Mesopotamia is first heard of in Scripture as the country where Nahor and his family settled after quitting Ur of the Chaldees (Genesis xxiv, 10).

Ninety-nine miles is the total length of the Suez canal, and the width is just over 191 feet.

The Tecumseh Red Cross is in receipt of the following communication from the Central Division Headquarters n Chicago:

Important

A story is being iudnstriously circulated to the effect that sweaters, socks and other articles knitted for the Red Cross are being sold either to the public in stores or direct to the soldiers.

Harvey D Gibson general manager, American Red Cross, has directed us to issue this notice to each Chapter in the Central Division, denying this story vigorously.

No articles whatever either knitted or otherwise made by Red Cross workers, turned in to any Red Cross Chapter, Branch or to Auxiliaries, or to any Red Cross Supply Warehouse are sold either to the soldiers or to any shops.

Mr. Gibson warns that if any wilful case of this sort should come to the notice of the Washington Headquarters, the charter of the Red Cross or subsidary organization sanctioning it would be immediately withdrawn with full publicity. Should it transpire that any actual instance of the above characeer occurred, wherein an individual sold articles after their havnig been turned into the Red Cross such action would be clearly in violation of the fundamental law of the Red Cross and we would take vigorous steps to PROSECUTE the offender.

It is aso true that any case of persons other than those acquiring the right prior to January 1905, using the name or embem of the Red Cross, to assist in the sale of merchandise is a violation of the provisions of the Federal Criminal Law and the offender will be reported to the United States District Attorney for prosecution.

It is to be hoped that the Tecumseh company may be heard locally again."

DR. WM. H. HOBBS LECTURES ON "THE OUTLOOK FOR DEMOCRACY"

At Baptist Church Friday Evening

The second lecture of the course put on by Men's Class of the Baptist church under the auspices of the National Security League was given last Friday evening. The audience was small, probably due to the rainey weather, but those who attended were highly repaid for Dr. Wm H Hobbs of the U. of M. gave a most interesting and instructive lecture, taking for his subject, "The Outlook for Democracy."

Dr W B Hartzog took charge of the meeting and, after the singing of a patriotic song, introduced Dr. L. G. North who in a short introductory speech presented the speaker of the evening.

Dr. Hobbs gave a highly instructive lecture, going into the history of the war summing up with the "Outlook for Democracy." His knowledge of the German people and the fact that he has travelled largely in Europe, gave his remarks the personal touch that is always sure to interest.

He said that it was hoped by Germany to form a secret alliance with Russia and Japan and by so doing dominate the whole world, but the Russian revolution had nipped that in the bud.

His opinion of the Russian people, formed by personal acquaintance with them, made it sure in his mind that the Democracy so recently started in Russia would stand. "The ship of state" would have a stormy ride but it would surely weather the storm.

America must do her full share in this world war and, by sending men and boats, furnishing supplies and assisting in beating the submarines and by throwing her enormous resources into the war, the cause of Democracy would be safe.

Dr. Hobbs donated his time and expenses in coming to Tecumseh in the interest of the cause. It is a matter of regret that when such men are willing to give so liberally of their time and money that the people of Tecumseh can't at least show their appreciation by their attendance.

WITH OUR MIGHTY NAVAL UNITS, ALERT FOR ACTION

No theatrical attraction is comparable in real entertainment plus educational power to Lyman H Howe's Travel Festival which comes to the Bradley Opera House on Wednesday, Oct. 17th, for its semi-annual engagement.

The new production is replete with thrills and patriotic purposes for it takes spectators aboard Uncle Sam's fleet "Somewhere in the Atlantic" and imparts the pulse beat of the complex life that throbs through every fiber of our gigantic fighting machines. The secretary of the navy, Mr. Daniels, granted special permission to Mr. Howe to produce this film in order to inform the public what tremendous strides have been made in our mighty naval units within the past few months. These have been so rapid that it has kept even naval experts busy to "keep up to the minute." The scenes throughout reflect the spirit of the tense days in which we live and the momentous conflict in which we are now engaged. They radiate the atmosphere of serious business rather than the mere pomp and panoply of war. They depict the activities and discipline that pervade every nook and corner of our great floating fortresses while alert for instant battle. They take spectators to the quarter deck, the crew's galley, the massive turrets, the fighting top—everywhere. Even more than this, they reveal the "ways of the service"—the human side.

This film reproduction is the Navy's answer to the landsman's query "What do you do?" and the answer is made by the film in the clearest and most incisive way. It proves not alone the varied work that has to be done, but how these duties are allotted and how performed.

One portion also shows the rigorous training enforced at the U. S Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, in qualifying the midshipmen to become high officers in the Navy. It proves that contrary to the accepted beliefs, there is no royal road towards the achievement of a high command in the fleet. Dad's political pull may get an appointment to Annapolis but after that neither pull, nor wealth nor family connections count. Nothing short of real work, rigid discipline and lots of it merits promotion.

Another feature depicts the thrilling episodes of broncho breaking contests and a ride over the Cascade Mountains in Washington via the Great Northern Railway.

Still another film reveals an imaginary battle in the air between a Zeppelin and a British airman over London which ends in the total destruction of the former. Climbing dizzy Alpine heights is another subject replete with thrills as the fearless climbers ascend almost perpendicular cliffs and scale walls of towering peaks where death lurks at every step.

The serious subjects are humorously satirized by entirely new animated cartoons created by Howe's artists which simply must be seen to be appreciated.

Loyalty Must Be Blind.

It is generally believed that business and poetry have nothing in common, yet when Tennyson wrote "The Charge of the Light Brigade" he committed to paper the most vital lesson a business employee can learn—the lesson of blind, blithe loyalty. No commercial organization can live in which loyalty is lacking; none can largely succeed in which it is lukewarm. The man who accepts pay must give more than his time, more than his intelligence; he must give also his heart. The boss may blunder, but the right kind of employee goes ahead anyway, doing the best he can.—Electrical Merchandising.

A Maxwell truck will cover 100 miles in a work day—twice the distance covered by two teams and two drivers.

It will do this at an operating cost of less than that of one team of horses.

Moreover, it is of a size and capacity adapted to the needs of almost every form and phase of commerce, industry, or farming.

The question is not, "Can I afford to have a Maxwell truck?"

The FACT is, Mr. Business Man, you can not afford to be without one.

TECUMSEH PEOPLE PAY THEIR RESPECTS TO BOB LAFOLLETTE

Bob LaFollette is getting a black eye in Tecumseh, or at least a goodly number of Tecumseh people have signed a petition addressed to the Senate of the United States, the substance of which is as follows: That that honorable body investigate the charges which have been made against Senators LaFollette, Stone and Vardaman for unpatriotic and seditious utterances, and if such reports are found to be true, that they be expelled from the Senate and forever be forbidden a seat in that body.

This petition has been hurriedly passed about town and has been freely signed, 295 names in all, and if more time could have been spared many more could have been secured. It was almost the unanimous feeling of those seen that such action should be taken.

The petition was mailed to Senator Townsend Monday afternoon.

PRESIDENT WALDRON SENDS APPEAL TO GOVERNOR FOR COAL

As a result of the meeting recently held here, at which time the coal situation was taken up and thoroughly discussed, President Waldron has sent the following communication to Governor Sleeper:

Tecumseh, October 5, 1917.
To his Excellency, the Governor of the State of Michigan,
Dear sir:

We are sending you these statements of each of the coal dealers to let you know the coal situation here in Tecumseh.

We are not suffering yet for coal, and will not until cold weather sets in, but if the dealers do not then have relief, we certainly will have trouble as they all claim they have no coal in sight, nor can they get any promise of any in the future.

Now, if you or your Commission, can do anything for us it would be greatly appreciated.

Please let us hear from you in the near future as to what prospects there are for coal.

Signed, C. A. Waldron,
President of the Village.

Which Shall It Be?

Depend upon it, my boy, the only possession of real value you have is time. In time, improved, you can accomplish anything. You can leave the dull grind of mere existence and enter into the growing activities of life. You can make your work a joy by growing in it and above it. You can free yourself forever from the Nemesis of poverty and crown your early manhood with garlands of success.

Time is neither an angel that serves nor a demon that destroys. It is never neutral, always active. Him who values it justly it will exalt above the stars. Him who holds it lightly it will crush.

Time—what are you doing with it? What of those precious hours which, unsold to an employer, must inevitably be the medium of your elevation or fall? Before you are the mountains of success and the abyss of failure. You can—nay, you must—soar to the one or sink into the other.

Choose while there is yet time.—Ambition.

Writing on an Egg.

Hand a friend a hard boiled egg with the request that it be minutely examined. After he has satisfied himself that the egg is of the ordinary kind you tell him to break off the shell, and, much to his astonishment, he will discover his name plainly written on the white of the egg.

There is a previous preparation, but it is very simple. Dissolve one ounce of alum in a half pint of vinegar. Take a small pointed brush and outline whatever you desire on the shell of the egg. Let it dry thoroughly and then boil the egg for about fifteen minutes. If these directions are carried out all tracings of the writing will have disappeared from the outside of the shell, but when the shell is cracked open it will plainly show on the white of the egg.—Popular Science Monthly.

Plant Strength.

Plant strength is wonderful. If the roots of the delicate maidenhair fern have not sufficient room they will break the pot in which the plant grows. Blades of grass will force the curbstones between which they spring up out of their place, and in a single night a crop of small mushrooms has been known to lift a large stone. Indeed, plants are on record as having broken the hardest rocks. The island of Aldabra, to the northwest of Madagascar, is becoming smaller through the action of the mangroves that grow along the foot of the cliffs. They eat their way into the rock in all directions, and into the gaps thus formed the waves force their way. In time they will probably reduce the island to pieces.—Scientific American.

Jarred the Rainbow.

It's usually supposed that the downpour of rain that sometimes follows a flash of lightning is due to the coalescence of fine drops on losing their electrical charge, but a Finnish observer concludes that the thunder jars the drops together. Near Vasa a heavy thunderstorm came up from the east late one afternoon, and, as the sun was unclouded, a brilliant double rainbow appeared in the east for half an hour, arching from horizon to horizon. At each roll of thunder the rainbows seemed to be much shaken, the wedge being displaced and the colors blurred. This could not be due to the lightning, and it seemed that the same cause might enlarge the raindrops and disturb the rainbow.

Buttermilk.

Buttermilk is more wholesome than ordinary milk for the reason that it is already curdled, and the curds taken in the stomach are broken into minute particles, whereas ordinary milk is taken in the stomach and it forms large, hard curds, which often escape digestion. The acid forming bacteria of buttermilk combat the growth of putrefactive poison forming bacteria in the colon.—Philadelphia Press.

High Cost of Battleships.

A modern giant battle cruiser will cost approximately $20,000,000, a superdreadnaught can be built for $18,000,000, a scout cruiser for $6,000,000, a destroyer for $1,200,000, while ordinary submarines cost $600,000 each for the smaller type and from $1,000,000 to $1,200,000 each for the larger boats.

No Discount.

"You ought to cut my hair cheaper," said the baldheaded man to the barber, "because there's nothing much to cut."

"H'm! In your case we don't charge for cutting the hair; we charge for having to search for it."—Harper's Magazine.

The Doones of Exmoor.

It was long contended that the story of "Lorna Doone," by Blackmore, had no foundation in fact, but now it is declared that the picturesque region of Exmoor really contained a family of Doones, the originals in romance, if not of disgrace, of the people described in the book.

His Ambition.

Gladys—And what is the height of your ambition, Dick (after a careful survey of her)—Well, dearie, I should say that it was about five feet three.—Puck.

Home Discipline.

Mrs. Pintz—Is she good to the children? Mrs. Quinn—Very. She lets them do everything their father doesn't want them to do!

Self indulgence deprives a man of everything that might make him great.

Animal Criminals.

As a species of hardened criminal among placid herbivorous animals none is worse than the bison, or American buffalo. Toward man and beast and even among themselves these vicious, vindictive and agile brutes, whose half brothers on the other continents do not fear even the terrific onslaughts of lions and tigers, are in a state of almost continual warfare. They are among the wickedest rogues ever seen in a zoo.

Pride a Strange Thing.

Pride is a strange thing. For instance, a man would much rather be seen by the younger and prettier set of neighbor women filling up the gasoline tank than emptying the garbage, though the latter act is really much more commendable in that he just does it to help his poor, hardworking wife that much.—Columbus (O.) Journal.

Inquisitive.

"That fellow is a positive joke."

"Relative of your wife's or holding a better job than you?"—Detroit Free Press.

A Summer Cruise

It Involved an Adventure

By JAMES BRAINARD

There have been two cases of ships discovered in good condition, but deserted by their crews. One was found on the open sea under sail, the other at anchor on a coast. These two are all that thus far have been recorded.

It remains for me to record a third. I am a gentleman of leisure given to yachting. I am fond of cruising on my yacht either with a party of friends or a single male companion. During the last season I started from the New York Yacht club's dock at New York for a cruise eastward along the coast. I put in at several places on the route—New London, Marblehead, Portland and other ports—for fresh table supplies, then steamed on, intending to enter the St. Lawrence river and visit the Thousand Islands.

We met a number of yachts, for it was in the season, and yachtsmen are prone in hot weather to occupy the cooler regions of the northeastern coast. One evening while steaming across one of those beautiful bays that indent the rocky coast of Maine we saw near the shore a steam yacht riding at anchor within a cable's length of the shore.

Alec Wingate was with me on this cruise. Alec was the son of a British baronet and had domestic troubles. He had married the daughter of a colonel in the English army, a very beautiful girl, who, after a couple of years of married life, during which she and her husband had lived very happily together, suddenly disappeared. Whether she had been kidnaped or had gone off with a lover no one could tell. There was no evidence, at least none that any one had ever got hold of, to point in either of these directions. The only other theory was that she had been murdered. Wingate had hunted for her all over the world and had come to America for the purpose. I had met him and, having taken a liking to him, begged him to divert his mind from his loss by going on a cruise with me.

Our course lay near enough to the anchored yacht to enable us to see with glasses what she was—that is, we could have seen any flags, people or other distinguishing marks. But there were neither people nor flags. She was a steamer yacht, but no smoke was being emitted from her stack. Her stern was at one time toward us, and what was my astonishment to see no name on her.

We slowed up, expecting every minute to see some one appear on the deck, but after waiting half an hour without any one appearing it began to look as if either a party had gone ashore from her for some purpose or she had been deserted. The first of these theories was not very likely correct. In the first place, at least one member of the crew would have been left in charge, and, in the second, this was a perfectly wild coast, and there could be no object for any party to go ashore unless for water.

I gave orders to steam up alongside the nameless yacht. The hour was about 7 in the evening, and a fine dinner was set in the cabin. A fire was burning in the galley. Every boat belonging to the yacht was in its place. In the lockers in the after part of the vessel were articles of male and female wearing apparel, the latter indicating that ladies had been aboard.

And here the mystery changes from those sea secrets I have mentioned, or, rather, another mystery is added. Alec Wingate recognized a dress contained in a rosewood locker as one that had belonged to his wife. He at once became wild with varying emotions. There was pleasure at this evidence that his wife at least had been recently alive. There was bitterness lest she might have been living on this yacht with a paramour. There was fear lest, though she had so recently lived, she had met with some misfortune.

To allay this excitement I told Wingate that he might easily be mistaken in the dress. But he said that it was the one in which he had most liked to see his wife arrayed and the only one of her wardrobe that he would surely recognize.

We went through the yacht from stem to stern looking for some explanation of the mystery. Every stateroom, every receptacle, was ransacked. The firebox door stood partly open, and I looked in to see if materials had been put in to light a new fire. The old fire was still smoldering. The only thing we discovered was that the yacht had undoubtedly been made in England. And the maker's marks on the finishing and furniture were English. The upholstery had been purchased of a well known upholsterer in London.

Having satisfied ourselves that there was no one aboard, we left "the nameless" and returned to our own vessel. I induced Wingate to sit down to dinner—he would eat nothing—and discuss the matter. He wanted to go ashore the next day and search the coast. This seemed to me a useless expenditure of time. I had come out for a cruise and did not like the prospect of waiting while a search party beat the beach in a desolate country where there was probably nothing but wild moose or caribou. But Wingate suggested that the party on "the nameless" might have gone ashore for hunting purposes, and I at last consented that the next day he might take three of the crew, go ashore and spend twelve hours in looking for the deserters of the yacht.

But overnight something occurred to render this inadvisable. We set a light on "the nameless" and left one man to watch on our own vessel, which was all that was necessary since we were at anchor in a small bay in good weather. One man watched till eight bells, midnight, when another man took his place. Wingate wished me to put a man on "the nameless," and I did.

At two bells in the morning Wingate, who had slept little during the night, looked out of the porthole in his stateroom for the yacht. Not seeing her and supposing that he was not on the right side to see her, he got up and went on deck. "The nameless" was nowhere to be seen. He came to my room to announce the fact. I asked him what the watch reported about the disappearance, and he said that he had found the man sound asleep.

Putting on a bath robe, I went on deck. The first watch said that "the nameless" was in position when he was relieved, so she must have pulled out during the second watch. I asked if anything was known of the man who had been stationed on her, but was told that he had neither been heard of nor seen since he had been put aboard. He had disappeared with the mysterious vessel.

Among my crew there were several ignorant, superstitious men—sailors of low rating—who were paralyzed with terror. They rushed without orders to pull up the anchor, but I stopped them, though I feared they were going to brain me with capstan bars they had taken up. I didn't propose to take any action till I had received further information and had consulted with my guest, Alec Wingate. One of my men said that during the night he thought he heard the sound of oars.

Wingate was very much agitated over this part of the mystery. Indeed, he seemed more disturbed at the disappearance than he had been at the discovery of the yacht. I suggested that he make a reconnoitering trip ashore, as had been intended, but with a different purpose. He might find traces of people having been there. He followed my advice, but the keenest eye in the party could discover no indication of human beings. For my part, I believed "the nameless" had been taken possession of by shore desperadoes; that they had been in hiding somewhere near by; had gone aboard in the night, surprised the man on watch, killed him and towed the yacht out of our hearing with muffled oars; then they had lighted the fires and steamed away. There was nothing against this theory except the fact of Wingate's having found one of his wife's dresses aboard. But I took no stock in this, for Wingate had suffered so much at her loss that probably his mind had become afflicted and he had himself created the remembrance of this dress.

After consultation with Wingate, whom I told that I would adopt any course he wished, it was determined that we get up the anchor immediately and go out to the open sea with a view to discovering if "the nameless" was in sight. This we did, running directly southeast in a direct line from the coast, but notwithstanding that we had a clean sweep either way and excellent glasses we saw nothing of her. I believed she had got too much start, but nearly all of my crew by this time considered her a phantom.

Nor did we afterward hear anything of her, though we spoke every vessel we met, asking if she had seen her. One vessel described her pretty well, but the yacht observed was the Acadia, with the name painted on her stern. We completed our voyage without any other information.

But the mystery of "the nameless" was destined to be solved. During the winter Wingate got wind of his wife's being in Montreal. He went there and found her.

Though the story of her disappearance was never made entirely clear to me, the mystery of the nameless yacht was explained.

A case in litigation was before the courts which involved English people in high life and the inheritance of one of the most beautiful of the old castles of England. Many people were called as witnesses, and Mrs. Wingate was to have been one of these. This latter fact was unknown to her husband. In order to get her out of the way she had been kidnaped and kept at sea in a yacht.

The lady's kidnaper while on the New England coast saw by a New York social paper that her husband had embarked on a cruise with me. As soon as my yacht appeared his sailing master recognized her. At the time a leak in the boilers was being repaired, and there was no heat in the firebox, so the yacht could not steam away.

The kidnaper, supposing Wingate knew that his wife was on the Acadia and that he was on her track, ordered a paint brush to be run over her name on the stern.

An idea occurred to him. There was at the time no one on board but himself an engineer and his captive. He drugged the captive, carried her into the firebox and got in there with her. The engineer got in also, and the party, two on one side of the door and one on the other, were hidden from view of any one looking straight into the box, especially as there was very little light there. They all stayed in this concealment until we left the yacht and returned there when we put our watch aboard. During the night they surprised, gagged and tied him; then, having cut the cable, the two men got in the dinghy and with muffled oars pulled out of hearing. To get up steam and speed away was the next move. The Acadia, being one of the fastest English yachts, was soon at a safe distance.

Wooden Pipes For Water.

In these days of iron and cement it is always well to hear the report from the New England waterworks on wood pipe for water supply. They claim it is preserved and not rusted or corroded by water; it is not corroded by any substance or destroyed by acids or salts; its carrying capacity is 20 per cent greater than cast iron pipe and remains constant, while that of metal pipe decreases with age; it does not taint or affect fluids going through it; it does not burst if frozen, the elasticity of the wood preventing it; it requires less labor and experience to lay in place than metal pipe; it can, when service pipes are not taken off, be laid in shallower ditches than metal pipe, for it is not easily affected by frost, while more or less joints show slight leakage when the pipe is first filled, they soon swell up and give less trouble in the end than cast iron pipe.—Los Angeles Times.

What a Melon Did.

The notoriously corrupt Russian minister of justice, Tscheglovidoff, had a great and well known passion for melons. A story was told in the duma how he was once traveling through Russia on a tour of inspection and on reaching a remote outpost was met at the station by the usual high court officials.

His visit to the place had been long advertised, so that one little man, a very obscure person even in the official world of the district, had had time to grow an immense melon. When the minister of justice had concluded his reception at the railway station the small man came forward and dutifully presented Tscheglovidoff with the melon, upon which he had for months lavished the utmost care.

The minister was so delighted that he thereupon made the man a judge!

Gold Leaf.

There appears to be some mystery about the origin of gold leaf. It is found, for example, in connection with the most ancient known mummies, having been used for covering teeth, tongue, skin, etc. Sometimes it is also found on the coffins. Gold leaf was also used on the tombs and monuments of ancient Egypt. The process of making gold leaf has thus been known since the eighth century B. C. In the eleventh century it seems to have attained as high a degree of perfection as today. The gold leaf on some ancient Grecian pottery, indeed, is as thin as that now

"Michigan's sons are going forth to defend the nation. Michigan must stand as one man behind them and provide a full share of whatever financial support may be required. Nothing must be left undone, no matter what the cost, to win this war and win it speedily. Let us not do half-heartedly the part that may be ours in the conflict, but so lend ourselves and whatever we may have to the cause of humanity that the clenched hand of an outraged civilization may strike not only heavily but quickly. * * * * *

So you will be ready for them when they call on you, and not delay them by asking many questions the "Herald" has prepared the following information about the Second Liberty Loan Bonds. Read it, then buy Second Liberty Loan Bonds.

WHAT AND WHY IS THE LIBERTY LOAN OF 1917?

Q. What is the Liberty Loan of 1917 ?

A. It is a loan of money by the people of the United States to their Government.

Q. Why does the United States Government borrow money ?

A. Because we are forced to defend ourselves against the attacks on American honor and American rights by the German Government, and therefore must have money to equip and maintain our Army and Navy. We need money also in order to lend to those nations with whom we are making common cause in this war.

Q. Are not the ordinary receipts of our Government from taxes, etc., sufficient to do this ?

A. No: the ordinary receipts of the Government are about one and a quarter billion dollars a year, while our expenses of the war for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1917, will be over $10,000,000,000, not including the money which we will lend to our allies.

Q. How is the Government going to raise this large amount of money?

A. By borrowing from the people and by increasing taxes.

WHAT IS A UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT BOND ?

Q. When I lend my money to the United States Government, what do I get in return ?

A. You get a promissory note given by the United States Government and bearing interest. This note is called a "bond."

Q. What, then, is a United States Government bond ?

A. It is the direct and unconditional promise of the United States of America to pay upon a certain date a specified sum of money in gold, together with interest at a specific rate, payable at specific dates until the bond matures, of is called for redemption..

Q. In what form is this promise ?

A. It is graved upon a sheet of distinctive paper used only for the money and securities of the United States, and executed by the Secretary of the Treasury and by the Registrar of the Treasury and sealed with the Treasury Department seal.

Q. When are bonds of the Second Liberty Loan dated ?

A. November 15, 1917, is the date they will bear, because that is the date in which they will be issued by the Government and the date on which interest begins.

Q. When will these bonds be paid by the Government; that is, when will they become due ?

A. November 15, 1942; but the Government has the right to pay them any time after 10 years from date of the bond.

Q. Do I have to hold my bond until the date it is due before I get my money back ?

A. No; you can sell your bond any time you desire. There is always a ready market for United States Government bonds.

Q. How can such a sale be made ?

A. Any bank, trust company, reliable bond dealer, or broker will be glad to sell your bond for you any time.

Q. If necessary could I borrow money on these bonds ?

A. Yes; United States Government bonds are the best security which can be offered in borrowing money. Ask any bank if you desire to borrow money on your liberty bonds.

Q. Do I get any interest on my money while it is loaned to my Government ?

A. Yes; the Government will pay you interest at the rate of 4 per cent a year.

Q. How do I collect the interest?

A. Attached to each bond is an engraved sheet of interest coupons, one for each six months' period. When the interest date arrives, you cut off the interest coupon of that date and take it to any bank, where it may be cashed or deposited.

Q. How often do I get this interest ?

A. Every six months. This interest will be paid to you every May 15 and every November 15 during the life of the bond.

Q. Is there any way I can collect my interest without having to cut the coupons ?

A. Yes; you can get the Government to give you a "registered" bond; that is, a bond without any coupons attached and with your name written on the bond; and each six months, as the interest falls due, the Treasury Department will send you a check in payment of the interest.

WHAT KINDS OF BONDS ARE TO BE ISSUED

Q. Then are there two kinds of Liberty Bonds ?

A. Yes; bonds with interest coupons attached, which are called "bearer" or "coupon" bonds, and bonds which do not have coupons attached, which are called "registered" bonds.

Q. To whom is a coupon bond payable ?

A. A coupon bond is payable to bearer.

Q. To whom is a registered bond payable?

A. A registered bond is payable to the person whose name is written on its face and no other person. A registered bond can be tranferred from one owner to another by the owner writing his name on the back of the bond in the presence of a witness authorized by the United States Treasury Department.

Q. Shall a married woman use her own name or her husband's.

A. Her own—Mrs. Mary Brown, not Mrs. John Brown.

Q. If I should sell my bond, how shall I transfer it to the new owner ?

A. If it is a coupon bond, merely by delivery. Just hand it to the new owner.

Q. Supposing it is a registered bond ?

A. You must execute the blank form on the back of the bond in accordance with directions there given.

Q. Suppose a morried woman wishes to transfer a bond made out in her maiden name ?

A. She should sign herself "Mary Jones, now by marriage Mary Brown."

Q. Can I lend any amount to the Government and get a bond in return ?

A. No; $50 is the smallest amount that the Government will accept in return for a bond. Coupon bonds are issued in the following fixed denominations: $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000; registered bonds are issued in fixed denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000.

WHAT IS THE SECURITY ?

Q. A United States Government bond is frequently spoken of as "best security in the world." Why is this true ?

A. Because the promise to pay a Government bond is backed by the faith and honor of the United States of America and by the taxing power of this whole country, which is the richest Nation in the world.

Q. Has the United States issued bonds before; and, if so, has it ever failed to pay all of its bonds when they became due ?

A. This Government has issued bonds before, and has never failed to pay every bond when it became due with all the interest on same. Even after the Civil War, when the country was suffering from a heavy debt and was not nearly so rich as it is to-day, all of the Government bonds were paid when they became due.

JUNIOR NOTES

SOME GAME !

The foot ball game with Britton Tueday resulted in a score of 14-7 in favor of Tecumseh.

We journeyed to Britton and met some pretty stiff opposition. Tecumseh's line up was as follows.

C.—Harrison.
R. G.—Hahnam.
R. T.—Davidson.
R. E. Fat Murphy.
Quarter back—Harrington.
Full back—McLain.
L. H.—Satterthwaite.
R. H.—Best.
L. G.—Lebaron.
L. T.—Crittenden.
L. E.—Palman.

The game opened with Tecumseh kicking and Britton receiving, and by the way Britton made the feathers fly at the start made the out look look dark, but our veterans living up to their name as usual entered the fray with stiff upper lips.

After the ball was downed once Polly Clark, Brittons "Tone Star" sticking the pigskin under his left wing made Barney Oldfields record look sick when he made their first and only touch down.

Tecumseh received the next kick off and after some good manuevering landed the ball near the goal line.

In the second quarter they moved it over the white line and evened the score (7–7 end of 1st half)

After 15 minutes rest, our boys coming back with renewed vigor again drove back Brittons stony line of defence, and greatly aided by the heavy support of our boosters on the side line made some splendid line plunges.

These efforts proved futile as Britton held Tecumseh for downs, but by the end of the third quarter Tecumseh again had her hands on the ball, this time near Britton's last chalk mark.

In the last quarter Zeke McLain with a splendid line plunge carried the ball over the goal line and Lawrie, living up to his record, successfully kicked goal, making the final score 14-7.

Brttion receiving the ball advanced it to Tecumseh's twenty yard line where T. H. S. succeeded in holding Britton for downs, fighting their hardest in the shadow of their own goal post.

Tecumseh, anxious to gain another touch down, plunged down the field when the time keeper's whistle was all that prevented another touch down.

The game was featured by the excellent playing of the back-field and by the ability of Critenden and Harrison to break through the line and recover Britton's fumbles. Satterthwaite was again right there when it came to the forward passes and "Pat" and "Abey" Palman made good showings. "Polly" Clark proved to be Britton's best player.

If the Tecumsehites yell as hard and loud for their home team this afternoon as they did at Britton Tuesday, we surely will win that Manchester game.

Nobody Home !

Pep Meeting

Nobody can truthfully say that there is no pep in the Tecumseh High School now.

That every student is keenly interested in our team as well as in other school activities, was proven yesterday afternoon, when the livest pep meeting in the history of our school was held The purpose of this meeting was to put still more pep in the students and to urge every member to come out to the foot ball game Friday afternoon and root for our home team.

Bob Moore our able yell master opened the meeting with a whooping good yell for Team ! Team ! Team ! and then in a few words, told the student body why we had gathered.

He was loudly applauded and then captain Joseph Satterthwaite P. D Q informed us that the prospects of winning the Manchester game today were very good. but that we would need more rooters on the side lines

Perry Hayden then gently (?) urged everybody to come out tomorrow to help push back the "Germans."

Then before dispersing the whole student body practised yells and they certainly exercised their vocal organs to the limit.

The campaign to place $3,000,000,000 in Liberty Bonds throughout the United States is on and these bonds must be sold before October 27th. The Government is hoping that the issue will be largely oversubscribed and that the people will gladly help to fire the broadside at the Kaiser and Prussianism.

These bonds are known as the U. S. 10-25 year 4 per cent. convertible gold bonds. They will bear interest from November 15, 1917, and will be due November 15, 1942. Redeemable at the option of the United States at par and accrued interest on and after November 15, 1927. Interest is payable May 15 and November 15 of each year.

Coupon or registered bonds may be purchased in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000; and registered bonds of $50,000 and $100,000.

We are reaching now a crisis in the world war. All Europe is watching—watching us with eager eyes. Germany in particular is noting our every move. She is worried at last, yet hopeful, for Germany knows that before we entered the war there was a variety of opinion in our midst and she is still hopeful that even now when we are in the war we Americans may show divided sentiments. She professes to count upon our apathy, our indifference.

America will do her duty, she will give of her wealth and her man power that this war for Democracy shall conquer.

The campaign in Lenawee to take care of the county's apportionment of these bonds amounting to over $2,000,000 is on. People will be urged to subscribe, in fact commanded to subscribe, for it is the duty of every loyal citizen to answer his country's command. But in this case it will not be hard to obey for this bond issue is very attractive from an investment standpoint. It gives the investor 4 percent. net and is exempt from all taxation except from the surtax and we do not expect many of our citizens are fortunate enough to have to pay a surtax.

Where can you do better with your money? First of all, you will give it to the Government to help fight our battles for us, next you will invest it in the best possible security that can be obtained and lastly, you will be getting a very liberal return for your money.

Remember the Government doesn't have to pay you a nickle for the use of your money, it has the power to take it from you and may touch you for money many times before this war is over, but in this loan it is playing more than fair with you for it pays you a very liberal use for the money you give.

Buy these bonds. Buy as many as you can afford to buy. Buy them as much as possible from your savings and you will never be sorry you made the investment. If the war should end in a short time, these bonds will surely go to a premium.

Be ready for the men who will call on you, look for them and better yet, go to your bank and subscribe. If you are not familiar with the issue, ask your banker, he will be glad to tell you about them, but don't fail to buy Liberty Bonds.

"SOMEWHERE IN THE ATLANTIC" WITH UNCLE SAM'S NEW ARMY

Anyone who has attended Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival on the previous visits here has instantly recognized that there is something distinctive abou it that eludes analysis. Mr. Howe promises that his nesday, October 17thyut-ea,to sar-o new production which will be presented at the Bradley Opera House on Wednesday, October 17, is even more distinctive than any of its predecessors. The spectators may not be able to explain why "Howe's pictures" are so different from all others, but he knows emphatically that they are. The public everywhere is so familiar with these exclusive merits that each return engagement is hailed with delight.

The dominant film of the new production radiates true Americanism. It escorts spectators aboard our mighty naval units "Somewhere in the Atlantic" and proves how well prepared and alert they are for every possible contingency. It reveals the very latest devices in operation for offensive and defensive battle. Among them are the manipulation of the new aeroplane guns and the kites employed as targets for the firing squad to perfect their marksmanship in preparation of a warm reception for any Zeps or enemy aeroplanes.

Very weird and starting scenes from the big guns fired at night, and the searchlights signalling. These portions of the series are notable for being the only perfect photographic film reproduction nf their kind in existence.

The life, training, discipline, tactical exercise, etc., of midshipmen at the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis; climbing Mt. Blanco, in the Alps; thrilling episodes during broncho-breaking contests in the real wild wes; an imaginary battle in the air over London between a British aviator and a raiding Zeppelin, and a ride across the Great Divide via the Great Northern Railway are only a few of the many other subjects that will be shown and these will be alternated by a host of merry-making new animated cartoons.

Howe's Pictures are always considered the best entertainment of their kind in the world today but his new program is the most timely and interesting that he has ever presented in Tecumseh.

Prices 50c, 35c and 25c. Seats on sale at Hay's bakery commencing Monday morning.

Miss Goheen of Grand Rapids, visited the Headquarters on Wednesday.

Miss Phelps requests all ladies who bring in rags to be snipped, to wind them into balls, as otherwise they are liable to get tangled.

Mrs. Waldron and Mrs. Bert Gray brought bundles of material for snippings.

A parcel of snippings came from Ridgeway.

Miss Hosmer requests all knitters NOT to tie knots in the wool; if you do not know how to splice the wool come in and Miss Hosmer will teach you.

Mrs. LaVerne Bidwell, has plenty of material for pillowcases, but is sorely in need of workers, if you little spare time, can you not make a few?

If anyone knows of the whereabouts of the big Red Cross banner that used to hang before the old Headquarters, will they please notify the Headquarters, or any member of the committee. It was last seen at the Red Cross card party and dance at Witherell hall about June, as far as any one knows. We need it now.

A special effort is going to be made to raise our liberty loan quota in a drive over all the country, do not neglect the liberty bonds you can get them from any bank. Did you read about the horrors Dr. Hillis, who has recently returned from the front describes? To avert these horrors from our land, burning farms, mutilated women, children tossed on the drunken soldiers bayonets, we need men and money. The men have gone, it depends on us if they shall have the guns and munitions to fight with, or if they shall be sacrificed like the first British Regiments, who with supreme heroism threw themselves against the Kaiser's Huns. Subscribe to the Liberty loan, it is cheap insurance against frightfulness.

The society for the Relief of the French War Orphans has been merged into the Red Cross all payments for the fatherless children of France will in future go to the Red Cross, which will send them to their destinations.

The Red Cross Concert Company performs tonight at Medina. Mr. Donald Wright and Mr. Fred B. Wood, have donated their cars and their services to take the members of the company over.

On Sunday, October 20th the company will perform in the Christian church, Britton, and later at Onsted.

Any town desiring the services of this company is requested to kindly select a date before the bad weather breaks up the roads, as the autos are donated. Write to Mrs. J. C. Law Hardy or Fred B. Wood, Tecumseh.

"VERY GOOD EDDIE"

The big event of the local theatrical season is scheduled for next week Thursday, October 18th. when the Bradley will offer Tecumseh people their first opportunity to see "Very Good Eddie," the big musical comedy success of last season.

Local playgoes have heard a great deal about 'Very Good Eddie" from people who saw it last season as three or four of our townspeople saw it in the Detroit opera House last winter and speak of it in very glowing terms, some saying they will not miss the opportunity of seeing it again.

It is the first of the New York Princess theater productions to be seen here, and unless one has seen one of those "intimate" and distinctive musical shows that have been proving so popular on Broadway of late seasons, "Very Good Eddy" will be in the nature of a revelation, it is so essentially different from all other musical shows. It is untheatrical, and delights without seeming to make an effort to do so. It has about every element that can enter into a musical show—fun, jolly tunes, pretty dances, charming young girls—but they are so differently combined and so cleverly presented that the show bears no resemblance to the machine made musical comedy of the ordinary variety. The production bears the unmistakable stamp of Elizabeth Marbury and F. Ray Comstock which stands for absolute smartness and "class."

Based on a farce by Philip Bartholomae and Guy Bolton, there is laughter in generous quantities to serve as a basis. And Jerome Kern has supplied some of the most tuneful melodies heard in years. In fact, a number of the "Very Good Eddie" songs are already familiar here, such as "Babes in the Woods," "On the Beach at Li Lel Wi," "If I Find the Girl," "Old Boy Neutral," "Wedding Bells Are Calling Me," and "Some Sort of Somebody."

The company includes all the Broadway comedy, vocal and dancing favorites while the real Princess swagger fashion chorus will charm with its freshness, youth and beauty.

In buying tickets for "Very Good Eddie" please keep in mind the fact that this is a big city company and production and always plays such houses as the Garrick or Detroit Opera House at $2.00 per seat for the entire first floor, instead of coming into a small town like Tecumseh and raising their prices, they are playing here at lower prices, having $1.00 and $1.50 seats on the first floor. The management of the Bradley does not hesitate to say that "Very Good Eddie" will prove the best thing at the Bradley since "The Spring Maid" was presented there in 1912.

Mrs. Harry Shea is visiting friends in Hastings this week.

H. S. Temple attended the foot-ball game in Ann Arbor Wednesday.

Fred Steinhoff and wife of Adrian pent Sunday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. B. F. Steinhoff.

Mrs. A. R. Brown of Jackson, who had been visiting her brothers, the Cadmus boys, and families in Macon, left for her home Thursday.

MONDAY CLUB

The first study day of the Monday club was held in the Methodist parlors October 8th with an attendance of over forty. Several new members were elected, namely Miss Jennie Gillespie, Mrs. Bert Gray, Mrs. A. L. Goodrich, Miss Bessie Pulver. The resignation of Mrs. Fay Anderson was accepted with regret.

Mrs. W. D. Reed had charge of the program and first called on Mrs. Mary Henne who read in a most pleasing manner two selections from Byron's "Hebrew Melodies." Mr. F. C. Dickinson acting as substitute sang Watson's "Babylon." The one paper of the day, "The Chosen People" was given by Mrs. Harriett Clark of Adrian who made the trip especially to help out the Monday club.

Not only did the audience enjoy the paper itself but the way in which it was delivered added doubly to the enjoyment. Mrs. Henne read a second group of poems as a fitting close to the program.

Those members who wish to get the full value of the years' study will do well to be present next Monday also. Miss Ingersoll will have the topic "Early Hebrew Literature" and Mrs. Dale Hodges will read "A Hebrew Drama of Love." The earnestness of our nw members is shown by their willingness to fill in where absence or removal breaks the routine of our program.

Beautiful 1918 Maxwell Now On Exhibition

Without altering the world champion motor, the famous perfected clutch and transmission or the mighty axles, the Maxwell builders have produced a new wonder car, far superior in construction and in appearance to anything yet turned out by the Maxwell factories—we have this new and beautiful car—come and see it.

The car is larger and roomier, for one thing—the wheelbase has been increased six inches.

It is also a stronger and more rigid machine for the road.

The frame is now six inches, instead of three inches deep.

And the body rests directly on this powerful frame, instead of on brackets extending from the sides, as in the past.

Do you know what that means?

It means this: The firmness with which the wheels grip the road and the steadiness of the car at high speed give you a sense of security such as you have been able to enjoy before only in cars shackled with a battery of shock absorbers.

This New Car is 50 Pounds Lighter

There's a marvel of engineering for you, friends!

The car is made bigger and stronger—and yet actually lighter.

This means greater ease and comfort on the road.

More than that—it means greater economy.

And the Maxwell before was the most economical 5-passenger car in the world.

Compensating underslung rear springs—the last word in spring suspension—mark this wonderful Maxwell of 1918.

They mean greater comfort—greater economy, by lessening wear and tear on the car.

Maxwell Now Has the Style of the Costliest Cars

The new Maxwell is a car of great beauty.

It has a sloped windshield and rakish lines never before produced in any car costing less than $1200.

Its good looks now equal its proved mechanical efficiency.

The new upholstery is richer and gives a new comfort.

Inside and out the new 1918 Maxwell is a perfected car.

We're proud to sell it.

You'll be proud to own one.

POLICE DUTY CURES OBJECTOR

Kitchen Work Day After Day, Banishes Concientious Scruples.

Camp Custer, Battle Creek—Only one conscientious objector has made his appearance at Camp Custer thus far. He was an intelligent young fellow and stated his objections witn clearness. He did not claim any religious connection, nor did he base his attitude on spiritual grounds. He simply said that he did not believe it right to take human life under any circumstances, and did not want to be placed in a position where he would have to do it. He hung back in the drill work and utterly balked at the rifle.

Instead of arguing with him the captain put him to work peeling potatoes. Morning after morning, he went down to the cook's kitchen and did mental labor. All through the day, he peeled mountains of potatoes that were always disappearing as fast as he peeled them.

After a week at this work his conscience underwent a change. He asked permission of the captain to become a soldier in the company. In due course he will probably be permitted to resume his place in the ranks.

WITH THE BOYS AT CAMP CUSTER

A school for horseshoers will be opened at the remount station and 278 men will be transferred to it.

With the receipt of rifles instruction in guard duty is under way. The work heretofore has been done by the Thirty-third regiment battalion. Each regiment is assigned to guard its own sector of the cantonment, in the barracks section and on the outside edges of the camp.

Study of President Wilson's war message in all high schools of the state is urged in circular letters sent to superintendents, principals and county commissioners of Michigan by Fred L. Keeler, state superintendent of public instruction.

GUARDS TAUGHT HOW TO BOX

Learn How to Fight Kaiser's Men With Bare Fists.

Waco, Texas—Judging by the course of instruction being given here by Capt. Allan L. Briggs, assistant chief of staff and senior aide de camp to Gen. W. G. Haan, the American soldier will help defeat the kaiser by using his bare fists.

In his lectures to officers of the 32d division, Capt. Briggs, who returned from France recently after extended observation, lays stress on a necessity of a knowledge of boxing. The reason he advances for this is that the German knows nothing of the use of fists, hence, instead of ducking a blow, he shuts his eyes and flinches. This flinch will give the American soldier a chance to close in, even though disarmed, and render ineffective the long bayonet of the Teuton.

The use of their fists is but one of the many tricks being taught the guardsmen, each one of the devices having two purposes. One, to save the life of the American, the other to take that of the opponent. It is explained in the lectures that these tricks, including stabbing a man with his own bayonet, breaking his arm or neck, are made necessary by the style of fighting used by the enemy.

Edsel B. Ford, vice-president, secretary and director of the Ford Motor company, was denied his claim of exemption from the draft army on the industrial clause, by the Detroit exemption board. Unless Mr. Ford appeals to the president of the United States—the only course left to follow, he will be called to service in the second draft.

NOTABLES ATTEND DEDICATION OF WOMAN'S BENEFIT ASSOCIATION BUILDING AT PORT HURON

THOUSANDS ATTEND CEREMONIES

Magnificent New Building Dedicated By Miss Bina M. West Amid Cheers.

At the left stands Miss Bina M. West, the founder and leader of the Woman's Benefit Association of the Maccabees, the largest fraternal beneficiary society for women in the world. Governor Sleeper of Michigan (at the right) and his staff were honor guests at the magnificent dedication ceremonies in Port Huron, when the $250,000 Home Office of the Association was dedicated.

Miss West raised the flag over the building, massed bands playing "The Star Spangled Banner" and in the presence of thousands dedicated the monument of her 25 years of work to the use of fraternity among women.

The building is built to endure one thousand years and is a model of the very latest perfection.

Miss West at this time celebrated her silver anniversary and was presented with 2,500 silver dollars by her members accompanied with a year's vacation. The former she accepted saying "I will use it for something that will please you all." An hour later, by the unanimous consent of the Supreme Convention Miss West created the Woman's Benefit Association Patriotic Service Fund and donated her 2,500 silver dollars to it, amid cheers and the waving of handkerchiefs. This fund will receive a contribution of 200,000 members and will probably reach $300,000 by December 31st. It will be used for the relief of invalided American soldiers.

The year's vacation was refused, Miss West stating "This is no time to rest." Seven hundred representatives came from Ohio for the Women's Benefit Association parade and dedication, among them being the famous Union Guard of Cleveland, numbering 150. They were reviewed by the Governor who pronounced their spectacular work perfect.

Tables for Junior Protection were adopted at the Supreme Sessions and these go into immediate effect. The children of members will be insured under the "Whole Family Protection" act of Michigan.

The convention wired Treasurer McAdoo that $200,000 was ready for Liberty Loan. This makes $300,000 already contributed by this Association, not including the individual subscriptions from local reviews and the members of the Woman's Benefit Association.

PROMINENT MEN OF TOWNSHIPS NEAR HERE TAKE CHARGE OF LIBERTY LOAN

(Concluded from Friday's issue.)

HOW FAR ARE BONDS EXEMPT FROM TAXES ?

Q. Are Liberty Bonds exempt from taxation ?

A. The bonds are exempt both as to principal and interest from all taxes imposed by the United States, any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any taxing authority, except:

(a) Estate or inheritance taxes.

(b) Graduated additional income taxes, commonly known as surtaxes and excess profits or war profits taxes now or hereafter imposed by the United States upon the income or profits of corporations, individuals, partnerships, or associations.

The interest on an amount of bonds and certificates, not in excess of $5,000 in one ownership, is exempt from the taxes provided for in Clause (b) above.

Q. Does this mean that the bonds are free from all local taxation ?

A. Yes; the local assessor or tax collector cannot assess these bonds as personal property.

THE FIRST LIBERTY LOAN

Q. Has our country sold any Liberty Bonds before ?

A. Yes; $2,000,000,000, bearing 3½ per cent interest, were sold June 1917.

Q. Did the people generally subscribe for these bonds ?

A. Yes; more than 4,000,000 persons bought all of these bonds and offered to buy a billion more than were offered.

Q. Did all who subscribe for Liberty Bonds get their full subscriptions ?

A. No; the Government only asked to borrow $2,000,000,000 from the people and therefore only desired to sell $2,000,000,000 of bonds. As more than $3,000,000,000 were subscribed for, the Secretary of the Treasury cut down some of the subscriptions.

Q. Were those who desired to lend small sums to the Government—that is, who subscribed to small amounts of bonds—favored ?

A. Yes; all those who subscribed to bonds from $50 up to $10,000 were given the full amount.

Q. How about those who subscribed for larger amounts ?

A. These were cut down so that some of those who subscribed for exceedingly large amounts received only about one-fifth of the amounts of their subscription.

Q. Is the Government likely to offer other bonds for sale during the war?

A. Yes.

Q. Suppose the Government offers bonds in the future which will pay a higher rate of interest than 4 per cent ?

A. If so, the holder of a Liberty Bond will have the right to exchange this bond for one bearing the higher rate of interest.

AMOUNT PRESENT LOAN

Q. What is the amount of the Second Liberty Loan ?

A. The Secretary of the Treasury is inviting subscriptions for $3,000,000,000 and reserves the right to allot additional bonds up to one-half the amount of any oversubscription.

Q. How was this bond issue created ?

A. It was authorized by an act of Congress and approved by the President of the United States.

HOW TO BUY

Q. How much do bonds of the Second Liberty Loan cost ?

A. From $50 to $100,000, whatever their face value calls for. The law states that these bonds must be sold at not less than "par"; that is, their face value—100 cents on the dollar.

Q. How can I buy the bonds of the Second Liberty Loan ?

A. By filling out an application blank and handing it to any bank or trust company, bond dealer or broker or to one of the Federal reserve banks, or to the Treasury Department at Washington.

Q. When can this application blank and handing it to any bank or trust company, bond dealer or broker, or to one of the Federal reserve banks, or to the Treasury Department at Washington.

Q. When can this application for bonds be made ?

A. At any time from the 1st day of October to the close of business on the 27th day of October 1917.

Q. In what form must applications to buy a Liberty Bond be made ?

A. All applications must be in the form prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, obtainable at any bank or from a Liberty Loan Committee.

Q. Must the full price of bonds be paid on application ?

A. No; only 2 per cent of the amount you want to buy is required when application is made.

Q. When must the remainder be paid ?

A. In installments as follows: 18 per cent on November 15, 1917; 40 per cent on December 15, 1917; and 40 per cent on January 15, 1918.

Q. Can I buy a bond on the installment plan by paying for it weekly or monthly ?

A. The Treasury Department will not accept payments in this manner, but many banks and a great many employers will sell you a bond and allow you to pay for it in partial payments. If you desire to pay for your bonds in this way, consult your employer or any banker.

Q. When will the subscriber know how many bonds they will receive on their subscriptions ?

A. The Secretary of the Treasury will announce this about the 6th of November, 1917. This is known as making the "allotment."

Q. Must all subscribers to liberty bonds wait until the allotment is made to know whether or not they will receive their bonds ?

A. No; a subscriber for bonds up to a $1,000 is certain to receive his bond.

Q. If I desire to pay for the bonds at the time I make my subscription, may I do so ?

A. Yes; you can pay in full for any bonds you buy up to and including $1,000; but for more than this amount must wait until the allotment is made.

WHAT YOU GET

Q. If I pay in full for a $50, $100, $500, or $1,000 bond, do I receive the bond ?

A. Yes; you will receive a bond dated November 15, 1917 and bearing interest from that date. You will receive it, within a short time after payment has been made.

Q. If this bond is a coupon bond, will it have the coupons attached ?

A. The bond which you will receive will have four coupons attached covering the semiannual interest for a period of two years. After November 15, 1919 and before May 15, 1920, the holder will have an opportunity to exchange this bond for a new bond having a full set of coupons.

Q. Why are bonds issued in this way ?

A. The work of engraving bonds with a large number of coupons attached is so great that bonds can not be ready for delivery to purchasers within a reasonable time by reducing the number of coupons.

HOW TO PAY

Q. Do Subscribers to Liberty Bonds receive particular recognition ?

A. Yes; each subscriber is given a badge of honor in the form of an official button.

Q. To whom shall I make payments ?

A. Payments can be made to the Treasury Department at Washington or to one of the 12 Federal reserve banks in cash, by bank draft, certified check, post-office money order, or express company money order, but subscribers are urged to make all payments on their bonds to the bank with whom they placed their subscriptions.

Q. What provision is made for the interest accruing on the bonds from November 15, 1917, to May 15, 1918 a six months' period, when final payment on the bonds is not made until January 15, 1918 ?

A. Interest from November 15, 1917, to date of final or full payment must be made added to the last payment. Credit will be given the subscribers for interest at the same rate upon all the payments. Tables showing the amount of accrued interest payable on January 15, 1918 and on various interest days after payment has been made, will be distributed through the banks by the Treasury Department.

Q. As a practical matter, will I have any difficulty in attending to these details ?

A. None at all. Any bank, trust company, bond house, or broker will gladly give you full instructions at any time without charge.

HOW WOMEN MAY AID

Q. How may women aid the Liberty Loan ?

A. First: By the purchase of Liberty Bonds. Second: By helping to sell Liberty Bonds to others.

Q. Can a woman own a Liberty bond as her personal property ?

A. Liberty Bond is the personal property of the purchaser or of the person to whom the purchaser may sell or assign it. If it is a registered bond, the record of its ownership is a matter of governmental record. A Liberty Bond is therefore the property of the woman who buys it until she disposes of it.

Q. Why should women buy Liberty Bonds ?

A. Because Liberty Bonds are the method adopted by the Government of the United States to take care of the soldiers, sailors and marines who are fighting America's war. The success of our men in this war will benefit women no less than men. Women may not fight; but women may aid men in providing the sinews of war for the fighters. To women even more poignantly than to men, come the words of the Secretary of the Treasury, "Shall we be more tender with our dollars than with the lives of our sons ?"

Q. What may women's organizations do to promote the Liberty Loan?

A. Every organization of women has a fund of some sort which may be used to aid the Liberty Loan. The money of this fund may be invested in Liberty Bonds. There is no better investment for the funds of an institution, a community, or of an organization. Every women's organization in the country should be represented by investment in the Liberty Bonds.

Q. How does the purchase of Liberty Bonds express the patriotism of the American people ?

A. Every citizen of the United States who buys a Liberty Bond registers his approval of our defending ourselves against Germany. Every citizen who buys a Liberty Bond testifies to his love of country. Every citizen who buys a Liberty Bond contributes toward victory.

The End.

PUSH RUSSIANS BACK

Slavs Fight Germans on Island in Gulf of Riga.

Defenders Being Driven Toward the Southeast — Batteries on Dago Island Sink Four Destroyers.

Petrograd, Oct. 15.—Fighting between the Russians and the German troops which landed on Oesel Island, in the Gulf of Riga, continues, according to the Russian official statement issued here. The Germans are pressing the Russians toward the southeast. An attempt made by a German force to capture a pier on Moon island, between the Island of Oesel and the mainland of Esthonia, was repulsed.

It now develops that the Germans did not occupy Dago island north of Oesel and at the head of the Gulf of Finland.

Following is the text of the official statement:

"Baltic sea—On Friday the enemy who landed on Oesel island succeeded in occupying a part of the island. Toward evening it was observed that enemy motorcyclist detachments were approaching Orrishaf in the eastern part of the island, and they attempted to capture a pier on Moon island, but were repulsed.

"The fight with enemy troops which landed still continues. Enemy advanced detachments are pressing our troops in a southeasterly direction.

"The landing of German troops on Oesel island continued yesterday. The region where the debarkation is taking place is guarded from the sea by very large enemy naval forces.

"Simultaneously with the landing on Oesel island several enemy ships engaged our shore batteries on Dago island. According to the information to hand four enemy torpedo boats were sunk by the fire of this battery and one enemy cruiser which was firing at this battery ran aground.

"Our battery was completely destroyed by the overwhelming gunfire from the enemy ships. This enabled the enemy to land a small detachment on Dago island, which however, was unable to maintain its position, and the troops promptly returned to their ships.

"Since yesterday morning our ships have successfully hindered the enemy's naval forces entering our waters between Dago and Oesel islands.

"In the course of the engagements of the last two days our ships suffered no appreciable damage.

"During numerous aereal reconnaisances and engagements in the region of Oesel Island one of our aviators brought down an enemy airplane."

Premier Kerensky in an urgent appeal to the Baltic fleet to defend the fatherland "in this hour of trial" divulged the fact that the garrison of Kronstadt, the chief fortress and military port of Russia and the station of the Baltic fleet, twenty miles west of Petrograd, by its attitude already has weakened the defensive resources of the fortress.

Eight dreadnaughts, a dozen light cruisers, forty torpedo boats and thirty mine sweepers participated in the German landing on Oesel island. The people of Petrograd received the news of the occupation calmly.

HAIG'S TROOPS REPULSE FOE

German Reconnoitering Forces Driven Back in Flanders—French Attack Teuton Patrols.

London, Oct. 15.—Field Marshal Haig's forces during the night repulsed German reconnoitering detachments north of Poelcapelle and west of Becelaere, on the extreme right and left ends of the new British battle line, east of Ypres, in Belgium. The British are showing renewed activity further south.

The war office announced that a successful raid was made on the Teuton lines near Hulluch, which is four miles north of the French mining center of Lens.

The text of the British statement follows:

"The enemy's artillery was active during the night northeast of Ypres. Hostile reconnoitering parties were repulsed west of Becelaere and north of Poelcapelle.

"We carried out a successful raid in the neighborhood of Hulluch."

Paris, Oct. 15.—French scouting parties during the night attacked the German patrols along the new French battle front in Belgium and took 80 prisoners. On the River Aisne front the artillery duel reached a lively pitch at various points, according to the war office statement.

WOMAN NAMED IN SUIT DIES

Mrs. Lillian Stiles Mentioned in Divorce Case Against Chicago Millionaire Ends Life.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Lillian Stiles, noted as a beauty and named by Mrs. Herbert Crane in her suit for divorce against the Chicago multi-millionaire, committed suicide in an Aurora hotel. She left a farewell note to Miss Anna Berg, an intimate friend, and asked that her body be cremated and the ashes thrown in the lake. Since the Crane divorce case, during which Mrs. Stiles became a national figure in the newspapers, she has lived as a companion to Mrs. S. R. Chittenden, a wealthy Evanston widow. The scandal of Mrs. Crane's charges, among them her allegation that Mrs. Stiles lived with her husband on his magnificent estate in Wheatland, is believed to have wrecked Mrs. Stiles' health. When Mr. Crane subsequently married again, Mrs. Stiles is said to have become more morose. Near the body was a vial which had contained an ounce of chloroform.

SUSPECT BOMBS IN BLAZE

New York Authorities Investigate Blaze Closely Following Two Other Fires Laid to Plotters.

New York, Oct. 15.—The cause of a destructive water front fire Sunday, the third in two days, is being investigated. The loss was estimated at $500,000. Several buildings of the Charles Williams stores in Brooklyn were destroyed. There is a suspicion that the fire was of incendiary origin. Incendiary bombs are held responsible for Saturday's two blazes. The first destroyed 800,000 bushels of grain, mostly intended for American troops in France, which was stored in a Brooklyn elevator, causing $2,000,000 loss. Fire that destroyed the British-American chemical plant, makers of hospital supplies, at College Point, L. I., with $150,000 loss, is also attributed to incendiaries.

From the number and amount of subscriptions taken for Liberty Bonds here, it would appear to us that people did not yet understand what it means to buy a Liberty Bond. You [illegible] patriotic. We assume that 99 per cent of the people who live in this locality are patriotic that they are with the Government in this war, [illegible].

Whether you are or not the Government expects you to be and commands your patriotism, whether it may be as a drafted soldier or in support of the Government plans in connection with the war.

Your Government has asked that [illegible] be raised by the sale of 4 per cent Liberty Bonds and expects the people to take them. They make it easy for the people for they start the demonstration in small amounts, within the reach of almost everyone. The coupon bonds are issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000 and the registered bonds in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000.

Many people have the idea that they must pay cash for these bonds. This is not the case. The Government only requires 2 per cent down and the balance may be paid as follows: 18 per cent on November 15, 1917; 40 per cent December 15, 1917; and 40 per cent January 15, 1918. If these terms are not easy enough for the purchaser, our banks have offered to assume the payments and extend to the purchaser a credit whereby he may make arrangements to pay them back on terms to suit himself, the only charge to the purchaser would be a nominal interest charge for the use of the money. This would furnish a fine opportunity for people to save their money and have it invested in a Government bond, the security back of it being the best on earth. These bonds draw 4 per cent interest, payable semi-annually.

It is claimed that during the campaign for the sale of the first Liberty bonds, that the farmer was the smallest investor. Now, Mr. Farmer, whats the matter with you? Most farmers this year, when the balance sheet is struck off, will find themselves with money ahead. Why not invest some of this surplus in Government bonds? You say that you haven't sold much off from the farm yet and haven't the ready money. It dont take ready money, the banks will take care of ready money proposition for you, all you need to do is to subscribe and pay for them when you get your money and you will only be called on for a small payment down. We would like to see the farmers in Tecumseh township come across and do some buying. Get busy Mr. Farmer and do your duty. You are not giving, you are making a good investment.

A business man told us that he did not want to subscribe for bonds because he needed the money in his business and that he could make more by having it there. This man did not show a patriotic spirit, he hasn't seen the light yet and again if he purchased $1,000 worth of bonds he wouldn't be taking it out of his business for the bonds will bring cash at any time and he could turn them over to buy stock etc. Government bonds would make fine assets for any man's business.

Ward comes to us that our boys who have enlisted in Uncle Sam's service have been large subscribers to this second issue of Liberty bonds.

This, in itself, should be enough to shame any man who stays at home. Get busy and do your share. Must the boys who do the fighting, who will die for us, shoulder the financial burden of this war, too?

Don't waste any more time, buy a bond at once, buy today.

ROYAL THEATRE MAKING IMPROVEMENTS

The Royal Theater under the new management is undergoing a general reconstruction and when the work is completed the room will be very neat and pleasing. The green paint and paper have given way to soft tones of brown, the lobby is dazzling in its fresh white paint and the front of the building has also been repainted. When all the other changes have been finished the place will be right up to date. Mr. Warner is also putting on some first class pictures and deserves the patronage of Tecumseh and vicinity.

Next Monday will be [illegible] day and we bespeak for him a crowded house.

MACON

An important meeting of the Red Cross Society will be held at the M. E. church Wednesday evening, Octobar 17 after Prayer meeting. Election of officers. A good attendance is desired.

The Maccabee pedro party last was a jolly affair. The ladies first went to Mrs. Ed. Everett, while Ed. Brooks took gentleman's first, Mrs. Lavern Harrison and Ed Everett being consoled

LYCEUM COURSE ANNOUNCEMENT

The three hundred patrons of last year's Lyceum Course will be interested in the announcement that the course this year starts Thursday, Oct. 25th. Some of the lecture dates are not yet fixed and some of the numbers have been changed because various members have gone into government service. The most of the attractions are furnished by The International Lyceum Bureau of Chicago. So far as the dates have been set they are as follows:

Oct. 25 The Varsity Trio
Nov. 29 Plumbstead, the humorist
Dec. 11 Lecture, "The Top of the Hill," H. H. Pitzer of the Radcliff Bureau
Jan. 24 The Winter's Co. Musical novelties
Feb. — Lecture, William Alden Smith, U. S. senator from Michigan
Feb. — The Williams Co. Electrical and scientific specialties
March 16 The Stratford Operatic Co.

This last company is a $100 attraction and the highest priced number on the course. The course this year is costing $50 more than the one last year and yet, marvelous to relate, the price of the course tickets has not gone up as has most everything else; the popular price $1.00 maintains. The combined single admission amounts to $2.20 so that if one could only attend half of the numbers it would pay to have a course ticket at $1.00. Tickets go on sale next Monday morning.

MONDAY CLUB TAKES UP LIBERTY LOAN

An appeal was made at the usual meeting of the Monday Club yesterday for the Liberty Loan. It was very favorably received, about $500 being promised in a few minutes, while others promised to think it over.

Mrs. Charles Williamson afterwards suggested that the club as a whole take up the matter and that the club should get credit for what the members subscribed. This idea was approved by the members of the executive committee with whom Mrs Williamson took up the matter.

All members who take bonds are therefore requested to hand in their name and the amount they have taken to the secretary next Monday, neither the name, nor the amount will be published; it is only a private memorandum for the secretary, so that she can give out the grand total of bonds taken by the Monday Club, the names of the individual members will in no case appear, as that was the desire expressed by the ladies.

You can get a bond paying you four per cent. interest for $50.00, $100.00 or more, you can pay cash or in installments or you can save it up gradually and pay your bank weekly or monthly.

One lady remarked that she had $50.00 which she really did not need to spend, but wolud have done so if she did not consider it her duty to help Uncle Sam. We hope many others will follow her example.

MRS. JOHN C. MILLS

Mrs. Ellen B. Mills of Macon passed away at her home suddenly Friday evening. She has been in failing health for some time, but her death came as a shock to her family as she seemed no worse than usual when the nurse prepared her for bed.

She leaves one son Mark Mills, to mourn her death.

The funeral was held from the home Monday at 2 o'clock, Rev. Somers of Ridgeway officiating. The burial took place in Macon cemetery. An immense throng of people gather to pay their last tokens of respect to their departed friend.

HENS IN HIGH GEAR

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 9.—C. F. Patterson director of the state poultry experiment station, says the egg laying contest has developed a speed on the part of the hens averaging 157 1-2 eggs for ten months. The average for the state per hen is 70 eggs for the same period.

We have no doubt, that our own C. F. Patterson could give a few facts and figures on poultry that would compare favorably with the above. He certainly is up to date in the poultry business.

RED CROSS NEWS

Total, 6955.

Mrs. Sena Crane is very badly in need of helpers to make pajamas. There was no response to her last appeal. The pajamas that were sent out from Tecumseh have been pronounced perfect in every respect by the examiners, and it is sincerely to be hoped that this branch of the work will not fail for lack of enthusiasm. Mrs. Crane is most painstaking and hardworking, but she cannot do it all alone. It takes every one of us, in order to accomplish the work that is necessary or some will fall under the all too heavy burden.

When Miss Hosmer was asked for news, she pointed with a triumphant smile to a table heaped up with beautifully knitted goods and said, "There is my news." On counting the heap was found to contain 8 sweaters, 14 mufflers and 18 pairs of reversible wristlets.

Miss Anna Cutting has just finished 3 doz. and 9 hot water bottle bags, and she is looking for more material.

Dr. Pauline Bredow reports 48 3-yard rolls made at the last meeting of the surgical class. There is a box ready to go to Adrian now. Dr. Pauline is going to Adrian today in order to learn how to make the 8 new dressings we have to learn. There is an instructor there and pupils can attend the classes.

Mrs. Lavern Bidwell reports receiving several answers to her appeal for workers, but she would like a few more in order to work up the material on hand.

If anyone knows of the whereabouts of the Red Cross banner that used to hang before the old Headquarters, please notify Mrs. B. J. Pulver or Mrs. J. C. Law Hardy. It was last seen at the party at the Witherell Hall and we need it. If it has been left anywhere, please let us have it, it is of no use to anyone.

The Red Cross Concert Company, consisting of Mrs. Fred B. Wood, Mrs. Robt. Moore, Mrs. Ella Hodges, Mrs. J. G. Law Hardy, Mr. W. S. Dickinson, Mr. Fred Dickinson, Mr. Roger Waring and Mr. Floyd Juckett gave a concert at Medina on Friday. Mr. Fred B. Wood and Mr. Don Wright drove the company the 60 miles return, and donated their cars. Some one remarked that the drivers get all the hard work and none of the glory. Mr. Wood and Mr. Robert Moore have given their cars for nearly every concert.

The next concert will be in the Christian church, Britton, on Sunday evening at 7:30 standard time.

The Patriotic League has collected $5442.00 to date. We lack $558.00 to come up to our assessment.

The Liberty Loan is our next duty. Our soldiers need the Red Cross to take care of them when wounded. They need the munitions that the Liberty Loan will buy to prevent them from being wounded. You can get a bond for $50.00 or for $100.00. You can pay on receipt of the bond Nov. 15th or you can pay in installments or the bank will loan you the money and you can pay up weekly or monthly, almost any way you want to. A few cents saved here, a few extra cents earned there and you have enough to pay your weekly installment on your bond. And then you have something tangible to show for your savings. You have an investment with Uncle Sam for which he will pay you $4.00 yearly in interest on every $100.00 you have loaned him. Any bank will loan you money on your Liberty bond if you are ever in need and you have something safe that no power on earth can take from you, unless Germany wins.

If Germany wins, then nothing you have will be yours. You will not be asked to give, you will be told that you and your wife will be shot at sunrise unless the money is forthcoming. A rather profane man was asked why he contributed so liberally to the church and he answered that he considered it cheap fire insurance. In loaning at good interest to Uncle Sam, in taking a Liberty bond, you are taking out the cheapest insurance the world affords.

Do not imagine that the banks are working so hard for the loan because they make anything out of it. The banks DO NOT MAKE ONE CENT through handling the loan. On the contrary out of patriotism they are giving the time of their employees, for which they have to pay salaries, they are giving the use of their offices, they are giving work and attention to the loan, which they could use more profitably in looking after their own business. They are offering to loan you money to buy the loan, which in this time of scarcity of money for investment and high interest they could use better for other purposes. That is their task, for Uncle Sam, what about you? Come in and sign up and help beat the Kaiser or he will beat you.

Publicity Director.

Freshmen Party

Oh Yes! where was it ? ! ! ? Ask the Juniors maybe they can tell you. We sure don't envy their ride to Tipton on such a frosty night. Well Cleveland's house and barn I'm sure we are all ready to admit were very Comfortable.

Miss Conklin much astonished the Freshman class when she announced that they had elected Julius Ceasar for Vice President. So you see that the Freshies are a very ancient and historic class.

Miss Wilnow informed the Latin I class that the Gauls are fighting with the Kaiser.

Mr. Palman and Miss Yutzey had a very personal conversation in Latin I class, when Mr. Palman called her dear and she answered him Yes, dear. The latin class manifested their disaproval by a roar.

It seems that Miss Rogers has a very indefinite idea of the future life of Chaldeans as she informed the class that they had their arms removed before they were buried.

10,000 NURSES PARADE

A copy of the Evening Sun of October 4th, published in New York, has been received from Miss Anna Ferguson. It contains an account of the parade of the Red Cross nurses who are about to leave for France. There were 25,000 nurses and workers in uniform in the parade, some in their blue traveling suits some in white and some in gray and all wearing the Red Cross. Two thousand of them will soon be on duty in France.

Miss Anna has been in New York for several weeks and will doubtless be among the first to go. The best wishes of her many friends in and around Tecumseh go with her with the hope of her safe return in the near future.

TO BID GOOD-BYE

Part of the big swagger chorus appearing in "VERY GOOD EDDIE" at the Bradley Opera House, next Thursday October 17th. The classiest attraction at the Bradley since "The Spring Maid" in 1912.

WHAT HAMILTON (ONTARIO) "SPECTATOR" SAID OF "VERY GOOD EDDIE" WHICH COMES TO THE BRADLEY THURSDAY NIGHT

"Very Good Eddie."

Certainly lovers of this form of entertainment are enjoying their innings after a prolonged dearth. "Very Good Eddie," last night's offering at the Grand, was one of the hits of the New York season a year ago, and promises to meet equal popularity on the road.

Those who have seen the delightful little farce, Overnight, will recall the story of the two bridal couples, one of each pair of whom had been left behind on their trip up the Hudson. The complications ensuing were as humorous as they were amusing and embarrassing. Around this plot, the writers of Very Good Eddie have woven a musical fabric to match that of the story.

The performance of Very Good Eddie was thoroughly satisfying from every standpoint. The singers offering the various song motifs were capable and sang and acted with a sincerity most pleasing. The chorus was an attractive feature, singing with verve and freshness, and always gladdening the eye with a display of lovely raiment. The trappings of the comedy caught the fancy of the audience the array of beautiful gowns worn by the women of the chorus and the principals, the choice arrangment of lighting and setting, all combining to satisfy the artistic sense of the most fastidious.

The fun makers of the evening were Dave Ferguson as Al Cleveland, the clerk at the Rip Van Winkle Inn, and Taylor Graves as Eddie Kettle, the little bridegroom-husband. This team, both in singing and acting, kept up a running fire of mirth throughout the performance.

Barrett Greenwood as Dick Rivers and Miss Eva Oleivotti as Elsie Lilly, were charming interpretators of Terpsichorean art, graceful and lightsome in their many artistic dances. Others of the cast who won fevor by their contributions in acting and singing were Ben Grinnell as M. de Rougement, Miss Jane Evans as Mrs. Kettle, Madison Smith as Percy Darling, and Mignon McGibeny as little Mrs. Darling.

Very Good Eddie will be seen at the Grand again to-night. Instead of giving a matinee performance this afternoon, through the generosity of manager Carl Hunt, and the members of the company, a performance of Very Good Eddie will be given in the recreation hall at the Mountain sanatorium for the soldiers. The entire company will journey to the San in touring cars and a full complement of costumes and scenery will go long also, so that the men at the San, who have done their bit, will enjoy the delight of a real theatre performance in their midst.

Note: Patrons of the Bradley are assured the treat of the season in the presentation of "Very Good Eddie" Thursday night. It is claimed that this will prove the best attraction at the Bradley since "The Spring Maid" which was presented here come few years ago. Willett's own orchestra has been engaged, this with the magnificent cast and chorus to say nothing of the wonderful costumes and scenery carried for the production leaves nothing lacking. Seats are now selling and selling fast, many being taken in Clinton and Manchester besides many orders from Tipton, Britton and even as far out as Saline. Better buy yours to-night.

SENIORS ENTERTAINED

OUR STEEL-CLAD ARMADA, ALERT AND ALIGNED FOR ACTION

Since Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival is so highly esteemed here, it seems hardly necessary to emphasize the pleasure that is in store for the local legion of admiring patrons when Mr. Howe will present his new production at the Bradley Opera House this week on Wednesday October 17. One of its big features takes spectators abroad our steel-clad Armada "Somewhere in the Atlantic" and shows it alert and aligned for any possible contingency in these momentous days. It opens up for every spectator new visions and conceptions of the might and magnitude of our floating fortresses and of the incidents, duties and activities that characterize the life of the fleet keyed up for instant action. Part of this series also shows how the "middies" at the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, are trained and developed as navigators, artillerists, engineers, etc., to qualify them as commanders of the fleet.

Superb views of the adventures of Alpine climbers in ascending Mt. Blanc; tense moments during broncho-breaking contests in which both cowgirls as well as cowboys of the real wild west vie with each other in taming the most spirited animals; a "trick" film showing a thrilling but imaginary "battle in the air" over London between a British airman and a huge raiding Zeppelin which ends in the rout and wreck of the latter; and a ride over the Cascade Mountains in Washington via the Great Northern Railway are only a few of the many other notable scenes included in the new program. Then, too, much wholesome amusement is provided by entirely new animated cartoons, livelier and more diverting than any Mr. Howe's artists have created hitherto.

There is no other attraction ever presented at the Bradley that gives more real entertainment and at the same time instructions and knowledge than Lyman H. Howe's pictures. One evening at Howe's pictures is equal to years of reading and study or to thousands of miles of travel. "Travel with Howe" is the slogan of millions in the United States and every year thousands of new patrons are added as his followers. If you have never seen Howe's pictures see them this time, if you have seen them before all farther words will be useless, we know you wont miss them. Seats are now on sale.

To tell the truth we don't like the words "cheap groceries."
We much prefer to deal in the highest qualities obtainable.
Because reduced prices ALWAYS stand for reduced values,

Business is so regulated that it cannot be any other way.
So we talk high qualities month in and month out.
And we sell accordingly.
And strange as it may seem it is the truest sort of economy to deal here.

Constant satisfaction—

MAY DRAFT MEN 18-40

12,000,000 More Will Be Called for Army Service.

President and War Department Said to Favor New Bill to Be Introduced at Next Session.

Washington, Oct. 15.—Men from eighteen to forty are to be taken in the draft under amendment to the present law which will be urged with all the power of the administration upon congress immediately upon the convening of the next session.

The amendments will be introduced by Representative Julius Kahn, Republican of California, ranking member of the house military committee.

Representative Kahn is the father of the present draft act. It is said that the war department as well as the president is in favor of the Kahn amendment.

America may as well accept the situation at its true value, according to army officials. This is to be no short war and every man who would not be more useful at home is needed to bear arms.

"Men, dollars and food must be furnished by America in a measure beyond any realization of the people at present," Representative Kahn declared. "We have only begun. What we have done so far is merely a drop in the bucket."

After conferences with Secretary of War Baker and Provost Marshal General Crowder, Representative Kahn will draft legislation to provide the men needed. The amendment will provide that every man between the ages of eighteen and forty shall be registered for military service. This, it is estimated, will give the government an additional 12,000,000 men to draw from. This act will provide that youths will be obliged to register when they reach the age of eighteen, but shall not be called to the colors until they reach the age of twenty-one. The regulations provide that no man over thirty-one years of age, nor those that have attained the age of twenty-one since the June draft shall be called to the colors until the present draft is exhausted.

W. J. Orr, Saginaw, designated by the government to direct the purchase of beans for navy and army use, has received word from Armour & Company, of Chicago, that it is offering to the food administration the use of its elevators and warehouses throughout the world and will buy beans in behalf of the government without compensation. The company has buying stations in Manchuria, Tokio, Brazil, Liverpool and many other foreign ports.

At stake—World's baseball championship.

Place—Polo grounds, New York.

Time—2 p. m. (1 p. m. Chicago time).

Probable pitchers—Benton, New York; Faber, Chicago.

Probable attendance—32,000.

Probable receipts—$73,000.

Weather forecast—Fair and warmer.

New York, Oct. 15.—The White Sox and Giants, American league and National league rivals for the highest honors in baseball and the extra coin that comes from winning a world's series, got into the big town last night from the West prepared to battle desperately in the sixth and what may be the deciding struggle of the series this afternoon at the Polo grounds. The Sox have won three games to two for New York. If victory perches on the Comiskey banner this afternoon the series will be over and Chicago will be happy. If it goes the other way then the teams will have to fight it out here Tuesday in the seventh combat. This was decided by the toss of a coin in Chicago Saturday. Comiskey's luck failing him and Hempstead of the Giants calling the turn.

Fighting Game Expected.

This series has developed into a nasty, mean fight, in which profanity, threats of physical violence, high-flying spikes, and blocking at second base are playing a prominent part. It is sure to be a rough battle today and a fist fight among the players, or injuries in the way of spike wounds, are expected.

Urban Faber and Rube Benton are the pitching selections for today. McGraw is in the hole and must lead his ace, namely Benton, who last Wednesday, while blanking the Sox, 2 to 0, hurled the best game yet turned out in the series.

The Sox got in early Sunday evening on the special with the newspaper men. The trip was uneventful. The Sox all spoke confidently of the outcome and made it plain that Fletcher and the rest of the rough-and-ready Giants would not get their "goats" this time. They think Faber can win today, but if he fails are positive Cicotte can turn the final trick Tuesday. Some of them are so sure that they bet some money on Broadway.

Giants Are Desperate.

The Giants arrived on their own special with the New York writers. They are a desperate and angry gang. They will never forgive themselves for letting that Saturday game get away.

Overboard

A Labor Day Story

By John Twining

An ocean liner was coming across the Atlantic. In the main portion of the ship, fitted up with every convenience, every luxury, were millionaires and multimillionaires, some of whom had been prominent in the London social season, and not a few brought with them jewels, a fortune in themselves, that had blazed in many a ballroom in England's capital. There was one man aboard occupying a suit of apartments the price of which for a four days' trip would give a workingman a comfortable home for a lifetime. These people, seemingly regardless of being suspended between the heavens above and the bottom of an ocean several miles beneath them, wore their fine clothes at dinner, and in the evening ate choice viands, drank the best wines, listened to music, flirted, even danced, while the hours glided happily away to the swish of the waves against the leviathan's side—a gayly careless lot, seemingly oblivious to the cares and sorrows of this world.

How different the underworld, which on shipboard is as far beneath the upper world as on land! In the steerage was many a family packed in their narrow quarters, eating the homeliest fare, and many, though accustomed to the ordinary wine of their country, were drinking only water, and that out of tin cups.

Among these steerage passengers was one Adolph Stahr, a Swede, a young man twenty-five years old, with his bride, Amelia, six years his junior. They had left their native country, their simple peasant life, to seek a home in the new world. Adolph was a mason by trade, and Amelia had worked in a factory in her native land, becoming expert at weaving. They had heard that in America the price of labor had, by the united effort of the laborers, been raised to what seemed to them a very high figure. Accustomed as they had been to living on a pittance, they believed that, receiving these wages, they could save money enough within a few years to build them a home in which they might live comfortably for the rest of their days.

And so, putting together all the money they had with something that their parents gave them, they set out on their long journey for what was to them a land of promise. Taking ship for England, they there re-embarked for America.

Half their journey across the Atlantic had been accomplished when one afternoon a fog settled down over the waters. Fogs on the sea are dreaded by mariners, and, although the dressing in fine clothes, the feasting, the wine drinking, the music, went on among the passengers in the main part of the ship, many heard the constant, deep toned toot-toot of the fog whistle warning vessels that might be near. But at last all aboard the great ship except those whose duty it was to sail her were in their berths.

Suddenly there was a crash forward, the sleepers were awakened, all jarred, some thrown out of their berths. There was a mad rush to the deck, many going up in their nightclothes, where they found confusion and saw the lights of a ship drifting away from them. Fading into the fog they soon passed out of sight. The captain stood on the bridge coolly giving his orders, but few of them were obeyed. Above the babel was the wild cry for help from the wireless machine. From the first the crew realized that the liner had been hard hit, and the worst was feared. Those who were sent to examine the damage came running back to report that the foremost bulkhead was rapidly filling and that others astern of it were in danger of giving way.

An hour later when it was known that the ship was sinking the boats were lowered and the women and children put into them. The men of millions for the first time in their lives came to a position where the wife and child of an emigrant were permitted to step into a lifeboat while they themselves must remain to go down with the ship.

One parting among those who were to go and those who were to remain it is the province of this story to mention. Amelia Stahr clung to her husband and refused to leave him. Taking her in his arms, he carried her to one of the boats, put her in and before she could get out the boat was lowered and pulled away from the ship.

The gray of the morning revealed the leviathan a few miles distant, half sunken, resting on the water like a dying sea monster. Slowly she settled, watched by those in the boats, nearly all of whom knew that some loved one was soon to go down to death with her. Then raising her huge stern she plunged downward, and the place where she had been was but a part of the boundless ocean.

Safety came for those in the boats in the appearance of a steamer that had heard the wireless cry for succor. The boats were relieved of their burden, and those who had left the sunken ship were carried into an American port.

Amelia Stahr on reaching the land with her fellow sufferers received every attention. But for this the case would have been hard indeed. Nevertheless it did not relieve the desolation of coming to a new land a bride widow. As soon as it was known what labor she could do those intrusted with the work of assisting the women and children who had lost husband and father secured her a place in mills where she could ply her trade, and she became self supporting. Some time after her arrival in America a little girl was born to her, and, although there was a melancholy in not having her husband with her at the time, she welcomed the child as a memento of her husband and as a solace in her loneliness.

Amelia for awhile had a lingering hope that Adolph might be picked up and brought to land by some passing vessel, but as month after month passed and she heard nothing from him the hope gradually died away. She was well skilled in her work and received every attention and encouragement, as did all survivors of that terrible shipwreck.

And so time passed. The widow worked hard and saved that she might educate her child. Amelia was still young and [illegible] the fair hair and complexion of the people of the north and a pair of melancholy blue eyes. Suitors came, but she listened to none of them. From childhood she had been Adolph Stahr's sweetheart and there was little prospect of her ever giving herself to any other man.

Six years passed. Little Lena Stahr, who was now old enough to be amused by pageants, when a Labor day came round besought her mother to take her to see the procession.

So Mrs. Stahr, putting on the child's best clothes, took her into the city and found a vacant stoop where they would be sufficiently elevated to see the marching men. There they waited.

The child was wild with that excitement children of her age display at some unusual occurrence, especially a parade. When necks were craned in the direction the trades unions were expected she would shout, "Here they come!" and when disappointed would begin to look forward for the next forecast of the approach. In this way an hour passed, when a distant roll of drums was heard, followed by faint strains of martial music. Then Lena danced and clapped her hands and laughed with anticipation.

At last came the band, headed by the drum major, whose tossing of his staff was a delight to all onlooking children. Then the grand marshal, surrounded by his aids, passed by, followed by one union after another. When the masons passed suddenly a man darted from the ranks, pushed his way through the crowd that lined the sidewalk and, leaping over several small boys and disarranging the big hats of a number of women, clasped Amelia in his arms.

The man was Adolph Stahr, her husband. Amelia saw him and knew him before he reached her. Almost before his arms were about her she lost consciousness. Her first act after coming to herself was to point to Lena. Adolph understood, and, taking the child in his arms, the three were united in one embrace.

Stahr after parting with his wife on the sinking vessel began to think of himself. First he picked up a life preserver and put it about him. He was cool and took forethought for a possible saving of his life. He secured a bottle of water and some meat and bread. These, with a small flask of liquor he had brought with him on his journey, he stowed away as best he could on his person, then, returning to the deck, gathered what loose material he could to make a raft.

The latter stood him in good stead, for, embarking upon it, he managed to paddle himself far enough away from the ship not to be drawn down with her when she sank. He was among a very few who did so, and soon after the ship went down he became separated from that few.

He saw the steamer that came and took up those in the boats, but he had meanwhile drifted away from them too far to be seen or heard, but he rejoiced at the knowledge that those in the boats, especially his young wife, were saved. He drifted slowly on till there was nothing in sight except the sky and the ocean. The sea was comparatively calm, and his bread and meat he kept dry till they had been consumed. These, with his bottle of water, kept him alive for three days—days of horror, but not bereft of hope. Ships passed, but they were too far away to be attracted. At last he kept what remained of his strength by an occasional draft from his flask.

He was passing into semiconsciousness when he was aroused by a shout and saw a small boat pulled toward him. He was taken on board a sailing ship bound on a trading tour around the world and found no means for leaving her and making America for a long while. When he did succeed in this his Amelia had been lost track of by those who had known of her landing.

Stahr did not return to the ranks. He found something more interesting than parading—a wife and a daughter whom he had never seen, of whose existence he had had no knowledge. Between the two, the wife leaning on his arm, the daughter lovingly holding the hand of her newly found father, they went to the mother's home to lay plans for their future.

Since that fortunate meeting, that blessed reunion, the Stahr family take an unusual interest in Labor day, for it is their main anniversary. Had it not been for that parade that Mrs. Stahr and her daughter were looking at, their paths might never have joined. Stahr called their meeting a coincidence, but Mrs. Stahr, who is a devout Christian, looks upon it as a dispensation of a merciful Providence. They have prospered, the husband and father having made money as a contractor, but he never fails to join in the parade on Labor day like an ordinary workman

THINK BIG THINGS.

Give Your Imagination Play and Try to Live Up to Your Dreams.

Isn't it true that the only thing which makes it possible for us to perform the daily drudgeries of life is the hope for better things which blooms in our hearts?

Hope is romance. Ambition is romance. All the fine, true inspirations of life are romantic. Romance leads to achievement, unless it blossoms in the mind of a lazy, shiftless creature who is incapable of action.

The man who leads a forlorn hope is romantic. The hero who gives his life fighting a dread disease to which he succumbs, but against which he has insured humanity, is romantic. Romance is the thing which makes it worth while for men to sacrifice material comforts and die on strange fields of honor.

In a materialistic world, where we have to deal with the facts of earning our living and fighting for place and position, the thing which lifts us above blind instinct is romance. Cherish your dreams, for they give you a glimpse of beauty and make you willing to struggle over cruel mountains and harsh plains to the pot of gold at the rainbow's end. Dreams give respite from dreary reality and urge on to all that is big and fine.—Exchange.

IMPORTANT MEETING

Held Tuesday Evening in Masonic Club Rooms

IN INTEREST OF LIBERTY LOAN CAMPAIGN

An important meeting of some thirty or thirty-five patriotic citizens of Tecumseh was held at the Masonic Club Rooms Tuesday evening with Township Chairman H S, Temple presiding.

Robert Darnton, county chairman of the Patriotic League, Caryl Spiller, chairman of the publicity committee of the County Liberty Loan Campaign, and Mr. Holman who represents the Federal Loan Bank in this county and is helping to carry on the campaign, were present from Adrian.

Chairman Temple called on Mr. Spiller who told of the work as it is being carried on in the county. He was followed by Mr. Holman who explained the Liberty Bond and Mr Darnton who gave a rousing patriotic speech.

Many questions were asked and answered at the close of the remarks. Later an organization was effected to take care of the selling campaign which is to be carried on in this township and committees were appointed to look after the details in connection with the work.

The campaign will start at once, plans being laid to see every one in the township with the object in view of placing a bond in every home.

MILLER—BRIGGS WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Esther Miller and Harold C. Briggs was quietly solmnized Thursday afternoon, October 4 at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Miller 191 Linwood Ave., Detroit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. D. Ramsdell, D. D., who officiated at the wedding of the brides' parents and also baptized her, only the immediate relatives and friends being present. The house was decorated with autumn vines, palms and pink and white asters. The bride carried a bouquet of brides' roses and was attended by Miss Adelaide Janette who carried a bouquet of pink rose buds. Little Mabel Jones, niece of the groom, as flower girl, carried the ring on a satin pillow in a basket of white rose buds. Howard Miller, brother of the bride acted as best man. Immediately preceding the ceremony, Russell Miller also brother of the bride sang "Oh Promise Me." The party descended the stairs to the strains of "Lohengrin's Wedding March" played by Miss Florence Jones, niece of the groom. After a buffet luncheon, Mrs. Will Briggs very pleasantly gave a reading, entitled "A Honeymoon Failure."

Among the guests was the grandfather of the bride, W. W. Crittenden of the 4th Michigan cavalry, who was one of the first to lay hands on Jeff Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Briggs left on the 6 o'clock boat for a short eastern trip, amid showers of rice and confetti.

The Muskegon county board of supervisors has appointed a committee to investigate the need of the families of married men who have enlisted from Muskegon county. While the new state law provides for dependents in a measure, the board thought there might be some suffering and the members believe the county should do its share in looking after them.

Bituminous coal prices have not been raised in Michigan yet, but if the operators in the central competitive field grant the increases to the miners which is contingent upon the federal coal administrator allowing the operators to raise their prices, then the price will be raised in Michigan. Coal miners in this state are governed by the central field and any raises in that district will automatically react in this state.

Uncle Sam's drive for the sale of Liberty Bonds is progressing in Tecumseh. As a result of Tuesday night's meeting, a selling organization has been perfected and teams are already working throughout the village and township.

The total amount subscribed, as reported to the county chairman Thursday night, was in the neighborhood of $18,000. The amount actually subscribed to date is nearer $25,000 as several of the teams had not reported early enough to have their subscriptions included in the report.

The report coming in from our factories is showing up fine. The latest heard from them gives H. Brewer & Co. about $2000. American Steel & Wire Co., 31 subscriptions, 21 bonds taken amounting to $1300; Heesen Bros. & Co., close to $1000; and The Macaroni factory, $600. This is a good showing and shows that our factory boys are doing their bit.

If everyone will take this matter to heart and make up their mind to put some of their savings into these bonds Tecumseh township will roll up a good total which will show to the rest of the county and nation that we are on the map and willing to back the Government to the limit.

Tuesday our stores close at noon and our business men will help push the drive. You will hear nothing but Liberty Bonds for the next eight days, so you had better subscribe for one and get it off your mind.

A large thermometer will be placed on our four corners Saturday to register the progress being made. Look for it and watch it climb. The higher it goes, the more bullets it will provide to get the Kaiser. Don't fail to buy a bond, your country needs your money.

COAL CANVASS BEING MADE

Under the direction of our Village President, a coal canvass is being conducted throughout the Village and Township, to ascertain the amount of coal each person has on hand and the number of tons needed to last them through until spring.

We understand that the report will be presented to the Council at a special meeting to be called next Monday evening. The report will be sent to Lansing and will be placed before the State Coal Commissioner.

The canvass so far is showing more coal on hand in the residence district than in the business district. Most of our merchants find themselves with only a small amount in their bins, while the residence district has fared much better, many of the people having their full supply for the winter.

Dr. Balmer will give a special address at the M. E. church, Sunday morning, at 10 o'clock. His subject will be "The World War, and our relation to it." Every man of the community is cordially invited to be present.

D. P. ANTHONY

Prominent Business Man and Inventor Passes Away.

Daniel P. Anthony, for many years a highly esteemed citizen of Tecumseh, passed away at his home on West Shawnee St., Tuesday noon, where for many months he has been gradually failing in strength until death came to him as a kindly messenger and called him to his home above.

Mr. Anthony was born in Rochester, New York, May 2nd, 1837, the third child in a family of seven, born to Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Anthony. When but a child his parents moved with their family to Michigan locating on a farm near Camden in Hillsdale County.

August 27, 1857 he was united in marriage to Julina Haviland in Raisin township. To this union were born five children, Mrs. Dora Bowen, Mrs. Jennie Dole of Tecumseh, Chas. Anthony of Windsor, Canada, Mrs. Nina Nixon of Holloway and Stella Calhoun deceased. Mrs. Anthony died March 23rd, 1914 at their home in Tecumseh.

Previous to 22 years ago when he moved to Tecumseh, Mr. Anthony followed the business of farming and owned the farm now owned by F. J. Temple and sons. He was an inventive genius and was the originator of the knot that made the Anthony fence famous, first doing business in the building now occupied by Brown & Co. The business grew rapidly and they were soon forced to enlarge their quarters, building the plant now occupied by the American Steel and Wire Co. who afterwards purchased it. After selling, he with his son Charles started a fence factory in Windsor, Canada, which they conducted until about two years ago.

Mr. Anthony has been a member of Tecumseh Lodge No. 69 F. & A. M. for many years.

R. A. HEESEN VISITS FORT SHERIDAN

R. A. Heesen has recently returned from Chicago and while there he made a trip to Ft. Sheridan and looked over the officers training camp. He looked up our Tecumseh boys R. K. Anderson and H. H. Hanna Jr. and found them hale and hearty and hardened by the military life that they have been leading for the last month and a half. Both were enjoying the life and although strenuous they were able to eat their rations with a relish and enjoy a good nights rest in the bunks provided by the army.

Mr. Heesen was amazed with the activities of Fort Sheridan camp and with the work that is being accomplished there.

A PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Arthur B. Harding met with a painful accident Wednesday afternoon while at work on some crates. Either the nail he was driving or a splinter from the wood flew up and struck his glasses breaking one lens. A piece of the glass pierced the eye-ball and several other pieces were taken from under the eyelid. While he is suffering great pain from the injury, yet the doctor thinks that his eyesight will not be effected.

The Majestic bakes better because it is made of heavy material, is riveted to a heavy iron frame. It is lined with asbestos, keeping it air tight. I think the water gets hot quicker because the reservoir is in front nearer the fire box.

DOROTHEA RICHARDSON

The Majestic range bakes better because it is made better and lasts longer. Because it is made better than any other range. It heats more water because it is bigger, and it uses less fuel because it is of a better make.

DONALD VAN WINKLE

The Majestic bakes better because it has better oven. Because it is made of better iron. Because it has the tank next to the fire box and away from the oven.

CHORUS WITH "UNCLE SAM'S BELLES" BRADLEY OPERA HOUSE, THURSDAY, OCTOBER, 25.

REAL BURLESQUE SHOW COMING TO TECUMSEH!

Direct from Avenue Theatre, Detroit

Burlesque, the oldest form of entertainment known to the present generation of theater goers will be the attraction at the Bradley Opera House, next Thursday, October 25, when Messrs. King and Atkinson offer "Uncle Sam's Belles." Funny comedians, real singers and a chorus of beautiful and shapely girls are the characteristic features of burlesque. It is for these reasons that burlesque holds such a firm grip and unwaning popularity with those who relish a light entertainment. A company of forty comedians, singers, dancers and musicians form the 1917 version of "Uncle Sam's Belles". Scenic production embracing two acts and half a dozen scenes are shown during the action of the play "A trip to Palm Beach" is the introductory scene of the first act and at the finale of the second act the spectator finds the scene laid on the Hawaiian Islands.

Late and popular songs sung by principals and a chorus of blonde, brunette and Titian haired beauties is one of the features of "Uncle Sam's Belles." During the action of the piece over a score of tuneful melodies are introduced. Among them are: "Over There," "There's a Garden in Old Italy", "Love's Own Kiss," "I'm through with Roaming Romeos" "What do you want to make those eyes for," "Joan of Arc," "They're Wearing them high in Hawaii," "Oh! Love, here in my heart," "Down Honolulu Way Way", "For me and My Gal," and other haunting melodies that linger in the memory.

Not how cheap --how good

To tell the truth we don't like the words "cheap groceries."

We much prefer to deal in the highest qualities obtainable.

Because reduced prices ALWAYS stand for reduced values.

It is inevitable.

Business is so regulated that it cannot be any other way.

So we talk high qualities month in and month out.

And we sell accordingly.

And strange as it may seem it is the truest sort of economy to deal here.

No waste of material—
Constant satisfaction—
Most healthful eatables—
Those are reasons enough.

4 "ZEPS" SHOT DOWN

French Destroy Half of Fleet Which Raided England.

One Airship Brought Down in Flames—L-49 Forced to Land by Chaser Planes—Crew Captured.

Paris, Oct. 22.—Although at first it was thought that the visit of the Zeppelin fleet to France was an independent raid, carrying out the threat made in a German wireless message to destroy Paris in reprisal for French air raids on German towns, it now is generally believed that these eight Zeppelins, four of which were destroyed or captured, were returning from England, that they had lost their bearings owing to fog and probably were out of touch with their wireless communications.

The log book of the Zeppelin which landed intact shows that she had been to England, and prisoners from three other airships confirm this.

The raid is proclaimed as being definite proof of the superiority of the airplane over the Zeppelin.

No reports have yet been received that any damage was done by the Zeppelins or that bombs were dropped anywhere in France.

Of the four Zeppelins lost two were destroyed and two were forced to descend. The two disabled airships, under attack by aviators and anti-air defense posts, descended in the Saone valley and were forced to land in the neighborhood of Sisteron, in Basses-Alpes. The crews after setting fire to the airships attempted to flee but were taken prisoner.

The first Zeppelin brought down fell at St. Clement, seven and a half miles south of Luneville, and not at Rambervillers, as was earlier reported. An anti-aircraft post fired a volley and the Zeppelin arose with a bound. A second volley pierced the envelope, and the airship, bursting into flames, took a vertical position and crashed down at 6:43 a. m. Five mangled corpses were found around the wreckage. The bodies of the other members of the crew remain buried in the smoking mass. No bombs were heard to explode.

About 2:20 p. m. the Zeppelin L-49 was forced by chaser planes to land near Bourbonne-les-Bains intact. A naval lieutenant and his second officer and a crew of 27 men were captured.

London, Oct. 22.—Twenty-seven persons were killed and fifty-three injured in the British raid, Lord French announced. The material damage done by the raiders was confined to houses and business premises.

The raid on London was the first one by Zeppelins which the city has experienced in 12 months.

Of the 27 deaths officially reported as the result of the air raid, seven persons were killed outright by bombs that fell in the shopping district of London and thirteen by a torpedo which destroyed three houses in the residential quarter.

They were standing on the track waiting for a freight train to pass on another track and did not see the approaching passenger train.

SEES END OF COAL STRIKE

Garfield Receives Encouraging Reports From Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Other Points.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Fuel Administrator Garfield, before leaving Washington for Ohio to visit his sick mother, received encouraging advices from Illinois, Indiana and Ohio points where coal miners have been conducting unauthorized strikes.

The fuel administrator said he believed all the strikers would return to the mines early this week. Meanwhile consideration is being given to the readjustment of coal price scales, which may warrant increases in wages in some of the coal districts.

Fuel officials reiterated that the government would not be forced by unauthorized strikes into reaching a decision, and it is certain that no decision will be announced until strikers return to work.

U-BOAT BASE SHELLED

Allied Warships Bombard Ostend and Damage Houses.

British Naval Planes Hurl Large Quantity of Missiles on Airdrome and Docks.

Berlin, Oct. 22.—The Belgian port of Ostend, which is a submarine base of the Germans on the North sea, has been bombarded from the sea, it was announced by the German war office, houses in the town being damaged.

On a nine-mile front between Vauxaillon and Braye, in the Aisne region, the French began an artillery bombardment of the greatest violence, at times attaining drumfire, the German statement says. Infantry attacks have not been launched.

On the Belgian battle front Anglo-French reconnoitering parties, after intense artillery preparation, advanced many times against the German positions. These detachments, the bulletin adds, were repulsed with heavy losses.

The text of the statement reads:

"Western theater: Ostend has been bombarded from the sea. Damage has been caused to houses in the town."

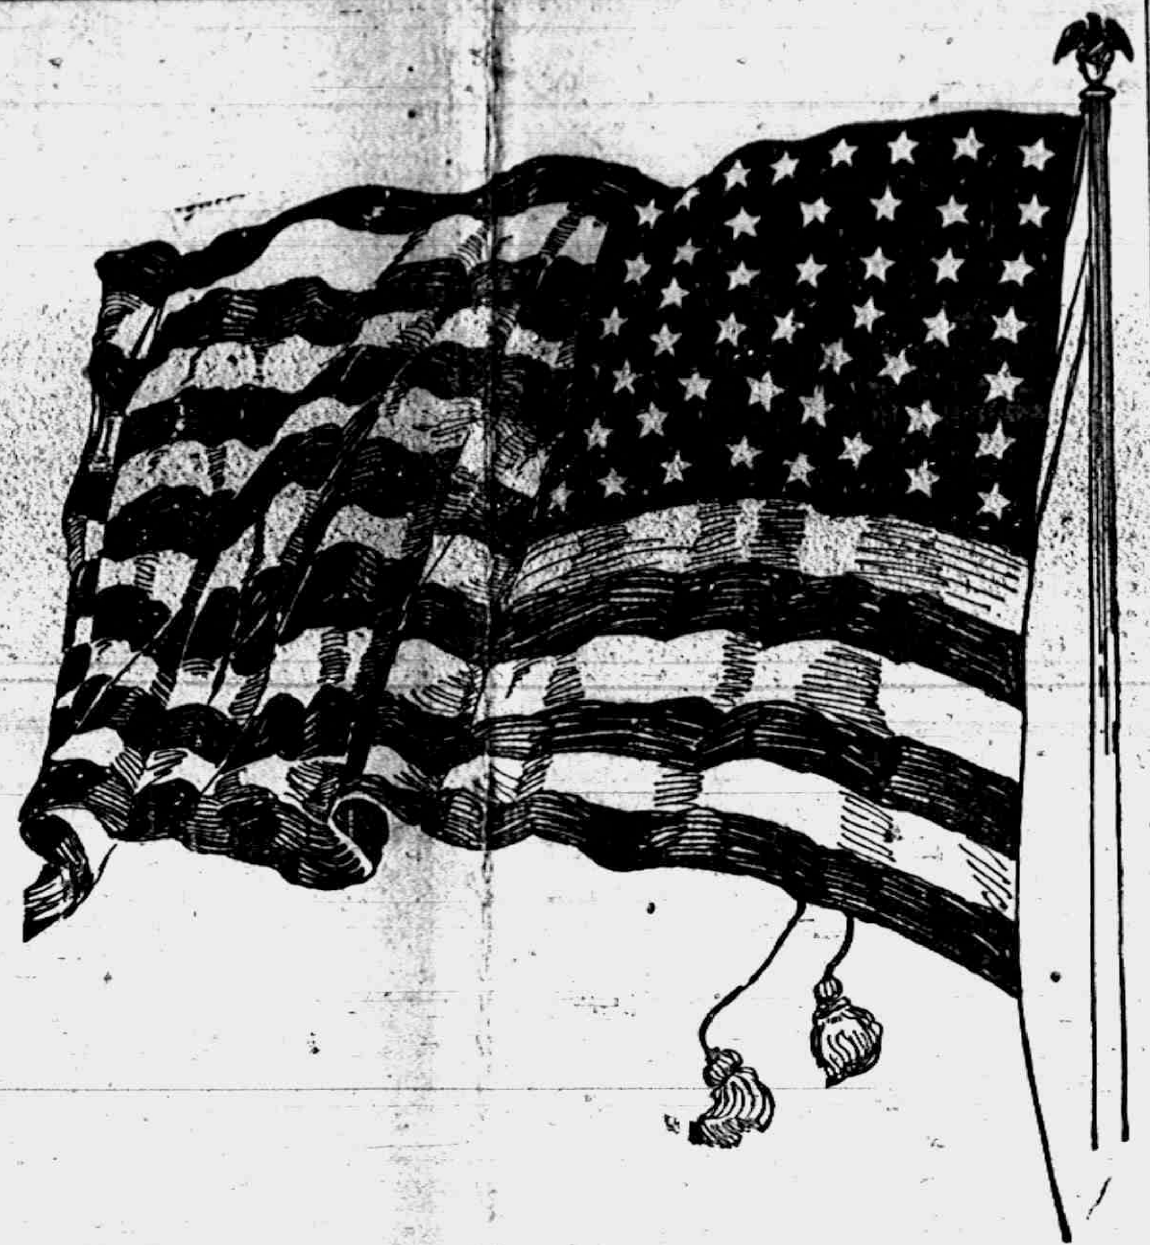
London, Oct. 22.—British naval planes dropped a large quantity of bombs on the Engel airdrome and the docks at Bruges, in Belgium, causing a fire in the German establishments. The text of a British admiralty statement says:

"On the night of the 19th of October and the morning of the 20th bombing raids by naval aircraft were carried out on the Bruges docks and the Engel airdrome. A fire is reported to have broken out. Large quantities of explosives were dropped. All our machines returned."

Reporting military operations on the British battle front in France and Belgium, the British war office announcement says:

"There was the usual artillery activity on both sides of the battle front. There was nothing interesting to report."

Paris, Oct. 22.—German forces at night attacked the French positions west of Mont Cornillet, in the Reims area; on both banks of the River Meuse, in the Verdun region, and in the sector of La Chapelette. The French war office statement says all the assaults were repulsed, the French capturing a number of Germans.



CROWDER CHANGES DRAFT SYSTEM

New Regulations Fix Status of All Men Who Have Registered.

DIVIDED INTO FIVE CLASSES

Men Without Dependents Will Be Called First, Unless Vital to War Industry—Date for Next Increment to Be Jan. 1.

Washington, Oct. 22.—New draft regulations, postponing the physical examination of the remaining 7,000,000 draft registrants until they are called for military service, and assigning the men to five classes, thus determining the order of their call to the colors, were announced by Provost Marshall General Crowder.

It was indicated that January 1 will be the date of the next call.

Under the new regulations it will be possible for a registrant to determine whether he will be called in the first 500,000 additional men to be summoned, the second 500,000, or later contingents.

Here is the new system in a nutshell:

Five classes of draft registrants are established approximately as follows:

First—Men with absolutely no dependents.

Second—Skilled farm laborers or others slightly less available for military service than the first class.

Third—Skilled laborers and men whose work is deemed vital to war industries.

Fourth—Married men with children whose families are wholly dependent upon them for support.

Fifth—Cripples, mental defectives, and those specifically exempted from military service.

Registrants will be assigned to one of these classes.

The New Order.

The provost marshal's announcement in full follows:

"With the completion of the draft of the first army of 687,000 men a new system will be installed for the creation of succeeding armies, which will greatly lessen the labors of the local and district boards. So far as this been accomplished that it is believed under the new system 80 per cent of the work will be eliminated while the forms to be used will not exceed twenty in number as compared with approximately 182 forms which the present system requires.

"Along with the reduction of labor there will be provided a system which will classify each one of the nine millions of men who have not yet been inducted into military service and each man will have been given his place in the national scheme of defense.

Fix Economic Worth of Each.

"To do this it has been determined to obtain from each man complete information of a character which will definitely fix his economic worth as compared with his fellow registrant, and from the information thus obtained to place him in one of the five classes, each to be called in turn as the need arises.

"The method of obtaining this information is through a 'questionaire,' a series of questions calculated to produce the information required. This document will be mailed to every registrant not yet in service, on a day to be fixed, seven days being given to each registrant to complete and return the same. Every opportunity will be offered to each man to complete his questionaire fully and without error.'

"The local boards will then examine questionaire and assign each registrant to one of five classes.

"These classes will be based upon every conceivable condition, from the family or occupational standpoint, that should properly be advanced by a man desiring to be excused from military duty. Class one will be the first called for physical examination and service, and when it is exhausted, if the nation's needs are such as to make it necessary, class two will follow, and thus each man registered will ultimately take his place if needed.

"Every opportunity for appeal from such classification by the local board has been retained and perfected, but proceedings have been greatly simplified.

"The tedious work of the local boards has been practically eliminated by the production of a form, to be known as No. 1000, which will be the foundation stone of the new system.

"On this new form the complete history of each man's case will appear at a glance.

"The completion of the new system will solve problems which have confronted the provost marshal general and caused him much concern.

"Under the old system of exemption and discharge it would have been necessary, if the national need required, to send for the exempted man to return for physical re-examination, while in the meantime his industrial or family status might have changed, [illegible] endless appeals and confusion.

"The new system fixes a man's class and calls him in his proper turn when he is needed. 'He will be examined physically only when needed.

"The man who can least be spared, either as the head of a family or the head of a business necessary to the defense of the nation, will be the last to go."

SURVIVORS OF ANTILLES SAFE

Americans Rescued From Torpedoed Transport at French Port.

MANY KILLED WHILE ASLEEP

German Submarine Attacked U. S Vessel at 6:45 O'clock Wednesday Morning—Crew Remained at Posts Until Ship Sunk.

A French Port, Oct. 22.—Survivors of the United States transport Antilles, which was sunk by a German sumbarine last week while being convoyed on her homeward trip by American warships, were landed here by auxiliary vessels and are being cared for by the American consulate. Some of the men have been lodged in local hotels and a few have left for Paris.

The torpedo struck the ship at 6:45 o'clock Wednesday morning. Many of those on board were killed in their berths and others while dressing. The explosion killed the engineers, oilers and mechanics and those of the crew who were in the bunks below.

Praise for the Crew.

All the survivors praise the captain of the Antilles and the members of the gun crew, who stuck to their posts while the officers searched with field-glasses for the submarine until the waves closed over the ship.

When the Antilles sang 40 or 50 men were at the stern. Most of them leaped 50 feet or more into the sea as the stern rose to a perpendicular position and some were drawn down by the suction of the sinking vessel.

Submarine Was Not Sighted.

The submarine was not sighted either before or after the explosion. The sea was running high at the time, making it difficult to save the crew and passengers. Some survivors, clinging to debris, were in the water an hour before they were sighted by lifeboats.

Families Get Benefit.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Families of the 70 soldiers and sailors who are believed to have lost their lives on the Antilles will share in the benefits of the compensation and automatic insurance provisions and automatic insurance law. Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo authorized announcement that compensation under the law will be begun immediately. None of the victims had an opportunity to sign applications for insurance policies.

GERMAN RAIDERS SINK 14 VESSELS

12 Merchantmen and Two British Destroyers Sent to Bottom by Cruisers.

NO ATTEMPT MADE TO RESCUE

Teutons Attack Ships in the North Sea Which Were Being Convoyed to England — British Warships Were Outranged.

Christiania, Oct. 22.—The story of the battle in the North sea in which German raiders sank two British destroyers and destroyed the fleet of 12 merchantmen which the British were concoying to England was brought to Bergen by survivors.

They said the raiders were two large German warships which had escaped from the cordon of British ships which was surrounding the German waters. The German vessels, they said, greatly outranged the British and sank both before the British could get close enough to use their lighter guns.

Only ten men of the crews of the two destroyers survived the fight. They were on the Mary Rose, which lost 78 officers and men. The entire complement of the Strongbow, 47 men, died in the unequal fight.

No Mercy for Neutrals.

No sooner had the guarding vessels been disposed of than the raiders turned to the fleet of merchantmen. They were Norwegian, Danish and Swedish vessels, but the fact they were neutral ships, manned by neutral crews, won them no mercy.

Some of the lifeboats which got away were sunk by shells. Captain Roenig, master and sole survivor of the Norwegian steamer Kristine, said:

"I ordered my crew into the lifeboats, but the Germans began firing immediately. One of their shells hit one of our boats, killing nine members of my crew. I returned to my boat and signaled the Germans to cease firing. There was no response. I finally jumped upon a raft."

The admiral in command of the British fleet which went to the rescue reports that 37 men were saved. It appears that at least 150 neutrals were lost.

British Ships Outranged.

London, Oct. 22.—Two British destroyers and nine unarmed merchantmen was the toll which two extraordinarily swift and heavily armed German commerce raiders took in the North sea battle, it was annouced by the British admiralty.

The traditions of the British navy were fully sustained by the two British hornets of the sea—the Mary Rose and the Strongbow. Outranged by the raiders' guns, outspeeded, they nevertheless went eagerly into battle and fought to a finish with their formidable antagonists, two pygmies against giants. British vessels later picked up 30 Norwegians and others.

The Liberty Loan campaign is on and committees are making a vigorous canvass of the town and township for subscriptions. Their efforts are being rewarded for the thermometer on the flag pole is climbing. Up to this morning Chairman Temple reports that $57,[illegible] in bonds have been subscribed for.

This is a fine start and Tecumseh people are getting behind the proposition loyally. It's up to you people of this township to do your duty, you know what it is, and if you keep it up as you have started [illegible] about Tecumseh doing her bit. We hope the [illegible] committee to [illegible] the top of the thermometer for it only registers [illegible]. Get busy and make the mercury climb.

The Stores closed at noon today and the merchants are helping with the drive. We don't want a single slacker in this township and we want to put Tecumseh on the map [illegible].

Thirty or forty patriotic men and women are conducting this campaign, are giving their time to it and are anxious to make a big success of it, so everyone who has not already given their subscription, be prepared to give it to the committee who call and by so doing they will be answering the Government's call to duty and will be standing back of this great war for Democracy.

BUY A LIBERTY BOND. It is not a donation but a high grade investment.

Some one is trying to belittle the splendid work done by R. A. Heesen, who succeeded in getting every man in the Heesen foundry to subscribe for a Liberty Bond, by saying that he coerced or forced his men to buy.

The person who made this statement is, in our opinion, unpatriotic, a slacker and against the Government and should be so treated.

The day is fast coming when it wont be healthy for people to make false and unpatriotic statements of this nature. Tecumseh people are proud of R. A. Heesen and the glorious work that he accomplished at his factory Saturday.

Why is it that youngsters are allowed to occupy the balcony at the Opera House and conduct a rough-house, pelt people sitting below with paper wads, spit on them and otherwise disturb everyone sitting about them?

They should be made to behave themselves or get out. A little discipline is needed with the young American. We believe heartily in a good vigorous American boy or girl and we have need of them, but they should be made to understand that the Opera House is not the proper place for such stunts.

The W. [illegible] the last to be heard from. At their meeting held last night they decided to take $1000 worth of Liberty Bonds. Fine! Let's hear from some of the other [illegible].

THE COST OF WAR THE NEED OF SACRIFICE

In the nation-wide campaign for the second war loan the United States is emphasizing the vital need of money for the successful carrying on of the war. Millions of men are being trained and equipped. Ultimately they must be transported over seas and followed by an unfailing supply of stores the lack of which would spell disaster. To carry out its plans it will be necessary for the Government to spend more in the present year than it has in all the previous years of the twentieth century. Nor is this all! We must stand ready to advance to our Allies the funds which they may require to enable them to properly finance their fourth year of war.

This will cost from $15,000,000,000 to [illegible] half our annual income. To raise so vast a sum speedily it is necessary to draw on the resources of the whole nation by war loans. No individual class or section can hope to consider this burden [illegible]. It demands the [illegible] of the whole American [illegible]. This is a fact which must be [illegible] everybody. War [illegible] Government bonds are rather new things to the American people [illegible] these loans [illegible] the war must be [illegible] and every man must [illegible] to subscribe.

[illegible] tax the [illegible] before everyone [illegible] left to the officers of the Government alone. Each individual must [illegible] part in supporting the loan and in winning the support of others also. Only in this way can we hope to attain results proportioned to our size and wealth. To some extent we feel disposed to congratulate ourselves on the first Liberty Loan, in which it is estimated $3,000,000,000 was offered to the Government by about 4,500,000 persons; but when we remember that France, with considerably less than half our population, subscribed as much to its first loan and that England, after two and a half years of war, raised $5,000,000,000 from 8,000,000 subscribers, we can understand how far we must go to make as good a record. That it can be done is unquestioned, but it will require the conscientious effort of everyone of us.

MONDAY CLUB

A most enthusiastic meeting of the Monday Club was held Monday at the usual hour. The Liberty Bond was again presented by Mrs. Hardy at the request of the chair. The result was most gratifying as the secretary's record at the close of the meeting showed a total of $2000.00, either already bought or signed for by the members. As several members were not quite ready to take the bonds, a further report will be given of the final total. If any have bought bonds who were not at the meeting, will they please report the name and amount to either Mrs. Emilie Hall or Mrs. F. C. Dickinson.

Among those present a pleasing total of $1500.00 on the first bond was also reported. The Club would like to have a record of this also.

A plea for the War Children's Relief Fund was read by the president, urging the club members to add their mite to the little white stocking which will provide Christmas for the children of our allies.

In the absence of Mrs. J. D. Shull, county director of the Second Hoover Food Drive, the president gave the preliminary instructions for the great card pledge week which is ahead of us. The town and country will be completely canvassed. The Camp Fire Girls go on record as being first to offer their services for this great work. Michigan hopes to have 650,000 on her list.

An especially fine program was given under the leadership of Mrs. G. R. Newsom. Mrs. A. J. Bigelow read a fine paper on "The Temple," Mrs. Chas. Williamson had two charming readings from Longfellow, one of which, "Sandalphon," closed the meeting and Mrs. Jas. Cupples preceded this with a clear description of "The Talmud."

Look in Friday's issue for ful notice of the next meeting.

Fifty members were present Monday.

Mrs. F. C. Dickinson, president.

The W. H. M. S. of the M. E. church will meet with Mrs. E. M. Lewis Thursday afternoon at 2:30. Come prepared to sew.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Guy, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Edwards and Mrs. W. A. Eastlick motored from Milan Sunday and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Shurtz.

Misses Lucy Harrison and Ione Sisson, Fred VanTine and Leon Fagan motored to Battle Creek Sunday and visited Camp Custer. They saw Louis Schneider and Harold Tribolet.

Word has been received from Nurse Bretternitz of Saline, who was so badly injured by the train a few weeks ago, by a friend who visited her last week, that she is improving finely and able to walk around the house. Her wounds are healing fast. The only drawback is a piece of glass just over one eye, which will require an operation at the hospital. Her many friends here will be glad to hear such favorable reports from her.

The public will be interested in knowing that Dr. Turner of the chair of European History at the U. of M. will lecture at the Baptist church, Friday, October 26, at 7:30.

Dr. Turner is said to be a brilliant speaker. There will be no charge for his lecture, his subject will be "Germany, her past history and present prospects."

This lecture is given under the auspices of the National Security League.

buy ten new rifle barrels to replace those worn out;

pay one soldier for seven weeks;

feed one soldier for five months, or a company of 150 enlisted men one day;

equip one soldier with clothing complete for a three-year enlistment;

keep the clothing of one soldier in repair and replace wornout clothing for two years

And a $100 bond will place a soldier on the firing line fully clothed with complete equipment, including overcoat, extra clothing, underclothes, shoes, rifle bayonet, cartridge belt, two blankets, poncho, ninety rounds of ammunition and one day's rations.

Mrs. F. L. Geddes, a cousin of Miss A. B. Hosmer, living in Toledo is going to take a French war orphan.

Miss Hosmer is in receipt of several letters from Miss Katherine Geddes who is working for the Red Cross at the front in France. The following are some extracts:

"Mrs. Austin (head of the American workers) called all the American volunteers together the other day to talk to us. She spoke very feelingly and well on the work ahead of us and said that the dressings work was undoubtedly the most important work the women could do, that the wounded must be cared for and that we must have THOUSANDS of things ahead for our troops and that before everything else, like land reclamation, must come the dressings. She asked us to urge our friends and acquaintances to come over and work and if not able to do that to move Heaven and earth to work in America.

"I have been worried sick over a bunch of stuff, bandages for body and head wounds and slings, that have come to us mildewed. It seems such a terrible thing not to use them and today I was much relieved when I found they could be given to a poor hospital which was almost destitute, so a rush job of tieing and sterilizing was done and I stayed late to finish them so they could be sent out in the morning. Some of the most fantastic, impossible fracture pillows came in today and all terribly made by some orphan asylum in the states. They will be ripped open, the stuffing removed and new put in and sewed up again and then shipped on with the name of the asylum still on them. The thread the kiddies sewed with may have been originally white, but it was very dark gray, almost black. But it will do for the poor soldiers in fine style."

James O'Donnell Bennett writes to the Chicago Trubune: "Americans in the German prison camps declare they could not live without the weekly packages of provisions sent by the ENGLISH Red Cross. Lacking them the best they get is bread, imitation coffee and a thin soup containing turnips and five kilos of meat to 500 liters of water, which means soup for 300 men.

Often the prisoners are so hungry that they root up the dandolions and yellow dock in the lanes along which they are led to work, sometimes eating them raw, and sometimes boiling them over the gas jets they find in the lavatories.

The American English and Canadian prisoners resembled scarecrows after four months in the Lubeck camp, but in August they began receiving the Englih Red Cross packages. The bread in them became moldy so the Red Cross changed to biscuits.

England then has been feeding our men, England worn out and impoverished by this war, we are grateful to her, but shall this continue? It is up to us not only to care for our own, but to repay our allies for what they have done for us.

There has been a slump lately in Red Cross work here, it should not be for the ened is as bitter as ever. When our men are wounded in battle and cry for our help it will be to late to make and send goods; the money has to be given now, the work must be given NOW, not next year or some time. Every article made, every cent given to the Red Cross goes to our soldiers who are fighting for us.

Fifty dollars was offered weeks ago to any one who could prove that a single article given to the Red Cross had been sold, it has never been claimed.

Mrs. Sena Crane requests all ladies who are willing to give half a day for making pajamas to meet her at the Red Cross Headquarters on Thursday afternoon between 1:30 and 4 p. m. The work is urgent, so please do not [illegible] possibly spare, the time.

The Red Cross Concert Company gave a very successful concert in the Christian church, Britton, on Sunday evening. The church was packed, many were standing and a large number were unable to get in.

Mrs. Robert Moore performed as well as ever, in spite of a sprained ankle. Mrs. Wood had arranged for an entirely new program. The audience was most enthsuiastic, every number being encored. Mr. Fred Wood, Mr. Ben Pulver and Mr. Frank Turner took the company down in their autos. The collection netted between $45.00 and $50.00 which was divided between the Britton and Tecumseh Red Cross. The Britton people were kind enough to say that it was one of the most successful entertainments they had ever had.

The following suggestions for Christmas packets for our men at home and abroad have been received from Washington:

1. Nothing should go to them which will not keep fresh from the time of packing until Christmas.
2. Dried fruits and other food products should be packed in small tin or wooden boxes, ¼ to ½ pound size.
3. Hard candy, including chocolate, would probably be safe in tin foil or heavy cardboard, but no soft chocolates or anything [illegible] could possibly be crushed should be used, as the remaining contents of the package might be spoiled thereby.
4. Several dainties packed in oblong tin boxes holding each ½ of a lb. will provide a better variety for a packet than a larger quantiy of a single confection.
5. No liquids nor articles packed in glass should be placed in the package.
6. For wrapping the gifts use a khaki colored handkerchief, 27 inches square, and form the base of the packet by placing on the center of the handkerchief a pad of writing paper about 7x10 inches.
7. Select a variety of articles either from the suggested list (or according to individual wishes) to an amount not exceeding $1.50 and arrange them on the pad of paper so that the entire package shall be the width of the pad and approximately 5 or 6 inches high.
8. Wrap and tie with one inch red ribbon and place a Christmas card under the bow of ribbon.
9. Wrap the parcel in heavy, light brown Manila paper, tie securely with red, green or gilt cord and use Christmas labels or American flags as desired.

List of articles suggested for Christmas packets:

* Khaki colored handkerchief, 27 inches square, for container.

* Writing paper pad about 7 x 10 inches. Envelopes. Pencils. Postals. Book (in paper cover). Scrap book, home made, containing a good short stry, some jokes, etc. Knife, such as Boy Scouts use. Mirror. Handkerchiefs, khaki colored. Neckties. Mouth organ. Electric torch. Playing cards. Mechanical puzzles (an assorted lot of 12 can be bought at the rate of 12 for 50c.

* Red Cross checker board (this is a combination set of checkerboard, made of heavy cardboard especially for the Red Cross and can be purchased after October 15th for 5c apiece.) Other games. Tobacco. Pipe and pipe cleaners. Cigarette papers. Water tight match box. Chewing gum. Fruited chocolate. and other sweetened crackers in original packages. Fruit cake. Preserved ginger. Salted nuts. Prunes. Figs. Dates. Raisins. Hard candy. Chocolate n itin foil. Licorice.

The articles which are marked with an asterick in the above list will be purchased by the Red Cross Supply Bureau and can be bought from Chapters by the time Chapters are ready to pack parcels. This notice is published early that those interested may be gathering funds for the packets and assembling the small articles that go in them.

Chapters will receive directions from division managers as to the dates when packets will be shipped to France. It is expected that money for the Christmas packages will be raised by Chapters through contributions by individuals for this specific purpose.

By Christmas we shall have a large number of men in France and 600,000 in the cantonments at home, beside the thousands in our regular army posts and in our navy and everyone will be eager to help in giving them Christmas cheer.

The Red Cross Concert Company will go to any town within a reasonable distance and donate their services, half of the collection taken to go to the town where the concert takes place, and a half to the Tecumseh Red Cross. The company has raised $525.00 to date. They aim to raise $1000.00. Apply to Mrs. Fred B. Wood or Mrs. Hardy.

MAKE REMARKABLE SHOWING

Heesen Bros. & Co. Take $2800 in Liberty Bonds

EVERY EMPLOYEE MAKES A SUBSCRIPTION

R. A. Heesen Shows Appreciation by Making a Cash Donation to Each Employee

A record, probably not excelled by any factory in the State of Michigan, if not by the whole country, has been made by Heesen Bros. & Co.

R. A. Heesen was the proudest man in Michigan Saturday when he walked into the Lilley Bank and announced to Township Chairman H. S. Temple that every employee of the Heesen Bros. plant had suberibed for a Liberty Bond, a total of $2800.00 being subscribed for by the employees.

Saturday morning Mr. Heesen went through his factory and told the boys how they could do their bit by buying Liberty Bonds and how it would help to make the Kaiser step lively if they purchased one. In passing around the blanks he was amazed and delighted to find not a single slacker among them. Over thirty subscriptions were taken.

Mr Heesen told us about it Saturday but left out his part in the transaction. To put just the proper finishing touch to this remarkable record, "Dolph" showed how big a man he was by marching down to the bank and taking out a savings account for each of his employees, crediting to each enough money to make the first two per cent. payment on each bond taken by these men. These he presented to them and also passed around a box of cigars just to show them that he was proud of what they had done.

If Tecumseh Township keeps up with the pace set for them by Heesen's Foundry, we will fire a broad side at the Kaiser that will be heard around the world.

CUTTING THE ROSES.

How to Remove the Flowers Without Injuring the Plants.

There is a right as well as a wrong way to cut roses. If not cut correctly the blossom producing properties of the plants may be seriously injured. This applies particularly, of course, to rose plants chosen and grown especially to supply cut flowers. Such roses will be largely of the perpetual blooming sorts.

When a rose is cut from such a plant only two or three eyes of the current season's growth of that branch should be left on the plant. This should give the roses very long stems. Succeeding blossoms should be cut to the ground. It will seem like destroying the bush to take so much off, but if the object is the production of roses the cutting away of the surplus wood will simply further the desired end.

If the spring pruning has not been sufficiently severe the plant is likely to have long, naked stalks and short stems to the flowers. In such a case only one or two strong leaf buds should be left on the branch when the flower is cut, so as to stimulate as much growth as possible from the base of the plant.

The temptation is great to leave wood where there are two or more buds on one branch, some being small when the terminal one is open. This bad practice can be avoided by pinching off all side shoots after a bud has formed on the end of a branch, thus leaving the stem perfectly clean and willowy.—Popular Science Monthly.

SEE THE FUNNY SIDE.

Use Your Sense of Humor When Distressing Situations Arise.

Humor proves to be the saving clause of many a distressing situation. The trouble with most of us is that we take our troubles altogether too seriously. We fail to see the funny side of things that for the moment concern us, even though we are quick to grasp it when we are mere onlookers.

In the face of gathered clouds that seem to shut out the sunshine forever it is not a bad idea to remind ourselves that this old mother earth has been revolving on her axis for countless ages, that generations of men have come and gone for thousands of years and that the march of human progress has gone right along in the forward direction despite what seemed to be occasional setbacks.

"Laugh and the world laughs with you." There is humor in nearly every situation if we can only see it from the right angle. Those of us who try to smile in adversity and think how much more laughable it would be if conditions were reversed at least feel less uncomfortable over it and take pleasure in looking forward to the time when the shoe will be on the other foot.—Omaha Bee.

YOUR MENTAL MACHINE.

Shut Off Its Power at Night After a Day's Hard Work.

It is a great thing to learn—to shut off the mental steam when you quit work. What would you think of a factory manager who would leave all of his power turned on after the operators had left the factory, the delicate machinery running everywhere, pounding itself to pieces, grinding out its delicate bearings without producing anything?

Many of us do not turn off our mental power after we are through producing or creating for the day. We carry our business home, take it to bed with us, think, plan, worry and waste precious energy in all sorts of ways, in superfluous thinking, foolish worrying that produces nothing, but grinds out the exquisite mental machinery and unfits it for the next day's work.

It is a great art to learn to shut off power when through our day's work, so that we can oil our mental machinery, refresh our minds and recuperate ourselves, so that we can go to the next day's work completely reinvigorated.

Many men seem to think that they are accomplishing something if they keep their minds on business even when not at work, but they really accomplish less than nothing because they are wasting precious mental energy, the power for concentration, the vigor, the focusing of the mind, which is imperative for creating purposes.—Orison Swett Marden.

THE DRY WALL.

A Beautiful Art In Stone Work That Is Passing Away.

In the American Magazine David Grayson says:

"In dry walls I think the old stone mason takes the greatest pride of all for it is in the dry wall—I mean by that a wall laid without mortar—that the sheer art of the mason comes most into play.

"Any one can throw a wall together if he has mortar to make it stick, but a dry wall must stand out for what it is, built solid from the bottom up, each stone resting securely upon the one below it and braced and nested in by the sheer skill of the mason.

"The art of the dry wall is the ancient heritage of New England and speaks not only of the sincerity and the conscientiousness of the old Puritan spirit, but strikes the higher note of beauty.

"Many of the older walls I know are worth going far to see, for they exhibit a rare sense of form and proportion and are sometimes set in the landscape with a skill that only the master artist himself could exceed. Those old hard wrought stone fences of the Burnham hills and Crewsbury, the best of them, were honestly built and built to last a thousand years.

"A beautiful art—and one that is passing away! It is the dry wall that stands of itself that the old stonemason loves best of all."

The Drum of the Ear.

The reason deaf people cannot hear is that the drum of the ear is imperfect or has been destroyed. Sound is nothing but the vibrations of the air acting on the drum of the ear. When people are quite deaf it is because the ear drum will not respond to these vibrations, but they can still feel these vibrations even if they cannot hear them. When a number of deaf mutes are sitting in a room together and one wishes to attract the attention of another he strikes his heel on the floor, and every one in the room feels the vibration and looks around to see who called. In the large asylums for the deaf and dumb the doors are hung very loosely, so that if you shake them it sets up a vibration like stamping on the floor, and that is the way they wake up deaf people that sleep too late in the morning.

A Blank Marriage Certificate

It Turned Up a Valid One After Twenty Years

By F. A. Mitchel

I.

Every day the readers of fiction demand more and more stories illustrating what is happening among them. Improbable happenings are tabooed. Nevertheless stories written many years ago, based on what was then a more or less common occurrence, are still read. The novel "Jane Eyre," by Charlotte Bronte, is one of these favorites.

This story is based on a mock marriage. A century ago British swells seemed to have no conscience in preying upon women. Mock marriages were by no means uncommon. But today we never hear of a mock marriage. This is due largely to a change in the times. Formerly formal certificates were required in marriage. Now any man and woman can acknowledge before witnesses that they are man and wife and the law recognizes the marriage.

During the early part of the nineteenth century there was a noted case of mock marriage between a British nobleman and an American girl. In those days America was a new country, and Englishmen who came over here were prone to look down on Americans. Nevertheless there were descendants, in the eastern states especially, of the younger sons of foreign noblemen, who settled on the American coast when the country was being occupied from abroad, dispossessing the Indians.

Edith Van Wyck, whose progenitor, Huileger Van Wyck, came from Holland, where Philip II. of Spain was persecuting the Protestants, was a comely young woman, in excellent standing socially in New York. Lord John Turnbull, a son of the Duke of Averton, visited America, met Miss Van Wyck and fell in love with her. He did not consider a marriage with one who had neither fortune nor title, but, desiring to possess her, resorted to a device which was common at the time—that is, he married her, prearranging that she should not be able to prove herself a legal wife.

In those days the elite of New York lived on the southern extremity of Manhattan Island, the Van Wycks' home fronting on the Battery. Young Lord John courted Edith in the space surrounding the fort that gave the name to its location, for it was called the Battery from the guns mounted on it. He was a charming man in everything except morality, and the young lady fell an easy victim to his wiles.

When they were married the groom handed the officiating clergyman a pen which he dipped into a gold ink horn that bore the crest of his family, saying that for generations marriage certificates of members of his family had been written with ink from this heir loom. No one thought to ask why the young lord had brought such a relic to America. There was not the slightest doubt that he was acting in good faith.

Lord John remained in America three months after his marriage, when he returned to England without his wife. He told her that there would be great objection on the part of his family to his marriage with an American commoner and he must prepare them for the event. Unless he could win his mother over to his side and through her influence his father the latter, who owned a large, unentailed fortune, would disinherit him.

Edith consented to his departing without her, he promising to return to her as soon as he obtained his father's consent to receive her. He set sail in a British ship and his young wife tearfully watched the vessel from her window as it sailed down the bay.

A month was required to make a voyage to England in those days, and when another month had been added to the first Edith began to look for a letter from her husband. A month more passed and no letter came. Several more passed and still no word from her husband. At last the poor woman began to realize that she was deserted. She believed that her husband had failed to win his father's consent to his marriage and had concluded not to announce it; but, being married to him, she hoped that at some future day she would be acknowledged as his wife.

Meanwhile the Duke of Averton died, and his son, John Turnbull, inherited the title. Then, since his record seemed all right, he was considered a great catch by young women of the nobility.

One day Edith received a shock that blighted her life. A London paper came to America in which there was an announcement of the marriage of her husband to Lady Gladys Armstrong, daughter of the Duke of Milford. That her husband had deserted her was a blow; that he had committed bigamy was crushing.

Her family, not being willing to submit to such treatment, took up the case, intending to prosecute Lord Averton for bigamy. The attorney they employed called for the marriage certificate. Edith took it out of a desk in which it had lain since the marriage and before turning it over to her father looked at it. What was her astonishment, her horror, to see that the paper on which it had been written was a blank!

The poor woman then knew that she had been tricked. She delayed turning the paper over or saying anything about it till she had time to think. A little boy had been born to her, and she dreaded the fact of his standing being known to the world. After deliberation she put the paper back where it had been before removal and refused to produce it, saying that she would not consent to a prosecution of Lord John. She resumed her maiden name and brought up her son as Francis Van Wyck.

II.

Twenty years later a young man stepped into a solicitor's office in London and requested him to demand of the Duke of Averton £20,000. When asked his name and why he made such a demand the stranger declined at present to give either. The solicitor declined to take the case, but when the client said that the amount was demanded for the support of a woman the duke had wronged many years before he consented.

Averton winced at the demand, but put on a bold face. He pronounced the case one of blackmail and declined to consider it. When the matter was announced in the newspapers he and his family gave out that the duke, as Lord John, had shown some attention to an American girl he had met in the United States. After a lapse of years she had concluded to claim that he had married her. There was nothing in it.

The case, notwithstanding this statement, excited a good deal of attention in London society, not because that society looked down with scorn upon the betrayal of women by their aristocracy—for in those days the British people regarded the peccadillos of the nobility with far more leniency than today—but because there was a fear that the family occupying the title and the property might be dispossessed through some unfortunate marriage of the duke when he was sowing his wild oats. When the case came to be tried quite a number of the British aristocracy were present in court.

"We are prepared to prove," said the plaintiff's solicitor, "that about twenty-two years ago, when the Duke of Averton was in America, he married Edith Van Wyck of New York and lived with her as her husband several months, when he deserted her. The couple were married by the Rev. Thomas MacLaren in St. Mark's church, on a street called the Bowery. The officiating clergyman is now dead, but we will furnish a certificate that he was rector of the church at the time of the wedding. We shall also furnish the certificate of marriage written by said MacLaren."

The attorney held up a bit of blank paper. The defendant, who was in court, looked at it with evident solicitous interest.

Stepping to a table, the lawyer placed the paper under a microscope and said to the judge:

"Your honor, I desire you to examine this paper and give a ruling on it. Is it or is it not a valid certificate of marriage?"

The judge stepped down from the bench and critically examined the paper by means of the microscope. He saw indentations made with a pen constituting a certificate of marriage between Lord John Turnbull and Edith Van Wyck and signed by Thomas MacLaren. After the examination the judge returned to the bench. The lawyer continued:

"We claim that when the marriage certificate was made out the clergyman was handed an ink horn and a pen by the groom, who stated that marriage certificates had for hundreds of years been written in ink from the said ink horn. The clergyman therefore made out the certificate with ink taken from said ink horn. We claim that the plaintiff had filled the ink horn with ink that after a short period became invisible.

"I have also a certificate from a prominent London scientist that iodine combined with starch, called iodide of starch, will produce an ink that will in a short time entirely fade away. We charge the Duke of Averton at that time with procuring the writing of the certificate with iodide of starch, which will fade and cannot be reproduced. I therefore ask your honor to accept these pen indentations as a certificate of marriage between the defendant and the plaintiff."

While this address was being spoken Averton turned ghastly pale.

The judge took time for consideration, then ruled that the certificate was a valid document.

Each member of the jury was given an opportunity to examine the paper through a microscope. The foreman read aloud a certificate given by the officiating clergyman that he had married Edith Van Wyck and John Turnbull in the city of New York on a certain date. The reading was effected by the pen indentations on the paper. After all had seen it the judge instructed the jury to accept it as valid testimony.

That settled the case in favor of Edith Van Wyck, Duchess of Averton. She was adjudged such by the court, which made the duke a bigamist and his London family illegitimate.

The young man who prosecuted the case was the son of the defendant. As soon as he had won a verdict in his mother's favor he entered upon negotiations for the payment by the duke of an annuity to his mother, and the case was thus settled. The Duke of Averton was never brought to trial for bigamy owing to his influence with the British cabinet.

His son returned to America, where he continued to live under the name of Van Wyck and became an eminent jurist in New York. His mother after her vindication returned to her social position and became a leader. She died during the war days of 1863.

Since then there has been a notable change in the depredations of the young bloods upon the weaker sex. Mock marriages are no longer perpetrated.

SHE DID HER SHARE.

And It Was Not Upon the Blood Soiled Field of Battle.

During the first days of that most lamentable conflict that we now know as the war between the states a little woman down in South Carolina gave her husband and their four grown sons to fight for the cause that to her seemed just. She was not belligerent; she was brave. A few years later a neighbor brought her word that all but the youngest boy had been killed.

At the end of the war the youngest boy returned. He was a captain and not a captain merely by courtesy. As he rode through the old plantation he saw to his intense surprise that it was in a fair state of cultivation and that foodstuffs had taken the place of cotton. He had expected to find those broad acres filled with weeds and briars. As soon as he had proudly greeted his mother and been in turn proudly greeted by her he spoke of this.

"That was my part," she told him. "You couldn't fight without having something to eat, could you?"

It was then that he noted the marks of toil on her hands, and he knew that the faithful old negroes had not done all the hard work. He brought his heels together in the military fashion and lifted his hand to the rim of his hat.

"Mother," he said not very steadily. "I salute you, the greatest soldier of us all."—Hapsburg Liebe.

Checking a Skid.

When you are driving an automobile and it begins to skid the skidding will be checked if you will immediately turn the steering wheel in the direction you are skidding. A car skids when there is a momentum tending to turn it about the center of gravity. When the forces about the center of gravity are balanced the car will not skid.—American Boy.

MICHIGAN MAKES SPLENDID START IN LIBERTY LOAN CAMPAIGN.

$20,071,500 OUTSIDE WAYNE

With Hard Work This Week, State Will Meet Her Obligations; Headquarters Official Express Pleasure.

Detroit—Michigan has accomplished a splendid result in her first week's work on the Liberty Loan, but she has another big week's task ahead of her.

This is the announcement made at state headquarters here of the Michigan Liberty Loan organization, with the report that, at the close of business Saturday night, 55 of the 68 counties of the Lower Peninsula, which are included in the Chicago Federal Reserve district for the collection of Uncle Sam's $3,000,000,000 war fund, had raised a total subscription of $67,105,500, or nearly 70 per cent of the quota assigned to them.

Detroit and Wayne county turned in $47,034,000 of this amount. With this deducted, the subscription of the state at large stands at $20,071,500, an encouraging report when it is considered that there are thirteen counties still to send word of the result of their work last week.

"Most of the counties have done exceedingly well. Others, desiring to come in strong at the finish, may not be reporting all they have on hand. Still others, which have made no report at all, we expect will announce a large proportion of their quotas when they do report. All of them have a hard week's work before them if they turn in the over-subscription which Michigan should have and is capable of producing."

This is the way Mark T. McKee, secretary of the Michigan Advisory Liberty Loan Distribution Committee, sums up the reports thus far received and the prospects for the remainder of the campaign.

"The cities, as a rule, have done well," Mr. McKee continued. "The country districts we are depending on to show a very healthy increase this week over last.

"We refuse to believe that agricultural Michigan is going to fall behind industrial and manufacturing Michigan. We know that the spirit of patriotism and enthusiasm displayed at the schoolhouse meetings on Patriotic Day was not for display purposes only, but that it had behind it the determination of all the people to meet the call of their country for assistance to get this nightmare of a world-war over in the shortest possible time.

"And while the splendid showing made in some of the counties where there are large cities and large industries entitles them to the warmest commendation, we are also proud of results from those of the less thickly populated counties which have sent such encouraging reports. And we feel that we are going to be prouder than ever, when this campaign closes, for then we can rest assured that every man, woman and child has done his or her share and that our state stands well up toward the top of the list.

"The whole Liberty Loan organization of Michigan wishes to ask just one thing of loyal Michigan people. Don't slacken up in the glorious work. Let the last week, or the last day, or the last hour of the drive see each and every one putting forth his best effort. Let every person call on a neighbor who has not as yet subscribed and set forth any one of the multitude of good reasons why Uncle Sam should be given every dollar of this loan.

"You, Mr. City Man, have every reason in the world for loaning your money to your government. With the insistent demand now existing for every conceivable kind of manufactured article, your city will enjoy the greatest prosperity of its history. You will take your part in the great nation-wide activity that is to turn out the equipment, the munitions, the supplies for our fighting men at the front—and be well paid for your effort.

"You, Mr. Farmer, will profit, materially, to a greater extent, perhaps, than any one else, from the success of this Liberty Loan. Millions of bushels of produce, millions of pounds of foodstuffs, are needed for the maintenance of our splendid army in the first line trenches, on the way to the front and in the training camps at home, and a large percentage of these supplies must come from Michigan.

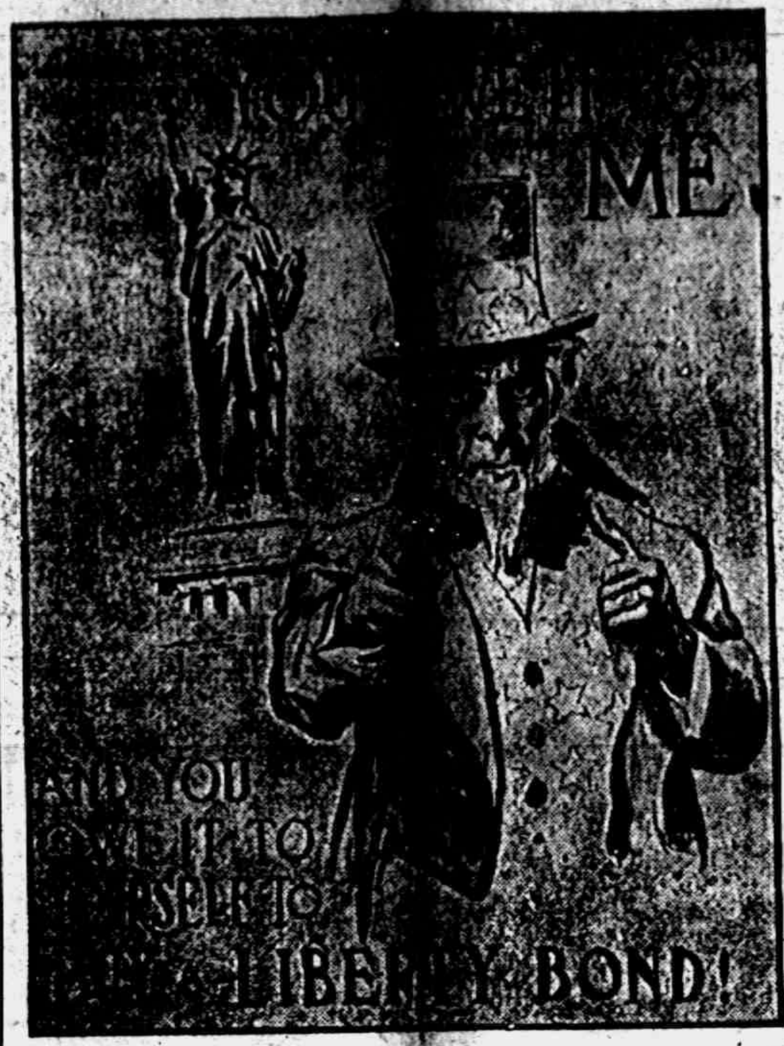
"You, Mr. Citizen, whatever your occupation, will profit, materially, if that appeal is heeded. Your government asks you for the loan of your money. It gives you the security of the word of 100,000,000 people that the loan shall be repaid, dollar for dollar. And it gives you four per cent—four dollars for every hundred dollars you lend it, each year.

Inmates of the state prison at Marquette subscribed for $3,450 in Liberty bonds, following a meeting of the Forum, a prisoner's organization.

The first marriage of a student aviator stationed at Selfridge field, took place when John Hullinger, 19 years old, of Large, Ind., married Muriel Godfrey, of Mt. Clemens, 17 years old.

Judge Tuttle in federal court at Bay City, sentenced Edward Cross to six months and Harry Cook to one year in the Detroit house of correction for selling liquor to soldiers while they were encamped at Grayling.

Eight Detroiters, deputy state labor commissioners, have been commissioned to enforce the federal child labor law. The law forbids the employment of children under 16 on any products to be transported in interstate commerce.



A MESSAGE FROM GOVERNOR SLEEPER TO THE PEOPLE OF MICHIGAN

"Michigan has responded nobly to the call of the country during the first week of the state-wide campaign for the Second Liberty Loan.

"Looking down the list of our splendid counties and their subscriptions to the Loan, we may well congratulate ourselves on this evidence of the patriotism of our people.

"But let us make the final week, just beginning, the banner week of the campaign. Let us lay aside for the time being, insofar as it may be possible, our ordinary work and give our time and our energy to place the name of Michigan on the honor roll of states by meeting in full our obligations to the nation.

"I am proud of what has been done thus far, but let none of us abate our efforts in the slightest degree until that which has been asked of us has been accomplished. Let us make our answer to the call so clear and unmistakable that it may add cheer and courage to our boys at the front and bring dismay to the enemies of liberty and humanity.

"Naturally the response is readier in the larger centers of population. Because of this fact, I am particularly anxious that our rural communities, as well as our cities and villages, should take a full part in this campaign. The farmers of Michigan have always measured up to their responsibilities, and always will. Realizing their duties as Americans in this terrible conflict, their response will be generous and free. They are giving their sons and are ready to stand back of their boys with money enough to insure Victory and Peace.

"My great hope, and I cannot urge it too earnestly, is that we may all of us, the farmer, the worker in the office, store or factory, and the business and professional man or woman, even the children, join hands and hearts in this outpouring of our material wealth, with which Michigan is so abundantly blessed, as our patriotic duty to our Country in its time of need."

KETCHAM ASKS FARMERS' AID

Head of State Grange Appeals for Organized Effort For Liberty Loan.

John C. Ketcham, of Hastings, master of the Michigan State Grange, has addressed an appeal to members of his organization for a concerted effort to make the Liberty Loan a success. He asks for a drive during the last week of the campaign that will result in an over-subscription of Michigan's quota. His official communication to local granges is as follows:

"Redeeming a personal pledge to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and responding to a call from National Master Wilson, I am asking you to organize the forces of your Grange in support of the Liberty Loan campaign. It is now on in all parts of the country and every organization is doing its parts. The Grange can render an especially helpful service in Michigan because we reach every corner of the state. The campaign closes October 27 and we want to make every day count.

A heavy subscription to the Liberty Loan will strike terror to the hearts of the German military autocracy and deal the war-crazed and ambition-mad Kaiser the final smashing blow that alone seems capable of arousing him from his dream of world power. By a hearty response to the call we have a chance to show our real love for democracy and our answer shall be a mighty tribute to our love of a country and a government that makes possible such wonderful blessings and opportunities as we enjoy.

"Many of our Grange boys are wearing Uncle Sam's uniform, preparing to render service at the front. Let's match their personal service with our dollar service and together enjoy the satisfaction of helping on the great cause of world freedom."

Howard Carr, of Flint, pleaded guilty in circuit court to a charge of taking an automobile unlawfully and was sentenced to two and a half to five years in the Marquette reformatory. He was to have been married the day he was sentenced.

Fire which destroyed the $50,000 power plant at Traverse City, owned by the Boardman River Power company practically left Traverse City without any electrical power or lighting facilities. An explosion caused by a hot box set the building afire.

Quartermaster Sergeant Robert Horrine, of Saginaw, who gave up a 4,500-a-year position as traveling salesman, early in the summer and drove to Fort Wayne, Detroit, to enlist as private in Company H, Thirty-third Michigan infantry, of Owosso, has been recommended to the war department for a commission.

SCULLY APPEALS TO FARMERS' CLUBS

Almont, Mich., Oct. 22.

To the Farmers of the State of Michigan; greetings.

I appeal to you who are now and always have been in our country's past crises, considered the bone and sinew and red-blooded patriots of this great commonwealth in time of peace or war.

The time has never been before that your financial assistance would be of such great value to our government and the whole world as now.

Reports from Secretary Mark T. McKee of the Michigan Liberty Loan Distribution Committee indicates that we, as Farmers, are showing a lack of interest in subscribing for Liberty Bonds. It cannot be that we are lacking in interest, but perhaps we are not aroused to the great need of our unlimited cooperation with the government.

Let's fall in line and show the enemy the hand-writing on the wall and, in so doing, stimulate our boys in khaki.

To raise Michigan's quota of $125,000,000 as farmers we should buy bonds to the extend of ten per cent of our this year's income.

To buy this quota is our simple duty.

Volunteer your Liberty Loan subscription to your local committee at once and help win the war.

Sincerely yours
CHAS. B. SCULLY,
President Mich. State Ass'n. Farmers Club.

TO MICHIGAN GLEANERS:

We must do our "bit" to aid the United States government in its efforts to finance the great war. Our boys are going to the front; 14,000 Gleaners are of conscription age.

These farmer boys are responding to the call. Can we do less than to see that they are clothed and fed while at the front? The "minute men" of '76 left their plows in the furrows and fired the shot for Liberty which was heard round the world.

The call has again sounded; the danger bells are ringing. You are not asked to rush to the battle front, but you are asked to loan the government a few dollars. No man or woman is so poor that they can not afford to loan Uncle Sam the price of one Liberty Bond. It's a loan remember; and the United States government—the strongest government on earth—is back of the promise to pay.

The Supreme organization has invested $20,000 for the Gleaners. Now let each individual Gleaner do his part—this week—and the war is won. Can you do less?

The University of Michigan campus has seen the last of the flag rushes and push-ball contests between the freshmen and the sophomores. Because these games had broken up so many prominent families in the past the senate council decided they should be dropped, and some other manner of showing the physical supremacy of underclass men substituted in their place.

Notwithstanding the great increase in male employes in Detroit factories the number of women engaged in industrial occupations is increasing three times as fast, according to statistics compiled by the state labor commissioner, Richard H. Fletcher which include only shops employing more than 500 laborers. The number of women in higher positions has increased proportionately, as have female wages.

FLAG OF MY HEART

Am I better man than my brother,
My brother beyond the sea—
Be he serf or slave or prince or knave,
Am I better man than he?

Because of a bit of bunting,
Because of its power and place,
Shall I hold in scorn, as lesser born,
The man of alien race?

He came from the womb of woman,
He came from the self same clay—
In the sight of God, be he king or clod,
What will his birthplace weigh?

O, flag-of-my heart, I love you,
O, beautiful field of blue,
O, shining stars and glorious bars,
I pledge my soul to you.

I wrap my love in your fluttering folds,
And fling it to the wind;
To the South and North, I send it forth,
To the East and West in kind;

To the lands that live in darkness,
To the people sick with fear,
From the heart unfurled, to all the world,
I make my message clear

No better I than my brother;
No better this land than thine;
But under the stars and rippling bars
A gleam of hope divine;

And we who herd in the cities,
Who barter our lives for wealth,
Who fight for the power of a single hour,
With sin and scheme and stealth—

We who are all unworthy—
We are blazing a path for you
And naught can stay the halcyon day
When Earth shall be born anew:

Be not afraid of our folly,
Be not dismayed at our greed:
We are children yet and mayhap forget
The days of our greatest need:

But our 'prentice hands are forging fast
A chain of priceless worth,
Whose links of gold shall bind and hold
The nations of the earth.

We are all unskilled in freedom,
But our eyes begin to see
Dawn faintly bright, the far-off light
Of new found majesty

Have patience, O, my brothers,
Have faith for a little while—
We shall learn at length that the truest strength
Is love that knows no guile.

If we vaunted ourselves unduly,
'Twas the pride of an eager youth,
Fired with zeal for the common weal,
Thrilled with a mighty truth.

Out of the wreck of ages
We snatched that truth sublime:
It fires us still and by God's will,
It shall, to the end of time;

It shall lead and lift us upward,
To a sterner strength of soul;
It shall banish fear and bring us near
The freedman's destined goal

It shall help to speed the coming
Of a world democracy—
From greed of pelf, from greed of self,
It shall give us liberty.

Theodore McManus,

Old Glory is waving proudly over the thermometer which records the sales of Liberty Bonds for our township. About 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon the mercury rose to $100,000 and kept on going, finally standing at what should be $110,000. But as $100,000 was the highest amount on the thermometer people had to guess the rest.

We are proud of Tecumseh township and the record she has made in this Liberty Loan campaign. Her people have responded nobly and Chairman Temple announced Thursday afternoon that he expected the total would go to $125,000 by Saturday. There are many who have not yet subscribed and if they will only do their bit and hustle in their subscription, we may yet over-subscribe our quota of $163,000.

The latest reports from the county give a total of $903,000 and figuring on this basis Tecumseh township has raised a trifle over one-eighth of the total amount thus far raised in the county.

Much of the credit is due to the fine selling organization here who got behind the movement and got out and worked.

Thursday night's report sent in to the county headquarters showed the total amount of subscriptions taken by the Lilley State Bank $65,000 and the Tecumseh State Bank $45,000. Both banks stand high and are showing records equal with those shown by the county seat banks. The only bank showing a better record than the Lilley State Bank is the Lenawee County Savings Bank of Adrian.

The campaign closes tomorrow night so get busy and get your subscription in tomorrow.

Michigan is today shivering for the want of coal, our condition locally is no better nor worse than in almost every other section of the state. Coal is simply not being shipped into the state. Why, no one seems to have a very clear idea. The most reliable excuse offered yet is that all coal headed this way is being carried to lake ports for shipment to the northwest by boat. The dealers tell our coal men that when navigation closes, rail shipments will be pushed and we will then be able to get plenty of coal.

What are we to do in the meantime? President Waldron, who went to Lansing Thursday, will have his hands full trying to get Fuel Administrator Prudden to relieve the needs of Tecumseh. It is reported that 500 cars are now on the way from the east consigned to Administrator Prudden to be delivered to Detroit. This coal will be apportioned out to towns and cities throughout the state and shipped to the fuel commissioner of each town. By the time it has been divided, Tecumseh's share would not be more than one car or two at the most. This would not last long here as it would only mean about [illegible] tons.

No doubt our coal commissioner will use every effort to secure coal and will have the assistance of every coal dealer in town, as well as other local men of influence. Without doubt everything will be done that can be done to relieve suffering.

In the meantime people should be reasonable and not try to insist on large deliveries of coal. In the first place it isn't here to deliver and, again, it will do no good for what supply there is on hand will only be delivered in small lots and to those who are actually in want.

If worst comes to worst, those who have their bins full of coal will be asked, if not compelled, to give up some of their supply to those who have none, and we believe that our more fortunae friends would not say "No" to such a demand.

Patriotic people of Tecumseh should not fail to hear the FREE lecture of Dr. Edward R. Turner of Ann Arbor tonight on "Germany, Its Past History and Present Prospects", at the Baptist church.

These lectures are given by men who know and the church should be filled tonight. Be sure and attend You will miss it if you don't

FROM FLINT, MICH., TO ST. AUGUSTINE, FLA.

Buick Car Collides with John Penningtons Car and crashes into Ornamental Lamp Post on Corner of Chicago and Pearl Streete.

While a string of Buick cars were passing through Tecumseh Wednesday morning one of their number a Buick runabout collided with a car driven by John Pennington on the corner of Chicago and Pearl St.

The Buick car was probably running 20 miles an hour, and the driver did not see Pennington who was driving north on Pearl St. until he had nearly reached the corner. He immediately threw his emergency brake. Pennington had nearly crossed the street, when the Buick crashed into the rear of his car veered off and crashed head on into the ornamental lamp post on the corner. The force of the blow completely broke the post from its base and toppled it over onto the car, the post and lights were nearly a wreck. The Buick was badly smashed up in front with a bent forespring, headlight twisted, radiator bent, and the chassis thrown out of alignment. Pennington's car had a broken rear wheel and rear fender bent.

A crowd soon gathered. The driver had a little girl with him who was very much frightened, but no one was hurt.

The cars were owned by H. C. Jamigan of Lake City, Fla. and were being driven overland to that place. Mr. Jamigan appeared very much the gentleman and handed his check of $90 to the "City Dads" in settlement for he lamp post and after some discussion and legal advice Mr. Pennington was paid $23 for his damages.

They stated that they might pass through many towns between here and Florida, but would not have cause to remember any of them as much as Tecumseh.

HUNKA TIN

(From the American Field Service Bulletin, Paris.)

You may talk about your voitures
When you're sitting round the quarters,
But when it comes to getting blesses in,
Take a little tip from me,
Let those heavy motors be,
Pin your faith to Henry F.'s old Hunka Tin.
Give her essence and l'eau,
Crank her up and let her go,
You back firin', spark plug foulin' Hunka Tin

The paint is not so good,
And no doubt you'll find the hood
Will rattle like a boiler shop en route
The cooler's sure to boil,
And perhaps she's leakin oil,
Then oftentimes the horn declines to toot.
But when the night is black,
And there's blesses to take back,
And they hardly give you time to take a smoke,
It's mighty good to feel,
When you're sitting at the wheel,
She'll be running when the bigger cars are broke.

After all the wars are past,
And we're taken home at last,
To our reward to which the preacher sings,
When these ukulele sharps
Will be strumming golden harps,
And the aviators all have reg'lar wings,
When the Kaiser is in hell,
With the furnace drawing well,
Paying for his million different kinds of sin,
If they're running short of coal,
Show me how to reach the hole,
And I'll cast a few loads down with Hunka Tin.

Yes, Tin, Tin, Tin,
You exasperating puzzle, Hunka Tin,
I've abused you and I've flayed you,
But, by Henry Ford who made you,
You are better than a Packard, Hunka Tin.

WIT AND WISDOM

The Wit & Wisdom club held their regular meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Slayton, Monday evening with a large attendance. Mrs. C. A. Slayton and Mrs. Joseph Waring entertaining.

Mr. C. A. Slayton, leader for the evening, announced the following program.

How the Star Spangled Banner came to be written—Miss Alice Wimple.

Singing of Star Spangled Banner by the club.

Australia—Mrs. Jenny C. Law Hardy.

Mrs. Hardy's talk on Australia was given as she alone can give it, as she wove into it many points of interest with which she was personally familiar. The club members were very much interested in their trip to Australia and are indebted to Mrs. Hardy for her interesting and talented talk.

Roll Call was responded to with sayings "Wise and Oherwise."

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The fact that the club helped Mr. and Mrs. Slayton celebrate their wedding anniversary made the evening a little more enjoyable and interesing.

THE UNIVERSITY TRIO

The Lyceum course given this season by the Men's Class of the Presbyterian church started out very happily last evening and if the whole course comes up to the beginning, each ticket holder has a bargain for the entertainment last evening was worth easily the cost of the whole course. The number was The University Trio so called, but it was a quartette in fact.

The program consisted of piano, violin, French horn and uhkeles, besides the vocal work. One man did some excellent sleight-of-hand work besides being a fine reader, so the audience was not tired by the long program. The tingle of patriotism ran through the whole program.

NEW ROYAL HAD OPENING MONDAY NIGHT

Large Attendance and Special Music

The New Royal celebrated its reopening Monday and Tuesday evenings. "Freckles" from the book by Gene Stratton Porter was the attraction. Monday night's attendance was a record breaker and Tuesday's atendance was fine considering the weather.

The theater has recently undergone quite extensive improvements and presented a very fine appearance Monday evening. Every nook and corner of the theater has been touched up with new paper and fresh paint, the lighting system changed and everything put in the pink of order.

The Royal Theater is putting on only high grade pictures and hopes to satisfy the most critical of theater goers. A 5-piece orchestra furnished the music for the opening.

MONDAY CLUB

The musical program of the Monday Club for October 29th will not be held in the afternoon as usual. Mrs. Robt. Moore has kindly invited the club to her home at 7:30 p. m. It will be mainly a Rubenstein evening with a few other Jewish composers. No refreshments will be served.

It is to be regretted that there are two other meetings the same night, but after consultation between the three committees, it was decided that no change could very well be made. But since the musical program is scheduled for one hour it was thought likely that many might attend it and go to the other events before or after.

High School Notes

Witherell hall was the scene of a jolly gathering of High School students Friday, Oct. 12th. when about twenty couples tripped the "light fantastic toe" to the lively music of Coller's Orchestra. Everyone seemed in the best of spirits and the evening passed all toe quickly. As several of the lads and lassies had not eaten a bite since supper (?) they made a raid on the Candy Kitchen about 10 o'clock and Mike served them hot chocolate "just like Mother used to make."

After a few (?) more minutes dancing the party broke up and everybody "tired but happy" went to their respective homes (and lived happily ever afterwards).

If the Manchester team the other day had felt as discouraged as we felt confident, that game with them would have ended entirely different. The entire school, with few exceptions, turned out to see the game which was held at the Athletic Field, and never before was there any more cheering from the side lines.

Just before we met our Waterloo a hastily gathered orchestra paraded through the business section of the town, flaunting defiance in the face of our opponents from the north and inspiring all (?) with the martial blare of the drum and the strains issuing from the horns, etc

Manchecter beat us roundly as far as the score is concerned, although there was some excellent playing by Tecumseh, but after all,

"It's the spirit, not the score;
Tecumseh High School is not sore.'

Tecumseh Ties Brooklyn!

Team Shows a Great Comeback.

The most exciting game of the season was played at Brooklyn, Friday afternoon, when our boys tied even with Brooklyn Hgh.

The game was called a 3:30 sharp, amidst a young blizzard, but every Tecumseh man was ready for business.

1st Quarter

The game began with our kick off, and the Brooklyn boys starting out strong made two touch downs in the first quarter, but failed ti kick goal the second time, thus making the score 13—0 at the end of that quarter.

2nd Quarter

Tecumseh began to brace up in the latter part of the first quarter and during the entire second quarter, they kept the ball in Brooklyn's territory.

3rd Quarter

In this quarter Tecumseh made her first score. It was the result of a well executed fake when Zeke McLain, with the ball dodged Brooklyns secondary defence and made a touch down. Score 13—7.

4th Quarter

The ball was in Brooklyn's territory the rest of the game and Tecumseh advanced it thru several times to within striking distance of the goal, but lacked the power to carry it over till the fourth time, when a ouchdown was made just as time was called. Then Tecumseh too elated our this touchdown failed to kick goal, leaving the final score 13—13.

Tecumseh showed a marvelous comeback in the last three quarters, which pact plainly shows that our men, although somewhat slow at the start are steady, and that goes a long ways toward carrying a team to victory. Then too we must remember that "Large Bodies move slolwy."

We still need more driving power. Zeke McLain was certainly splendid on a fake that netted us a touchdown. Luster Best made good as usual both a fake at offensive and defensive and so did Crittenden and Pat Murphy. It is necessary to say that Joe played an excellent game.

Tecumseh practically won their points by the forward passes, most of which were thrown by Lawrence Harrington to Joe and by Joe to Pat.

One very notcable characteristic of the Brooklyn game was the team work and the dogged determination by every player to do his "Darndist."

Do not fail to see Brooklyn get walloped when they come here, probably the ninth of November.

A business meeting of the Juniors class was called Tuesday night for the purpose of making arrangements for the second class party to be called at Vera Sissons, whose farm home has been very generously thrown open to us.

Everything went along smoothly till the question of how many pumpkin pies were needed when Moore and Hardenburg had a battle royal—per mouth. Although every boy backed Moore in his assertion that six pumpkin pies was not enough, nevertheless they were defeated—but were reconciled considerably when they hard that Perry H. was to purchase four gallons of cider.

"FRECKLES"

Many students attended "Freckles" which was presented at the Royal Theatre Monday and Tuesday. Mr. Wring the proprietor has stated that in the near future he will present several O. Henrys' plays. He can rest assured that the High school will back all the good pictures that he can secure.

Although as a rule Miss Palmer keeps good order in her classes, nevertheless, she was unable to restrain the mirth in her class of Freshmen when she asked if they "All had Red (read) Freckles!

RED CROSS LOCAL BRANCH ELECT OFFICERS

Meeting held at Headquarters Tuesing, October 23.

The meeting of the Tecumseh Branch of the Red Cross was held Tuesday evening at the Red Cross rooms, with Chas. Burridge, chairman presiding.

The object of the meeting was to elect officers for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows.

Chairman—Chas. Burridge.

Vice Chairman—Mrs. Thos. McCann

Secretary—Guy Nemire.

Treasurer—H. S. Temple.

Members of the Executive Board—Mrs. B. J. Pulver, Mrs. F. S. Turner.

To represent Tecumseh Branch on County Board—Chas. Burridge, Mrs. C. A. Wright, Dr. W. B. Hartzog.

It was with some difficulty that chairman Burridge was persuaded to take the Chairmanship for another year. He stated that the local branch work had been dragging for the lack of workers. The few had been loyal and worked hard, but the many had not responded to the call for help. Especially workers were needed for sewing, making pajamas etc and it was hard to get people out to the Red Cross rooms. An appeal was made for the members to take a more active interest in Red Cross work and while not discrediting the Red Cross work done by many of the members, still they wished earnestly to appeal to the majority who have done so little and erge them to exert themselves more and do this work, so that our boys who go into the service, may have the comforts, which the Red Cross can furnish.

"PEG O'MY HEART" COMING

The attractiveness of the story of "Peg O' My Heart," which Robert Campbell will offer at the Bradley Opera House, next Thursday, November 1, makes the Manners comedy one of the strongest drawing attractions that has been offered our playgoers for many seasons. Mr. Manners has succeeded in creating an interesting theory and an amusing story for his plot, which carries with it many laughable incidents. It shows the experience of Peg, the daughter of an impoverished but lovable Irishman and an aristocratic Englishwoman on whom her relatives turned their backs when she set out for America with the husband of her choice. By the will of one of Peg's uncles, who wishes to make reparation for his treatment of his improvident sister, the little Irish-American girl is sent to England to be properly reared at the expenses of his estate.

Rarely has comedy offered a sweeter but more difficult role than J. Hartley Manners has written in "Peg" which has been entrusted to Miss Ann Pittwood and handled with skill by her.

There is a subtle magic in "Peg O' My Heart," which can be explained by one word—genius. It has a spontaneity of careless laughter and a sweetness and calm so often lacking in popular comedies. "There is nothing half so sweet in life as love's young dream," says Peg, and J. Hartley Manners has suffused his comedy with the sweetest expressed in the line.

While "Peg O' My Heart" has been seen in Tecumseh before still there are hundreds of people in Tecumseh and the surrounding towns who have never had the pleasure of seeing this charming play. These people and undoubtedly many who have seen 'Peg' before should avail themselves of this last chance to see this wonderful play. This season is the farewell tour of what has been the most successful comedy ever presented.

The company playing here next Thursday is the same one that plays all the week following in Detroit. A complete carload of scenery, furniture and electrical effects is carried for the production. "Peg O' My Heart" is a big city show and certainly will prove a treat to our theatre goers.

The best time made for the half mile was made by a Blissfield boy who made it in 2 min, 23 sec. The best record for Tecumseh was made by Edward Nyland who made his half mile in 2 min 45 sec The average time for half mile made by Tecumseh boys was 3 min 6 sec

Judge Hart gave the boys a talk on their reaching Adrian and a feed was served at the Y. M. C. A building

COAL COMMISSIONER APPOINTED FOR TECUMSEH

Council Names President C. A. Waldron to Fill the Position

At a special meeting of the council held Wednesday evening for the purpose of taking some action on the coal situation here, President C. A. Waldron was appointed Coal Commissioner for the village. The coal dealers were present and a general discussion of the situation regarding the local coal shortage was gone into at length. It was brought out that there was only a small amount in town for distribution and no likelihood of getting any in for some time.

The amount on hand will be guarded carefully and only delivered in small lots to those who are n urgent need of fuel.

Careful estimates based upon the coal canvass recently made, showed that the people of the village would need over 2000 tons to carry them through the worst of the winter.

Ways and means were discussed to provide some way of getting coal to Tecumseh and it was finally decided to send President Waldron to Lansing Thursday to put the matter squarely before State Coal Dictator W. K. Prudden with the most urgent request that he would be able to make plans for immediate relief.

Coal Commissioner Waldron will receive all shipments of coal shipped to Tecumseh and will make a distribution to the local dealers for redistribution to the people.

ONE GERMAN THAT WE MAY ALL LOVE

This is the subject of the lecture to be given at the Presbyterian church Sunday night, being a review of the life and work of Martin Luther, the central figure in the Protestant Reformation which began 400 years ago on Oct. 31. You would be surprised to learn how absolutely changed in thought and spirit the German mind has become.

The Ladies of the Merry Go Round are requested to meet at the home of Mrs. B. J. Pulver Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Important business to be discussed.

Storage Batteries

WINTER CARE

Storage Batteries run down faster in winter than in summer. They should be charged twice in each month and new, pure distilled water added each time.

Our experience during the past few winters, we believe, enables us to give you just a little Better Service than the average for your battery.

Our service includes getting your battery, charging twice each month, storage in a warm place, adding the distilled water—and delivery in the spring, fully charged, ready for use.

Special rates by the month or winter season.

JOHNSON'S FREEZE-PROOF

Radiator Protection—Anti Freezing Solution. Positively will not evaporate or boil out. Lasts all winter. Why run chances of ruining your radiator or bothering with drawing the water every time you take a drive.

We also handle THERMITE. You'll find either Thermite or Freeze-Proof the right preventative for a frozen radiator this coming winter, far ahead of alcohol which is constantly evaporating.

Be friendly—drop in.

Which is Better—Try an Experiment or Profit by a Tecumseh Citizen's Experience.

Something new is an experiment.

Must be proved to be as represented.

The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit.

Would you experiment on it?

You will read of many so-called cures.

Endorsed by strangers from faraway places.

Why the Railroad Problem Is YOUR Problem!

The railroads of the United States transport a billion tons of freight annually — 50 tons to a family. This freight represents the business activities of the nation.

It is therefore of the utmost importance to every family in the land that railroad facilities be ample to meet the burden of increasing commercial and military necessities.

Your prosperity is at stake.

The New York Central Lines

"America's Greatest Railway System"

in common with other railroads, must buy new cars and locomotives, build new tracks and terminals and in other ways expand their facilities in order to do their part in meeting the growing service demands.

You, the people, and the custodians of your savings — the banks, insurance companies, trust companies, etc.—will invest, and make possible the necessary expansions, only as rates and regulations permit the railroads to pay a return that will compare favorably with other investments available to you.

LIBERTY LOAN OVER 5 BILLION

Reports Indicate Issue Has Been Oversubscribed by Good Margin.

OFFICIAL FIGURES OCT. 31

Total Subscriptions May Go as High as $5,500,000,000—Both New York and Chicago Districts Over-subscribe.

Washington, Oct. 29.—The second Liberty loan, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo announced, is an "overwhelming success."

There seems not the slightest doubt that the maximum quota of $5,000,000,000 was exceeded. The unofficial tabulation of the treasury department shows a total of $4,555,000,000. With 3,000,000 persons throughout the country working at full speed up to midnight Saturday, when the campaign closed, it appears certain that the goal was left behind.

Great Rush at Close.

The closing day—the greatest of the campaign—brought a tremendous rush of subscriptions throughout the country.

"It is a great honor," said the secretary, "to be able to announce that the second Liberty loan has been evidently greatly oversubscribed. It will be several days before final figures can be given. The challenge of the German kaiser has been answered by the free people of America in unmistakable terms."

Issue of $4,000,000,000.

A total of $5,000,000,000 will mean that the bond issue actually will be for $4,000,000,000 under the plans to allot subscriptions equal to the minimum of $3,000,000,000, plus one-half of the excess up to the maximum quota.

The latest unofficial estimates by federal reserve districts follow:

Boston	$ 500,000,000
New York	1,500,000,000
Philadelphia	425,000,000
Cleveland	450,000,000
Richmond	160,000,000
Atlanta	100,000,000
Chicago	550,000,000
St. Louis	200,000,000
Minneapolis	130,000,000
Kansas City	160,000,000
Dallas	85,000,000
San Francisco	275,000,000
Total	$4,555,000,000

May Be $5,500,000,000.

It would not be at all surprising if the total would go as high as $5,500,000,000.

The number of subscribers, officials estimated, will be at least 8,000,000 and may go as high as 10,000,000.

Figures by Wednesday.

"New sales were being reported by telephone, telegraph and messenger, it was declared, from coast to coast. None was so bold as to say it would be possible to give an accurate accounting of all sales before next Wednesday," read the treasury announcements.

Wednesday is the day on which banks' subscriptions must have reached the district federal reserve banks.

Indications are that soldiers had subscribed $75,000,000 and sailors $6,000,000.

N. Y. Far in the Lead.

New York, Oct. 29.—New York and the federal reserve district of which it is the center earned indisputable title to the financial supremacy of the nation by oversubscribing its maximum quota of $1,500,000,000 to the second Liberty loan.

The closing hours of the campaign were marked by scenes throughout the city strongly resembling an election night.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Chicago has gone far "over the top."

The city's maximum quota of $180,950,000 to the second Liberty loan has been oversubscribed at least $20,000,000, and possibly twice that sum.

The seventh federal reserve district—including portions of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin and all of Iowa—at midnight was believed to be close to, if not actually over, its $700,000,000 maximum.

The district's total is a matter of guess. Official figures, tabulating subscriptions only officially reported, were $537,000,000, and but a small fraction of the banks had been heard from.

Finish a Hot One.

The entire district turned out en masse to subscribe. From practically all sections came the same reports—unbounded enthusiasm, crowds of bond buyers besieging the banks, institutions so overtaxed they could not make reports and still open far into the night. Full reports are not expected before next Thursday.

HELEN CUDAHY ENDS LIFE

Daughter of Milwaukee Packer Dies in Mid-Atlantic—Fear of U-Boats Believed Cause.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Miss Helen Cudahy, eldest daughter of Patrick Cudahy, millionaire Milwaukee packer, and niece of Edward A. Cudahy of Chicago, leaped to death from a liner in mid-Atlantic October 19. Miss Cudahy was en route to do Red Cross work in France. News of the tragedy came in cable dispatches to her father from Paris.

Fear of submarines is said to have been the cause of the suicide. It is believed her mind was deranged.

According to the Paris dispatches, Miss Cudahy was in the best of spirits during the early days of the voyage, but as the submarine zone was entered and the ship was met by an escorting warship she remained in her cabin most of the time.

An officer sought her to warn her to remain near the boats.

He found the porthole open and this hastily written note:

"It is for the best. Keep as much as possible from my father and mother. Notify my brother Michael."

Miss Cudahy who was twenty-six, is said to have been first inspired to Red Cross service by a teacher in a girls' school near Boston.

TEUTONS TAKE GORITZ FROM LATIN TROOPS

Austro-Germans Force Way Through Mountains to Plains of Northern Italy.

CAPTURE 80,000 ITALIANS

Berlin Says "Enemy's Front as Far as the Adriatic Sea Is Wavering"—Units Surrendered Without Fighting, Asserts Rome.

Berlin, Oct. 29.—The Austrians and Germans have forced their way through the mountains to the plains of northern Italy, capturing the town of Cividale, the war office announces.

The city of Goritz, on the Isonzo, also has been captured.

80,000 Italians Captured.

The number of Italian prisoners, according to the report, has been increased to more than 80,000.

The announcement follows:

"Rapid development of the united attack on the Isonzo again brought entire success. The Italian forces which sought to prevent our division from emerging from the mountains were thrown back by powerful thrusts.

Force Burning Town.

"In the evening German troops forced their way into the burning town of Cividale, the first town in point of position in the plain.

"The Italian front as far as the Adriatic sea is wavering. Our troops are pressing forward on the whole line. Goritz, the much disputed town in the Isonzo battles, was taken early in the morning by Austro-Hungarian divisions.

"The number of prisoners has been increased to more than 80,000 and the number of guns to more than 600."

Opposed by Huge Force.

London, Oct. 29.—It is estimated in an Exchange telegraph dispatch from Rome that the Italians are opposed on the front of the Austro-German attack by forces four times their number.

Teutons Occupy Goritz.

Amsterdam, Oct. 29.—The occupation of Goritz by Austro-German forces is announced in an official dispatch from Vienna. The Italians are said to have retired across the Isonzo.

Surrender Without Fighting.

Rome, Oct. 29.—Units of the Italian Second army surrendered or retreated without fighting, permitting the Austro-German forces to break the Italian left wing on the Julian front and invade Italy, says the official report. The Italians now are retreating in accordance with the plan prepared.

The announcement follows:

"The failure to resist on the part of some units forming the Second army, which in cowardice retired without fighting or surrendered to the enemy, allowed the Austro-German forces to break into our left wing on the Julian front.

Others Stand Firm.

"The valiant efforts of other troops did not enable them to prevent the enemy from advancing into the sacred soil of our fatherland. We now are withdrawing our line according to the plan prepared. All stores and depots in the evacuated places were destroyed.

"The record of many memorable battles fought with success by our brave soldiers during two and one-half years of war is sufficient to assure the commander in chief that the army to which the honor and safety of the country are confided with know how to fulfill its duty."

U. S. BATTERIES POUND GERMANS

Americans Engage in Artillery Duel With Enemy on French Front.

INFANTRY IS ALSO BUSY

Troops Exchange Shots With Teutons and Are Anxious to Go Over the Top—Statement From Headquarters.

With the American Forces in France, Oct. 29.—All through the night Pershing's batteries along the American front waged a fierce projectile duel with the German guns on the other side of No Man's Land. During the day the steady pounding of the American guns was still going on.

The Germans sent streams of shells at the American emplacements at steady intervals, which were answered shot for shot by Pershing's gunners.

Infantry Exchanges Shot.

The American infantry, wallowing in their first line trenches, also exchanged volleys with the German regiments opposite and were in high spirits over their first chance to "pot a Fritzy" despite the steady, depressing drizzle which has continued for nearly forty-eight hours, turning the Americans' dugouts into canals of mud.

Under these conditions the Americans are fast learning the details of trench life preparatory to "going over the top" at the enemy.

First Official Statement.

The first official statement issued from American headquarters was given out as follows:

"In continuation of their training as a nucleus for the instruction of later contingents, some battalions of our first contingent, in association with veteran French battalions, are in the first line trenches of a quiet sector of the French front.

"They are supported by some batteries of our artillery, in association with veteran French batteries.

"The sector remains normal. Our men have adapted themselves to actual trench conditions in a most satisfactory manner."

RED CROSS NEWS

A meeting of the Tecumseh Branch of the Red Cross was held at the Headquarters on Tuesday evening, Mr. Chas. Burridge in the chair.

In spite of the fact that every member of the Red Cross, who is on the telephone book, had been called up, there were only between 40 and 45 present.

Mr. Burridge in his address regretted very much that so little interest was shown in a meeting of such importance, and said that the chairman alone could not do everything, and that he must decline the renomination unless more support was pledged. The audience was unanimous in urging Mr. Burridge to accept office, and those present promised to do their best to assist him.

Chairman—Mr. Chas. Burridge.
Vice Chairman—Mrs. Thos. McCann.
Secretary—Mr. Guy Nemire.
Treasurer—Mr. Herbert Temple.
Members of the Executive Board—Mrs. B. J. Pulver, and Mrs. Frank Turner.

Nominations of Directors for the County were Dr. Hartzog, Mr. Chas. Burridge and Mrs. C. A. Wright.

Mrs. R. V. Wilson is a new member

Donations received by Guy Nemire—Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Whitnack $5.00. Sale of knitting needles $2.60.

President Stevens of the State Red Cross has published that Tecumseh will be the Headquarters for knitting needles, and that Tecumseh will make needles for all Red Cross Branches in Michigan. The first day after this was published five orders came, the largest from Grand Rapids; samples have been sent to them for selection Mr. Cutting and Mr. Finch are the makers of these successful needles.

The Patriotic League has raised $5505.00 to date; we still lack nearly $500.00 to come up to our assessment.

A large package of material was received from an Adrian Sunday school, to be cut into snippings; the machine is working splendidly.

Mrs. Dunn's committee finished 140 comfore pillows, to be sent to Adrian.

The Headquarters presented a busy scene yesterday there was snipping and piecing by Mrs. Clark's committee, and Mrs. Sena Crane was giving instrucion in the making of pajamas, while Mr. Dunn and Miss Phelps were getting packages ready to go to Adrian.

Mrs. Clark says that she needs [illegible] badly to prepare the shipping or the machine; there must be a number of people who can spare a few hours in the afternoon during the week to go to the headquarters and help.

Mrs. Sena Crane is again appealing for workers to give one half day a week to make pajamas. It seems hard that we should have to ask so often in vain. We do not know what more to say to arouse enthusiasm; our boys are in the trenches, our nurses exposed to everything a woman dreads most, we just lost 70 men drowned like rats at sea by a German submarine that we may sit safe and warm at home. There are some among us, who do their uttermost to help, but we blush for the slackers who let our boys fight for them and will not raise a little finger to lighten their load. A woman said lately that she approved of the Liberty loan, but preferred that others should subscribe, as sometime she might need her money. Such as she make us blush for America, and it is hard that good men should have to die to save such utter selfishness.

Miss Hosmer appeals for any scrap of woolen yarn; she can use any lengths, any kind, all colors any weight. They will be knitted into squares, sewed together, and made into afghans for the soldiers to wear in the hospitals. The man wearing them will look like Joseph in his coat of many colors. So please give Miss Hosmer all your odds and ends.

A meeting of the House Committee is called by Mrs. R. K. Anderson at 3 p. m. at the Headquarters on Saturday.

Mrs. Mary A. Shull is chairman for the United States Food Administration for Lenawee County.

The committee will commence a canvass of every house in the county on Sunday, and will continue it during the entire week, in order to secure pledges from all those handling food that they will conserve it to the utmost of their ability.

The Food Administration says; "We have promised to grub stake the Allies. We said 'You need not farm you fight.'

They did not farm, but how they did fight.'

Winter is coming on, there were few for the sowing and there are fewer now for the harvest. The pinch has come. In France they are saying: "How about that grub stake, Uncle Sam."

They are not whimpering, the Frenchmen, they are not that kind. they are hungry and if we fail them with our grub stake they will STARVE. Thousands of them, men women and little children.

It is food that will win the war.

And we are going to help, every one of us. We will make good our promise for the sake of the folks that trusted us and for our own soldiers as well.

We have had warning of the fate that awaits US, unless every American responds to the call of duty."

All Hoover asks from you in the pledge is easy, but if we each do our little bit in conserving food, it will mean that we can feed very man that fights for us. How important food is, is shown by the desperate attempts of German spies to burn elevators, packing houses and all places where food is stored. Please sign the pledge cards, when they are presented to you.

The next concert of the Red Cross Concert company will be in Blissfield.

HOOVER REVEALS PLOT

Germans Plan to Destroy Cattle in U. S. Stockyards.

Grain Elevators Also in Danger, Says Statement—State Troops to Guard Property.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—A nation-wide German plot to destroy thousands of cattle in stockyards was revealed by National Food Administrator Hoover in a telegram to State Food Administrator Harry A. Wheeler.

The telegram urged the vital importance of guarding all yards in the state.

Mr. Wheeler announced that he would inform Governor Lowden and urge that the newly formed Eleventh infantry be sent to protect the Chicago packing plants at once.

The yards meanwhile have been turned into a veritable fortress.

Sightseeing parties are no longer admitted. Barbed wire has been strung along the stockade. Special police have been detailed and each packing company has organized its own fire brigade.

Every employee must be identified before he enters the yards.

Warnings were sent to all parts of the state. It is believed some of the Guard will be sent to yards elsewhere in Illinois.

The dispatch from Mr. Hoover to Mr. Wheeler read:

"Washington, Oct. 26, 1917.

"Wheeler, Food Administrator, Chicago.

"Am informed widespread conspiracy exists to destroy animals in stockyards. In view of tremendous loss of food by recent fire in Kansas City stockyards urge you to get in touch with all stockyard companies in your state and emphasize importance of their largely augmenting a watch service and other fire protection. Also believe governors should have principal yards patrolled by home guards. Above also applies to grain elevators. Serious loss of wheat and barley in recent Brooklyn fire must not recur.

And now we are asked to sign pledge cards, showing our willingness to conserve food. Yes, and this is only one of the many things we will be asked to do. Supporting the Red Cross, giving to patriotic calls, buying Liberty Bonds, conserving food are all things that we stay-at-homes are commanded to do They are calls that we who do not risk our lives can do and should be most willing to do.

These cards that the Camp Fire Girls will ask the house wives to sign do not oblige anyone to go hungry or to inconvenience themselves much. The movement is to enlist the housewife in the campaign to cut out waste and to serve on the table enough only to meet the needs of the family and not have a surplus left that finds its way to the garbage can.

The Government is asking that the people conserve the supply of meats fats, sugar, flour, etc., as these foods are so much needed by our army and navy, also by the Allies who are now bearing the heavy burden of our fighting.

So when these young ladies call at your homes, do not treat the matter lightly or say that it is none of their business what or how you eat, but treat them as agents from your Government, give them the information they ask freely and sign the cards showing that you are willing to do your bit.

It will help win the war, we must do everything possible to win and it is your patriotic duty to assist in this movement.

The Liberty Loan campaign closed Saturday night and the army of workers throughout the Nation are resting from their labors. It is reported from National Headquarters that the big loan has probably been over-subscribed. In Lenawee county the latest reports give the county a trifle under the minimum with a total of from $1,200,000 to $1,300,000 subscribed.

In Tecumseh township the total reached $126,600 and was divided between the two banks as follows: Lilley State Bank, $75,000; Tecumseh State Savings Bank, $51,600. Our town people lifted loyally on this loan and, whhie we did not reach our maximum of $163,000, still we overreached our minimum amount. There was a splendid feeling of loyalty among the men who gave up their time to make the drive and the same feeling prevailed among the people whom they approached to buy. We congratulate the people of Tecumseh township on their patriotism and loyalty.

Field Headquarters of the American Army in France, Oct. 10.—Dan Cupid, using the "little red book" as an active ally, is already suiting the Sammies hard.

The captain of one marine regiment married three marines to French village girls during the past week. Numerous other marriages are in the offing. The "little red book" is an Anglo-French dictionary that can be purchased very cheap hereabouts. Courtship via this route is easier than may be thought.

George Starkweather's Mission

A Story of Secret Service In the World's War.

By F. A. MITCHEL

George Starkweather was dressing for dinner at his hotel in Rome when a stranger entered his room and closed the door behind him. Starkweather looked at him, indignant at this cool trespassing.

"Why do you enter my room without knocking?" he asked sternly.

"Because I do not wish to be seen entering your room. I chose a moment when there was no one in the corridor, and it was essential that I should lose no time. Signor, you are wanted at the Quirinal palace."

"I—at the palace?"

"Yes, signor, and I am ordered to take you there without your going being known. As soon as you have finished your toilet go down and out. You will find a cab standing by the sidewalk. Enter it and tell the cabman to drive you to the Plaza de Venetia. He will take you to the palace."

"But why this mystery?"

"There are spies watching the movements of every one who has any communication with the government. That is all I can tell you now. You will soon know the rest. May I trouble you to look out into the corridor and advise me when it is empty?"

Starkweather did as requested and presently reported that the coast was clear. The stranger went out, and George finished dressing. While doing so he was wondering what this summons to the king's palace meant. He was an American traveler who had gone to Italy some six months after the breaking out of the world's war to see for himself how things were going. He knew no one in Rome except an American lady who had married an Italian who now held a portfolio in the cabinet. But he could not see why this acquaintance should cause him to be summoned by the king.

When Starkweather had finished his toilet—he put on ordinary clothes instead of evening dress—he went to the dining room, partook of one course of the table d'hote, then went out and got into a cab which he found waiting for him. He saw there the man who had entered his room unbidden.

"You have been a long while, signor," said the stranger, "in finishing your toilet. You do not seem to hesitate to keep his majesty waiting."

"If the king calls for me," replied George, "when I am about to dine either he or my stomach must wait. Since I am an American citizen, not a subject of the king of Italy, I do not feel compelled to sacrifice my stomach to royalty."

When they reached the gates of the palace grounds they passed in through lines of guards and alighted at a side entrance of the building. Starkweather was conducted to a room in which sat the king and his prime minister. At his entrance both rose and greeted the American in a friendly manner.

"Mr. Starkweather," said the prime minister in fair English, "Signor Baroni, whose wife is a countrywoman of yours, has suggested you as one fitted to carry a message from his majesty to France. Would you be willing to oblige us by doing so?"

"I am at a loss to know why I am selected for such a purpose," replied Starkweather.

"You are an American, thus far a neutral in this war. Therefore you will not be so likely suspected of bearing a message from the Italian government. For you must know that the central powers are watching us keenly to know what we are going to do and, if we enter the war on the side of the allies, to know it at the earliest possible moment. Were we to send an Italian or one known to be in our confidence it is quite likely that the message would be stolen from him before he had crossed the border. We hope by using an American who has not been previously known to us to throw the spies off the track.

"If we are neutral the allies can move a million men they now hold to oppose us against the central powers. Here is a dispatch notifying the French premier that Italy will remain neutral. It must be delivered with the utmost dispatch, and the central powers must not know of our policy.

"You are to carry the dispatch to Edward Bruson, who is waiting for the king's decision in Lucerne. He will instruct you as to the best means of reaching Paris."

It was suggested to Starkweather that the cab in which he had come to the palace would be watched on its return, and he was advised not to use it further. It was dismissed, and that night the messenger left the palace by a private exit, entered his hotel by a rear door and, having thrown what articles he needed for his journey into a lightweight suit case, left the house in the gray of the morning when no one was about, proceeded to the railway station on the Esquiline hill and took a train leaving for Milan.

It did not seem to the American that after such precautions any one except those who had dispatched him could know that he was on a mission, probably the most important to France, to the world, that had ever left the Italian capital. He did not know the power of the spy system of the central powers, which in this case was operated by the Austrians. The man who had taken him to the palace was shadowed, and Starkweather's movements from the moment he left his hotel to go there were known to those who were intrusted to report to Vienna every movement of the Italian government.

Starkweather reached Lugano, a resort for tourists at the foot of the southern slope of the Alps, before being obliged to halt. At Lugano he was obliged to stay over till the following morning. He asked the landlord of his hotel how he could kill an evening and was told that the kursaal, or casino, was open, though since the war it was not much frequented. He went there and found a small orchestra, refreshments and a number of patrons. Seating himself at one of the tables he called for a liter of wine and a cigar. He had listened to several pieces from the orchestra when a couple entered and took a seat at a neighboring table.

The man looked like a German or an Austrian; the woman was dark complexioned and appeared to be French. At any rate, she spoke French to the man, whose accent was Teutonic. She seemed very ill at ease.

Presently the man arose from the table and went to the cashier's desk. He had no sooner left the woman than she leaned toward Starkweather and said:

"Monsieur, are you French?"

"No, madame; I am an American."

"I am French and am trying to get to France. This man is trying to head me off. For heaven's sake, help me!"

The woman's companion at this moment turned and, seeing her thus speaking to Starkweather, glared at him, returned at once to her, and together they left the kursaal.

An American gentleman is nothing if not a defender of woman. Starkweather longed to assist this one, but did not know how to go about it. Besides, he considered the responsibility he had assumed in bearing the king of Italy's message quite enough for him to attend to without getting into trouble with a Teuton who was tyrannizing over a lady. He therefore resisted an impulse to follow the couple and endeavor to afford the poor woman another chance to communicate with him. He sat where he was till he had finished his cigar and his wine, then returned to his hotel and went to bed.

The next morning at the railway station one of the uniformed attendants who carry hand baggage for travelers snatched at Starkweather's suit case and wrenched it from his hand. The American, who was something of an athlete, sent the man sprawling with his fist. A crowd was collecting when Starkweather jumped on the train, which was moving out. He had not carried his dispatch in the case, but the incident warned him that wherever it was it was in danger. Looking out of the coach window, he saw the man he had knocked down running after the train. But he had been bruised, and the train had achieved a good headway, so he was unable to catch it.

As soon as Starkweather had become composed after his fracas he looked about him, and there sitting in a seat at the other end of the compartment was the woman who had appealed to him at the kursaal the previous evening. She smiled at him, and he took a seat beside her. She told him that she had succeeded in eluding her persecutor and had reached the station and boarded the train.

During the day the train sped through a valley in which dashed a stream. Early in the afternoon the famous St. Gothard tunnel was reached, to pass through which some fifteen minutes are consumed. Starkweather conversed with the lady, who informed him that she was on secret service for the French government. When the tunnel was reached Starkweather was surprised to notice that the lamp in the top of the car was not lighted. Why it was not he could not explain till after having passed through the tunnel, and even then he did not know how the failure to light it had been accomplished.

When the train entered the tunnel Starkweather was sitting in his own seat at some distance from the lady. Being plunged in total darkness, he naturally placed his hand on his dispatch, which was in the left side coat pocket, directly over the heart. The train had not been in the tunnel a minute when he felt a pair of viselike arms about his chest, pinioning both his own arms. Then he was held by one arm of his assailant while the other hand was thrust under his coat and grasped his hand which held the dispatch.

It was Greek meet Greek. Starkweather's grip was of iron, and his adversary's was of steel. But Starkweather had the advantage of holding the dispatch, though he was not in training for such an encounter. His opponent finally clutched his throat.

Starkweather before leaving his hotel had picked up a stiletto he had bought for a curio and hung it, American plains fashion, to the back of his neck. He just had time before losing consciousness to free one arm, draw the stiletto and stab in the dark.

When the train shot out into the light, revived by fresh air he saw the woman who had appealed to him for protection lying on the floor in a pool of blood. But her disordered apparel showed under it the clothes of a man.

Starkweather climbed out of the window on to the footboard, and as the train slowed up at the station near the mouth of the tunnel he jumped down on terra firma and ran like a deer.

At the time the world wondered why France took away her troops from the Italian frontier, sent them against the Germans and saved Paris. Now it is known that the prime minister of France received the message of the king of Italy at midnight and at once set free the troops held on the Italian border.

BOOKS OF WORLD WAR INTEREST IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

Now that people are getting thoroughly into their heads that personal preferences aren't going to stop the war, there is a growing interest in literature along the line of war-intelligence. Besides excellent articles in the Literary Digest, Independent, Survey, Outlook, Review of Reviews, World's Work and other magazines, the Library also supplies the following books pertaining to the war:

The War in Europe—Albert Bushnell Hart

Secrets of the German War Office—Karl Armgard Graves.

Secrets of the Hohenzollerns—Karl Armgard Graves.

Fear God and Take Your Own Part—Theodore Roosevelt

The Life Romance of Lloyd George—Beriah Evans.

Mr. Britling Sees It Through—H. G. Wells.

Getting Together—Ian Hay.

Soldier's English and French Handbook. This book is made as simple and as much to the point as possible for the benefit of those who are not able to have French instruction, and gives the phrases and sentences most likely to be used by soldiers.

Over the Top—Arthur Guy Empey. This book has been having a wider reading than even the "Best Seller" novel all over the United States.

The Worn Doorstep—Margaret Sherwood.

My Home in the field of Honor—Frances Wilson Huard. A very worth while book

England's Effort—Mrs. Humphrey Ward. No person who reads this book of Mrs. Ward's feels the time hase been wasted.

At Plattsburg—Allen French.

Only a Dog—Bertha Whitridge Smith.

The Whistling Mother—Grace S. Richmond.

My four Years In Germany—Jas. W Gerard.

When the Prussians Came to Poland—Laura de Turczynowicz.

I Accuse—

The Pentecost of Calamity—Owen Wister. The "Outlook" says, "We wish every American in the United States would read this book."

Thus Spake Zarathustra Nietzsche. This is the book which some claim made the trouble. It will interest any who are interested in the philosophy rather than the politics of the Germans.

Christine—Alice Cholmondeley. Of "Christine" a certain well known periodical says, "The next time some sentimental old lady of either sex, who can't see why we have to send our boys abroad, comes into your vision, try to trap them into reading Christine. If you succeed we know it will do them good." It contains striking and powerful description of Berlin in the early days of the war, and is significant in the light it throws on German character and thought.

Roy Smith from Camp Custer, was home for a weekend visit. He is looking fine and is feeling well and hearty.

Mrs. Raymond Mills, who has been spending a number of weeks in Battle Creek with her husband, has returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Cupples. They have given up their farm home there, as the roads were so bad that Mr. Mills could not go back and forth as he had been doing

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

JUNIOR NOTES

Rev Rex spoke to the High School boys last Friday morning and secured the co-operation of ten patriotic boys who covered the town with Liberty Bond Posters, Saturday afternoon.

This last week has been a horrible one for everybody even the Jolly Juniors. Tests ——— tests and there tests !

A New Species

Announcement extraordinary ! A new species of elephants surpassing all others in size has been discovered by Mr. Goodrich. He did not have to explore the wilds of Africa either. It was in a physics problem and according to one student weighed exactly 216 tons.

Going Down

The next time you go by Adams park, gentle reader, walk up in the southwest quarter kick around in the grass and see if you run across our wonderful stand pipe. It may take you a long time for it has shrunk considerably. Because in a problem to find its height when the pressure at a hydrant was fifty pounds per square inch, friend, Bob after sweating a half a period found it to be just two inches high !

Just two students received passing grades in the first physics test. The average was 52 per cent.

Basket Ball

The High school with one accord wishes to thank Mrs. L. I. Bidwell for her generosity in renting the hall above Rosacrans Store.

She has given the use of it for Basket Ball at a very low cost to the High School.

This hall is most suitable for the purpose as it is so roomy and also so centrally located and helps our basket ball team out of a tight fix as there was no other hall that we could secure.

The T. H. S. doesn't forget generous acts like this !

The girls will begin practising basket ball as soon as the baskets are erected.

Each class will have a team and the school team will be composed of the best players chosen from these class teams.

The girls are all very enthusiastic and the prospects for an excellent Basket Ball team are rosy.

Miss Miller in Ancient history class Class, "Yesterday you all had perfect marks and today they are slipping lower and lower."

Floyd LeBaron: "And why shouldn't they, aren't we studying Greece ?"

Juniors Pay Your Dues !

Too many of us have forgotten that promptness in paying our class dues is the foremost duty of loyal students.

The Virgil class have began the second book, and all is well !

A very enthusiastic pep-meeting was held Thursday night for the purpose of getting up more enthusiasm for the game with Britton, Friday afternoon. Next Tuesday we will play Clinton High.

Studebaker
WAGONS BUGGIES HARNESS

THE LONG LIFE OF A GOOD WAGON

We bought our two Studebakers from your agent, Moses Logan, 37 years ago.
Our neighbors have worn out three or four wagons of other makes since we bought ours.
We have never broken anything on the wagons and the hubs are perfect yet.
One is a lumber wagon, the other a spring wagon. Both are good for years of work yet.
Arthur Martin, Sandy Lake, Pa.

Studebaker 37 years old—hubs perfect yet

Not strange for the Studebaker—because the hubs are of fine, close grain—tough, strong and treated with a secret sealing solution that is weather resisting.

Notice the hubs on the next Studebaker you pass on the road—you'll find they are not split or checked like the ordinary wagon.

And in these hubs are set the famous Studebaker slope shoulder spokes.

The Studebaker Farm Wagon Wheel is best made.

We sell the Studebaker because we believe it is the biggest wagon value on the market.

O. E. S. VISIT ONSTED

It surely did not take Tecumseh Chapter O. E. S. long to accept the invitation from the Onsted Chapter to be their guests last Friday night for many of them had been there before and the report they brought back of their good time made the other anxious for such a fine evening and they had it. It rained all day in fact had only stopped occasionally for a week so the roads were most beautiful (?) Reports vary as regards the depth of some of those holes in the roads, which the drivers could not avoid and as every car was loaded to the limit the water sure did fly some as the cars dashed through, but when upon arrival the 65 Tecumseh people found such a hearty welcome the troubles of getting there were laughed off and all went in for a happy time.

A great dinner was served shortly in the I. O. O. F. hall and really the way George Field, Tom Mingay, Albert Clark and Lester Rogers did put that food away was a caution. of course the rest of us scarcely ate a thing Oh No! Any way Hoover and his pledges don't seem to have reached Onsted and we're glad we got there first.

Following the banquet came a short program arranged by a former Tecumseh High School girl, Mrs. Iva Kane Ross. After a piano solo Mrs. Desermia the Onsted Worthy Matron, gave the address of welcome. Mrs. Montgomery our Matron responded, as did also our patron George Hines. Mrs. Ross sang delightfully then our old friend Mrs. Rose Corwin gave a reading followed by a couple of patriotic solos by Mrs. Leo Redfield and two readings by Miss Mary Maxwell. The program was closed by the singing of the grand old "America" and we were led back to the pretty Masonic hall where the chapter was opened and the Tecumseh officers put on the work, initiating Mrs. Florence Gilbert, Mrs. Cora Watkins, Miss Ethelyn Shugars and Donald Watkins and really we were exceedingly proud of the work put on by our ladies. Then followed the jolts coming home but by that time the rain had stopped and the moon shone brightly so we didn't get quite as many bumps as in the western journey, but they are all happy memories of the trip and the other Tecumseh Stars who didn't go missed the time of their lives.

MONDAY CLUB

Last evening Mrs. Robert Moore opened her home to the Monday Club, making one of the most pleasant and profitable musical meetings the club has known. In spite of a stormy evening and other important meetings, the audience was large enough and appreciative enough to inspire the musicians to do their best.

The program was entirely from Jewish composers and was prepared especially for the occasion at considerable labor on the part of those concerned. Everyone present expressed enjoyment of the numbers and appreciation of the beautiful home which was given for the meeting.

DeMille, Miss Pickford presented this ambulacne to the local Red Cross. This show is under the auspices of the ladies of the Presbyterian church.

FOOD CONSERVATION CANVASS ON

House to House Canvass to be Made in Lenawee County this Week

CAMP FIRE GIRLS IN CHARGE OF THE WORK HERE

The Food Conservation movement which is sweeping the country is being pushed in Lenawee County this week. The work is under the direction of National Food Commissioner, Herbert Hoover, who is doing every thing in his power to awaken the American house wife and to inlist her in this great movement.

Our County Chairman, who has received her appointment direct from Mr. Hoover, is Mrs. J. D. Shull of our Village, and Mrs. Shull has organized the county and the movement is being carried on in each of the 22 townships by capable women leaders. It is estimated that there are 11,000 families in Lenawee County and each of these families will be called upon and asked to sign a card which will show their willingness to co-operate in the conservation of food. It is hoped that Lenawee will be able to enlist at least 9,000 families in this movement.

The ladies who have charge of the townships in our neighborhood are: Mrs. Gabriel Mills, Macon; Mrs. Tamblyn, Britton; Mrs. Albert Wesley, Adrian and Adrian Township; Mrs. Chas. Ives, Raisin; Mrs. M. E. Olds and Mrs. E. S. Tate, Clinton and Mrs. O. N. Rice, Franklin.

The Campfire Girls through their National organization have offered their services in this campaign and the local work will be carried on by the Campfire girls of Tecumseh under the leadership of Miss Ethel Kenyon. The girls will make a house to house canvass in Tecumseh, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

DR. EDWARD R. TURNER

Gives Patriotic Lecture at Baptist Church, Friday Evennig.

The third lecture given under the auspices of the National Security League was given at the Baptist church last Friday evening. Dr. Edward R. Turner of the University of Michigan was the speaker and took for his subject "Germany the Past History and Present Prospects."

The speaker went quite extensively into German history and brought the nation down to the declaration of war in 1914 giving reasons leading up to the feeling for world conquest so previlent in Germany at the time war broke out. He voiced his opinion that the German people would profit by the war, and Prussian Imperialism would be crushed. America has been drawn into this war because Germany intended to make war against us and we must use every effort to crush her.

Many questions were asked of Dr. Turner at the close of his lecture.

"SAVE FOOD," WILSON

President Wants Every Home to Aid.

Declares That Conservation Week Offers Opportunity for All to Co-Operate With the United States.

Washington, Oct. 29. — President Wilson, in a statement, urges every home and public eating place in the United States to pledge its support to the food administration and to comply with its requests. His appeal marked the opening of family enrollment week, during which everybody in the country will be asked to become a member of the food administration in order to insure nation-wide co-operation in food conservation.

The president said that in no other way than through this co-operation of the people can the nation accomplish its object in the war.

The statement follows:

"The chief part of the burden of finding food supplies for the peoples associated with us in war falls for the present upon the American people, and the drain upon supplies on such a scale necessarily affects the prices of our necessaries of life.

"Our country, however, is blessed with an abundance of foodstuffs, and if our people will economize in their use of food, providently confining themselves to the quantities required for the maintenance of health and strength; if they will eliminate waste, and if they will make use of those commodities of which we have a surplus and thus free for export a larger proportion of those required by the world now dependent upon us, we shall not only be able to accomplish our obligations to them, but we shall obtain and establish reasonable prices at home.

"To provide an adequate supply of food both for our own soldiers on the other side of the seas and for the civil populations and the armies of the allies is one of our first and foremost obligations; for if we are to maintain their constancy in this struggle for the independence of all nations, we must first maintain their health and strength.

"The solution of our food problems, therefore, is dependent upon the individual service of every man, woman and child in the United States.

"The great voluntary effort in this direction which has been initiated and organized by the food administration upon my direction offers an opportunity of service in the war which is open to every individual and by which every individual may serve both his own people and the peoples of the world.

"We cannot accomplish our objects in this great war without sacrifices and devotion, and in no direction can that sacrifice and devotion be shown more than by each home and public eating place in the country pledging its support to the food administration and complying with its requests.

FIRM LOWERS MILK PRICE

Big Company in Chicago Moves to Force Retail Cost Down to 12 Cents.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Action to force the retail price of milk down to 12 cents a quart was taken by the Kee & Chapell Dairy company, Chicago's largest wholesale and the third largest retail firm. The company notified its eleven receiving branches in country districts to pay only $3 per 100 pounds for milk beginning November 1, this price to prevail for five months.

Kee & Chapell will reduce the retail price to 12 cents on that date.

"Farmers in the Chicago district," said S. S. Chapell, vice president, "can sell their milk at $3 per 100 pounds and make a legitimate profit—7 per cent—based on a valuation of $200 per acre.

"Half the farmers in this district would have accepted $2."

It was said the Kee & Chapell company had opened the way for concerted action against the producers.

A Warning

Was It Given by Autosuggestion or an Unexplained Spiritual Power?

By Alan Hinsdale

Captain Gifford, commanding the good ship Nautilus, stood on the porch of his land home overlooking the Atlantic ocean, his wife clinging to him, loath to let him go. The captain had sailed several times before since his marriage, but not dreading any peril except what has pertained to a sailor's life from time immemorial. But now he was to face a new danger, a danger compared with which storm or sunken rock was far less dreadful, for a storm may be weathered and a sunken rock may be avoided. Gifford was to face the dreaded submarine.

This is why his wife parted with him so much more reluctantly than ever before.

"Don't worry about me, sweetheart," he said. "We have a gun forward and a gun aft and an ensign in the navy commanding a crew of trained gunners. We shall keep vigilant watch by day for submarines, and at night not a light will be allowed aboard the ship. I venture to say that we will have as good a chance as any submarine that may attack us."

"That is but one chance in two," replied the despondent wife.

"No; I believe we shall have a great advantage over the submarine. We shall enter the restricted zone when there is no moonshine, and, not showing a light, I do not believe we shall be in danger of attack at night. As for an encounter in the day, by keeping incessant watch we will get the first shot, for the submarine to get our bearings must do so from the surface. If we put one shot into her she is lost, and our gunners are very quick and very skillful. Then, too, she must attack us when we present a broadside to her, and we may show either stern or bow. If the stern, we may run away from her; if the bow, we may ram her. There will be no need for us to put our prow against her but once, for she will roll over and go to the bottom. But remember this—we may not see a submarine."

"But suppose she sees you before you see her and has time to send a shot at you before your gunners are ready to fire."

"Don't worry about that, my dear. We shall always be on the alert. From the first light of dawn to the closing in of night our lookout and our gunners will keep their eyes peeled for them."

It was with such hopeful assurances that the captain sought to comfort his wife. Finally she released him, and he started for his ship.

The Nautilus passed through the danger zone safely. Not even the tip of a periscope was seen above the surface of the water. Captain Gifford on entering forbidden waters followed rigidly the course laid down for him by the British admiralty, and it was to this fact that he owed his safety. The crew and the gun squad were of opinion that all a ship need do to escape being sunk in the danger zone was to adhere to instructions. They heard of ships being torpedoed by disregarding them, but not of ships being wrecked that observed them.

It was to this opinion that was due some laxity on the return voyage. Captain Gifford did all he could to counteract this disposition, constantly watching the men for breach of the rigid system of attention to duty he had instituted. He found the work very wearing, and the night his ship was leaving the zone, having been long without sleep, he turned in for a brief rest.

It was about three bells in the morning that the captain awoke. He was astonished to see his cabin faintly illuminated and horrified as well, for he had given the strictest orders that no light was to be allowed on the ship, and here was light in his own cabin. But this was not all that amazed the captain. His wife was standing beside his berth.

"Great heavens, Lucy," he exclaimed, "how did you come here?"

"There is a submarine a few miles distant. When day comes and your ship will be visible you will be in danger."

Now, the captain had been so profoundly sunken in sleep that he saw this scene but half awake. By the time he had become fully aroused the illumination of his cabin had faded, as well as the figure of his wife. Naturally he ascribed his vision to nightmare induced by his mind being absorbed in the danger through which his ship was passing. It was yet several hours before day, but so vivid was his dream, or whatever it was, that he arose—he was in his clothing—and went on deck to see if the watch were doing their duty. The sailors were alert, but the men on duty at the guns were dozing.

While Captain Gifford regarded the vision as the creation of his own brain, he had a feeling within him that it was a real warning of danger. At any rate, it served as such. He ordered every man on deck and instructed the officer commanding the gunners to have a man at the breach of each gun, ready to fire instantly on sight of an enemy. It was still dark, the sky covered with clouds, and nothing would be discoverable for more than an hour. During the interval the eyes of every man on the ship were peering in different directions, taking in the whole periphery of the ocean, ready at the first glimmer of dawn to see an enemy if one appeared.

But the heavens above were black and the ocean beneath was black. If a periscope were raised above the surface it would not have been seen. The ship was painted a dark lead color, which rendered it invisible against the sky.

Then the clouds to the eastward became a trifle lighter than at the other points of the compass, and slowly the dawn began to make sky and ocean visible.

At eight bells—the bell was not struck—a man in the rigging cried out:

"Submarine on the port bow half a mile away!"

Ten seconds later the forward gun of the Nautilus boomed. The shot flew above the water and ricocheted when some thirty yards from the submarine, passing clean over her deck, which was but a few feet above the surface.

The submarine dived. It was probable that she had been taken by surprise, but must have got the bearings of the Nautilus. Within two or three minutes a torpedo came through the water a few feet beneath the surface. It would have struck the ship in the stern had not Captain Gifford given an order to put the helm hard down, which was turning the ship to sail in a circle about the submarine. This had moved the stern away from the line of the torpedo.

Captain Gifford, having moved from the position he was in when the submarine had him sighted, believed that it would be necessary for it to rise again before she could locate his ship. He kept his course till he had completed a semicircle, when the periscope of his enemy appeared about 1,000 yards dead ahead. The marksman at the bow gun was very quick in sending a shot at her. Whether the shot hit her or not was problematical, for instead of completing a rise to the surface she went under.

Captain Gifford concluded that if she had not been disabled she would send another torpedo to him or rise to get a better sight of his location. He concluded that it would be safer to keep right on his course toward her. If he turned he must expose a broadside, whereas by heading for her he would expose only his narrow bow and might have an opportunity to ram her. A ripple in the water a cable's length from the ship on the starboard side and running parallel with it indicated that the enemy had risked a shot, but had gone wide of the mark.

The Nautilus kept on her course on a guess that she was making for the submarine, the bow gunner ready to send a shot the moment the periscope of the enemy showed itself. It did not show itself, however, till the Nautilus was within a few yards of it. There was a bump, and those on the bow of the Nautilus saw a sharklike body roll on its side, turn turtle and disappear.

A shout went up from the Nautilus' crew, for all knew that they and their ship were saved. In the ship's wake the surface of the water was covered with oil, indicating that the submarine would no longer trouble them.

However, being still on the verge of the danger zone, Captain Gifford kept a strict watch during the day, and when night fell the Nautilus mingled with the gloom, not a light being seen on her.

When Captain Gifford passed to safe sailing his mind naturally reverted to his waking in the night and his warning vision. Since the warning had undoubtedly saved his ship and its crew he could not consider it a nightmare or a dream. His wife's face and figure, a look of terror in her eyes, were vivid, while her warning words still sounded in his ears. At the same time the captain was not naturally disposed to refer the matter to any cause except his own presentiment. He finally settled down to this view, believing the presence of the submarine near his ship and his dream, or whatever it was, coincidences.

When the captain reached home he found his wife's nerves much broken down, so much so that he did not for a time refer to his narrow escape. He asked her why she had worried herself into so deplorable a condition, and she replied that one night she was seized with a foreboding that a submarine was lurking near the Nautilus and as soon as dawn appeared would undoubtedly attack the vessel. An overweening desire seized her to warn her husband. She then passed into a trance. She seemed to be flying over the ocean at night, reached the Nautilus, saw the drowsy gunners and passed down into her husband's cabin, where she warned him of his danger. When she awoke in the morning her nerves were unhinged and had remained so ever since.

This information staggered the captain's rational view of his warning. That he had produced it by anxiety, that his wife should have produced the complement of his part in the matter also by anxiety, did not seem to fulfill the conditions of a warning dream or autosuggestion. Furthermore, the warning proved to have been needed. Without it the Nautilus would doubtless have been sunk by the submarine.

When Mrs. Gifford recovered her health her husband told her his part of the story. Since then there are two opinions of the matter in the Gifford family. Captain Gifford attributes the warning to autosuggestion and coincidence. His wife believes that she was endowed with power to know of his danger and to go and warn him. Both have their adherents.

But, granting this, how did she go? Surely it will not be admitted that her body was transported over several thousand miles, and that without her being conscious of it. But the soul! If it is a soul it is not material. And why should not a soul move as well as wireless electricity?

POWER OF MONEY.

And the Danger That May Come With Undue Love of Wealth.

It is convenient to have money. We all see many ways in which we would like to use it. But when we have money we are all apt to wish it just a little more. Who is to say what is the exact amount it is right that we should possess? Wishes, tastes, desires, differ. We ourselves do not know what our limit should be.

With too much money one is likely to become conceited, to lose sympathy and be hard hearted and more than likely regardless of the means he takes to add to his store. If he has too little he may be envious of others, embittered toward society, tempted to dishonesty, or there may be real suffering for need of what money can buy. No one, not even the man in a prison cell, can live in any degree of comfort without money. It is necessary to life.

Yet there are many things of greater value than money, things that money cannot buy, that are necessary to our welfare. Undue love of money is a poison in the soul, eating out what is of most worth. We may pay too high a price for its acquisition. We should judge our desire for money by our purpose, our motive in wanting it. Money is a power for good or evil, as we choose to use it.—Milwaukee Journal.

MUST DRIVE OUT INVADER

Says First Duty of the Slave Is Energetic Defense of Their Own Soil —Fear Korniloff Will Be Lynched.

Petrograd, Oct. 31.—Foreign Minister Terestchenko in addressing the preliminary parliament said a separate peace was impossible, and that defense of Russian territory was one of the fundamental needs.

"Those is a rumor that the allies wished to leave Russia to her fate," the foreign minister continued, "but I state officially that it is untrue.

"Germany's aim is to separate Russia from the allies, and if possible to do this by peaceful means, in order to use Russia economically afterward.

Plans to Exploit Russia.

"While the other nations at war are unable to continue civil industry, Germany has been so well organized from the beginning that she has been able to continue her efforts to carry on trade. She looks upon Russia as her market.

"Therefore the defense of Russian territory is one of the fundamental needs now, for if Germany gets into Russia commercially after the war we shall have no self-definition afterward."

The foreign minister said the absolute independence of Courland, and, perhaps, of Poland and Lithuania, was impossible, as it would mean that Russia would return to the days before Peter. He also asserted complete demobilization and disarmament and neutralization of canals and straits were impossible.

Russia's foreign policy had not changed, the minister continued, since the first statement enunciating the principles of no indemnities, no annexations and the right of nations to self-definition.

"The people must understand that the war is being carried on not by governments, but by nations," he added. "As the nations began the fighting, so they must end it. Russia and France first held back the foes, and so they continue."

M. Terestchenko declared that the offers for a separate peace and the sentiment in favor of them were strongest last May, when they were followed by the Russian offensive.

Should Forget Politics.

In regard to the forthcoming conference of the allies at Paris, M. Terestchenko said it must be remembered that Russia should forget politics there and be represented as a nation.

He characterized some points of the peace terms of the soldiers' and workmen's delegates as impossible, saying they could not be defended as the nation's terms.

It was in this connection that he made his references to Courland, Poland and Lithuania and to the impossibility of neutralizing canals and straits and disarming completely.

The Cossacks' army union at Novo Cherkask calls the attention of the government to the gradual removal of Cossacks from the guard over General Korniloff, who is being held for trial on account of the movement to overthrow the Kerensky government.

These Cossacks are being replaced by infantry, the army union reports and fears are expressed that the infantry will surrender General Korniloff to the vengeance of the populace.

The defense of Petrograd against possible attack devolves upon a joint military committee embracing the soldiers' and workmen's delegates and all the military and political elements. Such a committee is in process of formation, according to the war ministry.

MAY CONSCRIPT WORKMEN

Drastic Action Threatened to Speed Up Shipbuilding Program of Government.

Washington, Oct. 31—The imminent necessity of speeding up ship construction was emphasized at a conference here between Atlantic coast shipbuilders and officials of the emergency fleet corporation, the navy department, the department of labor and the American Federation of Labor. The labor question was discussed in detail, special consideration being given to feasible methods for attracting skilled workers to shipyards. Unless the present labor shortage is relieved without delay, officials assert, it will be necessary to consider drastic methods of conscription of workmen.

VON HERTLING IS APPOINTED

Prime Minister of Bavaria Named Prime Minister of Germany to Succeed Michaelis.

Amsterdam, Oct. 31.—Count von Hertling, prime minister of Bavaria, has been appointed chancellor of Germany. Former Chancellor Michaelis has been named prime minister of Prussia.

Major General John Biddle, of the national army, a native of Detroit, has been appointed assistant chief of staff of the army. The post has been vacant since General Bliss succeeded Major General Scott as chief of staff. The position carries the rank of major-general in the regular army. General Biddle is now in France.

Raising 650 bushels of potatoes on a single acre of ground, Jules Van Damme, farmer of St. Nicholas colony, a few miles from Escanaba, holds what is believed to be a record for potato production in this vicinity. The acre was accurately measured. Five hundred bushels of the potatoes were marketable and sold for $1 a bushel.

O. H. Williams, of Ann Arbor, was killed at Mobile, Ala., when he fell with an airplane, according to reports from the southern city.

UDINE, ITALIAN ARMY BASE, IN TEUTON HANDS

Austro-German Forces Capture Cadorna's Former Headquarters, Is Berlin Report.

U. S. GOES TO ITALY'S AID

Details of the Assistance Refused by Italian Embassy at Washington, Where There Is an Atmosphere of Optimism.

Rome, Oct. 31.—The Italian retreat continues, the war office announces. The Italian cavalry is in contact with the advance guards of the attacking enemy, the statement adds.

Berlin, Oct. 31.—Udine, former general headquarters of the Italian army and a base for operations in the Isonzo campaign, has been occupied by the Austro-German forces, the war office announces.

Supreme Test for Italian Army.

Rome, Oct. 31.—All Italy realizes that the Italian Second army is standing a supreme test as a result of the combined German and Austro-Hungarian offensive on the eastern frontier. The tone of the press is courageous notwithstanding the setbacks that thus far have been reported.

The newspapers agree that the Germans are aiding the Austrians in the belief that Italy is starving, rent by internal disorders and ready to desert the entente. Also, they say, Italy offered the best grounds for a new success for the German armies, which were found to be no longer needed on the Russian front.

The reason for the attack through the Tolmino region is asserted to be partly due to the opportunity provided for threatening the outflanking of the entire Carso plateau and the lower Isonzo, where the Italians made gains during the summer, and because the Italians long have sought to penetrate the passes of Tolmino, through which lie the railroads running into the heart of Austria.

One incident of the retreat of the Italians has been the defense of Monte Nero, where most fierce fighting took place for an entire week, with the Italians able to retreat but refusing to do so. This gallant defense was made because Monte Nero literally has been consecrated with the blood of Italians since the commencement of the war.

Urges Assistance for Italy.

London, Oct. 31.—Satisfaction with the decision of Great Britain and France to help the Italians is expressed by most of the newspapers, which again urge that whatever assistance is possible must be given without delay. There is, of course, no certain indication of the exact form this help will take, but the general assumption seems to be that concrete re-enforcements, contributed by Great Britain and France, will appear on the Italian front.

U. S. to Aid Italy.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The United States has gone to the assistance of Italy in that country's extremity. The details of the assistance or even the nature of it were refused by the Italian embassy, but the fact that America would play a most potent part in rolling back the Teuton invasion was not denied. Accordingly there was an atmosphere of optimism at the embassy that could not be mistaken and this was heightened by the news from Rome that a definite means of checking the Germans was about to be put into operation.

TAKES UP POLISH CONDITIONS

League of Small Nationalities in Convention at New York, Also Discuss Ireland.

New York, Oct. 31.—Conditions in Poland, Greece, Ireland, Norway, Letts and Africa were discussed by prominent speakers at the second day's session of the League of Small and Subject Nationalities here. A banquet will be held at which the speakers will be Hamilton Holt, vice chairman of the League to Enforce Peace; Dr. Samuel T. Dutton of the World Court league; Dr. Henry Goddard Leach, secretary of the Scandinavian-American foundation; Moorfield Storey and Lincoln Steffens.

HERE'S GERMAN FOR "TANK"

"Schutzengrabenvernichtungautomobile" Is What They Call It in Kaiserland.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Thirty-five letters are required to spell the one word which, in German, is the equivalent to the four letter English "tank," or land battleship, which has worked such havoc in the present war. The German word as it appears in official dispatches received here, is "schutzengrabenvernichtungautomobile," which freely translated is "a machine for suppressing shooting trenches."

Airmen Raid Nancy.

Paris, Oct. 31.—The death of one person and slight damage are the results of a German air raid over Nancy according to an official report issued here.

L. R. Teistler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Teistler, of Belmont, who last spring enlisted in the navy, was killed in an accident on shipboard in New York.

Nine persons were injured, one seriously, when two interurbans came together in a head-on collision just north of Kalamazoo on the Grand Rapids-Kalamazoo railway. The wreck was the result of a misinterpretation of orders on the part of the crews, officials say.

Lansing—Edward Frensdorf, of Hudson, considered acting warden of Jackson prison, has not this position. Papers filed with the secretary of state at Lansing, show a $50,000 bond, dated October 10, making Jasper H. Thompson, the deputy warden, acting warden.

RECORDS AT CUSTER SHOW NO DESERTER

OF 18,500 MEN, NOT ONE HAS BEEN OFFICIALLY CHARGED WITH DESERTION.

LAW IS BROADLY INTERPRETED

Sixty Men Sent to Camp Were Listed As Slackers But Officers Put Blame On Local Boards.

Camp Custer, Battle Creek.—Of the 18,500 men sent to Camp Custer, army records recently completed showed that not one man was charged with desertion.

Sixty of the 18,500 were sent on by local boards and civil officers and declared to be deserters, but in no case did the army authorities find the evidence justified such an assumption, and every one of the 60 men was given a clean record.

According to the officers in charge of the work of receiving the recruits, there was not a single instance where prosecution was warranted. On the other hand, the evidence showed that the men were in no way to blame. Either they had failed to understand the law, had moved from one address to another and failed to receive their notification or had never been notified at all through some error on the part of the local board.

Under the law, a man may be a technical deserter and still, in the minds of the army officers, be guiltless of any such crime.

WACO HOSPITAL COST $500,000

Is Fully Equipped, So Soldiers Will Have Best of Care.

Camp MacArthur, Waco, Tex.—When a man gets sick in this camp he is examined by the officers of his regimental or battalion infirmary. If he is really ill, or is suspected of being really ill, he is sent to the base hospital. There he has more attention possibly than he could buy if he were a millionaire in civil life.

The government has spent half a million dollars, exclusive of equipment, on this hospital. There are four operating rooms, and if the soldier patient is in need of an operation, no matter how difficult or how high-priced, he receives it at once.

Sixty-seven buildings are offices, wards, laboratories and operating rooms. The wards are connected by above-ground tunnels and the patient may go from one to the other without exposure to the weather. There are 1,240 beds.

There are 32 surgeons. These include eye, ear, nose, throat, and other specialists. In fact, no matter how obscure the disease, there is someone here, it is said, who has given his life to the study of it.

There were 140 patients at the hospital last week. Of these 140 are really sick. The others are mostly men who are waiting discharge for disability. Some of them are men who can see out of only one eye, who can hear out of only one ear, who have flat feet or other deformities. They will be weeded out in time. Others are men who are convalescing from operations."

FOOD PRICES IN STATE VARY

Charges for Same Staples Show Wide Range in Different Towns.

Lansing—"Exorbitant" is what State Food Administrator Prescott calls some of the prices retailers are getting for foodstuffs in Michigan.

Commissioner Woodworth made a canvass of Michigan, had his men try the prices in 46 towns in the state on the same date. They priced eight different kinds of canned goods, 16 different cereal products, three dried fruits, sugars and syrups, nine fats, five vegetables and 12 kinds of meat and fish.

The differences between the high and low prices is what caused the explosion from Mr. Prescott.

Here are some of the differences recorded: Number 1 flour, 40 pound sacks, varied $1.32 in price; the highest being $3.72 and the lowest $2.40. Twenty-four pound sacks ranged in price from $1.20 to $3.

Canned goods did not have nearly so large a range, but when the prices of the three dried fruits listed by the department are looked at a return to "exorbitant" is noticed. Prunes ranged in price from 10 cents 35 cents; evaporated apples from 11 to 24 cents.

Granulated sugar showed a range only of from 9 to 11 cents, since the shortage became acute, however, the prices advanced much higher in some of the larger cities. Butter ranged from 44 to 51 cents, leaf lard from 26 to 33, oleo from 28 to 37, but olive oil has the big space of from 62 cents to $1.50 a quart tin.

WITH THE BOYS AT CAMP CUSTER

Howell Lewis Reid, prominent in Grand Rapids social circles and nephew of Gen. Jacques Joffre, has enlisted in the aviation section of the U. S. army.

The Y. M. C. A. headquarters has a room that looks like a big sporting goods store full of medicine balls, foot balls, bats and every sort of athletic equipment. These will be issued to buildings as they are needed.

James Smith, of Ionia, was found dying near Saranac after he had been put off a train for being intoxicated. It is believed he was struck by another train.

It is expected that with the plan of the government to pay dependents in the armies, both regular and conscriptive, state aid on the part of Michigan will cease.

Mrs. Will Myers, of Charlotte, has received word that her nephew, Christy McGiness, was killed in France. He lived here with his aunt before enlisting in a Canadian infantry.

The student council of the University of Michigan has passed resolutions recommending that the annual "J" hop be given in a much expurgated form this year. This has been recommended as a war measure.

"TECUMSEH CABIN"

Is the Name of Dr. Hammel's Dugout Near the Fighting Line

ANOTHER LETTER FROM OUR LOYAL DOCTOR

Ann Arbor, Oct. 31, 1917.

Dear Friend:

I had a very interesting letter from Dr. Hammel today and I want you to know about it also. When they came back from Belgium Sept. 22nd they were taken into a rest camp for a few days. From there Dr. H. was sent out in charge of an advanced dressing station. He writes:

"We are established in an especially good bunch of dug-outs. One, our shell proof place, is 34 feet under ground. The Germans formerly occupied this territory. It is quiet here for which I am very glad, for this is the first time I have been out of the noise of the big guns since I struck here. I am 1¾ miles from the Germans' front trench. From the door of my dugout I can see the Germans as I look thru my glasses and of course they see me, but don't worry, they have never shelled this dressing station yet, although the shells do fall all around.

"Yesterday I saw a battle between a German and a French battery. It lasted all the afternoon. At last the famous French "75s" fired a salvo and we heard no more from the Boche.

"When I come back I will tell you about 'The Hindenburg Line" and also the gas attacks. We were thru one since I wrote you. I got a little but not enough to hurt me. But one of the men who came across with me is in very bad condition from the gas.

"I was so delighted today to receive the Saturday Post and Leslie's Magazine. I am going to devour them before I go to bed. I glanced at the pictures and half of them were taken in a town I was in but three weeks ago.

"About the end of the war—Of course the Allies are giving the Hun a taste of his own medicine, and especially the last few days, but U. S. A. is making such gigantic preparations, that I'm afraid the American people will not be satisfied until we have had a good stiff swat at the Boche. And incidenally, I might say a few thousand boys from U. S. A. will forever sleep over here.

Everyone here thinks it won't last out another winter, but no one knows, not even Kaiser Bill himself.

"I have had signs painted and posted up naming this camp 'Michigan Pine Hill and my dugout I have christened 'Tecumseh Cabin."

Yours,
Mrs. Hammel.

The young ladies who are making the canvass of the village to get our housewives to sign the food conservation pledges report at the close of the first days canvass 462 calls made. Out of these calls 325 housewives signed the cards, 83 were not at home and 54 refused.

This is the usual good support that this community is giving to war calls, for this food conservation movement is a most important war measure and we know the women of this town are ready and anxious to their bit. The work they are doing for the Red Cross shows how deeply they are interested. But it is this 54 that we would like to speak of. Some may not have understood the importance of the call and a little publicity would clear their minds and others refused point blank to have any thing to do with the matter.

It is these "point blankers" that we want to fire a broadside at whether she or he may be refusing to sign the food conservation pledges, buy liberty bonds, subscribe to the Patriotic League, the Army and Navy Y or any other authorized patriotic call.

The man or woman who refused to support the patriotic calls that are being made and which will be made thick and fast, is a slacker and unpatriotic and should be so considered. You must be with your Government or against it there is no half way place to stand on, the line is drawn sharp. The man or woman, who is unabled to give will not be pushed, although there are few who cannot do at least something in the way of giving, but those who can give and won't give should be made to come across. If we lose this war, Germany will bleed us white, they will give us no quarter and then what you have will do you no good.

The fellow who refuses to support these Government appeals, in case of defeat, will be the first, in our opinion, to whimper for mercy. We don't want slackers and cowards among us. We appeal to the people to be true, red blooded Americans Our Allies are looking to America as their savior and they will surely fail unless America hits and hits with all her strength. She is straining every nerve to strike a deadly blow. Are you going to do your bit?

U. S. HITS PROFITEERS

Wholesalers Will Refuse Goods to Some Retailers.

Government Prepares to Prosecute Coal Dealers Who Ignore President's Price Regulations.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Food Administrator Hoover will cut off the supplies of retail food profiteers until the end of the war.

A new regulation goes into effect November 1. It provides that no manufacturer, wholesaler or other handler of foods will be allowed to sell to any retailer who makes unreasonable profits or buys quantities of food for speculation.

"The food administration does not intend to disturb any legitimate operations," said a statement issued at Mr. Hoover's office. "It takes the position that the great majority of food sellers are patriotic and honest.

"Such dealers will be protected. Those few who persist in abusing their opportunities will receive attention."

The government also moved to check speculation in canned goods. Special regulations were issued by Mr. Hoover to govern canners, who will be placed under license on November 1.

Rigid prohibitions were promulgated against the sale of futures in canned peas, corn, tomatoes, salmon and sardines before February 1.

Attorney General Gregory decided that the coal profiteers shall also feel the strong arm of the law. Many specimen cases in which the public has been "gouged" by dealers have been laid before the department of justice for investigation, and instructions have been sent for vigorous prosecution of violators. Fines not exceeding $5,000 and two years' imprisonment await those who violate the fixed price law.

MUST RECKON WITH THE U. S.

London Post Comments on Advent of American Soldiers in the Trenches.

London, Oct. 31.—Commenting on the advent of American soldiers in the trenches, the Post says: "Were the German success in Italy or in other theaters to become much greater than the allies consider probable, the Germans would still have to reckon with the fresh, eager, stern forces of America. It would seem that Germany is putting forth her utmost effort during the interval which must elapse before the weight of the United States can be brought to bear upon her weak and decimated battalions."

Elmer Wahlmann, of Ishpeming, son of Mayor J. M. Wahlmann, died of poisoning which he contracted at a football game.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

A very pleasant party was given by the Camp Fire Girls under the leadership of Miss Ethel Kenyon on Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Gertrude Turner on West Chicago street. Each girl invited one of her boy friends and the company numbered about 40.

The house was decorated with cornstalks and pumpkins up to the cupola and with colored lights

The guests were met at the door by Miss Miller as a witch carrying a broom stick with which she drove them up stairs to their respective dressing rooms. Miss Yotsey, dressed as a gipsy fortune teller occupied a booth under the stairs, giving each a glimpse into their future.

The young girls as ghosts assembled at the top of the stairs and threw balls of yarn down to the boys who seized upon them and thus secured their partners for the evening. Various stunts and games followed and a jolly time was indulged in until the call came for refreshments. A social time followed until the witching hour of night warned them that the time had come for their departure.

Charles Gray entertained a party of 28 boys and girls in his father's shop on VanBuren street Tuesday evening. The guests came in costume and masked. The shop was trimmed in fall colors, fall leaves and pumpkins and cornstalks being used. The electric lights were covered with red shades.

Hallowe'en games and stunts formed the amusement of the evening. After the games refreshments were served consisting of pumpkin pie, sandwiches, bananas and popcorn." Everybody was happy and they all had a fine time.

A merry band of young girls gathered at the home of Mrs. G. R. Gillespie to help her girls celebrate Hallowe'en and they sure succeeded. The rooms were festooned with cornstalks and Hallowe'en decorations and presented a fine appearance.

The young ladies came in costume and entered into the games and stunts with a right good will. A fish pond and peanut hunt were not the least of the fun. Light refreshments were served and as the guests left for their homes they all expressed themselves as having had a royal good time.

Some thirty-five couples enjoyed a Hallowe'en dancing party at Witherell's hall Wednesday night, under the direction of Will Coller. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion and a social good time was enjoyed by all. It was a real home party as nearly every guest was from Tecumseh. Music was furnished by the Coller orchestra.

Mr. Coller will give another dancing party Wednesday, Nov. 14th.

TIRED OF WAR, SAYS DYING FOE

First German Captured by U. S. Troops Tells of Misery in Trenches.

IS SHOT BY AMERICAN PATROL

Dies in American Hospital Undergoing Operation—Declares Kaiser's Officers, Kept Safe, Don't Care How Long Conflict Lasts.

American Field Headquarters in France, Oct. 31.—The big majority of the German army—the privates—are weary of war and yearn for peace. The officers, getting good salaries and able to keep out of the first line trenches, do not care how long the war lasts.

These statements were made by the expeditionary force's first German prisoner just before he died from the wound he received when he failed to halt at an American patrol's command. The prisoner, who was barely nineteen years old, was called to the colors a year ago and had been fighting in the first line trenches in this sector most of the time since.

The German expressed the greatest surprise that he had been taken prisoner by Americans. He said that he had heard there were a few American soldiers in France, but didn't dream they were on the fighting line. The officers, he said, never imparted such information to the men.

Didn't Know About Germany.

Asked about the conditions in the interior of Germany, the prisoner smiled wanly and said he was sorry, but he didn't know.

"It has been nine months since I have heard from my folks at home," he told the Americans.

He added that the military authorities had cut off all communication between the men in the trenches and the "folks back home."

The German was acting as a mail carrier when he was captured. He said he had started for some distant trenches. He was unfamiliar with the trench system in this sector and found himself out in No Man's Land.

The Americans, who were on a scouting expedition in front of their own barbed wire defenses, suddenly loomed up ahead. They spotted the German at the same moment he saw them.

Drops Without a Cry.

The American command to halt rang out, but the German started to run. The two Polish-Americans, one from Chicago and the other from Milwaukee, who get the credit for his capture, both fired, and the German dropped without a cry.

Several Americans rushed forward and picked the wounded man up. He was rushed at once to an American field hospital not far behind the lines. He was conscious, but very weak. One bullet had shattered his left arm and the other had pierced his abdomen. A young American surgeon, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and formerly a surgeon at the Philadelphia General hospital operated on the prisoner, displaying the same professional interest in saving his life that he would if handling a wealthy patient.

Noted Violinist to Appear in Ann Arbor, November 9.

Eugene Ysaye, the most noted violinist of the world, will be heard in Ann Arbor in the Pre-Festival concert series, Friday evening, November 9th, as the second number in this year's course.

Ysaye has been distinguished for the past two or three decades as one of the world's foremost violin virtuoses. In fact, he is the master violinist by whom all others are judged.

For many years has been before the public and has appeared in every prominent concert auditorium in the world, and ranks, in his field in practically the same way that Paderewski, the distinguished Pole, does in the world of Piano music.

It is particularly significant that Ysaye should appear in Ann Arbor this year, since his fatherland, Belgium, is undergoing such hardships and is making so heroic a fight for liberty and for prosperity.

He will offer the following comprehensive interesting program.

Suite in D minor for violin and piano—Gominisni.

"PEG O' MY HEART"

"Peg O' My Heart" has again visited Tecumseh and received a hearty welcome. Her merry peals of laughter, her sweetness under all difficulties and her final triumph over her rich relatives were all given in the most natural manner, more like a scene from life than a stage performance. Michael, her dog, also comes in for his share of praise for he played his part well and added much to the realism of the play.

The story was sweet and clean throughout and no one has to regret seeing it. The scenery was fine and added much to the beauty of the play. Peg has come and gone, leaving a very pleasing memory to her many admirers in Tecumseh.

NEWBURG NEWS

The second monthly district meeting of the Newburg school District was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Keyser, Friday Eve., October 26. In spite of the various showers throughout the days no one changed their plans and at the stated time (6:30) the splashing mud and water was heard from the south and from the north which revealed the approaching of several "henies."

At seven thirty a potluck supper was served to forty. Although "Meatless" nothing else was lacking and everyone ate to their utmost capacity. After supper a spelling contest occupied the time, Mrs. Jacob Luckhart spelling the district down. A number of songs were sung by the school children, then everyone did as they pleased.

The main purpose of these meetings is to arouse interest among the families of the district which those who have no children in school are apt to lack.

Those neither absent nor tardy for the month of October are: Linden Luckhart, Merle Cummings, Marvin Cummings, Eugene Keyser, Mina Lamkins.

Those not tardy for the month are: Leonard Furgeson, Marvin Cummings, Alice Prentiss, Mina Lamkin, Glennis Lamkin, Eugene Keyser, Frances Moore, Merle Cummings, Linden Luckhart, Hessie Updyke.

No one was tardy during the month of September: Glennis Lamkins and Merle Cummings were "perfect" in deportment this month.

Norma Moody, teacher.

THE HIGHER PRICED TEAS

They are really not so expensive as they seem.

Less of a 50c or 60c Tea is required to produce the necessary flavor than of the cheaper lines.

If people would remember this, and use say a third less of a high-grade Tea they might enjoy its superior flavor without it costing them much if any more.

Of the better Teas (at 50c a lb. and up) we have a larger, than ordinary supply.

At these higher prices you get Tea here that gives you unsurpassed flavor, and a "bouquet" that is indescribably pleasant.

If you are a lover of Tea, get one of these better Teas of ours, use less of it, and enjoy the best cup of Tea there is.

C. M. Gilbert.

TONE---

that is not the only reason why you should buy a Columbia Grafonola

The Columbia tone is a result—and the Columbia Grafonola embodies the causes in its mechanical and structural superiority; in the form and construction of its tone-chamber and its reproducer and tone-arm; in its silent and powerful motor; in its tone-control "leaves" and in the expert and workmanlike assembling of all its parts and down to the every last detail of its cabinet work.

Ask to hear this most popular model—price $50. Or we will send it with an outfit of records to your home on approval.

Studebaker WAGONS BUGGIES HARNESS

THE LONG LIFE OF A GOOD WAGON

We bought our two Studebakers from your agent, Moses Logan, 37 years ago.

Our neighbors have worn out three or four wagons of other makes since we bought ours.

We have never broken anything on the wagons and the hubs are perfect yet.

One is a lumber wagon, the other a spring wagon. Both are good for years of work yet.

Arthur Martin,
Sandy Lake, Pa.

Studebaker 37 years old—hubs perfect yet

Not strange for the Studebaker—because the hubs are of fine, close grain—tough, strong and treated with a secret sealing solution that is weather resisting.

Notice the hubs on the next Studebaker you pass on the road—you'll find they are not split or checked like the ordinary wagon.

And in these hubs are set the famous Studebaker slope shoulder spokes.

The Studebaker Farm Wagon Wheel is best made.

We sell the Studebaker because we believe it is the biggest wagon value on the market.

An Amateur Detective

A Young Woman's Efforts to Find a Missing Girl.

By RUTH GRAHAM

"Another schoolgirl disappeared," said Grace Bartow, laying down the morning paper. "Helen Bowers left home to go to the high school one morning nearly three weeks ago and has never been heard from since. Why is it that we have so many detective stories unraveling imaginary mysteries and yet no one ever solves real ones?"

"Why don't you try your hand at this case, Grace?" asked her sister Amelia. "Take it up independently of the police and investigate it yourself. You complain of having nothing to interest you. By endeavoring to find out what has become of this missing girl you will have plenty of entertainment and may do a great deal of good."

Miss Bartow, a young woman twenty-three years old, possessing an income sufficient for her support, well educated, intensely practical, was set to thinking by her sister's words. She was not a person who would enter upon a work to abandon it at the first discouragement. Consequently she conned over in her mind the rebuffs she would be obliged to encounter. One of the principal of these would come from the police, who are not disposed to brook any amateur trespassing on their legitimate domain. On the other hand, the family of the missing girl might be thankful for her effort. It required two whole days for Miss Bartow to weigh these considerations, at the end of which she decided to begin work on the case of the missing girl and never cease her efforts so long as there was a clew to follow.

Her first visit was to police headquarters. She found Inspector Blakeman, a middle aged man, sitting behind a rosewood desk which was covered with papers.

"I have called," she said, "to ask if I can be of any assistance to the police in their efforts to discover the whereabouts of Helen Bowers, who disappeared recently and has never been seen or heard of since. I have decided to interest myself in the case. I shall work independently of the police, but before beginning I desire to know if you will give me such information as you may possess concerning the mystery."

"That we cannot do. We work upon our clews in our own way. They are known only to ourselves. Any giving away of them would be likely to defeat our success. A secret once parted with is henceforth no secret."

"You are perfectly right about it," said Miss Bartow. "I did not expect that you would trust me with what information you may possess. But I prefer that you should know that I am working on the case. I presume you have no objection."

"The law allows any one to work on the case, and you are perfectly free to do so. I can only say that the more amateur detective work that is injected into hunting for crime the less chance there is for us experienced investigators to succeed."

Having thus delivered himself, the inspector signified that the interview was ended and turned again to his papers. Miss Bartow withdrew.

She had kept the address of the family of the missing girl as given in the newspapers, and her next visit was there. She found the girl's mother bowed down with grief.

"Mrs. Bowers," said Grace, "I have determined to try to solve the mystery of your daughter's disappearance. I do so simply for the sake of doing good. Tell me about your daughter."

The woman gave a description of the missing girl. She was fifteen years old, considered pretty and was of excellent character. She had no lover so far as the mother knew.

"Have you any suspicions as to what has become of her?" asked Grace.

"I know what has become of her up to a certain point. One of her schoolmates saw a woman speak to her on the street the morning she disappeared."

"Have you stated this to the police?"

"I have not only stated it to them, but have begged them to investigate this woman, who is known to us, since my daughter was seen to go with her into a candy shop she keeps."

"What have the police done about it?"

"They tell me that they have gone through the house containing the candy shop and interrogated the woman, who admits she took a girl answering Helen's description to her shop on the morning Helen disappeared to sell her some candy. She makes a peculiar kind which girls are very fond of and sells it very cheap. She sometimes solicits custom of children and accosted Helen, who went with her to her shop and bought some candy. A young man followed them into the shop, bought some more candy, which he gave to Helen and they left the shop together."

"What do the police say about this?"

"They say that the woman in question bears an excellent reputation; that hundreds of young girls every year go off with young men willingly or under deception and are never heard of again. Their theory is that Helen went away with the young man who joined her in the store."

Grace Bartow pondered awhile on this statement, then asked:

"Is there any evidence of your daughter having left the candy store with a man except that of the candy seller?"

"No."

"Is there any other evidence of her having left the store at all?"

"No."

"That means for me that this part of the story is of no moment whatever. We must look for the girl's abductor, for I believe from what I already know that she has been abducted by the person with whom she was last seen. The story that this woman solicits customers for her candy on the street is not probable. If the police pretend to believe it they only pretend; they know better. Be of good heart, my good woman. I think I see an outlet to the matter. I shall do some investigating, and in the meanwhile say nothing of this visit. We can keep a secret as well as the police."

Miss Bartow suspected the police of collusion with the candy woman. What object they had in screening her she did not know. She had heard that the police of the city were notoriously corrupt, and it was known to most persons that they were bribed for permitting houses to be used for gambling and other illegal purposes.

She reconnoitered the candy shop. It was a small place with a very poor stock. She asked a frowsy girl behind the counter for a certain kind of candy of which the proprietor made a specialty and was handed something of which she bought a small quantity. Meanwhile her eyes were open. She noticed that the shop was on the ground floor and there were three stories above. There was no way to reach the upper stories except through the candy store.

Miss Bartow's mind was concentrated on what those upper stories were occupied for. How could she find out? If she called on the police for information, in case the missing girl were there and the police were protecting the candy woman the girl would be removed, after which quite likely the house would be openly investigated.

Miss Bartow faced a problem. Before going further in her detective work she must learn what was in those upper stories. The matter seemed simple enough. Indeed, it was too simple to be used in a detective story. But it stumped Miss Bartow. She was obliged to call in a man to assist her.

Tom Armstrong was an intimate friend of Miss Bartow. Indeed, he would have liked to be more than a friend and might have been had he not been considered too much of a man about town. Grace knew very well that he was far more competent to ferret out anything in the way of gilded vice than she was. One of his sins was a disposition to gamble. He would likely know or be able to find out whether a certain house was used for gambling or, indeed, for any illegal purpose.

Grace wrote Tom an invitation to call upon her. He responded with alacrity, thinking that she had relented toward him. Grace told the story of her detective work and asked him to find out for her what the rooms above the candy store were used for without his investigations being known. Tom said he would do his best. When he reported he gave no detailed account of his proceedings, but he gave the information Grace needed. He said that the premises paid premiums to the support of a police insurance fund.

Miss Bartow's next move was to gain access without warning to those in the candy store building. For this she was no more fitted than to learn the contents. She was obliged to call again on the man whom she considered too wild for a husband. Tom Armstrong promised to help her.

It was not long after this that one evening a party of young men rolling along the street, supposed to have been drinking, turned into the candy store and, after making purchases, walked deliberately into a back room and, despite the efforts of the girl behind the counter, stumbled upon a staircase. They found bedrooms, one of which was locked. Bursting open the door, there on a bed lay a girl, who, frightened at their approach, shrank away from them.

"Who are you?" asked one of the men.

"Helen Bowers."

It was Tom Armstrong who asked the question, and the moment the reply was given he wrapped a blanket around the girl, took her in his arms and, guarded by his companions, carried her down the stairs and out to an auto standing near. It was like carrying a football guarded by interferers to goal. He had scarcely left the candy shop before several policemen, summoned by the girl in the candy shop, dashed up to the door.

"There!" said the girl, pointing to the auto, which was just turning a corner.

The police were too late. Having no conveyance, they lost their prey.

Miss Grace Bartow was sitting in the living room of her home when there was a sharp ring at the bell. She opened the door herself, and Tom Armstrong, followed by his friends, carried Helen Bowers into the house and laid her on a sofa, for she was too weak to stand.

Tom received a pressure of the hand that made his heart leap. A telephone message was at once sent to Mrs. Bowers that her daughter had been rescued, and there was a joyful meeting.

The police were not charged with knowing that the missing girl was in the house above the candy store. They were receiving money for protecting the place from prosecution for illegal purposes and thought it best to believe the candy woman's story.

"Grace," said Tom Armstrong later, "have you got any more work requiring one who knows the ropes?"

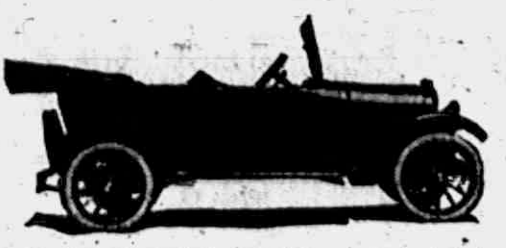
"Will you reform?"

"Certainly, as soon as married."

"Then I think you had better be married."

MAXWELL

Most Miles per Gallon — Most Miles on Tires



$745

F. O. B. DETROIT

There are visions—now and then—in business and industry.

The Maxwell motor car is a wonderful vision that has been made real.

The fixed purpose of the Maxwell builders was in the beginning, and is now, to produce a car which would be, in the highest sense, efficient, durable, economical, comfortable and standard in equipment.

Many years experience in production on a vast scale has taught the Maxwell manufacturers two things.

One is that such a car as they have always made their aim—a car in which efficiency, durability, economy, comfort, beauty and standard equipment are all present—cannot be built for less than $745 with materials at their present prices.

The other lesson is that, for more than $745, they could not give you anything more than the Maxwell now has—except greater size or luxuries, pure and simple.

In other words they are convinced—and they have convinced us—that they have found the great MIDDLE LINE where you get dollar for dollar in ABSOLUTE VALUE.

Ross Furgeson at Ft. McPherson

The Reporter has just received the following letter from our old friend and townsman Ross Furgeson which we are sure will be of interest to his many friends in town.

Fort McPherson, Ga.
October 30, 1917.

Dear Friend:

Your charming letter came some time ago and you don't know how delighted I was to hear from you again as letters to soldiers, I think, are more appreciated than even by our civilian friends so you see yours had a double value.

I am still at McPherson but understand that we are to move on soon; and I for one will sure be very glad as I think I can do my bit better on the firing line than I can here and again, maybe save some man who has a wife and family from going as it stands to reason that a man who is unmarried should go first.

[illegible] letter from a very good friend of mine who went to France some time ago. He is with the Q. M. C. Dept., but don't know what place he is in as they will not let them tell the name of the town. He writes that the French people are very nice to the soldiers in every way.

Anna wrote me to the effect that she sailed on the twenty seventh (last Saturday) on the Cunard line. It sure is a very big and wonderful work these girls of Uncle Sam are doing and they deserve just as much as the men who gave up fine positions to answer the call of liberty and freedom for the whole world. Not because she is my sister but because she is doing this of her own free will like so many others that I am so very proud of her.

We have a lot of German prisoners here something like two or three thousand and they keep bringing them in every day from all the cities about here. They do a lot of work about the fort but always under guard.

This a Base Hospital and will accommodate 1000 patients. The wards are all steam heated with the very latest equipment for the caring of the sick. Our personnel consists of three hundred enlisted men and medical officers. We also have sixty Red Cross nurses.

We are only half hour ride on the car out of Atlanta, Ga. This makes it very nice as we are able to take in the many advantages it offers. The people in the south are heart and all in this war, even down to the poorest negro wants to do his bit and buy a Liberty Bond.

We have a few slackers but we will get most of them in the draft. As a man who stands back behind some flimsy excuse or behind some womans dress is a coward in every sense of the word when his country's honor is at stake, I know these are your ideas too; as they are of every true American.

I spent a very pleasant Sunday afternoon we went out to the U. S penitentiary to a band and orchestra concert. There was some very fine talented musicians there and all inmates of the prison; some of them were young while some were old with white hair.

Must close this letter as it is nearly nine o'clock and as we have to be out at five in the morning.

Please give my sincere regards to my friends in Tecumseh as the old town will always be home to me.

Sincerely,
Ross

My address will be for a while,
Sgt. Walter R. Furgeson,
Base Hospital,
Fort McPherson Ga.

RED CROSS NOTES

Mrs. Sena Crane and five ladies of her committee were hard at work on pajamas at the headquarters on Wednesday and Thursday. Mrs. Crane will continue to make pajamas on both those days until further notice.

The Westminster Guild met Tuesday night in the Headquarters, and made 86 head bandages.

Leon Temple sent kindling to the Headquarters, and Master Webster Anderson brought down a load himself.

Miss A. B. Hosmer earnestly requests all those ladies who have yarn to finish the garments as soon as they can, the need is urgent, and in order to have the goods in the trenches by Christmas they must be shipped from Adrian on the 15th of this month.

The directions for baby afghans are five inches square, not eight as previously printed. Any scraps of wool can be used for them.

Mrs. Hardy has a number of Red Cross signs for the windows, left; are free as long as they last.

The following goods were sent to Adrian on Wednesday. 12 mufflers, 23 pairs ow wristlets, 7 sweaters, 17 suits of pajamas, 12 surgical shirts.

Donated—150 comfort pillows 10x15 inches, 12 napkins, 17 pieces of old linens, 12 tray cloths, 12 wash cloths.

Any Sunday school, club, society or private person, desiring the use of the Headquarters for one afternoon, evening, or for a regular day every week, please apply to Mrs. R. T. Mead or to Mrs. Hardy. We will either furnish you with work, or you can bring your own.

The Red Cross Concert company performs in Holloway Sunday, the 11th of November, in Blissfield, on the 18th, and in Saline on the 16th. Any town desiring their services kindly communicate with Mrs. F. B. Wood, or Mrs. J. C. Law Hardy.

Donations received by Mr. Guy Nemire.

Donations for the fund of $74.00 to be raised for the Christmas presents for the soldiers and sailors, will be thankfully accepted by any of the officers of the Red Cross, to be handed to Mr. Nemire. In contributing to this fund, please state the purpose for which you are giving it. If you intend to give, please do so soon, as the goods must be shipped from Chicago on the 15th of November, and our order has to go in several days before. $74.00 is Tecumseh's quota of the million and a half presents to be given in the whole United States.

A well to do farmer in Ridgeway who drinks tea in order to drive away his headache, recently gave up sugar, in order to help to save it for our allies. He found that his headache came back, but declared that he would try and tough it out, and that maybe he would get used to drinking his tea without sugar, as sugar was so essential to win the war. What a splendid patriotic American he is, and he does not seem to know that he is doing anything.

A little boy of twelve years of age took two Liberty Bonds, and is paying them off weekly out of his earnings; he lives north of Tecumseh, and we are sorry that he will not let us print his name; we hope he will be President, or at least State Governer some day.

The Chicago Tribune has an editorial on "Scandal Mongering" as it calls repeating slanders about the Red Cross. It says that "there is a deliberate organized attempt to discredit and hamper the work of the Red Cross through stories of selling Red Cross supplies, inefficiency, etc. The authorities will doubtless run the stores to earth. But the private citizen has a direct responsibility. The stories get their wide currency not from plotters, but from innocent and thoughtless people, who pass them along without realising their responsibility for spreading falsehoods and undermining an important war work.

It is the duty of every man or woman who is told one of these stories to demand a proof of it, and the source of the evidence offered.

"So-and-so got the story from a man or a woman he knows" is the familiar backing for the stories. No patriotic man or woman ought to allow himself or herself to be a carrier of these malignant germs. To do so is little less than treason, and the nation has a right in this hour of trial, to demand that we all put a curb on our tongue, lest we give aid and comfort to the enemy."

Stories of selling Red Cross goods are still current in this vicinity, the last one is that boys in Washington D. C. have to pay $1.00 for their comfort bags. Get the name of one boy, challenge your informer to name a single man to whom a bag has been sold, and collect the $50 reward offered in Tecumseh for such proof, or brand the story as a deliberate falsehood.

How is it that our enemies have only to spread a rumor which dis-the U. S., for loyal? Americans to repeat it; who do you trust? the Kaiser who has broken every pledge, who has tortured women and children, or your president, who is President of the American Red Cross? or will you not believe Pershing, Wood and the other men, who are giving their lives that we may be safe from the Germans who spread the slanders that they may render our Red Cross less efficient.

HITS COAL HOARDERS

Garfield May Seize Fuel Being Held by Consumers.

Administration Says Situation Is Improving—Will Stop Delivery to Those Who Have Enough.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Householders who have been worried over a possible coal shortage are assured in a statement issued by the fuel administration that the situation has brightened materially. It is declared that if any shortage of domestic coal develops it will be due to individual hoarding. In such event the fuel administration will take steps toward the redistribution of the available supply.

Ten per cent more anthracite coal will be produced this year than in 1916. The demand, however, is greater. Figures made public show that during the first eight months of this year the excess shipments over the same period in 1916 equaled 1,300,000 tons to New York, 800,000 tons to Philadelphia, 700,000 tons to New England, and 40,000 tons to Washington.

"It would appear, therefore," says the fuel administration's statement, "that any shortage of domestic coal would show hoarding, a practice the fuel administration strongly discourages, as being a matter difficult to deal with, and regards such action as unnecessary, unwise and unpatriotic in this emergency."

That the situation in the Northwest, which depends on shipments from Lake Erie ports for its coal supply, will be better than appeared possible some weeks ago is indicated by the fact that thus far 23,348,100 of the 29,000,000 tons needed have already been shipped.

The fuel administration is conducting a general inquiry relative to the storing of coal by industrial consumers and various manufacturing establishments. Shipments to plants which are hoarding coal will be suspended.

U. S. TO PUNISH FOOD PIRATES

Cars of Potatoes, Onions and Cabbage Thrown Onto Dump at Chicago.

COMMISSION MEN INVOLVED?

Vegetables Said to Have Been Bought and Sold Until They Finally Decayed and Were Thrown Away.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Harry A. Wheeler, Illinois food administrator, stated that grand jury action and federal prosecution will follow proof that food is being wantonly destroyed in Chicago. The announcement was made in connection with discovery that thousands of tons of vegetables have been dumped out of cars near the West Chicago yards of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad.

Mr. Wheeler was informed health department evidence tended to show an embryonic board of trade in operation in railroad freight yards. Commission men, it is said, bought and resold carloads of vegetables many times until they finally decayed and were thrown upon the dump.

Government operatives gathered information to be presented to Mr. Wheeler and Robert W. Childs, special assistant United States attorney general.

Hadley Will Investigate.

Meantime State's Attorney Hadley of DuPage county visited the mountain of foodstuffs and announced he would begin an independent investigation.

"This is an outrage," said Mr. Hadley after an inspection, "and those guilty should be punished severely."

The prosecutor, accompanied by the West Chicago chief of police, saw 18 carloads of potatoes dumped upon the ground beside the tracks. Some were in good condition.

Four additional vegetable cars, marked "rubbish," and billed to the "West Chicago dump," were rolled onto a siding there. Car No. "28211, Southern" one of them, bore a condemnation card of the health department, signed by "Fessenger," inspector. The state food inspector is interested in its history.

Learn of "Bum Spuds."

The health department last Thursday received a tip a car of "bum spuds" had been opened on the Grand avenue tracks of the Northwestern. John G. Fessenger, an inspector in the food bureau, was sent to investigate.

Upon arrival he learned the car was consigned to the Shippers Produce company and had been one-third emptied. He declared the contents "field frozen" and condemned the remaining two-thirds.

Fessenger said he was informed the carload of vegetables had been sold twice before his arrival. This information was given by a Northwestern yard man, he said.

Frozen by Carloads.

Carloads of frozen or rotten potatoes, cabbages and onions were reported in the Northwestern yards at West Kedzie street and North Crawford avenue. Several steel gondola cars filled with decayed sugar beets also were found.

According to the policemen, some of the potato cars had no destination markings but were marked "Hold—Spuds."

"We found a gang of eight men unloading cabbages and potatoes from a number of cars on a dump three miles east of West Chicago on the St. Charles road," said a detective.

U. S. TROOPS ARE CAPTURED

Washington Doesn't Doubt Berlin's Report of American Captures on French Front.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Berlin's terse announcement that "North American" soldiers had been captured by German patrols on the Rhine-Marne canal on the French front brought the American people a step nearer to the heart of the great struggle.

There was no doubt here that the men referred to were members of General Pershing's force undergoing final training with French regiments in front-line trenches. Confirmation from General Pershing was lacking, but in due course he will transmit the names of any men missing, and this may give some light.

If, as is assumed, a small scouting party was surprised by a German patrol in No Man's Land and all captured details of the incident may never be fully told, since only captors and captives would know what happened in the encounter under cover of darkness.

This is the first report received here of the capture of any members of the American expeditionary forces, but a number of naval gunners taken from American armed ships sunk by submarines and civilian members of the crews of other ships are held in German prison camps.

Russ Raiders Repulsed.

Berlin, Nov. 5.—No change in the situation on the eastern front is reported, according to the official statement. Russian raiding parties along the Riga-Wenden road were dispersed near Segevold.

Twenty thousand bushels of potatoes on the farm of T. W. Carpenter of Ward, Dickinson county, have frozen in the ground and are not worth digging. His loss is about $20,000. He had already harvested 20,000 bushels, but because of a shortage of labor had not been able to harvest the crop from the last 105 acres. His potato farm was the largest in the upper peninsula.

Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Weeber, of Hastings, Germans, are the only parents in Barry county to give more than one son for service in the national army. They are proud of the fact that neither of their two sons drafted for service asked for exemption. If these young men face the troops of Duke Albrecht of Wurtemburg, they will be opposed in the enemy's ranks by three cousins.

19 MEN PERISH IN PATERSON BLAZE

Eighty-Five Persons Trapped When Salvation Army Mission Is Destroyed.

MANY HURT IN STAMPEDE

Some of the Victims Were Old and Others Cripples—Men Jump From Third and Fourth Floors and Miss Net.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 5.—Nineteen men lost their lives at a fire which destroyed the Paterson Salvation Army Rescue Mission. Eighteen were burned before rescuers could reach them. The other was one of fourteen taken to a hospital.

Many others were badly injured, either in the stampede from the building or by jumping from windows.

Eighty-Five Were Asleep.

Several of the victims were burned beyond recognition. Some of the bodies may never be recovered.

There were 85 men sleeping in the building. Many were old and many crippled, as the mission was conducted as a haven for unfortunates who possessed no home and little means of livelihood.

The firemen were delayed several fatal minutes in responding because of the uncertainty as to the location of the fie. When they arrived the building was doomed.

The police attempted rescue work by means of the one fire escape, but it was in the rear and escape by that means was impossible.

A mad rush for the interior stairway followed. At least five men went down in the rush. Their charred bodies were later discovered huddled in the lower hall.

Jump Beyond Net.

A life net was spread to catch the men who were jumping from third and fourth story windows. A few disregarded it, or failed to see it in their panic and leaped over it or to one side.

An aged inmate was trapped on the fourth floor. Crippled by rheumatism, he managed to make his way to the window, but was unable to pull himself over the ledge. Firemen rescued him at the risk of their own lives.

U. S. FINDS GERMAN 'HORRORS'

Inventions for Frightfulness Campaign Found in Search of Patent Office Records.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Proof that Germany plotted the war for world domination at least ten years before she struck in 1914 has lain hidden in Washington unknown for years. The plans for many of Germany's deadliest surprises have been deposited in the United States patent office. Under the trading with the enemy act they may now be licensed to United States manufacturers and turned against Germany.

An investigation in the patent office reveals:

1. The horrible flame projector and gas shells that killed thousands of the allies, taken unaware by this new barbarity of warfare, were on record.
2. Improvements in German submarines that now are sinking our transports and destroying the supply ships of the allies.
3. Inventions in aerial and anti-aerial ordnance.
4. New grenades, heavy cannon, field ordnance improvements and high explosive shells.

These records were assembled through a search of the patent office to learn what German-owned inventions could be used by American manufacturers under the trading with the enemy act. It was found there are more than 20,000 of them.

The patent office records show few German inventions of humanitarian aspect, compared with patents of that sort to other foreigners.

BLAME GERMANS FOR FIRES

Incendiaries Held Responsible for Blaze Which Destroyed Hay, Grain and Buildings in Utah.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 5.—German incendiaries are held responsible for a fire which destroyed hundreds of tons of hay and 1,000 bushels of grain besides buildings on the ranch of Joseph F. Smith, president of the Mormon church at Taylorville, Utah. Joseph F. Smith, as trustee of the Mormon church, recently subscribed for $250,000 in Liberty bonds, to be paid for out of the tithing funds of the church.

Allies Shell Turk Coast.

Constantinople, Nov. 5.—Hostile cruisers in the Mediterranean have been bombarding the Turkish coast. The war office announced that they were replied to effectively by the Turkish shore batteries. Repulse of a Russian attack on the Caucasus front is announced in the statement.

Senator's Wife Robbed.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—The police received a report that Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, wife of the senator, was robbed of jewels worth $50, which were taken from her apartment in the Virginia hotel during her absence.

SIX DIE AS CAR HITS AUTO

Two Women, Three Babies and Man Killed in Accident Near Lafayette, Ind.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 5.—Six persons were killed when a Terre Haute-Indianapolis and Eastern interurban car struck an automobile driven by Hugh Ellis, two miles north of here Sunday morning. The dead: Hugh Ellis, Ella Ellis, Mrs. W. G. Ellis, Maxime Ellis, Edna Ellis, Evelyn Ellis.

The three last named were children. The other babies of the family were injured and were brought to a local hospital. The family lived at Frankfort, Ind. They were former residents of Lafayette.

It Doesn't Pay To Buy Cheap Clothes

Cheap clothes are dishonest clothes. They may cost much or little—the cost has little to do with it. If their good looks are put in to stay—if they keep their shape—and wear and wear and wear—they are not "cheap" clothes, no matter HOW little you paid for them.

Clothcraft Suits and Overcoats are the kind any merchant is proud to be known by. At $15 to $25 they give you genuine service—THE UTMOST of fit, looks and long wear that can be given at moderate prices. The right kind of thrift—getting your money's worth, no matter what you pay—will bring you here for most of your purchases.

FRENCH CONTINUE PURSUIT OF FOES

Capture 18 Square Miles During Advance—Seek New Enemy Line.

GERMANS LAID MANY TRAPS

Petain's Troops Find Helmet Which Would Explode Mine—Patrols Discover Trenches Empty—Artillery Active on Aisne.

On the French Front in France, Nov. 5.—The French advance in pursuit of the Germans beyond the Chemin des Dames has attained an average of a mile and a half, the southern bank of the Aillette being reached everywhere. Altogether since Saturday about eighteen square miles of territory have fallen into French hands, the progress being necessarily slow owing to the uncertainty as to where the Germans will make a stand.

Many points in the line were bombarded by the German big guns during the French advance, especially in the neighborhood of Ailles, where numerous mustard-gas shells somewhat delayed the progress of the French troops.

French Find Traps.

The French are displaying the greatest prudence in their movements in consequence of the frequency of the caverns on all sides in the hills. As a result of this caution the troops while going forward discovered a number of traps for the unwary.

In Cerny a steel helmet hung on a pole was found on examination to have an electric wire connection running into a mine which would explode in the event of the helmet being snatched away.

At the present moment the French occupy every crest and possess all the observatories above Craonne, Ailles, Cerny and Courteono, while so far as can be made out, the Germans have established their line on the other side of the Aillette valley, whence a shower of bullets from numerous machine guns come on occasions. They destroyed every bridge over the Aillette as they retired.

Find Trench Empty.

The German evacuation was discovered on Friday by a patrol of chasseurs. During the preceding night any movement from the direction of the French lines brought a salvo of bullets, but toward dawn, when the chasseurs were making a daring patrol they found one of the German front trenches empty and immediately gave the alarm.

Other patrols advanced forward hours afterward by strong infantry units in front of which the French artillery let down a heavy barrage fire in order to prevent surprises. The marching troops, however, found all the trenches empty and a search of dozens of shelters and tunnels confirmed the departure of the Germans.

It was evident that the German troops which occupied the front lines until the last moment received little warning of the order to retire, as half-cooked meals, still hot, were found in the saucepans.

Guns Active on Aisne Front.

Paris, Nov. 5.—Notable artillery activity is continuing on the Aisne front, north of the Chemin-des-Dames, where the French are occupying advanced ground along the Aillette river, the war office announced.

In the Verdun area the Germans followed up their heavy bombardment with two attacks north of Chaume wood, with both of which the French artillery dealt successfully, causing the Germans to sustain heavy casualties.

A surprise attack in the Damloup region was repulsed, as was a similar German enterprise northwest of Reims.

Fight Along the Aillette.

Berlin, Nov. 5.—Lively artillery fire and reconnoitering clashes along the Aillette river front in northern France are reported in the army headquarters statement on operations in the western war theater. In the Verdun region German defensive fire prevented a French attack which was preparing at Chaume wood.

In Flanders the improvement of the German lines at various places, together with the repulse of local British attacks, is reported.

British Take Two Points.

London, Nov. 5.—In local actions on the Flanders battle front at night small detachments of British troops captured from the Germans two strong defensive points east of Broodseinde and southeast of Poelcapelle.

Irish fusiliers carried out a successful raid southwest of Havrincourt. Two raids by the Germans on the Arras front near Monchy-le-Preux were repulsed.

RUSS FRATERNIZE WITH FOE

Slavs Friendly With Teutons in Dvinsk Region, But Fire Upon Them in Buzeo Area.

Petrograd, Nov. 5.—Teutonic attempts at fraternization met with a mixed reception on the Russian front. There was fraternizing in the Dvinsk region, but in the Buzeo area patrols approaching with proclamations were fired upon and driven away, the war office announces. There were no military operations of importance, according to the statement.

ITALIANS CHECK FOES

Austro-Germans Launch Heavy Attack on Trentino Front.

Rome Statement Says Assaults Were Repulsed After Hard Fighting.

Rome, Nov. 5.—Heavy attacks were launched on the Italian lines in the Giudicaria zone on the Trentino front after extended artillery preparation. The war office announced that these attacks, which were directed at advanced posts in the Daone and Giumell valleys, were repulsed after hard fighting.

The artillery duel along the Tagliamento is proceeding, and the Italians are replying with vigorous measures to stronger Austro-German pressure on the Italian left wing.

The text of the statement reads:

"Along the line of the Tagliamento there was artillery activity on both sides of the river. We replied with our fire and various counter-attacks to intensified enemy pressure on our left wing.

"In the zone of Giudicaria, after long artillery preparation, strong enemy detchments attacked advanced posts in the Daone and Giumell valleys. They were repulsed after heavy fighting and left a few prisoners in our hands.

"During the night of November 2-3 our aviators flew over the left bank of the Tagliamento and destroyed various ammunition depots not evacuated during the withdrawal.

"Yesterday two German airplanes were brought down at Oderzo and Codroipo."

Berlin, Nov. 5.—Artillery activities of varying degree are reported along the line of the Tagliamento in northern Italy by the army headquarters staff in the official statement. It reads:

"Italian front: Along the Tagliamento there has been artillery activity of varying intensity."

The cost of heating the various state institutions last year, inclusive of the capitol building, was $436,800.59, according to figures comiled by Auditor General Fuller. At the prevailing prices of coal it is believed that the cost of coal this year will be nearly double the cost of 1916.

Indict 25 as Army Slackers.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Twenty-five out of thirty-four indictments returned by the federal grand jury charged men with refusing to report for duty in the new National army or with failure to register.

ARMENIANS SLAIN ON KAISER ORDER

Massacre Plan "Made in Germany," Says an Exiled Missionary.

EXPECTED TO CONTROL TURKS

Teuton Cannon Used in Effort to Eliminate the Armenian Question by Getting Rid of the Race—Kurds Did Rest.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—More than 1,000,000 Armenian men, women and children have been wiped out by the Turks since the war began, Abram I. Elkus, former United States ambassador to Turkey, declared here in an address before a mass meeting of Chicago ministers.

New York, Oct. 10.—The plan to extirpate the Armenian Christians from Turkey was "made in Germany and suggested by German officials," and where the Armenians made a stand against their Moslem oppressors it was German officers and German cannon that broke them up, according to the Rev. Alpheus Newell Andrus, senior missionary for the Congregational station at Mardin, Mesopotamia, who told of his experiences here.

The far-sighted Germans, he said, were looking forward to the time when they expected to gain complete dominion in Turkey, and they wanted to eliminate the Armenian question by getting ride of the Armenian race.

"One of the ways the Turks went about it was to load Armenian men on goatskin rafts on the understanding that they were to be deported—and then they were taken out and dumped into the Tigris river and drowned," he said. "This was the fate of at least 2,500 men from the vicinity of Diarbekir and its suburbs in northern Mesopotamia."

The Germans and the Turkish government, Dr. Andrus said, looked upon the destruction of the Armenians in Turkey as a cold-blooded political move, and gave the actual execution of it into the hands of the Kurds and Turkish soldiers, who went about it with the ferocity of Moslem religious fanaticism.

"Surely such a people should not be allowed to perish," continued Doctor Andrus. "There still remain of them to be cared for 6,300 in Urfa and near by. Will not the American people help care for them?

"More than 30,000 Armenians were deported from Diarbekir and its suburbs. It was some of these who were dumped into the Tigris and drowned.

Women Left in Piles.

"Women were clubbed, stabbed or shot down on the Mesopotamian plains and left for dead in piles on the ground or thrown into old cisterns. Some, coming to consciousness, crawled out from the piles and up from the cisterns and dragged themselves up the mountain to our hospital at Mardin to have their wounds dressed.

"Help must be regular and continuous. The committee for Armenian and Syrian relief has decided that five dollars a month per child will be necessary. That is about seventeen cents a day. Who will add one more child to his family and reckon the seventeen cents along with what he is spending daily on his other children, and at the end of each month send five dollars to the committee?"

Doctor Andrus himself narrowly escaped execution at the hands of the Turks because of his work at Mardin in succoring the suffering and finally [illegible]

The Social Ladder

It Was Successfully Climbed by a Mother and Daughter.

By ETHEL HOLMES

A stagecoach lumbered up a zigzag road in the Rocky mountains. On the outside seat behind the driver sat a gentleman whose eminently respectable traveling suit and his clean cut features indicated that he was to the manner born. Beside him sat a young man in the costume of the country. His shirt was flannel; his hat was a sombrero.

On the next seat back sat a lady, the aristocratic gentleman's wife, and beside her a girl of nineteen, their daughter. The man in the sombrero was telling them about the mountains and his people and pointing out the more prominent peaks, to which the travelers listened with great interest.

The sun was hot, the pace was slow, and the two combined tended to make the driver drowsy. When the coach reached an eminence and started down an incline, instead of being wide awake to the dangers of mountain travel he was nodding. He not only failed to put on the brake, but dropped the reins. He was awakened by the shouts of the passengers behind him, who saw a terrible death staring them in the face. The horses, unchecked, started down the slope and were soon going at a breakneck pace.

The driver basely abandoned his post and, putting his foot on the iron step beside him, swung himself to the ground. The young man who had been pointing out objects of interest let himself down over the footboard on to the tongue, gathered up the reins, quickly remounted to the box, put on the brake and managed to reduce the pace sufficiently to enable the coach to turn a curve without going over a precipice. Then after a further short descent he brought the horses to a standstill. The first sensation that came to him after it was all over was feeling the arms of the aristocratic gentleman about his neck.

One day a couple of years after this episode Mrs. Murphy and her daughter, while bowling along Ocean avenue at Newport, received a terrible shock.

"Oh, heavens, mother, there's Barton Keith! Look the other way, quick!"

Miss Murphy, pretending to see something to which she desired to call her mother's attention, pointed in the opposite direction from the young man, the carriage rolled by, and the women began to discuss the situation.

"What in the world could have brought him here?" exclaimed the mother.

"I would as soon have expected to see a Mississippi pilot."

"Bart has been a stage driver."

"He'll tell everybody here all about our antecedents."

"He won't know any one to tell."

"It seems hard to cut him after that affair you had with him."

"There have been changes since then. At that time father was building his little branch railroad. He hadn't got on to the main line."

"Well, I don't think there's much danger, considering that he can't have any entree here. Heaven knows what a time we've had even to get in on the outer circle. How can Bart Keith with no money get in at all?"

"He may be prosperous. He's well enough dressed."

"Yes, he quite looked like one of the swells. I wonder why he's here?"

That night there was a grand function at one of the "cottages," and the next morning Mary Murphy ran to her mother with a newspaper in her hand and her eyes wide open.

"For land's sake, mother, listen to this: 'Among those present at Mrs. Atherton's last night was Mr. Barton Keith.'"

"You don't mean it!"

"How in the name of conscience do you suppose he got in there?"

"I can't imagine. I know we couldn't get a bid."

"He must have a pull somewhere."

"Your father had a pull, but it didn't work. He offered Peter Jones a tip on the stock of our road if he'd get him an invitation to the Athertons'. But Pete said they were of the old New York blue blood and rich besides. These people who have both blood and money are the hardest of all to move."

"Oho! Here's the explanation!" and she read a social item:

"'Mr. Barton Keith is visting Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Forbes.'"

"Oh, my goodness gracious!" exclaimed the mother. "How in the world did he ever get in with them?"

There was a silence between the two, which Mary ended by saying:

"Mother, we've gone and done it!"

"So we have."

"We must find a way to take a back track."

"So we must."

"But we're entirely ignorant of the key to the position."

"What do you mean by that?"

"We don't know what reason the Forbes have for taking in Bart."

"Do you suppose they know what he's been?"

"Of course they do. Bart couldn't keep it if he wished. That's the singular part of it. The Forbes have been prominent in New York and Newport society for a hundred years. But one thing I have noticed in these old families—they're more independent about whom they take up than any other people. I can't imagine those Perkinses, who made their money in fertilizing material, having anything to do with Bart Keith. You know how they snubbed us."

"Yes, indeed I do, and I'm waiting for the time to come when I can get even with them."

"But, mother, how are we to fix it up with Bart?"

"I don't know, Mame, unless you have the same power you used to have over him."

Mame cast a glance in a mirror. Art had done a great deal for her since she waited on the railroad men her mother fed in their days of poverty. Nothing that money could buy was now denied her. But she knew Bart Keith well. He had loved her in calico, and to love her in costly fabrics must incite an entirely new sensation. Besides, he was in the swim at Newport, where he would meet the finest costumes in America, to say nothing of the women they incased. To make matters worse, she had cut him.

"Mother," she said, "I believe I'll write him a line saying I've heard of his being in Newport and telling him we're here. That'll look as if we hadn't seen him on the avenue."

"Do you think he'd tumble to it?"

The girl pondered awhile, then admitted that she knew very well he wouldn't; their eyes had met and there had been a mutual recognition. She dared not write the note.

But one morning she received a note from Keith. He told her that, having heard she was at Newport, he had come on from the west to find her. But time had made great changes for both of them and he did not doubt she was following a course which seemed inviting to her in her new sphere. He shrank from parting with her without letting her know that he had kept the boyish promises made years ago. He refrained from mentioning the cut she had given him, but it was evident it was this that had turned him from her. He closed his epistle with the word "farewell," and she knew that he had passed beyond recall.

For a time the Murphys heard that Keith was being introduced under the wing of the Forbeses. Then they began to hear his name mentioned among the people and in the society notes independently of his introducers, and it was not long before they learned that which travels on the wings of the wind. Keith was rich. He had become interested in certain western speculations with Mr. Forbes, and the two had made money together. Then came a rumor that Keith was to marry Miss Alice Forbes.

Up to this time the Murphys had merely wondered. Now they were astonished. And over Mary Murphy came a wave of regret. It was not for the loss of Barton Keith's wealth or position; it was for Keith himself. The prize they sought for and for which she had snubbed the lover of her young girlhood every day seemed farther from her grasp. Despite their millions the Murphys found it impossible to effect an entrance into Newport society. Mary had become accustomed to wealth, and it failed to satisfy her. She was hungry for the boyish love that had been hers in poverty, but she had thrown it away.

The report that Keith was to marry Miss Alice Forbes proved true. When the engagement was formally announced the Murphys read in the society columns of a New York newspaper a story concerning the contracting parties that gave them the key to the situation. It told how Mr. and Mrs. Forbes and their daughter were traveling in the Rocky mountains, how a stage driver fell asleep, how a young man who had been formerly a handler of the ribbons saved the passengers from death, how Mr. Forbes had taken him up and enabled him to make a fortune. But the story did not tell the most important feature that had led to the union—a young girl seeing an act of cool bravery on the part of a young man.

The wedding of Barton Keith and Alice Forbes was not celebrated with that splendor usual to nuptials in the fashionable world. It was said that this was in deference to the wishes of the groom, who bore the reputation of being an extremely modest man. He devoted himself to business, his only recreation being driving four-in-hands, and this was supposed to be in memory of experiences of former days.

"Mother," said Mary Murphy one day, "I have a plan."

"What is it, Mame?"

"We can't break through the shell of this Newport egg. We must go elsewhere."

"Where shall we go?"

"To London."

"Good gracious, daughter! If we can't succeed here, how can we do so among the British nobility?"

"Others who have failed here have succeeded there. Leave it to me. Money, dear mother, is the power that opens doors wherever money is needful. These British nobles are getting poor. Our people are getting rich. Many here have always been rich, and some care nothing about becoming richer. In England commoners have been getting rich, while the nobles have been getting poor. Noblemen would prefer to marry an American to a commoner of their own country, there being no titles here. I shall go to London, marry a title and come back here for just long enough to snub those who have snubbed us."

Two years later Mary Murphy returned to Newport as the Countess of Munkenuon. Her advent was heralded, and when she arrived invitations were piled on her table. Before looking for those she intended to accept she picked out those from certain people who had snubbed her as Miss Murphy and sent immediate "regrets."

U. S. PATROL SHIP SUNK

Navy Department Says Vessel Was Lost in Foreign Waters—Crew Reported Safe.

Washington, Oct. 8.—An American patrol vessel on duty in foreign waters has been lost, the navy department announced. A dispatch from Admiral Sims states that the ship foundered, but the entire crew and officers were saved and safely landed.

The accident occurred on the morning of October 4. An investigation is being made into the loss of the vessel. The department stated that beyond a bare announcement of the loss no further details are given.

This patrol vessel is the first American naval ship to be lost in foreign waters. The department early this week announced the damaging of a large destroyer on duty as a result of a collision with a British naval ship.

HOGS TO BE FED ON WASTE FROM CAMP

SAVING ON COST OF FEED IS EXPECTED TO REDUCE PRICE OF PORK.

FUTURE OFFICERS BEING LISTED

Names of Men Who Will Take Course At Officers Training School Sent to War Department.

Lansing.

Pork so cheap and so plentiful that it will affect the world price of meat, is a prophecy of Lieutenant Colonel Ellison, representing Brigadier General Hytell, in charge of cantonment construction at Camp Custer. The fat on the ribs of the porkers will be made from the waste in army cantonments.

Heretofore when a quartermaster officer was needed he might be drawn from the line and sent out to buy beef or clothes without the slightest knowledge of what he was doing. But in this war the professio no fthe quartermaster is down to a fine art. Where before refuse, condemned tents and clothing were burned, they will now be saved.

But the most interesting thing is the food waste question and its solution. Not an ounce of food will be wasted, even parts of the camp sewage being turned to commercial purposes. Near every cantonment are one or more immense hog farms which take the tons of refuse and feed it to hogs and the result is expected to be a glut of pigs in the market.

Old clothing is saved, all waste paper is baled, and in each regiment will be a complete shoe-repairing outfit, on wheels, where the boys may have their shoes "tapped" free of charge. In this way millions of dollars are expected to be sayed yearly.

Eligible Officers Being Listed.

Company commanders at Camp Custer have received an order to send in a list of names of the men in their organizations who they believe are fitted to take a course in the next officers' training camp. A school will be held simultaneously in each camp of the country, beginning January 5 and ending April 5. Not more than 1 7-10 per cent of an organization can enter the lists.

The orders read that the company commanders shall recommend men between the ages of 21 and 40, using as a basis military appearance, ability for leadership and behavior.

Graduate or under-graduates of colleges, universities or military schools are preferred.

Upon being chosen to study for a commission, a recruit will be relieved of his duties and attached to the school, but will continue to draw the pay which he was drawing when transferred. At the conclusion of his three months' course of training in the school, the recruit, if successful, will be recommended for a commission as second lieutenant. He will not receive the commission immediately, however, but will be advanced when a vacancy appears.

It is expected that over 500 men will be selected to attend the school.

State Y. M. C. A. to Raise $1,376,500.

Fourteen hundred delegates to a Michigan conference of Y. M. C. A. workers, held at Battle Creek, inspired by the tremendous appeal of an address by Dr. John R. Mott, of President Wilson's Russian commission, pledged themselves to raise $1,376,500 as Michigan's share of $35,000,000 for international "Y" work.

This is $126,500 above the quota Michigan had been asked to furnish, yet the pledges represented only eight districts in the state, and there are still some to be heard from.

Dr. Mott, in the course of his address, read a cablegram received from Ambassador Francis at Petrograd, that the Russian government has just granted permission for Y. M. C. A. work on every front, requiring 300 secretaries and $3,000,000.

Another message was read from General Scott, late chief of staff, saying, "I hope you will push the plan. I am convinced that the Y. M. C. A. should be immediately organized * * * to raise the morale of Russian soldiers."

Dr. Mott also stated that where France wanted 100 American Y. M. C. A.'s she has now asked for 1,000, and General Pershing has urged that they be provided, while Italy—ecclesiastical, civil and military authorities combined—has asked for 200 workers.

The American government has lately decided to place Y secretaries on every transport and on every hospital ship. The $35,000,000 about to be raised for international Y. M. C. A. work will last until July 1, 1918, Dr. Mott explained, and before that time the Y will have 18,000,000 soldiers, including 2,500,000 Americans and 6,000,000 prisoners to look after.

Groesbeck to Push 2 Cent Fare Case.

For the purpose of making a personal survey of the property of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, before the hearing at Grand Rapids of the 2-cent rate, involving the railroad, Atty.-Gen. Groesbeck make a trip to Marquette. Early action to dispose of the claim of the railroad that the 2-cent rate is confiscatory, was predicted by the attorney-general. Hearings are expected to start before Judge Sessions at Grand Rapids, Nov 20.

Custer Boys Being Insured.

With the return of Lieutenant H. H. Pound, to Camp Custer, from Washington, where he had been sent to familiarize himself with the plans of the plans of the war risk insurance bureau, and his appointment as divisional insurance officer, work has started in placing in operation in the eighty-fifth division, the act of congress, providing for the protection of soldiers and their families when the former are injured in service.

There are six sections to the law: 1, Compulsory allotment of pay of enlisted men; 2, Voluntary allotment of pay of enlisted men with relatives wholly or partly dependent; 3, Compulsory deposit of a part of pay; 4 Compulsory deposit of part of pay of enlisted men, if no other allotment has been made; 5, Compensation for death or partial or total disability; 6, Voluntary insurance.

In all its details the consideration of the soldier and his family are paramount. An insurance policy up to $10,000 may be taken, payable in 240 monthly installments, and with the premium rates based on the American experience table of mortality and three and one-half per cent interest.

Every soldier who has not assigned too much of his pay to dependents will be asked to take some of this insurance, which will be paid for death and total permanent disability.

The compensation clause does away with the old pension system and provides for payment of funeral expenses and the care of the totally disabled. If not totally incapacitated, the men will be sent to a selected school, where they will be taught a means of livelihood they are best adapted to follow.

Compulsory or voluntary allotment of pay by men with dependents will follow previous procedure, while in case a man has no one dependent on him or takes no insurance he will be required to deposit at least one-half his pay with the government.

Health at Camp Custer Good.

In spite of disagreeable weather and lack of heating facilities in many barracks, Camp Custer stands first in health of inmates, according to a comparison of figures given out by other camps.

In large measure this results from preventive rather than curative methods. Long before any soldiers arrived, before many workmen had come, and when the contour of most of the farms was still undisturbed, medical men were on the job, cleaning out breeding places of flies and other insects. The men responsible for this are Major Wood, Captain Thomas B. Henry and Lieutenant Samuel Dateliger.

All this pioneer work is having its effect today. While there are many colds among the men, few of them are serious. There are a number of other minor ailments which are being cared for in the regimental infirmaries. A few of these men are confined to their quarters, but most of them are drilling daily. There are less than 100 cases in the base hospital, which is a remarkable showing per capita of the total of 25,000 soldiers and workmen.

Camouflage Hides Custer Guns.

Camp Custer men have already become experts in the famous art of camouflage.

Field artillery batteries have been concealed in the fields close to divisional headquarters so cleverly that they are not noticed by scores of camp visitors.

Strangers in camp wander close to a network of trenches, emplacements, gun pits, sleeping quarters and bombproof shelters, without ever discovering them. There are now some excellent examples of the best kind of camouflage.

Nearby is a pretty little copse, which really is a "manufactured" thicket to conceal a regular wartime shelter for three and six-inch guns. A whole battery has been concealed from imaginary aeroplanes.

From this are narrow underground passages to the sleeping quarters of the men, ammunition and storerooms, and other departments. These underground rooms all have two or three separate entrances, some a considerable distance away. All of this work has been done by the new men at Camp Custer after the latest styles direct from France.

CAMP CUSTER NOTES

A Detroit selected man, of foreign birth, walked up to his captain with: "I give you week's notice. I no like de job."

Officers of the division who visit Detroit over Sunday have petitioned the Michigan Central railway to stop at Camp Custer on the return trip.

Augusta, a small town on the outskirts of camp, has entered the lists in the race for some of the golden dollars which are being dispensed by Uncle Sam at Custer. One large Chicago furnishinig store has opened a branch there and it is reported one of Detroit's large department stores will soon be in the field with a full line of military supplies.

Instructions have been received by Maj. Morden to hasten completion of buildings as soon as possible, and to start no more new buildings. Labor troubles are said to have hastened the government's order to cease iperations.

Swiping stoves has become a pastime in the camp, so that orders have been issued by division headquarters against their removal by enlisted men. It has become a custom to send a brazen non-com for a stove and have him bluff the rightful owners into consenting to its removal.

ALLIES JOIN IN SMASH

British and French Start Great New Attack in Flanders.

Both London and Paris Official Announcements Indicate That Germans Are Falling Back.

British Armies in the Field, Oct. 10.—More than a mile advance into the German lines has been achieved by Field Marshal Haig's second drive, starting today. The drive centers in the Paschendale region.

Paris, Oct. 10.—French troops on the Belgian front, at 5:30 o'clock in the morning, attacked, in connection with the British army, the German positions south of the forest of Houtholst, between Draibank and Weindendreft. The French official statement says that the struggle is continuing and is developing favorably for the French arms.

London, Oct. 10.—The British attacked on a wide front northeast of Ypres early in the morning, the war office announced. Satisfactory progress is being made everywhere. The attack, the statement says, was made "in conjunction with our allies."

The British statement says:

"At 5:20 o'clock this morning we again attacked on a wide front east and northeast of Ypres in conjunction with our allies on our left. Reports indicate that satisfactory progress is being made on all parts of the battle front. The weather continues stormy."

The new British drive is being made in the same region as the attack of last Thursday, one of the most successful British efforts of the war. On that day the Germans were expelled from high ground along the ridge east of Ypres, giving the British dominating positions of great strategic importance. The wedge in the Germans' line has been driven so deep that, with the high ground lost, their position has been made most unfavorable, and another "strategic retreat" has been predicted.

High School Notes

FUN ? WELL I'LL GUESS

Talk about your good times. We Juniors had more fun than ffity town picnics out at Vera Sisson's Tuesday night !

Yes, we will admit that it was cold going and coming, but no one got cold feet enough to spoil the evenings fun.

We went out in two Henries and the transportation committee took special pains to see that cars were loaded sufficiently so that none of our dear girls became the least bit cold !

The party was the livest we ever enjoyed and the different committees each did their best.

The entertainment committee certainly had planned out a lively evening, one which passed away the night all too soon, but Oh ! those eats.

The way the pop-corn and cider disappeared was honestly a crime, but when the pumpkin pies were passed around everybody did their darndest. But the most wonderful part at the whole affair was that every single Junior survived and all were on docket at 8:30 sharp(?) Wednesday morning.

All in all that evening was a jolly one that will aways be remembered and words cannot express the gratitude which we the Juniors have toward the Sissons for their splendid hospitality.

CLINTON vs TECUMSEH

Tecumseh High took partial revenge for her last defeat when she held Clinton 20 to 0 Friday October 26.

It was a miserable, rainy day, and nearly dark when the game was finished.

1st Quarter.

The game opened with Tecumseh's kickoff and in the first two minutes we scored a touch down.

Clinton began to tighten up, but they had a hard time keeping us from carrying the ball over a second time during the 1st quarter.

2nd Quarter

The second quarter saw another touch down scored by T. H. S. but Clinton got their hands on the ball and carried it clear down the field before we could stop them.

3rd Quarter

In the third quarter Tecumseh carried the ball twice up to the goal line, but failed to put it over. The ball was in Clintons territory most of the third quarter.

4th Quarter

After fumbling the ball in the fourth quarter we got a last touch down. McLain made all three touch downs on line plunges. Clinton had a weak line and a fairly good back field.

Coach Goodrich paid our backfield a tribute when he said that they better game than ever before. The line also held better than usual.

Time of quarters 10 and 12 minutes.

Referee, Karl Schneider.

FRANCE IN SPRING IS NOW PROSPECT

STATE GUARDSMEN WHO HOPE FOR EARLY TRIP OVERSEAS ARE DISAPPOINTED.

MEN WANT TO SEE REAL ACTION

According to Announcement By War Department, Guard Will Sail Ahead of Draft Army.

Waco, Texas—Former Michigan guardsmen in training here, who have dreamed of an early departure to France are apparently doomed to disappointment. There is a disposition on the part of high, but unquotable officers, to laugh at plans for Christmas dinner in France. The best authorities hold that it will be spring at least before the 32d division leaves Texas.

The war department announcement that guard troops will sail ahead of selected men pleases officers and men. There was a feeling that guard troops might be used for duty in this country for some time because of the advantage in training. As is always the case with volunteers, the men are anxious to get into the thick of things.

The division, roughly, is short 3,700 men and a requisition is made on Camp Custer for this number of drafted men.

It is not known when these men will arrive, but according to the present plan they will be all Michigan men. This is due to the fact that Wisconsin has furnished 15,500 national guardsmen, while the Michigan brigade numbered but 8,000 though Michigan's population is a million and a quarter greater than that of Wisconsin.

TREASURE AND TRINKET FUND

Many people must have read the article in a late number of the Woman's Home Companion on "The Silver Thimble Fund" by which the women of England raised a fund of $75,000 for the army. The Treasure and Trinket Fund of America or as it is now called, The National Aid Society, with headquarters at 259 5th Ave., New York, has for its aim the aviators, many of the first ladies in the land being deeply interested and are sending discarded pieces of jewelry and silverware

One Clinton, Mich., lady has sent a number of pieces including a valuable silver and gold coronation spoon, a souvenir of King George and Queen Mary, sent her from England She sent them with some misgivings but soon a reassuring letter was received which by request is here published:

National Special Aid Society,
New York, Sept 25 1917.

Dear Mrs. Cook:

I sent you a card acknowledging the receipt of your splendid gift, but I wanted to write a personal letter as well You are the first woman in Clinton to send a parcel

It is an inspiration to the workers here to have the splendid interest and co operation of our friends all over the country. I will try and let you know how much the coronation spoon brought, but if you do not hear you may know that it was impossible. We hope to have the sale some time in November. United as we are we can do so much for our boys over there.

Sincerely,
Gretta Gould.

P. S. Lord Northcliffe is now here, head of the British War Mission He says we must build countless aeroplanes and ships if we expect to have our Allies win the victory We must keep on building at top speed without any cessation. We need all the men and munitions we can get, but the aeroplane is going to be the deciding weapon.

When interviewed this morning the Colonel stated that he would be ready to leave within the next few days and that Mrs. Cummins would accompany him to the west.

Idyll, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ashley, passed away at their home south of town Monday, Nov. 5, 1917, a 4 o'clock in the afternoon after a severe illness of three weeks, of spinal meningitis.

The funeral will be held at the home Thursday at 2 p. m., Rev. W. B. Hartzog officiating.

ARE YOU A GOOD CITIZEN OR ARE YOU NO GOOD?

The committee having the matter in charge are formulatng a plan whereby the PATRIOTIC STANDING of every man and woman in Tecumseh Township may be known to the general public. We expect to make this a permanent record that will last as long as you live.

Do YOU know YOUR Country is at war? Are you with her or against her? YOU are EITHER AN AMERICAN OR A TRAITOR—there is NO MIDDLE GROUND.

Give either of your time or money. If you think you haven't time then your work or your business must be making money enough so you can afford to pay.

If you object to your neighbor knowing just where you stand and what you are doing it is because you know you are not doing your duty to your country as your conscience dictates. We propose to let them know.

We hope to make Tecumseh Township a very uncomfortable place for the man who thinks he has no duty to perform.

Are you with us or against us?

The Power Of Love

It Risked Even Life.

By RICHARD MARKLEY

Most young men go to college without any fixed life plan before them. What they will do with their education they put off deciding until after they get it. I was one of these. I was a good classical scholar and one of the honor men of my class. The closing days of my college life were very pleasant and very exciting. I delivered the salutatory in Latin, having the satisfaction of being considered a very learned young man.

I went home with the plaudits of my admirers ringing in my ears. But there I found a contrasting quiet. The excitement had all died out, and I found myself face to face with the problem of a career. Many young men who take honors in college become pedagogues. I had no such inclination, nor did I care for a profession of any kind. I preferred a stirring life. I went to the city, hunted for a business position and got one with a house doing a commission business whose clientele was in South and Central America.

I stood the humdrum of business life for about a year, when some one was needed to go to Honduras to collect a debt owing the firm. I offered to go. My offer was accepted, and within a few weeks I found myself in the country of the rubber tree.

While collecting the debt I was approached by some men who told me that they were plotting to seize the government. They persuaded me to join them. They were defeated. I, with others, was captured in arms and thrown into prison. The same evening we were told that we would all be garroted the next morning.

When at daylight an officer entered the room where we were confined to take us out to execution he said to me:

"I understand that you are an educated man. Am I correct?"

"I consider myself a good classical scholar," I replied.

"Very well." Then, turning to a subordinate, he said:

"Take him to his excellency."

I was led to the president's house and told to wait till called for. About 9 o'clock I was conducted to the president's private office.

"What do you know about the classics?" he asked.

I told him that I was a college graduate and had at commencement delivered an oration in Latin.

"You're just what I want," he said. "My son wishes to enter an American college next year and needs a tutor. If you will fit him for the entrance examinations I will pardon you for your stupid complicity with these rascals who have sought to put themselves in my place. But understand, your sentence is only suspended. You will come into my family and be one of us. Any digression from a straight path and you will suffer under your sentence for treason. Say nothing to any one of your connection with traitors."

I did not understand what he meant by "any digression" till I arrived at his house and for the first time saw that he had a daughter at that tender age when girls are liable to fall in love with any presentable man they happen to be thrown in with. Donna Inez was nineteen and of course a Spanish type. It was plain that I had been warned against making love to her.

I was introduced into the family by President Sanchez as a college graduate he had imported from the north to tutor his son Pedro, sixteen years old. Senora Sanchez was probably the only person in the house that knew I was under sentence of death.

I have a theory that we only enjoy by contrast. Another way of putting it is, "Stolen fruit is the sweetest." The president made a great mistake in warning me. For a young man of twenty-three to be forbidden under penalty of death to make love to a young girl is a terrible temptation. Had Senor Sanchez made no such threat I might have lived in the same house with his daughter and not transgressed. As it was, I was tortured with a terrible desire to win her and with a terrible fear of the garrote if I did.

Whatever were my feelings, I dared not show them even to the young lady herself. And here I made the same mistake with her that her father had made with me. Observing that I had unintentionally inspired her with a sentiment that might lead to love, I confided to her the secret that love with us meant death for me.

From that moment a passion that might otherwise have either never been born or at least soon have died out flamed up in Donna Inez and absorbed her whole being. Could this passion be scientifically analyzed I think it would appear that the predominant element in it would turn out to be a desire that I should accept death in preference to giving her up. There is something paradoxical about this, but nature is full of paradoxes.

There would surely come a time when we would put not our necks in a halter, but my neck in the garrote. We were one day in the room where I taught Donna Inez's brother, he having just gone out. She gave me a reproachful look.

"For heaven's sake, senorita, what is it? I beg of you be careful. You understand the position in which I stand."

"I do. But I love you. Why should we be parted? Fate is very cruel."

"If we yield to this passion I must pay the penalty, and if I pay the penalty you will lose me. There is but one course for us. We must part."

"Are you not willing to take any risk at all for my sake?"

"Do you wish me to suffer the garrote for your sake?"

She was silent for a moment, with downcast eyes.

"I do not wish you to suffer, but I wish you to be willing to suffer on account of your love for me."

There was something irresistible in her face as she turned her eyes up to meet mine. I clasped a hand that hung loosely by her side and felt a current running from her arm into mine. Then it was all over with me. I drew her toward me and kissed her.

The next few weeks were the most delightful to me of any period of my life. I was constantly stealing interviews with Donna Inez, knowing all the while that if caught in one of them I would pay for the pleasure with my life. True, there were moments when the abyss on whose brink I stood would appear beneath me in all its terrible reality. But had it not been for these moments would my enjoyment with the girl I loved have been so keen? I think not. It was the one that brought out the other.

The bliss of one of our meetings was interrupted by a terrible scare. We heard a step in the adjoining room. Ines clung to me, clutching me like one drowning. We heard the same step retreating.

"It's father!" she gasped.

Some moments passed. There was no recovery for us, for we did not know but that we had been discovered. Finally she said:

"If there has been a false alarm and you will not be torn away from me to die I vow that I will never again expose you to such a danger. I forbid you to speak to me of love again."

She persisted till I had promised to obey; then, after a long parting kiss, she left me.

When I saw the president again he showed no trace whatever of having discovered the situation. Ines and I had received a terrible warning; we had both been brought to a realization of our danger and had determined never to expose ourselves to it again. Our resolution lasted forty-eight hours. Then we found ourselves again clasped in an embrace. For two days my desire to caress my love once more had been increasing until the last moment, when not a thousand garrotes could have deterred me.

"Heavens," gasped Ines, "we are again in the maelstrom! The pitcher that goes often to the well is at last broken."

"There is but one course for us to pursue," I replied. "If you love me living you must love me dead. I will leave you and at last your love will die."

"No," she exclaimed; "it will live forever."

Then suddenly the blood left the cheeks of both of us. Again we heard the step in the adjoining room, the same step we had heard before.

"We are lost!" we both cried in a hoarse whisper.

"Your father has been watching us," I said. "The last time he caught us he was not sure. He has waited for more conclusive evidence. He has caught us a second time. I do not expect ever to see you again after this one last parting."

She swooned in my arms. I carried her to a lounge and laid her on it. I dared not call any one; indeed, I feared that some one would come in and find us there together. She soon opened her eyes, but the moment she remembered what had taken place was about to swoon again, when I spoke reassuring words I did not feel, and she regained control of herself.

I had now not the slightest doubt that Senor Sanchez knew of what was going on between me and his daughter and would choose his own time as to fulfilling the conditions he had imposed when I had come into his family.

I was kneeling by Donna Inez striving to convince her to the contrary of what I felt when again the step was heard. This time it was coming directly toward us. Abandoning all hope of keeping our secret longer, we clung to each other and awaited the blow. In another moment Senor Sanchez stood in the doorway. He saw his daughter's arms fall from about my neck, limp. She had again passed into unconsciousness.

He rushed toward her and, replacing me, took her in his own arms. When she came to herself he began to reassure her:

"Pardon, little one; pardon! I did not intend to put this strain upon you. I was led into it by a desire to test the strength of love." He took her wrists in his hands and folded her arms about his neck. "When the tutor was about to come to us I saw that he was just such a person as would capture a young girl's fancy, and I endeavored to ward off such a result, having other plans for you. Then when I saw that love was proving itself stronger than the fear of death I kept my eyes upon you both, not from a desire to spy on you, but to observe the power of the bond that united you. Kiss me, my darling. I promise you I shall not oppose that which even the fear of the garrote cannot subdue."

My neck was encircled, but not by the garrote. A wedding garland was thrown about me and Donna Inez's arms as well. I became a stanch supporter of my father-in-law and fought for him when he was again attacked by revolutionists. He swears by me, telling every one that he does not know how he could get on without me.

Governor Sleeper to Wield Costly Spade at Northville, Oct. 11.

Michigan's soil will feel for the first time on October 11 the blade of a gold and silver shovel that has been used in other states in good roads celebrations. When Wayne county jollifies over its highway system of concrete roads at the dedication of the Outer Belt Drive of 94 miles, at Northville, October 11, this implement will be used. The Detroit Automobile club, which has the handling of the monster parade and ceremonies in charge has obtained the shovel. The handle is gold and the blade is silver. It has been used in Illinois, Indiana and Pennsylvania, on eight occasions and a gold plate on the handle commemorates each occasion.

REPORTS SHOW AMERICANS PUT UP GOOD FIGHT

Outnumbered and Surprised, There Never Was a Thought of Surrender to Enemy.

LIEUTENANT PROVES A HERO

Dashes Through Heavy Fire to Get Re-enforcements for His Detachment—Germans Had Planned Attack, Knowing That United States Troops Were Holding the Positions.

With the American Forces in France, Nov. 7.—A young American lieutenant is the hero of the first real clash between German and American troops which resulted in the capture of 12 Americans, the killing of three Americans and two Frenchmen and the wounding of four Americans.

This young officer bravely tried to rush through the barrage fire that the Germans were dropping back of the American position to get re-enforcements for the attack he knew was coming. He had not gone but a short distance when a shell exploded near him, hurling him to the earth. He got up and continued going even though shells were falling all around him. A second shell exploded almost against him, knocking him down a second time. He got up for the third time, and tried to pierce through the rain of steel. He stumbled along in a semi-conscious condition until he was sent down for the third time, unconscious. He is suffering from shell shock, but is expected to recover soon.

Germans Had Planned Attack.

The German attack occurred on a sector of the front where the two first-line trenches are about 800 yards apart. It is believed that the Germans had planned the attack for several days, and that they knew that Americans occupied the trenches against which their movement was directed. The enemy took advantage of a heavy mist and rainfall in the early hours of Saturday morning to make the attack.

The relief had just gone when the Germans opened a heavy bombardment. They sent shell after shell into the first-line trenches and began dropping at the same time a heavy machine barrage in a horseshoe curve in back and around the side of the section of the trench they planned to attack. The barrage fire made it impossible for re-enforcements to be brought up. At the same time the Germans began shelling the barbed wire in front of the American trenches with detonating shells. Wide paths were blown through the wire entanglements by the German shells, making way for the advancing German troops.

Fought Like Veterans.

Despite the fact that it was their first time under heavy shell fire the Americans held to their posts like veterans, according to the report of the French divisional commander. Even though realizing that they would probably be greatly outnumbered, owing to the fact that no re-enforcements could be brought up, the Americans kept peering over the top of the trench while shells dropped around, watching for the Germans that they were sure would come.

The artillery fire on the first-line trenches suddenly lifted and through the holes in the barbed-wire entanglements poured German soldiers. The German party far out-numbered the handful of Americans holding the trench. It was said later that there was 210 Germans in the force.

The Americans are fairly aching to get a chance to retaliate.

The Americans who were killed will be buried in a little cemetery near a certain divisional headquarters.

Look for Peace Proposal.

Rome, Nov. 7.—The central powers will make an official statement of peace terms before the end of December, the Vatican believes, as the result of confidential information from Austria and Germany.

The Vatican is greatly interested in reports Hertling demanded a free hand to hasten peace as a condition to accepting the German chancellorship.

Kaiser Holds Crown Council.

Amsterdam, Nov. 7.—Emperor William today presided at a crown council held in Berlin.

Field Marshal Hindenburg and General Ludendorff attended, in addition to the imperial secretaries of state, the Prussian crown ministers and others.

Haig Strikes German Lines.

London, Nov. 7.—Field Marshal Haig struck another tremendous blow at the German lines around Passchendale ridge early today. "Satisfactory progress," was reported in his early statement.

The immediate objective of the British drives in this sector is Dixmude ridge, running parallel to the whole German line from Dixmude down through to Passchendaele. This is the backbone of Flanders, the high ground offering command of the terrain for miles in every direction. Just beyond it—three miles farther—lies Roulers one of the main centers in the German line of communications between the interior and the submarine bases at Zeebrugge and Ostend. The whole British campaign has been aimed at piercing of this line, forcing relinquishment of the submarine depots.

Pierce German Lines.

Paris, Nov. 7.—The French broke into the German lines at several points last night and took prisoners, the war office announced today. A German attack near Carnillet on the Champagne front, was repulsed. The communication follows:

"We carried out several surprise attacks against the German lines, especially west of Auberive and south of St. Quentin.

"A German attack on our small posts west of Carnillet was repulsed.

"On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) the artillery fighting was rather vigorous in some sectors.

"In Belgium there were patrol encounters."

Kerensky Acts as War Minister.

Petrograd, Nov. 7.—General Verkhovsky, the minister of war, has been granted an indefinite leave of absence by a government order which relieves him of his office. General Manikovsky has been appointed acting war minister temporarily, while the department will be under the general direction of Premier Kerensky.

Illinois Men Wounded.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 7.—The following American names appear in today's Canadian casualty list:

Died—C. H. Heathers, Washington, D. C.

Wounded—A. Mortonson, Rockton, Ill.; E. Nelson, St. Louis Park, Minn.; J. H. Walters, Berwyn, Ill.; J. Wallace, Boston, Mass.; W. Tait, Trenton, N. J.

Wounded and Gassed—J. Osborne, Ashford, Wash.

Canadians Push Ahead.

London, Nov. 7.—Canadian forces in their offensive against the Germans northeast of Ypres, on the Belgian front, have established themselves at a point a hundred yards beyond the village of Passchendaele, says a telegram from Reuter's correspondent at the British headquarters in France.

PRESERVE 'OPEN DOOR'

Japan and United States Said to Be in Accord.

Secretary Lansing Satisfied the Eastern Power Is Sincere in the Position It Has Assumed.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Japan and the United States have reaffirmed their determination to preserve the "open door" in China.

Japan is prepared to do everything in her power to promote "the suppression of Prussian militarism" and both nations have checked "a feeling of suspicion," according to practically identic notes exchanged between Viscount Ishii and Secretary of State Robert Lansing, supplemented by a statement by the latter, all of which was made public here today.

The clear and definite understanding between the United States and Japan that both shall oppose "the acquisition by any government of any special rights or privileges that would affect the independence or territorial integrity of China or that would deny to the subjects or citizens of any country the full enjoyment of equal opportunity in the commerce and industry of China," grows out of the visit of the special diplomatic mission of which Viscount Ishii was the head, to Washington. This understanding is affirmed in notes exchanged between the two statesmen and bearing the date of November 2.

Japan's earnest desire "to co-operate in every practical way" in the war against Germany is announced by Secretary Lansing.

The secretary expressed confidence that the understanding reached will make for and is essential to that "perpetual international peace" which is the ambition of President Wilson.

The results of the conference between the ambassador plenipotentiary of Japan and the secretary of state is looked upon in diplomatic and official quarters as a monument to the diplomacy of Lansing, the greatest diplomatic achievement in Secretary Lansing's administration.

Brazil Deputies Urge State of Siege.

Rio Janeiro, Nov. 7.—The foreign relations committee of the chamber of deputies has adopted a resolution, favoring the proclamation of a state of siege.

"BLACKHAND" AT MT. PLEASANT

School Boys Had Organization to Extort Money By Threats.

Mt. Pleasant, Mich.—Sheriff E. E Coon, of Isabella county, with the aid of Detective V. T. Twyning, of the Halloran National Detective agency, Grand Rapids, succeeded Monday in completing evidence against six school boys here, ranging from 15 to 17 years of age, for blackmailing prominent men of Mt. Pleasant.

The boys called themselves the "Black Four." Only four boys were at first members of theorganization.

The charter of the "Black Four" is in the hands of the sheriff and reads as follows:

"We do hereby promise to be loyal to our gang and risk even death for its honor and glory, and to the traitor death."

The boys are from prominent families of the city and four of them formed the black hand secretly a year ago. They adopted the charter February 15, and June 8 admitted two new members. The blackmailers had evidently gone at the business in earnest and cited a case in Detroit where a man was shot about a month ago for ignoring their mail.

DIAZ CAPTURES MEXICAN CITY

Revolutionists Defeat Carranza Army Villa Again Active.

El Paso—With 6,000 soldiers General Felix Diaz, head of the army of the Cientifico revolt against the Carranza government, has captured Puebla, one of the largest cities in Mexico, according to a report brought here by a Carranza colonel arriving from Mexico City.

General Diaz was moving against Mexico City with a force estimated at 30,000 men, the officer declared.

Villa Followers Blow Up Train.

Juarez—Villa followers dynamited a north-bound passenger train on the Mexican Central railroad at Armendariz station, 50 miles south of Chihuahua, Sunday.

Sixty federal train guards were killed, a number of passengers wounded and 110 bars of silver bullion belonging to an American mining company were taken.

The passengers on the train were robbed and several executed, according to Americans who arrived here Tuesday on the train from Chihuahua City. Villa is said to have been near at the time of the robbery.

M. A. C.'s 400 co-eds signed the Hoover pledge to observe Tuesdays and Wednesdays as meatless and wheatless days.

GOOD SPEAKERS SECURED FOR PATRIOTIC BANQUET

At Witherell Hall Tuesday Evening

A fine array of talent has been secured for the Patriotic Banquet to be given at Witherell Hall Tuesday evening. Men who know will talk, men who are giving of their time that this government may win this this war and some who expect to see foreign service.

The committee have secured Mr. E. T. Bailey of Jackson who spoke at a banquet recently given in Adrian and who held 200 men spellbound by his oratory. A Canadian lieutenant just back from the front will tell of his expeciences and Robt Darnton, Stuart Perry and others from Adrian will be present and make remarks

Seats for 200 will be provided and tickets are now on sale. The price for the supper has been placed at 60c in reach of all. The ladies of the Presbyterian church will serve the feast and there shouldn't be vacant seat in the hall Those who are planning to go should get their tickets early for they are going fast. Tickets may be secured from either bank Your attendance is needed to make the supper a big success and, above all, your Government needs your patriotism now, more than it ever needed it before. Don't be a slacker.

Mrs. Jennie Weir left for Detroit today for a few days visit with her sisters.

The Red Cross Concert Company will give a concert on Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at Holloway, Tribou LeBaron was taken quite ill Thursday but is reported much better at this writing.

Mrs. Laura Scofield left Wednesday for Covington, La., where she will spend the winter with her son Newton.

How the Horsefly Bites.

When a horsefly alights on a horse he walks around looking for a tender spot, and this he finds with his hairy feelers. Then he cuts a hole with the scissors on each side of his central tubular tongue.

An ordinary lead pencil cannot be sharpened to a point without sharpening the lead. So it is with the tubular end of this tongue-like extension of the horsefly, says the Popular Science Monthly. Nature has provided it with barbed, piercing "derrick ropes." The fly inserts these sharp points into the horse and then pulls back on them. The barbs hold, and the fly's tongue is forced down into the horse's flesh. But if the hole has already been made then it is not necessary for these elaborate tools to be taken from the sheath in which they are placed within the tongue or proboscis. The blood is sucked up by the tongue in practically the same way as by other forms of flies.

Inequality of Punishment by Fine.

An anomaly in our jurisprudence, limited, however, to the administration of criminal law, is the evil of allowing the purchase of immunity from punishment, writes Franklin Taylor in Case and Comment. A penalty is imposed with the alternative of paying a fine. The rich man pays and goes free. The poor man is imprisoned for not having the money. And even among those who can afford to thus purchase immunity the result is most unfair, because the punishment, instead of being commensurate with the degree of the offense, meets its severity according to the size of the defendant's pocketbook. To one man the amount is of no consequence, is not even a punishment. To another, because of his lowly position, a similar amount may mean weeks of toil, hardship, privation and suffering to himself and his dependents.

China and the Tartars.

The Manchu Tartars, who conquered the early Chinese, have left the impress of their former manner of life upon many styles seen today in Chinese fashions of clothing. For instance, the official coats, as seen in China at the present time, are made with very peculiar sleeves, shaped like a horse's leg and ending in what is an unmistakable hoof, completely covering the band. These are known as horseshoe sleeves. This is owing to the intense love of the early Tartars for horses, from whom they were practically inseparable during their generations of wild wandering before settling down in China proper. The old cue is also said to have been worn in imitation of the horse's tail and also as a useful halter to tie about the horse when the Tartar curled up beside his beloved dumb friend for a sleep.

Walrus of Alaska.

The Alaska walrus are enormous. The average one is as big as an ox, and it often weighs more than a ton. A walrus was recently killed by some whalers near Point Barrow, whose head weighed eighty pounds, and skin, including flippers, 500 pounds. That animal had a girth of fourteen feet, and its weight was over 2,000 pounds. The skin was from half an inch to three inches in thickness, and the blubber weighed 500 pounds.

Air in the Lungs.

In one minute, in a state of rest, the average man takes into his lungs about 43.8 cubic inches of air. In walking he needs 97.6 cubic inches; in climbing, 140.8 cubic inches; in riding at a trot, 201.3 cubic inches, and in long distance running, 347.7 cubic inches.

RED CROSS NEWS

Do not forget that Saturday, the 10th and Saturday the 17th, will be paper days in Tecumseh. Every householder is requested to tie up their waste paper in bundles: newspapers and magazines separately, and to place it on the front porch Sixteen boys will divide the town and call at every house to collect the paper. Any boy who wishes to volunteer, please communicate with Mrs. Thos. McCann. Every boy who collects 25c worth of paper will receive a junior membership in the Red Cross. All paper collected east of Pearl street will be taken to Mrs. McCann's and all west of Pearl street to Mrs. Hardy's.

The Red Cross will give a dance in Witherel hall, Thanksgiving night; Mrs. McCann is chairman, and the names of the committee will be published later. Tickets, $1.00, spectators 25c.

On Wednesday evening the headquarters were taken possession of by a merry young company, belonging to the Junior Presbyterian Sunday-school class. Abuot 30 were present and they made a big heap of gunwipes and those who could knit taught those who could not. Master Dale Bowen and Master Charles Gray had learned to knit before and instructed a class of boys in one corner. Miss Phelps did the honors and Misses Edith Rector and Grace Gillespie had charge of the meeting.

The Red Cross Company will give a concert on Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at Holloway.

MONDAY CLUB

A special plea is made for the Allied Children's Relief Fund. Miss Ethel Garlinghouse will have charge of the little white stocking which is now so pitifully empty and if the club women will only bring a few pennies, nickles or more it will bulge out in totally new manner e'er the meeting is over. Remember! Bring a little gift to make Christmas for the homeless ones across the ocean.

A rather unusual program is planned for next week's meeting of the Monday club. It is to be a day of Jewish heroines with papers by Mrs. F. G. Lewis and Mrs. Leon Rosacrans. Following the papers will be a series of tableaux depicting scenes from the lives of several Jewish women. Mrs. Floyd Heesen has charge of the program. Members may bring one guest each if they wish.

RESEARCH CIRCLE

The members of the Research Circle were entertained at the home of Mrs. George Zimmerman, Tuesday afternoon, with a good attendance. Mrs. A. C. Bryan was leader and the following program was given:

Mrs. A. Helzerman gave a fine paper on Railways, Telephones and Telegraphs of Australia. She was followed by Mrs. G. B. Garlinghouse with a paper on the Islands of Kodiak. Alaska—The Solution of the Worlds Opium Problem, was given by Mrs. Andrew Taylor.

Roll Call—Names of cities and locations in Alaska.

At the close of the program refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held next Tuesday at the home of Mrs. F. E. Smallidge.

Y. M. C. A. WORK

When her boy is at home the wise mother is not satisfied with forbidding questionable company and amusements; she provides wholesome recreation and makes her home a rallying place for the boy and his comrades.

That is just what the Y. M. C. A. is doing for your boy in the cantonments, and is seeking to do on a larger scale in France. Whether he comes home to you from the Inferno of the trenches safe and sound physically is in the hands of Providence. all you can do is to give generously to the Red Cross, and await the chance of war. If you want him to come back morally sound as he went, if you want his recreation hours wisely spent, that is largely in your hands. When you give to the Y. M. C. A. work you are helping to give your boy the best substitute for home that war knows.

MERRY-GO-RONUD

The Merry-Go-Round club was entertained Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R N. Lowe with Mr. and Mrs. Leon Rosacrans assisting in the entertaining. 500 was the chosen game of the evening. Instead of giving prizes the money was donated to Red Cross work.

A two course dinner was served at 7 o'clock. The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moore with Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Anderson assisting in entertaining.

WOOD BEE

Sometwelve neighbors and friends with their wives, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Al Haire, Wednesday, and cut down four pine trees in the door yard, cutting them up into stove wood and piling it in the woodshed ready for use. A pot luck dinner was enjoyed at the home of their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Zimmerman.

Mr. Haire still continues in a serious condition. This deed was a fine exemplification of the text, "As ye would that others should do unto you do ye also unto them"

JOLLY 16

The Jolly 16 were very pleasantly entertained Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. George Church. A two course dinner was served at 6:30, after which cards furnished the amusement. Prizes were given to Mrs. Oscar Lidke, Mrs. G. J. Ziehr and Mrs. Ed. Everette. With but one exception, every member of the club was present.

THE HOOVER PLEDGE

The darned old Hoover pledge has come to our house to stay;
To frown our breakfast bacon down,
and take our steak away;
It cans our morning waffles, and our sausage, too, it seems.
And dilates on the succulence of corn, and spuds, and beans
So skimp the sugar in your cake and leave the butter out,
Or Hoover's goin' to get you if you
Don't
Watch
Out.

Oh, gone now are the good old days of hot cakes thickly spread;
And meatless, wheatless, sweetless days are reigning in their stead:
And gone are the days of fat rib
roasts and 2-inch T bone steaks,
And doughnuts plump and golden brown, the kind that mother makes;
And when it comes to cake and pie,
just learn to cut it out,
Or Hoover's goin' to get you if you
Don't
Watch
Out.

So spread your buckwhetts sparingly,
and peel your taters thin;
And tighten up your belt a notch,
and don't forget to grin.
And if, sometimes, your whole soul yearns for shortcake high and wide,
And biscuits deenched with honey,
and chicken, butter fried,
Remember then that Kaiser Bill is short on sauerkraut,
And Hoover's goin' to get him if we'll
All
Help
Out.

JUMPED BOARD BILL

A wanderer gviing his name as A. B. Espland was arraigned before Judge Hosmer last Tuesday, charged with jumping his board bill at the Barrett Hotel. Sheriff Nutten went to Morenci Tuesday morning, working on possible clues in connection with the Clayton robbery and, inquiring at the hotel if there were any strange men registered, was informed that there was one who was at that time in his room. When he discovered the name on the hotel register he stated, "I want that man, for I have a warrant for his arrest in my pocket." Going to the room he found his party in bed. He was brought to Tecumseh and arraigned before Judge Hosmer. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $25 and costs and fifteen days in jail and if the fine and costs were not paid, 30 days in the county jail.

IMPORTANT SALE of Registered Holstein-Friesian Stock. As will appear in the auction sale advertisement elsewhere in this issue the Washtenaw County Holstein-Friesian Cattle Breeders' Club will hold an important sale of pure bred stock at Ypsilanti on the Fourteenth of November. The secretary of the Club in speaking of the danger of a milk famine which has been predicted, owing to the slaughtering of cows due to the high price of beef, very properly urges the importance of having these pure bred animals kept in this section instead of going into some other state. He emphasizes also the fact that America will be called upon after the war to furnish the breeding stock to rebuild the live stock industry of Europe.

"A Shine in Every Drop"

WHAT THE Y. M. C. A. DID IN MEXICO

When the National Guard was ordered to the Mexican border the Y. M. C. A. proffered their services to the president and their offer was accepted. They established thirty-eight temporary buildings and six tents, covering the line from the Gulf of Mexico to the Pacific. Isolated outposts were reached by motor trucks equipped with motion picture machines, phonograph, folding organ, song books, reading matter, and stationery.

These buildings became the social center of the groups in which they were placed, and were the coolest places in the daytime, the lightest spots at night, and the cherriest meeting places in camp.

As can readily be imagined from the haste with which they were erected and the extremely low cost (about $2000) these centres were not attractive to the men because of their architectural beauty or decoration. The thing that brought the men in to the buildings by the hundreds daily was the companionship and friendly service of the trained secretaries who were placed in charge. These men shared the discomforts of life on the border, and worked cheerfully from early in the morning till late at night.

The stories told by these secretaries would make stirring reading if it were permissable to transcribe them, but much that is told is of too personal and sacred a character to be revealed. To them, because they were friendly and sympathetic, man after man opened up his heart, telling of his discouragement, his temtations and his needs. One well-known minister of the Middle West, after ante-angelistic tour of the Border, said "This has been a great experience, but, after all, your Secretaries at the desk are the ones who have the great chances for helping men. Their personal friendly touch is of measureless value"

The equipment of these Association centres included writing-tables, fixed along three sides of the building, with benches attached; these were in constant use when the men had leisure. There were also tables for small games. A building fountain, the gift of the Red Cross, provide iced water. There was a piano or an organ on the platform and a phonograph which was seldon still.

A week programme in one of these buildings included motion picture entertanments, a lecture or a concert a meeting with a practical religious address, and perhaps a social, with a programme supplied and arranged for by the soldiers themselves. Much care was given to the discovery and enlistment of "talent" of all sorts which was abundant in camp. Educational classes were popplar and had a large enrollment.

A vigorous and practical program of religious work was carried out. The association building was placed at the disposal of all denominations. One building had a large Sunday-school with an attendance which freqnently exceeded 500. One company had everyone of its members in a Bible class.

Programmes of recreative and competitive athletics were arranged and first-class meets were runoff by the Secretaries in co-operation with the military athletic officers.

Every need of the soldier boy is met by the Association but they can not carry the work on indefinitely and meet the strain of the new needs without we support them.

Do not say "I have no boy in the army, so I am not interested." These boys are fighting to defend you; if you have no boys of your own to send it is all the greater reason why you should be ready to give when nothing but money is asked of you, where other mothers and fathers give their sons.

Mrs. Annette Crossman has been quite ill for the past week threatened with pneumonia She was taken to the home of her son, Truman and wife, Thursday Dr. Beardsley is attending her.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CLASSES ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Hurry's Class of the Methodist Sunday school was entertained at the home of Mrs. Wm. Anderson on North Maumee street Wednesday. A bountiful potluck dinner was served with covers laid for eighteen. A very pleasant social hour was enjoyed by all present. Mrs. J J. Neeley of Detroit, one of the old members of the class, was present.

The teacher Mrs. Hurry expects to spend the winter in Florida so the class are striving to have all the social times they can before she leaves and this meeting was a delightful one

Miss Nannie Kyle's Sunday-school class of the Presbyterian church was very pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. Willis Schreder Tuesday evening, twenty-five being present.

The topic of the evening was "The Conservation of Food," Miss Kyle reading an article by Hoover which furnished thoughts for the talk.

It was decided by the class to send a box of goodies once a month to each motherless boy who has gone to camp from Tecumseh. A very interesting and instructive evening was reported.

WESTMINSTER GUILD

The F. W. Chapter of the Westminster Guild was entertained Tuesday night by Mrs. Dale Hodges and Miss Lydia Babcock at the home of the former. The meeting was very well attended and two new names were added to the already long list of membership: Miss Barker and Miss Kenney.

At devotionals two more women of the Bible were discussed: Rachel by Mrs. R. M. Molles and Rebekah by Miss Anna Cutting.

Papers were read by Mrs. J. W Beardsley and Mrs Howard Bredow and music as follows: Vocal solo by Mrs. R. T Meade and piano duets by Mrs. F. B. Wood and Mrs. Ella Hodges

The delightful session was followed by a social hour during which the hostesses served refreshments.

The ladies, by motion, decided to work at the Red Cross rooms every two weeks on Monday evening, beginning next Monday.

BOUND TO SERVE

Rev. Frederick A. Patterson, rector of St John's Episcopal church in Sturgis, a Tecumseh boy, cousin of Chas. He is now a private and is ready to do his bit for his country.

POSTUM

Why does Mrs. Smith use Instant Postum

Sometimes, because it agrees with Mr. Smith better than coffee.

Sometimes, because she herself likes its constant rich, coffee-like flavor better than some coffees she has used.

Sometimes, because the children are so fond of it, and she can give it to them freely when she would hesitate to give them coffee.

There's a variety of reasons—all good ones—why so many consistent housewives are using

INSTANT POSTUM

And another reason, not to be overlooked these times, is its reasonable cost.

You can buy it at the same old price. (Made in America.)

The Two Family House

The Rent Was Low Because It Was Reported to Be Haunted.

By F. A. MITCHEL

Miss Laura Williamson was an orphan, doomed to make her own living. Being a stenographer and typewriter in a large city, she was obliged to pay for board and lodging nearly all her salary. It occurred to her to take a room in an inexpensive quarter and get her breakfast and dinner herself. One Sunday morning, having leisure for the purpose, she took up a newspaper and scanned the advertisements for lodgings.

There was an advertisement of a two family house, the rental of one suit of four rooms, furnished, on the ground floor, the price of which was no greater than what Miss Williamson had expected to pay for one room. She concluded to go at once and look it over. Half an hour's ride in a trolley took her to its location. She found the neighborhood respectable and the house itself apparently in good repair. The blinds of both stories were drawn, indicating that neither was occupied. Miss Williamson rang the doorbell of a house near by in order to make some inquiries. A woman came to the door and when asked if she knew anything about the condition of the house for rent replied:

"All I know about it is that every one around here believes it is haunted. It's been for rent for a long while, but no one will take either suit, for it is well known that there are ghosts in it. I understand that they've put the rent down to next to nothing, but still no one so far has been induced to live there."

Miss Williamson was not at all superstitious and had no belief in ghosts. She saw an opportunity to secure a suit of rooms cheap, and a few days later she took advantage of a holiday to visit the house with a key to the lower flat and was so pleased with it that she closed the bargain at once and the next Saturday afternoon moved her few belongings there.

On going to sleep alone in a strange house that was believed to be haunted she could not help giving way to a slight dread lest she might be disturbed in the night by the ghosts. But she banished the thought, and the next morning, Sunday, awakened by the sun shining in at her window, she experienced a comfort in finding herself in possession of four rooms, including a bath. The morning light took away all loneliness. As for the ghosts, she forgot all about them. Not a sound during the night had interrupted her slumber.

Miss Williamson was one of those persons who have resources within themselves and are not always pining for company. She occupied herself during her first day in her flat putting it to rights, and the rest of the time she spent reading. Having to rise early in the morning to go to work and being a good sleeper, she went to bed at 9 o'clock.

About 2 o'clock in the morning she was awakened by a tramping directly over her head. It was tramp, tramp, tramp, tramp in one direction, then tramp, tramp in another. Sometimes there were five or six steps, but usually from two to four. Then there was a brief cessation, after which the steps were subdued, more like a spiritual tread than the others. These finally ceased, and all was still.

Miss Williamson was puzzled. Not for a moment did she refer these sounds to ghosts. But what could cause them? She had supposed the flat above was unoccupied. Even if it was occupied, why should the only sounds come from it before cock crow?

Before Miss Williamson left the house in the morning she went to the upper hall and knocked at every door. No response. She tried the doors, but found them locked. Listening, she heard no sound. Then, from the sidewalk, she looked at the upper windows. The shades were drawn, as she had seen them before.

Miss Williamson experienced a sensation of discomfort.

That day produced more blunders on the part of the typewriter than she had ever made before. If she was to be awakened every morning before day by a tramping overheard by and by the matter would get on her nerves. If it did she would be deprived of sleep, and the result would be that she could not do her work. If she could not do her work and do it properly she would lose her position.

She went to her abode that evening not with the light heart she had entered it two days before. Before opening her main door she went upstairs again, knocked and tried the locks. All was still as before. Returning to the first story, she unlocked the door of her flat, half expecting that ghosts had been there and turned everything topsy turvey. Nothing had been disturbed, and the tenant set about cooking her dinner.

Everything depended upon the tramping being repeated that night. She went to bed hoping that it would not, but dreading that it would. She lay awake an hour longer than usual, though very tired and much troubled at having been reproved for the mistakes she had made during the day.

She woke up at midnight. Everything was quiet, and she soon dropped asleep again.

Tramp, tramp, tramp, tramp!

There it was again.

Tramp, tramp!

Miss Williamson remembered that the night before there had been four tramps in one direction, then two in another.

Tramp, tramp, tramp!

She was not quite sure but that the third series of tramps had been three.

The steps continued about the same length of time, the last sounds being muffled as before. Whether the listener had got more used to them or because of her disbelief in the supernatural, she did not seem to mind them as much as she had the night before. Perhaps the repetition of the steps in the same order as before may have had something to do with it. At any rate, her heart ceased its wild beating sooner than before, and after the sounds ceased she went to sleep.

The next morning she concluded not to repeat her attempt to find out if the flat above was occupied, but went directly to her place of business. Her attention was again distracted by her experience, and today she made a blunder that, had it not been detected, would have cost her employers something like $10,000. Before leaving the office she was handed a check for the salary due her and told that she need not return.

There was nothing to do but to go to her flat, get her dinner and on the morrow commence a hunt for another situation. But the prospect for one who had been discharged for making a serious mistake of getting another place was not bright.

Miss Williamson turned in that night wishing the ghost would come into her room during the night and put her out of her misery. If it did she might lie there till her rent was due without her demise being discovered.

That night she heard a door above shut, a few steps; then all was silent.

This was not a repetition of the sounds heard on the two previous nights.

Miss Williamson, shaking off her fears, got out of bed, put on a dressing gown and slippers and crept shrinkingly upstairs. All was dark and silent in the hall. She stood listening, but heard no sound. Then suddenly there came a groan.

This was too much for the poor girl's pluck, and she ran downstairs so fast that she came near breaking her neck, for she fell at the bottom of the flight, and since it was dark as Egypt she knew not what was in her way. She picked herself up and stood uncertain what next to do.

There was bravery in Miss Williamson's makeup, and she determined to make another attempt to discover the ghost. Climbing the stairs again, she stood with her face on a level with the top step. It was also on a level with the landing. Under the door of one of the rooms was a line of light.

For a few moments Miss Williamson's mind was balanced between two hypotheses. Either there was a supernatural glow in that room, or it was illuminated by artificial light. Being inclined to a rational view of things, she settled down to the opinion that a gas jet was burning in the room. Ghosts don't require gas jets. Therefore a human being must be in the room. At this moment there was another groan. This time the hearer's imagination was not at work, and the groan sounded human. It struck her that it proceeded from one who was ill. She went to the door in question and opened it.

On a bed with his clothes on was a young man. He was very pale and evidently in great pain. Miss Williamson approached him and stood over him.

"Shall I call a doctor?" she asked.

"No; I've been this way before. I'll get over it pretty soon. Please look in the top drawer of that bureau. You'll find a small bottle. Give me one of the tablets in it."

Miss Williamson produced the tablet, and it relieved the patient very soon. The paroxysm from which he suffered passed, and he did not have another. Miss Williamson told him that she had thought the flat he was in to be unoccupied and asked how he came to be there and why she had never seen him there in the daytime.

"I am a newspaper reporter," he replied. "I come in between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning, when the paper goes to press, and go out about noon. I am permitted by the owner to occupy this flat temporarily."

"You must be a sound sleeper," said the girl. "I have rapped at this door about 8 o'clock in the morning and received no response."

"I am a sound sleeper," was the response, "and lately I have been overworked. No maiden tap would awake me."

"If I had known that a man occupied this flat alone," said Miss Williamson. "I would not have taken the lower one."

"I don't occupy it. I am only permitted to use it temporarily. Besides, where's the harm? I come in at 3 a. m. and you go out about 8."

"Nevertheless I shall give up my rooms."

Miss Williamson gave the story as it has been told here—how she had been so upset by the strange sounds above her that she had blundered at her work and been discharged. She was out of a position, and now she must leave the only home she had.

"You shall not leave your home," said the reporter, "for I will cease to come here. As for a position, I think I can get you one with the city editor of my paper, who is in need of a stenographer."

A way was finally found by which the newspaper man remained, and Miss Williamson did not accept the position offered her. They concluded to marry, and the lady moved upstairs

Straight and sure—like an arrow that flies from the bow and imbeds itself in the bull's-eye—

So have the Maxwell builders fixed a price for their product—$745—which makes it possible for them to say:

"Below this figure there must be something lacking which we have put into the Maxwell—efficiency, durability, economy, comfort, beauty or standard equipment.

—and above this figure we could give you no greater practical utility—only larger size or richer and fancier furnishings."

This is the scientific fact—proved and demonstrated by one of the giants of the motor car industry in years of production on an immense scale.

BAN LIFTED ON DETROIT PASSES

Soldiers From Metropolis Are Again Permitted to Visit City.

Camp Custer, Battle Creek—Because of an apparent misunderstanding of oral orders issued by division headquarters regarding Detroit soldiers being granted passes to visit their home city, a modification has been made in the printed order which barred them from that privilege and the original barred from visiting their home city sumed.

The restriction on passes was put in force some days ago when it became known several of the men on leave had acted in an unsoldierly manner on trains returning to camp, and for over a week Detroit men were practically barred from visiting their home city.

The change in orders was welcome news to wives and mothers of Detroit men.

A number of wives of soldiers are seeking positions in Battle Creek that they might be as near their husbands as possible until they are ordered to leave. Local newspapers and business houses have been besieged with requests for work and for help in getting it, and in one case a wife with a young child was given a home in a prominent Battle Creek family.

"UP TO YOU" SAYS EMPEY

Arthur Guy Empey, American boy who went into the British army after the Lusitania disaster, who served two years, who came back to write that great book "Over the Top," says in America's greatest newspaper, the New York Times:

"Then," he went on, with a change of tone, and with admiration in his voice that showed how he felt before he had got to the end of his sentence, "there is the Y. M. C. A. You people in America ought to do everything you can to help the Y. M. C. A. It is the real home of the American soldier in France. It can't give him his loved ones, but it gives him the comforts and interests and pleasures of home. It brings home to him there in the mud of the trenches. And those Association men aren't drawing any wonderful salaries, either; they are volunteers, and they are in the midst of the mud and the firing, as the soldiers are, to make the soldier comfortable and help him maintain the religion and the manliness that he had when he went into the war. The Y. M. C. A. doesn't make any distinction in any way—Protestant, Catholic, Jew, atheist, every one is welcome.

"Show me the soldier who makes a disparaging remark about the Y. M. C. A. or its work, and I'll show you a soldier who is a detriment to the army, who is constantly in trouble, and who has lost the respect of officers and mates. It's up to you people here at home to help the Y. M. C. A."

Have you done your bit?

Y.M.C.A. STANDS BY CLEAR TO FRONT

TEACHES FOREIGNERS TO BE GOOD SONS OF UNCLE SAM—CURES HOMESICKNESS.

FOLLOWS SOLDIER ACROSS

Dug-Outs Cheer Soldier Last Thing Before Battle—"Last Evidence That Somebody Cares."

Michigan through the Y. M. C. A. is in the midst of the big drive to raise a million and a quarter dollars for the American soldier. The man and the woman who have been to Camp Custer do not ask "What for?" Those who have asked Michigan soldiers in camp what they think of the Y. M. C. A. do not ask "What for?"

The great lighted buildings in the rain and cold of a late autumn afternoon, a place for homesick boys to hear music and play games and read, they are what the Y. M. C. A. is paying for.

A bunch of foreign boys, sitting eager, interested, before a Y. M. C. A teacher, learning to speak the language of Uncle Sam—that is what the Y. M. C. A. is paying for. A thousand of these foreign-speaking sons of America are being taught to speak and write and read, to get in touch with what the country is doing through the newspapers and the men around them.

Men at play on the drill grounds afternoons, men at play in the big clean buildings at night—that is what the Y. M. C. A. is paying for.

This is in Michigan, here at home. It is only the beginning of the story of what the Y. M. C. A. is doing.

Standing By Overseas.

When the soldier goes out from Camp Custer down to the sea to go across the Y. M. C. A. will go along. In great tents or buildings at the embarkation points along the coast, when the first great sweep of distance from home has brought its homesickness the Y. M. C. A. with its piano, its lighted rooms, its games will be there. It will be there to the boys of Michigan just as it has been at Camp Mills on Long Island when the National Guard armies of the East have come down to the coast to take ship.

When Michigan boys land in France the Y. M. C. A. will be there, it is there today meeting other boys who have gone over and it will be there then when it is needed a thousand times more than it is needed on Michigan soil, great as the need is here. The soldiers of Michigan will be in a strange land, a land so busy that it has no time to entertain the men of other lands; there will be no one to talk the language, and there will be the hard temptation of women whose invitation needs no language. The Y. M. C. A. will be there with the bright, clean buildings, the songs of home and the friendly men.

Finally when Michigan boys go down to the trenches, when they go out to go over the last great top, in a dugout within the range of close fire, the Y. M. C. A. will be present. With a "God-speed" and a cup of hot chocolate the Y. M. C. A. will give the "last evidence that anyone cares." For three weary years the British Y. M. C. A. has been down there behind the thin, red line behind its army. Now the American army is coming and the American Y. M. C. A. is coming too.

Filling the holes, filling the vacant spaces in the lives of the men behind the battle fronts, spaces that have been filled with companionship with wives and mothers in American homes, this is the business of the Y. M. C. A. overseas.

Not preaching, not telling the men not to sin but acting and giving the men healthy activity and clean amusement to take the place of reckless debauchery in foreign towns full of bad liquor and worse women—this is the job of the Y. M. C. A.

You can't go with your boy—send the Y. M. C. A.

The first deer hunting accident of the season in Delta county was recorded when George Miller, a lumber jobber at Lathrop, near Escanaba, walked into a rifle trap set to shoot deer. The shot penetrated his hip. He will recover.

A new departure, a "community chorus" is being organized in Royal Oak with singers from Royal Oak, Ferndale, Birmingham and surrounding communities. The first production given will be "The Messiah" at Christmas, with a cast of 50 voices.

Grant Slocum, head of the Gleaner organization, has wired Food Director Hoover that organized Gleaners in Michigan are prepared to take over elevators which refuse to handle beans on a reasonable price basis this fall to eliminate speculators who are now alleged to be "bearing" the market to a point below actual cost of production.

CAMP Y. M. C. A. PLACE TO VISIT

MICHIGAN FOLKS AT CUSTER Y.

These are Michigan folks, eating lunch with their boy in one of the Y. M. C. A. buildings at Camp Custer. A lot of people come out to camp on Sunday. The boys wait in crowds around the fence where the car pulls in from Battle Creek to see whether their folks have come. Then the boys take these "tenderfeet" from back home around the camp. But that isn't all, they want a chance to talk and to eat the lunches that have been brought from home. The barracks filled with bunks are not the place to have the talk out and they are still less the place to eat what is in the big baskets. The Y. M. C. A. keeps "open house" to all these visitors and here the boys have taken fathers, mothers, wives and sweethearts on the many rainy Sundays this fall. It is just one of the Y. M. C. A.'s ways of being handy, of doing the thing that needs to be done. To let the folks in on Sunday sort of "keeps the home fires burning" and it gives the boy a memory of the folks that sticks by the Y. M. C. A. building after they have gone home.

LEADERS PUSH Y. M. C. A. DRIVE

Berrien County Takes First Big Gifts At Start.

Berrien county led off in the big state war fund campaign when it wired into state Y. M. C. A. headquarters Thursday of last week "One $1,000 gift, two $500."

Harry Lauder, the Scotchman, who has made millions laugh in every city of this land and most of Europe, gave a grand opener to Detroit's campaign for $700,000 in the Armory Sunday afternoon when he told the solemn story of the war.

The great churches of the cities of Michigan, the little country churches, opened their services to the story of the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday.

Campaign committees are at the top of their drive in every county in the state.

Soldiers from Camp Custer, Brigadier Generals Miller and Morse, several high staff and regimental officers, and a score of non-commissioned officers and privates have gone out into the cities and towns all over Michigan to tell the people of the state what the Y. M. C. A. means in camp.

The boys' campaign to "earn and give" $10 apiece was led off by the boys of Highland Park high school, Detroit, one hundred of whom got together in the very beginning of the campaign and pledged $1,000. Boys all over the state are looking for jobs that will earn them the $10 they need. Detroit manufacturing concerns are allowing boys to come in and stay long enough to earn their funds.

The state is divided into seven great districts outside of Detroit for purposes of carrying on the campaign.

12,000 Men at Y. M. C. A. Meetings.

At Camp Mills, the temporary embarkation point on Long Island, 15,000 letters are written on a Sunday by the 12,000 men. Here 30 secretaries are working in the six tents. The attendance of 12,000 men a day at religious meetings is not extraordinary.

WITH THE BOYS AT CAMP CUSTER

Dr. William F. English, of Saginaw, a member of the state board of health, will be stationed permanently at Battle Creek, to assist the military authorities and the state board of health in the campaign to protect the health and morals of the soldiers.

Soon each regiment will have an exchange in operation, and a call has been sent out for men to operate them.

The street car company has installed a series of wire fences and turnstiles and gates through which passengers must enter before boarding their cars.

Now that they are in their final training quarters, several of the units have started to decorate the sections they occupy. Headquarters of the military police is surrounded by an ornate border of assorted stones.

OBITUARY

Idyll Elaine Ashley daughter of Ira and Myrtle Ashley was born in Fairfield, April 3rd, 1909 and passed away November 5th, 1917, aged 8 years.

Little Idyll's affectionate and winning ways won her many friends and her parents cherished fond hopes for her future.

Having an illness in August from which she never fully recovered she was able to be about until 3 weeks ago Saturday when she gave up. All that loving hands could do was done but she passed away Monday at 4 p. m. leaving father, mother, brother and a host of friends to mourn her early demise. As the tenderest fairest flowers are soonest touched by the frost so the angel of death takes from us our little ones. The life dies not when both flower and leaf fades and goes down for shelter to Mother Earth, but it will rise and bloom and shed its fragrance round. So, too, we know when "He who is faithful and true" speaks the word, we shall come forth and live again.

Card of Thanks.

For the aid and sympathy of our many friends, we wish to express our deepest gratitude.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ashley and Curtis.

Miss Helen Millar, of Manistique, aged 13, has canned 227 quarts of vegetables and fruits. This is an official record for the state.

Rev. E. J. Nest of the Lutheran church, at Blissfield, while standing on a chair attempting to lower a window in his church, fell and sustained serious internal injuries.

Daniel A. Reed, managing director of Flint Board of Commerce, now directing publicity for the food pledge campaign, will go to France soon on a special government mission.

George Maki, 9, of Kinross, near Sault Ste. Marie, is carrying a bullet in his abdomen with apparently no discomfort. The boy was playing with a gun when it was accidentally discharged.

PATRIOTIC SUPPER BIG SUCCESS

275 Men Gathered at Witherell Hall Tuesday Evening

INTENSE PATRIOTIC FEELING SHOWN

$2600 Pledged for Patriotic League To Be Used To Carry on War Work

The Patriotic Supper given under the auspices of the local committee of the Lenawee County Patriotic League at Witherell Hall Tuesday evening was a big success from every standpoint. The committee promised to those who were lucky enough to secure tickets that a rare treat was in store for them and we have yet failed to hear of anyone who did not get their money's worth.

It was one of those meetings when the feelings of men run high, the very air of the hall was electrified with patriotism. It is seldom that a large crowd such as was gathered Tuesday evening is a unit in its opinions, many thoughts usually run through the minds of people which are contrary and at variance, but not so at this meeting. They seemed to be a unit and all agreed one with the other. If Kaiser Bill had been at this meeting they would have crucified him then and there.

The committee were fortunate in their choice of speakers and the facts that these speakers hammered home sunk deep into the minds and hearts of the men who feel themselves awakening to the great patriotic needs of the hour. Will Tecumseh stand back of the President and the Government? Well, if you could have seen that bunch of men, you would have received your answer.

Covers were laid for 275 men and by 6 o'clock they commenced to gather at the hall. They assembled in the Odd Fellows lodge rooms above and promptly at 6:30 the call was given to march down. The speakers who were to occupy the head table were asked to head the line, followed by the older men who were given the preference of the front seats. An orchestra made up of Tecumseh musicians who volunteered their services occupied the platform and struck up a martial air as the men marched in and took their places at the four long tables arranged for them.

The hall was beautifully decorated with flags of the U. S. A. Across the head of the room was stretched a line of the flags of our Allies. The pillars were wound with National colors and the electric lights were covered with Red Cross shades. At the speakers' table were seated Robt. Darnton, chairman of the Lenawee County Patriotic League, Stuart Perry, W. H. Burnham of Adrian; Watson Smith and Wm. Bailey of Jackson; Lieut. Reed of the 26th Canadian Battalion; Edward Frensdorf of Hudson; Dr. W. B. Hartzog, Dr. W. J. Balmer, Rev. W. A. Rex, Charles Burridge, president of the Tecumseh Commerce Club, H. S. Temple, township chairman of the Patriotic League, General F. B. Wood, chairman of the evening, John R. Nyland of Tecumseh and Representative Chas. Evans of Tipton.

A two-course chicken supper was served by the ladies of the Presbyterian church who provided for the wants of a hungry bunch of men both quickly and generously. During the serving several selections were played by the orchestra, the final number being the "Star Spangled Banner," the audience rising and joining.

Gen. F. B. Wood, acting as chairman, took charge of the program which followed. He reminded his hearers that we are at war and that every American citizen has a duty to perform.

The first speaker introduced was Stuart Perry, editor of the Adrian Telegram. Mr. Perry in opening his his remarks said that the American War Spirit is here. "Thank God, it has come at last!" Force and energy are now being displayed by our govenrment and by the people back of it.

He likened Italy and Russia to mustard plasters which seemed to be drawing away from the Allies. Our ship of state must clear its decks for action, casting aside everything unnecessary and be ready for action as now the whole strength of this great nation is needed. The idea was common when we went into this war that it was a sort of civilized war and moderate as wars go but it wasn't this kind of a war at all but the old-fashioned, cruel, brutal, hellish war of barbarism. We can't go into such a war with a string band and a bunch of roses. This is the kind of a war where a man kills before he is killed. "America can't go over the top until we develop hate against the German nation, we can't win without it." Reluctantly we have adopted this idea. President Wilson has given up hope of driving a wedge between the German people and their government. The cruelties perpetrated by the German people, enslaving prisoners, their lust, ruthless killing of prisoners and innocent women and chldren, all have branded them as barbarians. These things are applauded by the German people, the Germans are all alike Germany set out to rule the world and our mission is to put down and steam roll them in the dust. He likened them to a snake and said that we could make no peace with such a snake. It's a fight to the finish, we must not only make this world safe for democracy but make democracy safe for the world.

Ed Frensdorf of Hudson was the next speaker. He was introduced as a man whom Tecumseh almost claimed as her own and the fellow who runs a boarding house over at Jackson. Mr. Frensdorf stated that it was his belief that not many Tecumseh people were apt to board with him unless it was the attorneys. "Every drop of blood in my body is German, my people were imported from Germany, but every drop of my blood is ready to be sacrificed for Old Glory," announced the speaker. He had been hauled about Washtenaw county making speeches among the German American people.

He stated that he is substituting at Jackson prison so that Michigan's greatest soldier could serve his country and put the I. W. W. out of business. Col. Disque is now in Oregon and Washington moving timber for the government. One of his first duties on arriving in the west was to load 1142 I. W. W. and ship them out of the country.

Mr. Frensdorf touched on the loyalty of his big family in Jackson prison and told of how the prisoners were doing their bit for the Government. They had subscribed $452.60 to the Red Cross, invested $7250.00 in the first issue of Liberty Bonds and $6700.00 in the second. "Not so bad for inmates, some outmates haven't done so well."

Watson Smith of the Jackson Cushion Spring Co., a man who has closed his desk and is devoting his time to the actvities of the Army and Navy "Y" work, was next called on. Mr. Smith told of the work and of the plans being made to raise the $35,000,000 in this country and of the urgent need of workers in Europe, especially in Italy and Russia.

At the close of Mr. Smith's talk the Temple Quartette, Messrs. Will and Fred Dickinson, Juckett and Waring, sang two numbers.

The next speaker was Lieut. Reed of the 26th Canadian Battalion. He gave first handed news from the front. He is home on a furlough and convalescing from a shrapnel wound. He was warmly received and was given a rising salute and was asked to ascend the platform so that all could see him.

The lieutenant told of the training that our American boys would have to undergo from the time they first entered the cantonments until they arrived in the front line trenches in France. They would have to take the system of training laid down by army officers. No one can realize what life in the trenches is. A man must be absolutely fit, sound and vigorous of body in order to withstand the hardships. On arriviing in France the men are taught how to defend themselves against the deadly gas fumes, bayonet practice, how to use the rifle without the bayonet and to otherwise defend themselves.

"You people do not realize you are at war and will not until your men come back wounded. They will come home with one half of the face gone, blind, arms and legs missing and mutilated in every conceivable way." In France people are groping in the dark and her people are undergoing untold hardships. Gasoline is $1 per gal., coal is $60 per ton and potatoes $15.00 per bushel. No white sugar is to be had in London, the Imperial hotel, the best in London serves nothing but the blackest of sugar.

One of the greatest difficulties which the army is encountering is the temptations that the men encounter during their leisure hours. The Red Women of England and France have followed the army and venerial dieseases are common among the soldiers. The army "Y" is doing much to keep down this temptation and Gen. Pershing has forbidden his men to spend their furloughs in Paris unless they make their headquarters with the Y. M. C. A.

After training in the concentration camps the men are taken up and placed behind the trenches where they become accustomed to artillery fire and here are given trench training. Finally they are taken to the front line trenches by the way of lateral trenches. These front line trenches are anything but pleasant places and the men at times have to stand in water to their hips from 12 to 14 hours at a time. They sleep in dugouts some of which are covered and some of their beds are made by placing two by fours across the trench and stretching wire netting upon them. Blankets are not issued for the men in the front trenches so they use their great coats, but in the rear trenches each man is issued one blanket.

Food consists mostly of "bully meat and biscuits" and a fellow is lucky if he gets one hot meal a day. The men eat while on duty and standing. He told of a shell, fired by a "Fritz," which burst near where he was sitting munching a piece of bread and jelly spattering mud all over his bread, but knowing no more would be issued to him, he scraped the mud off and finished his repast. The trenches are full of vermin and rats but they prove themselves quite harmless and while they spread disease, still they eat up the filth.

The speaker then gave a description of a raid in which he took part at Vimy Ridge on the 16th. of last January. The commanding officers wished to know what particular division of the enemy it was who were occupying the trenches in front of them and the men were detailed to make the raid and find out. His division was taken back of the trenches and prepared for the raid. A reproduction of the enemies trenches was built and each man given instrustions as to what part he was to take in the attack. Artllery and tons of ammunition were brought up. The artillery opened up and shelled the enemies trenches. At the given time the boys went "over the top" and rushed for the trenches in front of them. Thousands of tons of shrapnel bursting not a hundred rods in front of them and the enemies shells behind them. A mine which had been tunneled out to a point under the "Fritz's" position and which was filled with high explosives and set off, throwing earth cement and "Fritzs" high into the air. The attack was won and the object of their attack was accomplished, he, himself, getting three Germans. One, a German officer, he shot squarely in the head. For gallant services during the raid he was raised to the rank of lieutenant and decorated.

"I was decorated," he said, "for going at the attack as told and doing it as I was told."

He lauded the work of the "Y" in France and was most earnest in the way in which he told of the great services they are rendering to the boys in France. The Y. M. C. A. are establishing hotels in the Alps where the troops may spend their furloughs. He closed his speech by saying, "You people back home will have to dig."

Chairman Wood then introduced his friend "Bill" Bailey of Jackson and spoke of him as a reformed lawyer. Mr. Bailey is one of the patriotic men of our country who have given up their profession and have given themselves to the service of their country. He is devoting himself entirely to the "Y" and expects soon to leave for France. He was given an ovation. He asked his audience to stand and sing America which they did with a good deal of feeling. His, perhaps, was considered the speech of the evening. He too, was forced to ascend the platform. He is one of those speakers who throw every ounce of their energy into it, a kind of "Billy Sunday" speaker who holds the closest interest of his audience and get their hearts pumping with enthusiasm.

His first shot at the men who heard him was, "If you are a tightwad, darn your soul, you are not fit to be here tonight." The greatness of a city is not its banks, its fine buildings or its pavements, but its manhood. The strength of the state is its manhood and the strength of the nation is the glory of its manhood. Since the war began there has been on an average 1,041 men killed every hour.

"Just think, men," he shouted, "while you have been sitting here peacefully smoking your cigars there have been kiled in action over 3000 soldiers."

There are 40,000,000 men today with their colors. On the 6th of April when war was declared the wind was blowing from the west and "Old Glory" fluttered toward the east and wafted its message across the seas to our German foes. The United States is the savior and will win this war for democracy.

He spoke of the work of the "Y" in which he is so deeply interested and its wonderful work with the men. A "Y" man will meet your boy as he takes the train from home and will stay with him during his training, will be with him when he sails, meet him as he lands in France and stay with him in the front line trenches. In fact the last man he sees as he goes over "the top" will be a "Y" man to encourage him and help him win.

He told of the "Y" work in France in Italy and what they hoped to do in Russia. Everywhere where the Allied forces are stationed will be found the "Y" with its good cheer and God speed.

He told of the Prodigal's Camp in France and stated that there were 200,000 cases of venereal disease in the British army alone which would take three generations to stamp out.

Gen. Pershing is calling back home, "For God's sake, send the "Y." "The best you can do isn't good enough for the boy who gives his life for you." It was a powerful appeal and had its effect upon his listeners.

Col. "Bob" Darnton of Adrian, "Lenawee's Grand Old Man," was the last speaker presented. Col Darnton spoke with a good deal of earnestness. "We have got to win this war and it can only be done by organization at home." Lenawee county is the best county in the United States, her people are the best and her army will be the best, he remarked. He was mostly touched by the sufferings of the mothers.

This country will not parley with the I. W. W. but will stand them up against a stone wall and shoot them and, if he could have his way about it, the "Red Women" who follow the Army would get the same treatment.

In closing he made an earnest appeal to the men of Lenawee county to respond to the call of the Patriotic League, to be liberal in their responses. It would take more money than they had at first thought and it must be taken care of. Lenawee county will be an unhealthy place for the unpatriotic citizens, the slacker, no matter who he or she is, will be taken care of. "We are united, but lets get togeher on the job. Are you ready to go over the top?"

At the close of Col. Darnton's talk General Wood arose and made a few brief remarks and while he was pointing out the duty of our people in standing back of the Patriotic League and was saying "Are you ready, men, to do your duty, are you ready to go over the top," a voice way back in the hall, the voice of Dr. C. A. Waldron cried out, "Yes, let's do it now." It was done. A dozen men passed through the audience and secured pledges for $2600 in less than 15 minutes.

Thus closed one of the most instructive and successful meetings held in Tecumseh for many a year.

SIGHT U-BOAT IN MIDOCEAN

Second Report Locates Diver 800 Miles Southeast of Halifax, Says Hydrographic Office.

New York, Nov. 14.—A second report of a submarine having been seen in mid-Atlantic was made public by the United States hydrographic office. The submarine was seen 800 miles southeast of Halifax a week ago. It was previously reported 935 miles off Newfoundland.

The Pere Marquette railroad has discontinued its fight against the two-cent passenger fare law. The road has dropped its appeal from the decision of the United States court, which denied an injunction preventing the state from enforcing the law.

Falling beneath the wheels of a freight train while coupling cars in the Pere Marquette yards at Benton Harbor, Allie Stafford, 36 years old, was instantly killed. The wheels passed over the man's chest. He was unmarried. He is survived by his mother.

IF YOU ARE AN AMERICAN CITIZEN, READ THIS NOW. IF YOU ARE NOT; NO TRESPASSING!

Shortly after the United States was forced to enter the WAR the Patriotic League of Lenawee County was organized for the purpose of raising $75,000. for the aid of the Red Cross and the ARMY and NAVY "Y." It was then thought that that amount would be sufficient to provide Lenawee County's share in this great National work, but the magnitude of this work is much greater than originally anticipated, and the Patriotic League now finds that it is necessary to raise at least $125,000. to make it possible for Lenawee County to do "its bit." Lenawee County has a reputation for doing its duty at all times. If it does not maintain its record in this crisis, YOU are TO BLAME if you fail or refuse to number yourself among the CHEERFUL GIVERS and WILLING WORKERS.

To raise this additional amount it is not only necessary to secure pledges from some who have not yet subscribed at all, but also to secure additional pledges from those who have already subscribed. If you have not already subscribed, go into a room full of rifles, bayonets, pistols, nitro-glycerine, gun-cotton, cannon, machine guns, etc., and think it over, and then see if your conscience tells you that you are already doing all you should for your BOYS AT THE FRONT by DOING EVERYTHING FOR YOUR SELF at HOME. And if you have already subscribed, if you have a comfortable income, and find that you have subscribed but a "wee bit," just go into that same room and count your ducats, and see if you find any well worn ones that really belong to the BOYS AT THE FRONT.

None of the Local Committee enjoy the task of getting these subscribtions. They areall busy men like yourself, who have many duties to perform, but having enlisted in this Patriotic Service, they are doing their best to have Tecumseh and Lenawee County do her full share in taking care of our Boys. Your support at this time is earnestly and urgently solicited, for this is a crisis in which OUR BOYS are looking to us for a service which amounts to nothing compared with the service they are giving us.

Several of the Tecumseh business men have volunteered to assist in this work, and if you will kindly call on one of them and fill out one of the subscription cards for your first or second pledge, as the case may be, you will be rendering a double service, which will be greatly appreciated, and which will not only save you the bother of being interviewed by the Committee or some new volunteer, but will also save someone the time that would otherwise be required in doing a work that you should already be interested in.

Any of the following men will explain the subscription cards to you and take your pledge: H. S. Temple, J. R. Nyland, G. E. Nemire, F. S. Turner, R. S. Moore, Rev. W. A. Rex, Dr. W. B. Hartzog, Charles Burridge, Leon Williamson and G. A. Rathbun.

THANKSGIVING DAY PROCLAMATION

By the Governor.

Thanksgiving Day is peculiarly an American festival. For generations the American people have observed it. The old New England Thanksgiving Day dates back, we are told, to 1622; and we still delight in it. It is a joyous home-coming for the scattered members of the family. They gather under the old roof-tree to feast and make merry. We go to church and give thanks to Almighty God for all his blessings and mercies.

Today, we as a nation have to face not only the problem of preserving our own sacred liberties, but of making the world a safe place to live in for the small nation as well as the great. We have gone to war for this righteous purpose. It is a purpose. It is a purpose worthy of our history and our best traditions. And may we not be thankful for the sturdy manhood and the splendid womanhood that are ready to make the supreme sacrifice for the sake of human freedom?

May God strengthen our arm and increase our courage, and may He keep us constant and steadfast until the victory shall be won.

Therefore, I, ALBERT E. SLEEPER, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby join the President of the United States in designating "Thursday the twenty-ninth day of November next, as a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer."

Given under my hand and the Seal of the State, this fifteenth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, and of the Commonwealth the eighty-first.

Albert E. Sleeper, Governor.
By the Governor:
Coleman C. Vaughan,
Secretary of State.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Mrs. O. B. Finch had a birthday Tuesday and about twenty members of the Ever Ready class of the Baptist church dropped in and completely surprised their teacher.

After a bountiful potluck dinner, the class was called to order by the president and the company joined in singing "Blest be the tie that binds" Dr. Hartzog then led in prayer after which the President, Mrs. Bryan in behalf of the class presented Mrs. Finch with an electric toaster as a token of their love and esteem.

After spending the afternoon in visiting and knitting each left wishing many returns of this natal day for our beloved teacher.

WHY BOYS LEAVE THE FARM

"Why did you leave the farm, my lad? Why did you bolt and quit your dad? Why did you beat it off to town, and turn your poor old father down? Thinkers of platform, pulpit, press are wallowing in deep distress; theyseek to know the hidden cause, why farmer boys desert their pas. Some say they long to get a taste of faster life and social waste; some say the silly little chumps mistake the suit cards for the trumps in wagering fresh and germless air against the smoky thoroughfare We're all agreed the farm's the place so free your mind and state your case!"

"Well, stranger, since you've been so frank, I'll roll aside the hazy bank, the misty cloud of theories, and show you where the trouble lies. I left my dad, his farm, his plow, because my calf became his cow. I left my dad—'twas wrong, of course—because my colt became his horse. I left my dad to sow and reap, because my lamb became his sheep. I dropped my hoe and stuck my fork, because my pig became his pork. The garden-truck that I made grow—'twas his to sell, but mine to hoe. It's not the smoke in the atmosphere nor the taste for 'life' has brought me here. Please tell the platform, pulpit, no fear of toil or love of dress is driving off the farmer lads, but just the methods of their dads!"

WHEN YOU BUY GROCERIES

You are simply purchasing the necessaries to keep you and your family strong and well.

It is largely a question of nourishment—and of energy derived from food.

If you study the eatables question you will find almost invariably that high-grade goods and digestibility and healthfulness go together.

We discovered that long ago. Also we discovered that the ONLY lowpriced groceries are those that are so good that there are none any better.

You can, if you like, keep your table supplied with unquestioned grocery goodness all the year round—just by shopping here.

SEES INTRIGUE IN ITALY DRIVE

War Secretary Points Out Task Placed on Allies by Germany's "Political Offensives."

BRITISH AND FRENCH GAIN

Declares Situation in Italy Is Developing as Normal as Can Be Expected Under the Circumstances—Germans and Russ Fraternize.

Washington, Nov. 14.—The effect of Germany's "political offensives" against Russia and Italy upon the task ahead of the allies is recognized in Secretary Baker's weekly review of the military operations issued by the war department.

"The close interrelation of events on all fronts cannot too frequently be emphasized," says the review.

"The political situation in Russia made it possible for the enemy to detach important contingents in the east which were speedily transported to the Italian front.

"It is not unlikely that before initiating their powerful drive against the Italian forces, the enemy made painstaking and systematic attempts to undermine the morale of the Italian troops, with a view to breaking down their resisting power.

Shows Kaiser's Political Offensive.

"This carefully planned political offensive conducted preparatory to their military offensive reveals clearly the present methods of the Germans.

"Surveying the broader aspects of the European situation today, we find that the enemy in the east is confining his efforts to political propaganda. Along the Italian sector he has recently made desperate attempts to secure a decision by means of a politico-military drive. In the west, while attempting to sap the fighting strength of the belligerent peoples, the enemy has now been compelled to act on the defensive, and is being slowly but surely driven back.

"It should be borne in mind, however, that the further disintegration of the Russian forces will mean that the Germans will be able to thin out their line along this front, which will thus automatically contribute to the stiffening of their resistance in the west, as well as render available added contingents to take part in the engagements nof proceeding in Italy.

"During the week just closed, both the British and French were able to record significant tactical gains, the culmination of a long series of powerful driven offensives.

"With Passchendaele securely in British hands, the first stage of the operations begun during the last week of September have been brought to a successful conclusion.

The French counterpart of the British success took place north of the Aisne. Here the retreat of the enemy anticipated last week was carried out. The pressure of the French offensive, which has grown slowly and methodically in volume and intensity, reached a climax when by the recent French advance in this sector they were enabled to enfilade the German lines along the crest of the Chemin des Dames.

"For the last three years the presence of the enemy on this ridge had been a source of anxiety to the French. To dislodge them was a principal objective of the repeated offensives developed by General Petain since last April. The sudden forced evacuation of some forty square miles of the most important terrain in this sector of the western front has been the tangible result achieved.

"The importance of this successful French advance must not be overlooked. It means more than a mere gain of so many square miles of territory; it means the penetration of the powerfully fortified Siegfried line, hitherto considered by the enemy impregnable, and pushes back his main defensive position to within five miles of the fortress of Laon, the major objective.

"In the sector where a small detachment of our troops had taken up their places in the trenches as a part of their training, the enemy (as is customary in trench warfare when fresh troops are believed to have taken places in front-line trenches) for reconnaissance purposes, executed a well planned raid and succeeded in temporarily penetrating the short segment of the line held by our forces, inflicting a few casualties and taking prisoners.

"A unit of our artillery, also in the course of its training, came in contact with the enemy and acquitted itself very creditably in this first encounter.

Italian Resistance Stiffening.

"In Italy the situation is developed as normally as can be expected under the circumstances

"For the time being it would be of little avail to endeavor to seek for the contributing causes of the successes gained by the Austro-German forces which have resulted in their incursion into Italy.

"The Italian retreat somewhat confused in its earlier stages has now become more orderly and the retirement of the main forces of the Italian armies during the week continued uninterrupted.

"The line of the Tagliamento river was held by the Italians long enough to insure the safe retirement of large bodies of troops. This line has now been abandoned and the enemy penetrating the Venetian plain has reached Livenza.

"The Italians are continuing their efforts to hold back the advancing Austro-German forces.

"The morale of the armies, shaken by the recent events, is being rapidly restored. Allied re-enforcements have now formed a junction with the Italians. The pressure of the enemy is no greater.

"Along the eastern front no operations of military importance took place.

"The enemy, instead of attacking has renewed its efforts to fraternize with the Russians. Owing to the involved political situation and the fresh outbreaks of the extremist elements it is probable that these may have a marked influence on the general strategy of the war which we must be prepared to meet."

LIEUTENANT NUNGESSER

Lieutenant Nungesser, premier "ace" among France's war aviators since the death of Captain Guynemer, was seriously injured recently when his automobile, the gift of the king of England, was upset. He sustained broken ribs and other injuries and the surgeons said that while he might recover, his flying days were over.

LUNG TESTS GIVEN CUSTER SOLDIERS

ANY ONE FOUND TO HAVE TRACE OF TUBERCULOSIS WILL BE DISCHARGED AT ONCE.

SPECIAL BOARDS MAKE TESTS

Important That No Infected Man Be Sent Abroad As Trench Life Will Spread Disease.

Camp Custer, Battle Creek—Because sunlight and proper ventilation are the enemies of tuberculosis, and because life in the trenches and dugouts of Europe tends to spread the disease, the war department has ordered that every man in the Eighty-fifth division at Camp Custer be tested for tuberculosis symptoms.

If the slightest tendency to tuberculosis is found the man will be instantly discharged from the service not only for his own good, but for the protection of his companions.

This work will be done by specially appointed boards. Four boards will do the work. Each board is made up of three men and it is expected that two months will be needed to complete examinations.

The boards are composed of officers from the medical reserve corps and contract surgeons from civil life.

The only ones in camp who will not be subjected to the examinations are officers who have recently been graduated from officers' training camps.

Charles O. Lake, Mason county farmer, says "John J. Smith, Ludington," wounded in trenches held by American troops in France, is his son. Young Lake enlisted under an assumed name to avoid publicity.

Names of the following Michigan men appear on Canadian casualty lists: Herman Ludwig, Benton Harbor, killed in action; M. A. Wadsley, Flint, and Ray Reed, East Jordon, wounded. Gassed: J. D. Carroll, Richmond.

The High Heart—Basil King. Considered one of Basil King's best novels.

Luck of the Irish—MacGrath.

Ladies Must Live— Miller. A bright little story of society pirates, but not such a general favorite as "Come out of the Kitchen" by same author.

His Dear Unintended—Ellis.

The Long Lane's Turning—Rives.

The Lookout Man—Bower. A good one for those who are always wanting anothr Western story.

A Son of the Middle Border—Garland. This is well worth reading both as an interesting story and as history.

Alexis—MacLean. Especially enjoyable to those who love and understand music.

The Rise of David Lovinsky—Cahan. An interesting Jewish story.

Neighbors—Kingsley. This gives us further news of Miss Philura who was so happily "transfigured" in one of the author's earlier stories.

Amarilly in Love—Maniates. "Amarilly of Clothes Line Alley" was such a favorite that she could not escape a few love affairs - nor being published in a second book.

Skinner's Baby—Dodge. Another clever Skinner story.

White Ladies of Worcester—Barclay. A fascinating romance by the author of the Rosary, and rather more worth while than some of the author's earlier works.

For the young people there have several books for boys such as Hitting the Line; Forest Castaways; Mark Tidd in Backwoods Secret of Old Thunderhead; Navy Blue; three Danny Fists books; Stampcollecting; When Max Came, All About Aircraft; and American Indian Fairy Tales.

For girls there are more Patty books and more of the "Six Girls and Bob" series; also Betty-Bide-at Home; Plucky Little Patsy; and The Interlopers.

There was a very satisfactory response to the call for books for soldiers and we are grateful indeed to Mrs. Burridge for her generosity in paying the express on the books and magazines sent.

25 surgical shirts were sent to Adrian from the Headquarters.

Miss Hosmer has 15 sweaters, 20 mufflers and 17 pairs of wristlets ready to go.

Miss Hosmer wishes to emphasize the fact that when she seems critical about some of the work brought in, she is only obeying instructions from National Headquarters. The size and length of the garments are rigidly defined, and if Miss Hosmer should send goods in, which are not up to specifications, they would be returned to her. She has partially unravelled and finished numerous garments, which would not have passed muster, not because she was anxious to find work, but because they would not have been accepted; this week alone she made over five mufflers which were not correct. Soldiers do not criticize their officers for the orders they give, so why should we criticize the department directors, who carry out the orders from their officers in regard to the work we do?

Miss Phelps wishes to notify the House Committee that there will be a meeting of the members of the committee at 2:30 p. m. on Saturday. She requests the ladies to be present.

Volunteers are needed to teach the children to knit. We would like several ladies to make dates to come to the Headquarters after school for an hour or so. Kindly communicate with Miss Phelps.

We are again appealing for scraps of wool, to knit afghans; any length any color, any weight We have used up all we had Please give them to Miss Hosmer or Miss Phelps

Mrs. Lena Crane begs to notify her committee that there will be no meetings next week at Headquarters, on account of Thanksgiving.

Miss Hosmer says that Adrian is hurrying up the work and she would be grateful if her knitters, who have had wool yarn for some time back, could bring in the goods, as she wishes to account for it.

Received by Mr. Guy Nemire for donation fund:

The Christmas fund is still open for donations. They will be gratefully accepted by Mr. Guy Nemire, Miss Phelps, at Gaston's store and by Mrs. Hardy.

The latest receipts bring the total returns from Paper Day to $62.50 This was all net profit and the result was so successful that we intend to have another one in two months' time. Please save up your old papers, tie them up and put them away.

Mrs. Thos. McCann entertains all the boys who collected papers at luncheon this (Friday) evening at 6:30. We hope all the boys will be there.

Do not forget to buy your tickets early for the Red Cross dance on Thanksgiving night; the committee has done everything to assure your having a good time. Tickets $1.00 for a couple, extra lady 50c, from the members of the committee or Mrs. Hardy

GRAND DUKE AT HEAD OF ARMY

Vienna Dispatch, Via Geneva, Says Plan on Foot to Restore Monarchy in Russia.

KERENSKY ARMY IS AT LUGA

Two Corps Loyal to the Provisional Government Reported Ninety Miles From Capital—American Red Cross Under Fire.

Paris, Nov. 21.—The Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch has been put in command of General Kaledine's Cossacks in a plan proposed by that general to restore the monarchy in Russia, according to a dispatch from Vienna, via Geneva, printed in L'Information.

Red Cross Under Fire.

Petrograd, Nov. 21.—Several members of the American Red Cross commission to Russia, who were under fire in the National hotel at Moscow at intervals during the week of street fighting there, have returned to Petrograd. Many of the windows of the hotel were riddled by rifle bullets and many persons wounded in the streets were brought into the building, where they were assisted by the members of the mission. None of the party was injured and all are in the best of health.

Kerensky at Luga.

Petrograd, Nov. 21.—Two army corps loyal to the committees for the salvation of the revolution, stationed at Luga, 90 miles from here, report that Premier Kerensky is with them. There is no confirmation.

After the defeat of his forces at Gatchina Premier Kerensky was faced with the proposed desertion of the bulk of his army. The premier was coerced into promising to surrender to the bolsheviki government, but while the guard was being formed he disappeared, disguised as a sailor. The committee for the salvation of the revolution is opposed to the bolsheviki regime in Petrograd and has protested against the order of arrest of Premier Kerensky.

Luga is on the Petrograd-Pskoff railway, about 90 miles south of Petrograd and 60 miles south of Gatchina.

Seven Maximalists Resign.

Seven commissioners appointed by the maximalist government to manage various departments have resigned their posts in protest against the "methods of political terrorism" by which they allege the bolsheviki seek to maintain themselves in office.

"We are of the opinion," they assert in the declaration announcing their retirement, "that the necessary form of socialistic government by parties is that participated in by the congress of workmen's and soldiers' delegates."

They do not wish to follow the lines chosen by the bolsheviki, which they assert "lead to alienating the proletariat element from political life and led to the creation of an impossible regime, which means the destruction of the revolution and the country."

Among the commissioners quitting their posts were those in charge of trade, industry, interior, supplies and press. The labor commissioner joined in the protest, but retained his post.

Eighty Thousand Persons Executed Since the Beginning of the War in 1914.

London, Nov. 21.—Eighty thousand persons have been hanged in Austria-Hungary since the beginning of the war for political or racial opposition to the government, pacifist activities and separatist propaganda, according to estimates here.

Ex-Czar's Property Attached.

New York, Nov. 21.—A writ of attachment on the personal property here of Nicholas Romanoff, deposed emperor of Russia, was signed by Justice Russell Benedict of the state supreme court in a suit for $2,800,000 brought against Mr. Romanoff by the Marine Transportation Service corporation for alleged breach of contract on goods ordered by Russia.

ALLIES SINK 5 SUBMARINES IN ONE DAY

Premier Lloyd-George Tells Commons U-Boat Peril Is Ended.

DEFENDS HIS PARIS SPEECH

Declares He Acted to Arouse Public in France, Italy and America—Pershing Backs Interallied War Council.

London, Nov. 21.—Five German submarines were destroyed on Saturday alone, Premier David Lloyd-George told the house of commons. The premier added that he had no further fear of submarines.

These statements were made during the debate in which Mr. Lloyd-George fought the fight of his political life.

The opposition against the premier, headed by former Prime Minister Herbert H. Asquith, apparently switched its plans since last week's opening fire on Mr. Lloyd-George, and today, when Mr. Asquith summed up against his successor, he centered his fire not so much on the proposed supreme interallied war council, which it was feared would change the British army system, as on Lloyd-George's "brutally frank" Paris speech.

Speech Not Impulsive.

Responding, Mr. Lloyd-George declared his Paris speech was "not an impulsive one."

"It was carefully considered and submitted to the cabinet," he added. "I resolved to assume the risk in order to arouse public sentiment, not merely here but in France, Italy and America."

The new scheme had been launched, he declared, in an indictment of the general strategy of the allies, on the ground that it had been in several instances dilatory or misdirected.

Taking up Mr. Lloyd-George's "brutally frank" speech at Paris, he vigorously criticized the premier's statement that the allies 'action toward Serbia and Roumania had been "an ineffecable blunder."

"Such a statement is unjust to the allies' statesmen and soldiers," he asserted.

Hampers the Allies.

"The allies' consultative machinery has been inadequate and its effects grevious," replied the premier, opening his defense.

As far as he could gauge, public opinion in America would have preferred a council with executive powers, but there were reasons why he thought it undesirable to set up a council with full executive authority unless the allies were absolutely driven to it by failure of the present scheme.

General Pershing was among the commanders who agreed to the council plan last July, the premier declared. Others were General Foch of the French staff, Robertson (British) and Cadorna (Italian).

The premier told the house arrangements had been made to supply information in regard to naval matters to the war council.

Lloyd George Upheld.

London, Nov. 21.—The reception of Premier Lloyd George's speech in the house of commons, by newspapers, justifies the assumption that the storm which lately threatened a crisis has passed not only without damaging the premier's hold on the country, but perhaps even strengthening it.

SPAIN WARNS U. S. AVIATORS

Threatens to Fire Upon Any American Flyers Soaring Over Her Territory.

London, Nov. 21.—A Madrid dispatch says the Spanish government has issued a special warning that Spain would regard any flight of American airplanes over her territories as a violation of neutrality and would instruct the military to fire on such airplanes.

VILLA BEATS FEDERAL FORCE

Government Troops Attempt to Trap Bandit's Men and Are Almost Wiped Out.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 21.—A force of government troops, attempting to set a trap for Villa forces advancing on Chihuahua City, were almost annihilated when they encountered the bandits near LaMula pass, according to reports reaching here.

Aviator Near Death in Lake.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Lieut. Lee Hammond, Great Lakes aviator, was flying 200 feet above the lake and two miles from shore when his engine flew to pieces. Chunks of the steel and iron narrowly missed him and one wing of his hydroairplane was wrecked. He landed safely on the water, however, and was rescued by a launch.

Sale of Railroad Is Ratified.

Milwaukee, Nov. 21.—The sale of the Wisconsin & Michigan railroad under foreclosure proceedings at Peshtigo, Wis., to A. K. Bodholdt of Chicago, recently, was ratified by the federal court. The Wisconsin portion of the road brought $220,000 and the Michigan end $180,000.

ANOTHER RED CROSS NURSE CALLED

Miss Beth Satterthwaite has received her call to report for service in France as Red Cross nurse and expects to leave very soon. The local Red Cross has presented her with $50.00. This makes the second loyal member of the Satterthwaite family to enter the service and the second one of our Tecumseh girls to go as nurses. Miss Anna Ferguson is already in France in Hospital Unit 36. While we are loathe to see them go yet we wish them God-speed and a safe return to theri country and their loved ones.

ANOTHER DIVORCE GRANTED!

"Mutt & Jeff's Divorce' the most talked of musical comedy sensation of the age is coming to the Bradley Opera House, Tecumseh, next week Tuesday, November 27th. Few of the millions who have roared over the convulsing antics of the rediculous Mutt & Jeff in prior musical successes could conceive that the duo could ever be funnier, but the reports are authentic and critically endorsed that the newest medium for their esploitation surpasses in opportunity for mirth, music and melange all the super qualities of the past.

Its divorce the rollocking pair this time, and the subject is shot at from a thousand comic slants in three uproarious acts that pass, it is said, with the fleetest wings. Three acts filled with catchey songs, pretty girls, gorgeous gowns, novel dances and a carload of special scenery and novelties. Theatres not big enough to hold the masses that go to see these two funny men. Right over at Detroit last Sunday, according to official repors, the line waiting to gain admission for the matinee at the Lyceum theatre was the biggest ever lined up in the history of that theatre. Its that way everywhere. Tecumseh will be no exception so get your tickets as early as possible. The seat sale opens at Hay's Monday morning.

Entered in the postoffice at Tecumseh, Mich., second class mail matter.

Telephone Number 36.

The removal of the passenger train on the Battle Creek division of the N. Y. Central lines, commonly known as the D. T. & M. road, which goes into effect Sunday, is causing no end of unfavorable comment.

This train which is to be taken off arrives in Tecumseh from the west at 10:22 a. m. In the afternoon it returns and leaves Tecumseh for the west at 4:02. This train service is about the only outlet the people of Tipton and Onsted have by rail. After Sunday the only service given them by this road is a combination freight and passenger train which leaves Tecumseh for the west at 9:10 a m. and one due to arrive from the west at 2 p m and, as freights go, a mighty poor way to travel and an uncertain shipping convenience.

The people along the line are doing everything in their power to have this service put back again L A Schroeder of Toledo, general passenger agent of the railroad, met Adrian business men and representatives from the various towns along the line at Adrian Thursday morning and a general discussion of the matter was entered into

Mr. Schroeder explained that it was a war measure and that the N. Y. Central were trying to take care of the enormous amount of shipping which is required of them and, in order to do so, many trains have had to be taken off their various lines, care being taken, however, in removing service where it would be least felt.

It was pointed out that the people of Onsted and Tipton were shippers of milk to the Adrian condensery of the VanCamp company, averaging some 100 cans daily, and also were shippers of large quantities of poultry, eggs, etc, for eastern markets and that with no morning express train it would be a great handicap to their business. Mail service will be almost hopeless and will set these people a day behind with their mail matter.

A hearing in regard to the matter has been granted by the state railroad commissioner and is in session at Lansing today Both Onsted and Tipton are being represented at this meeting

At a special meeting of our village council held Monday, the issue was taken up and it was voted to send a petition to E D Moon not to remove the trains, a copy of this petition to be sent to the state railroad commission

In removing this service it looks as if the railroad company were figuring only for their own convenience and that the people living along this line were given little or no consideration in the matter.

Tecumseh has been a favorite trading point for people living in Tipton and Onsted and with this service removed it will be impossible to get into Tecumseh until about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, no morning service being provided by the road and no way to return by rail until 9:10 the next morning. It is to be hoped that sufficient pressure may be brought to bear upon the railroad authorities to force them to put this passenger train back on this division.

RELEASES FROM CUSTER BARRED

Local Draft Boards Cannot Re-open Cases of Men Now at Camp.

Lansing—Under a new ruling just received from Washington, local draft boards are prohibited from re-opening any cases of men who are already at Camp Custer.

General Crowder says the unrestricted opening of cases of men not yet inducted into military service is delaying the raising of the army and the reopening of cases of men already in is interfering with the training.

Any person already inducted into military service who claims that he has not had a full hearing or fair opportunity to be heard by a local or district board as requested by the selective service law and regulations or who claims that the board has exceeded its jurisdiction or substantially violated the selective service law or regulations in passing on his claim may apply to the commanding officer of his mobilization camp at any time within seven days after arrival at the mobilization camp to be discharged under the provisions of regulations.

WITH THE BOYS AT CAMP CUSTER

Commanders have been authorized to lengthen the time of passes to Battle Creek to allow their men to attend the theatres of the city.

Nearly 200 complete suits of soldier winter underwear were stolen when one of the division clothing warehouses was broken into. Entrance was gained by forcing the lock on one of the main doors.

Because of excessive fare and intermittent service by the street car line to camp, hundreds of soldiers and workmen are now walking to Battle Creek instead of riding. Many of the men, since they assigned part of their pay to the liberty loan fund and to dependent relatives, feel the 15-cent fare beyond their means.

Mrs. Ollie Baugh of Newport is dead from injuries received when the rifle she was using to hunt partridge accidentally discharged.

F. W. Bouska, America's leading butter making authority, will lecture daily at the special dairy and creamery course at the M. A. C., December 17-22.

TO THE POOR INDIAN

In the Palm Beach News of November 16 just received from our friend John Kratzer, the following account of the Indians is well worth knowing.

That old libel that "the only good Indian is a dead Indian" is being disproved in remarkable fashion. In the war the Aborigines, who strictly speaking are the only native Americans are shining both as volunteers for army servce and as buyers of Liberty bonds. The richest Indian of them all has his fortune, $800,000 invested in Liberty bonds.

Both Indian citizens and those who being wards of the nation, are exempt from draft duty, are enlisting for the war with enthusiasm that rivals that of their paleface brethren.

Half of the Comanches of military age have enlisted at Fort Sill.

A hundred Choctaws have volunteered.

The Indian schools in the east are being depleted of pupils by the eagerness of the scholars to fight for Uncle Sam.

It is a touching evidence of the patriotism of a class of Americans who have not always received justice from the government they now seek to serve.

Saginaw Silo

Every article purchased carries TEMPLE service INSURANCE

Silo Facts:

While at the Saginaw home office last week, was much surprised to find that lumber for silos is about as scarce as coal.

We saw letters from lumber firms refusing to furnish lumber for silos because the Government is taking this class of lumber.

Do you realise what this means?

We do, and so tried to buy some of the silos on hand, but were told the only way to get a silo was to turn in the orders.

If I was a farmer, and expected to buy a silo, I would get my order in AT ONCE, knowing I was saving $50.00 or more. The interest on an order taken now does not begin until August 1st.

$50.00 is big interest to get on your money from now until summer. This you will lose it you wait till summer.

Another thing—You little realize the starving stock in the northern part of the state, the starving people in foreign countries; the increasing scarcity of beef, milk and butter. Every dairy state in the whole United States has implored it's farmers to put up silos in order to make the feed go one-third further. When you buy a silo for your own profit, you are "doing your bit" to supply more food for some starving family in foreign countries.

The average farmer says, "I'll will wait and see." This seeing costs money. The man who is broad enough to look the future in the face is the man who has made money in the past and the one who will make money in the future. It's up to you; the present price is good only from day to day. Phone in today, not to-morrow and get your order placed at present prices; get your silo shipped and home in your own barn.

BEGINS NEW RETREAT

Belgian Cables Indicate Withdrawal of German Troops.

London Also Reports Violent Gunfire as Screen for Retirement of Enemy.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Official dispatches to the Belgian legation here announced a German retreat east of Dixmude, in Flanders.

"The enemy is abandoning fortified farms on the Yser left bank, blowing up elaborate and intricate concrete redoubts," say the dispatches.

"Belgian detachments occupied the abandoned positions, caused severe losses to the enemy and captured scores of prisoners."

Official Belgian communique reported the cessation of all enemy activities except near Merckem, recently captured by the Belgians, and around Dixmude.

Dixmude is north of the Passchendaele ridge where Haig has been pushing back the Germans in repeated drives.

London, Nov. 21.—Violent German gunfire in Flanders is believed to be screening the long-expected retirement from the precarious positions below the ridge now almost wholly in British hands.

On the Dixmude front the Teutons evacuated a considerable area during the last 24 hours, the Belgians following hard on their heels and inflicting losses. There were local raids on the Anglo-German and Franco-German fronts, with strong artillery actions in the Verdun area.

ANGLO-U. S. WAR COUNCIL

Meeting for Greater Unity Occurs Between American Mission and British Leaders.

London, Nov. 21.—None of the numerous allies' war councils in the last three years has occasioned the same interest as the historic meeting of the American war mission and the British war cabinet for tightening the links that chain the Anglo-American war efforts.

The scene is the dingy old residence in Downing street which has served the prime ministers of many generations as both home and office, and the room is the council chamber where the cabinets meet and where the destinies of the empire have been shaped since the days of the American revolution.

The conference met at noon, as had been planned. Lord Reading was the first to arrive. He had a five minute chat with Premier Lloyd George and then prepared to greet the noted men from America and the British participants. Some of these came on foot and others in motors driven by khaki-clad chauffeurs. There was no demonstration by the sightseers.

FRENCH SINK GERMAN U-BOAT

Submarine Is Destroyed at the Time the Steamship Medie Was Sunk in Mediterranean.

Paris, Nov. 21.—A German submarine was destroyed at the time the French steamship Medie, with a cargo of munitions, was torpedoed in the western Mediterranean on September 23, with a loss of 250 lives, says a dispatch from Algiers to the Journal. The liner Biskra was proceeding with a convoy of French and British steamers, among which was the Medie leading the line. The Medie was torpedoed without warning before she was able to bring her guns to bear on the submarine.
